Alumnus of Year Will Be Named

Millsaps' 1955 Alumnus of the year will be named during Homecoming activities on October 22. Persons interested in nominating candidates for the award should list the qualifications of their nominee and mail them to Chairman, Alumnus-of-the-Year Committee, Millsaps College, Jackson, Mississippi. Deadline for receipt of nominations will be October 7.

The highest honor given by Millsaps College exclusively to its alumni, the annual Alumnus-of-the Year award, was received by Gilbert P. Cook, Sr. of Canton, Mississippi during afternoon ceremonies of the Homecoming program on October 23, 1954.

The Alumnus-of-the-Year Award program was inaugurated in 1950 to recognize alumni of the College whose record of service to their fellowman had been truly outstanding. Recipients of the Award, in addition to Mr. Cook, were Edward A. Khayat, 1953; Dr. Charles Lamar Neill, 1952; and James J. Livesay, 1950. Nominations for the 1955 recipient must be received no later than October 7.

The selection of the Alumnus of the Year is made annually by a committee composed of alumni, faculty and students, who consider nominations made by alumni and the general public.

Millsaps Recognition To Be Held By Pix

The Pix Theatre is announcing a Millsaps recognition program beginning September 25.

On Sunday, September 25, Millsaps Sorority women will be admitted free of charge to the afternoon and evening shows upon showing their sorority or sorority pledge pin.

On Sunday, October 2, Millsaps Fraternity men will be recognized and have only to show their fraternity pins to be admitted to the afternoon or evening features.

On Sunday, October 9, other Millsaps students will be admitted free to afternoon and evening attractions upon showing their Student Identification Card.

Attendance Rules

Explained By Dean

Dean James S. Ferguson, Millsaps Academic Dean, has announced that Millsaps students are no longer on a free-cut class attendance basis. In a statement to the Purple and White, Dr. Ferguson said:

"A change in attendance regulations is contained in the new Student Handbook on page 23. If a student is absent from a class four times without an explanation to the Dean, he will be placed on attendance probation in that class by the Dean Office. The attention of all students enrolled in the 1954-1955 session is particularly directed to this change."

In addition to the change made in daily class attendance requirements, the Millsaps College Catalogue states that all students are required to attend classes on the two days preceding and immediately following regularly scheduled vacation periods.

Weekly Chapel attendance is also required of regular Millsaps students, and students must account to the Dean for more than two absences per semester.

Campus Elections To Be Held Soon

Sponsored by the Bobashela, on September 28, elections will be held for a Master Major and Miss Millsaps, and on October 4, for Campus Favorites.

Entrants for the Master Major, Miss Millsaps contest must meet the following requirements: they must be members of this year's graduating class, be outstanding in campus activities and scholarship and receive the highest number of votes.

Ten Favorites will be chosen—5 men and 5 women. In case of a tie, a run-off will be held. Favorites may be from any class, but they must be Millsaps students and have demonstrated friendship, leadership and service on the campus.

New Cheerleaders Elected Tuesday

Millsaps Cheerleaders for 1955-56 were elected by the student body in a special chapel meeting held last Tuesday. They are Lea Hyman, Jack Loflin, Ed Upton, Ann Dillard, Nancy Neyman, and Betty Jane Cleveland.

Preliminary tryouts were held last week to choose finalists for the meeting Tuesday. Finalists who tried out before the student body were B. B. Montgomery, Frances Bryan, Jane Fatherree, Becky Evans, and Margaret McCorkle, in addition to those elected.

Jack Loflin, Ed Upton, and Ann Dillard were cheerleaders last year.

Religious Views And Reviews

By Brooks Hudson

Whatever it is, the heat, the shining domes of the freshmen, the numb feeling after an hour-long lecture, the smell of leaves burning or the excitement of the first football game, there is something about the month of September that instantly reminds one of school. This is the season that causes loneliness in the heart of the recent grad, sadness in the office of the coach and a heaviness in the pocket (we hope) of the alumnus when the alumni treasurer comes around with the hat.

For the new student, freshman or transfer, this is a period of adjustment, both to the unfamiliar routine of the college or university and to the social life of the new community. Part of this adjustment involves finding new friends, selecting new hours of rest and study and, in general, becoming that creature commonly referred to as "Joe College."

In making this adjustment, the student often loses old habits. One of these is attending religious services regularly. This practice should never once be stopped, for you need the church, as much as the church needs you. College life is a new and strange experience. There are problems which you have never met with before, and unless there is a proper channel for the release of tension caused by these, the nervous strain may be "too much."

The well-rounded youth programs of Jackson's churches provide both recreation and inspiration. Long known as the "City of Churches", our city extends a helping hand to its new college citizens and seeks in many ways to make them feel welcome.

Millsaps is by tradition a church-going college. When you go, however, remember to leave Monday's classes at the dorm. You will enjoy the service much better.

See you in church Sunday.

Notice

Registrar Paul D. Hardin requests that students who attended schools other than Millsaps this summer secure transcripts of their credits in order that proper credit may be given on the Millsaps records.

Players To Present Cyrano de Bergerac

Cyrano de Bergerac, an heroic comedy by Edmund Rostand will be presented by the Millsaps Players, November 9, 10, 11 and 12, in the Christian Center Auditorium. First tryouts were held Tuesday night for the fifty roles in this first production of the thirty-first season of the Millsaps Players. Parts for approximately thirty-five men and fifteen to twenty women are included in the largest cast ever to appear on the Millsaps stage.

Though it is set in France in 1640, Cyrano is a modern play in five acts. It is the greatest romantic comedy of the modern theatre. The balcony scene from Cyrano is the most famous in all drama except the scene from Romeo and Juliet. The first production of Cyrano de Bergerac was an overwhelming success and it has remained a favorite of theatre audiences of the world.

The story of the poet and swordsman, the man with the big nose, is based on the historical character Cyrano de Bergerac.

Many of the people in the play actually lived. Cardinal Richelieu of France, Montfleury the actor, and Le Bret the friend to Cyrano, are historical characters. Le Bret collected and preserved the works of Cyrano the poet.

Coquelin, the foremost French actor of the late nineteenth and early twentieth century commissioned Edmund Rostand to write a play for him. Coquelin wanted comedy and swordplay, love scenes and death scenes. The only character who ever lived who was comedian and swordsman, poet and soldier, was Cyrano de Bergerac. The play that Rostand created is still considered his masterpiece.

and the role is the greatest comic role ever written for an actor.

The late Walter Hampton was one of the greatest American actors to play the title role. The divine Sarah Bernhardt once played the female lead Roxanne. In recent years Stanley Kramer produced a motion picture version in which Jose Ferrer starred. For his interpretation of the role Ferrer received the Academy Award.

For the Millsaps Players production Bernstien and Migliore will furnish wigs. Eaves of New York who costumed Hamlet and The Rivals will furnish the costumes in the period of the seventeenth century.

Other productions of this season will be: the annual one act plays in December, The Rainmaker by Richard Nash in March, and Come Back Little Sheba, winner of the New York Drama Critics Award, by William Inge in May.

Dream Of New Library Now Becomes A Reality

Millsaps-Wilson library.

It's not the whole story by any means. Up until last year there stood a 28 year old building, rich in memories of friendships, important events, and hours of studies called the library.

Then a new building was built around the old. A new building constructed as the first project of the Millions for Millsaps fund, donation made by the H. J. Wilsons of Hazlehurst.

Next Thursday this structure, modernistic in a color scheme of shell tint, aden blue, and Swedish red, will be dedicated. According to President H. E. Finger, Jr., the dedication will take place in the Magnolia Gardens just east of the library.

An academic procession from Murrah to the dedication grounds will begin the ceremonies which consist of three brief appreciation addresses, music by the Singers, and a talk by Professor A. G. Sanders, head of the department of romance languages and Millsaps librarian since 1923.

After this ceremony the library will be officially open to students under the direction of Miss Swearingen, assistant librarian.

Then it will cease to be a structure and become many things — a place of peace to the worried, a meeting point for couples, a quiet spot to the studious, and heaven to the booklover.

nancy . . . 'nounces

by Nancy Peacock

Once more the Millsaps Welcome Mat has been extended and 840 of us have stepped across it onto the campus to begin this '55-'56 school year.

You know, it's a great feeling to be back at school, to greet familiar faces and those not so familiar, to see shiny scalped heads and to know that tradition still reigns, to push through the never ending registration line and suddenly to reach the end of that never ending line, to set the alarm for eight o'clock classes, to begin haunting the grill—it's all a part of being back at Millsaps and liking it!

We must confess, however, that after three months of dodging them we suddenly find ourselves weighted down with big, thick books. And after 100 page assignments we have become convinced that school has gotten off to a FLYING start!

Before we write anymore though, perhaps those of you who are reading this column for the first time might like to have an explanation of its purpose. It's purpose is simply to extend congratulations to the deserving, to comment on bits of "nothing," and to 'nounce the ringings, pinnings, engagements, and what have you.

RUSH

Last week the "rush" was on. For five days a "topsy-turvy" schedule kept everyone frantically dashing from classes to meals to parties. But with the week-end came peace, quiet, solitude — a time to doctor chewed fingernails and to view with joy those pledge pins worn by the new pledges. Ah yes, after the tumult comes the calm. And with rush week behind us, we extend hearty congratulations to each social group for its fine pledge class and, in turn, we congratulate each pledge.

THE BIG M

Spelling out the Big M this football season will be our newly elected cheerleaders Ann Dillard, Betty Jane Cleveland, Nancy Neyman, Lea Hyman, Jack Loflin, and Ed Upton. Let's pack the stadium for these ball games and do some Major yelling for these Major cheerleaders.

CUPID'S CORNER

During the summer months Cupid danced from shoulder to shoulder and shot his arrows rather freely. So now we dedicate a corner of this column to Cupid's 'nouncements.

RINGED

Fay and Ray

Ringed in August were Fay Toney, a Millsaps sophomore, and Ray Bardin, a Millsaps senior. Both Fay and Ray are from Jackson.

PINNED

Blythe and Dick

Blythe Jeffrey, a member of Chi Omega from Greenville, and Dick Brown, a member of Kappa Alpha Order from Jackson were recently pinned. Both are Millsaps sophomores.

Pat and Jimmy

Patricia Chunn, a Beta Sigma Omicron and a sophomore from Jackson, became pinned to Jimmy McCormick, a Lambda Chi Alpha and a junior from Jackson.

Rose and Jerry

Rose Cunningham, a junior member of Chi Omega, became pinned to Jerry Trigg, a senior member of Pi Kappa Alpha, September 11. Rose's home is in Tupelo and Jerry's is in Quitman.

Christian Council Sponsors Picnic

The "hollow" behind Buie Gym was the center of activity for the Millsaps students Thursday, September 8, at five o'clock. The attraction which drew these students was the picnic supper, featuring fried chicken and baked beans, sponsored by the Christian Council. A worship program by Martina Riley followed the supper.

Millsaps Girls Award Ribbons

The state fairgrounds was the scene of the annual Mississippi State Horse Show September 13, 14, 15. Two girls from each class at Millsaps served as ribbon girls for the occasion. Wearing party dresses and escorted by Marines, the girls presented ribbons to the winners of the different groups. After the horse show the Junior League of Jackson presented the ribbon girls and their escorts "Keys to the Roof". The girls and their escorts were: Valera Bailey, George Jones; Clara Parks Booth, Murray Pinkston; Annette Johnson, N. R. Walley; Alice Starnes, Clovis Butts; Ann Myers, Mark Yerger; Becky Evans, Billy Graham; Betty Bell Ford, Jack Gibson; Yvonne Giffin, Dewitt Crawford.

Banquets Honor New Pledges

Banquets honoring the new pledges of campus fraternities and sororities were held following pledging ceremonies September 16 and 17.

The Phi Mu Sorority ended its Rush week with a banquet honoring its new pledges at the Mississippi Room of the Rotisserie. Also at the Rotisserie, in the Rose Room, the Chi Omegas were entertaining their pledges. The Kappa Deltas honored their new pledges in the banquet room at Johnny's. Having had an informal party for their pledges Friday night, the members of Beta Sigma Omicron celebrated the end of rush season with a banquet at the Rotisserie Saturday night.

The four fraternities honored their pledges with banquets at various places September 17. Pi Kappa Alpha went to the Walthall Hotel, Lambda Chi Alpha held its banquet at Primos. The Kappa Sigmas honored their pledges with a banquet at the Edwards Hotel, while the members of Kappa Alpha Order entertained their pledges at Primos.

Norsemen Have Informal Party

By Keith Tonkel

Norsemen (I. S. A.), the men's independent social group on Millsaps campus, held an open party this past week at Battlefield Park for the purpose of acquainting prospective students with the organization.

An informal program was conducted, and Laverne Smith made quite an apt talk (or shall we say "sales" talk) to the group assembled. Bill Banks entertained the group with piano selections—real gone—man, that cat can really tickle those keys! (Incidentally, Bill was the featured guest performer).

The first open meeting of the year was held at the N. I. S. A. house located at 4 Park Avenue, just behind the new library. We are looking forward to a great year in 1955 and '56. We hope that this will be a year of progress, service, and social satisfaction.

Majors Lose To William Carey Crusaders 33-6

A six-game win streak was snapped last Thursday as the Majors went down in defeat to the Carey Crusaders of Hattiesburg, Mississippi, by a 33-6 margin.

After a tight first half, injuries to key Millsaps players in the third and fourth quarters demobilized both the Major defense and offense. The worst blow to Coach Sammy Bartlings' squad was the loss of ace quarterback Red Powell with a shoulder separation. Powell will be out for the remainder of the season. Big "jarrin'" John Lowery, fullback who scored Millsaps' lone touchdown, and was a stellar performer on offense as well as defense, left the game with third quarter after antagonizing an old injury. End Benny Kirkland and guard John Awad were also injured but were ready for the Delta State game.

The Majors looked good before intermission time, holding the Crusaders to a 6-6 tie. Millsaps' score came in the second quarter on a drive that began late in the first quarter with Bob Parnell taking the kickoff on his own 10 yard line and scampering upfield to the 37. Carey had just scored their first touchdown. Fifteen plays later John Lowery bucked over for the TD from two yards out. Lowery did most of the ball carrying on the TD drive and was well supported by Hardy Nall and Crow Parnell.

The second half was a nightmare as Carey scored five more times and emerged victorious to the tune of 33-6.

Coaches Bartling and Smith were not at all apologetic about the outcome of the game and said that the boys gave all they had but were simply overpowered after several injuries to first stringers.

THE OUTLOOK . . .

Majors Plagued By Injuries, Inexperience

By Foster Lowe

The big question mark is—who will fill Red Powell's shoes? Coaches Bartling and Smith would like to know. Don Williams, last year's understudy quarterback was injured in an automobile accident and is unable to play. The lot will probably fall on Billy Greenlee or freshman Bob Sowell. Greenlee lacks experience at quarterback, having played on a single-wing high school team, and Sowell has never played college ball.

The team is weak at tackles, with the return of only one letterman, Tom Prewitt. Alex Alston, a converted guard, has been moved to tackle but there are few experienced reserves behind him and Prewitt.

In the backfield, halfbacks Cliff Rushing, Bob Parnell, Hardy Nall and Roy Wolfe; and fullbacks John Lowery and Terry Moore have all earned letters. Billy Greenlee is the lone letter-winner at quarterback.

Tribute To A Major Major . . .

At the beginning of this school year it becomes our duty to pay tribute to a Major Major. We would prefer that Luke Wasson was among us still—that the philosophy of life that gave him so marvelous a balance as a student could have developed further to produce a great man of positive action in the world.

Luke was a student outstanding in scholarship, in sports, and college activities. He had a Christian personality that made you wonder how a boy with so much going on in his mind could have the time to be so friendly and considerate.

College officials who knew him much better than this writer have paid tribute to Luke Wasson. We can say but Amen to the idea that the memory of Luke Wasson will provoke additional thought and evaluation of lives on this campus during the year and for many years to come. We may all take inspiration from this tree growing by the streams of life.

Shaved Heads, Purple Caps, 'Green Look' Tone Of Orientation Week

By Martina Riley

On Monday, September 5, an intensive period of orientation began for all new students at Millsaps College.

With shaved heads and purple caps for some, and with that indicative "green" look for others, freshmen and transfer students arrived on the Millsaps campus Monday morning. Their first assembly Monday afternoon consisted of a welcome by President Ellis Finger and a preview of orientation week by Dean J. E. McCracken.

New students spent two hours in consultation with advisers, settling schedule problems and learning the unique aspects of the college community. At the men's and women's meetings later that afternoon rush week was explained. Students heard information about sororities, fraternities, and independent organizations.

President Finger invited the newcomers to a reception in his home Monday night. This was their first opportunity to meet the faculty and administration of Millsaps College. Through the years the president's reception has become a distinctive tradition in the first week of a student's life at Millsaps. On Tuesday and Wednesday, informal coke parties in the home of Dr. Finger provided further opportunity to talk with the president.

And of course there were the orientation tests and the lines of students registering for classes.

Tuesday night the Student Executive Board sponsored a program on student activities. Jack Loflin, vice-president of SEB, presided, explaining the organization and function of campus government. Margaret Whitfield, secretary of SEB, directed the students to booths and exhibits with information about the activities and organizations of the campus.

On Wednesday afternoon, September 8, Dr. A. P. Hamilton presented an interesting history of Millsaps College. For many, this was the first opportunity to hear of Millsaps' heritage.

At the all-college mixer, sponsored by the SEB, everyone met new people and saw an exhibit of the new talent and the new taste for fun at table games and folk dances.

With orientation near an end, classes began on Thursday. The day was climaxed with a picnic sponsored by the Christian Council and a vesper service emphasizing the place for religion in the college student's life.

Friday night the student body again came together for an all-college party in Bailey gymnasium. With that night orientation was ended for the new students at Millsaps, but the essence of college life had only begun.

"Waiter" said the irritated customer, "I don't like all these flies buzzing around my dinner."

"Yes, sir," said the eager waiter. "You just point out to me the ones you don't like and I'll chase them away."

Library Opening Marked 64th Session Of Millsaps Yesterday

The formal opening of the Millsaps-Wilson library marked the opening of the 64th session of Millsaps College yesterday.

Professor A. G. Sanders, Millsaps librarian, made the principal address and Bishop Marvin A. Franklin performed the act of dedication. Below are pictures showing the new library in use by students.

The Millsaps-Wilson Library

This is the architect's drawing of the new Millsaps-Wilson Library

Library Entrance

Our camera bug snapped these students as they were about to enter at the main library entrance.

Student Lounge

Students take time out from their studies for smoke and conversation in the student lounge on the basement level of the library.

Main Reading Room

In the main reading room, students study, and enter the self-service stacks to get their books. At the time this picture was made some fixtures were not in place and workmen may be seen in the background.

Philosophy Reading Room

All books on Philosophy and Psychology are grouped in a reading room on the third floor of the library which is called the philosophy room.

Officers For All Classes Selected For 1955-1956

On Tuesday, September 27, during chapel period, the classes of the Millsaps student body elected officers. For the first time in several years all classes organized, and their presidents will serve on S. E. B.

Seniors

Chosen to lead the Seniors was John Hubbard of Jackson, who has also served as president of the Interfraternity Council. Elected to serve with Hubbard were Burton Jackson of Jackson as vice-president and Claudette Westerfield of Mendenhall as secretary-treasurer. At this meeting, N. R. Walley discussed the class-ring situation and plans for Senior participation in the Library ceremonies held Thursday morning.

Juniors

Barry Stewart of Vicksburg was elected to the top post in the Junior Class. Completing the line-up of officers among third-year students were Newt Harrison as vice-president and Nancy Peacock of Kosciusko in the secretary-treasurer spot.

Sophomores

The Sophomores selected Hugh Johnston, also of Vicksburg, as president of their class. Assisting him in the coming year will be Tommy Fanning of Hickory in the number two post and Jim Waits of Hattiesburg, holding the secretary-treasurer position.

Freshmen

The new president of the Freshman Class is Lacy Causey of Liberty. The vice-presidency went to Jerry Mizelle of Natchez with Lillian Starnes of Utica being elected secretary-treasurer.

Religious Views And Reviews

By Brooks Hudson

In the beginning, God created the heavens and the earth, and the earth was without shape and dark. And God solidified the earth and in the process of time separated the dry earth from the water; the one he called land, the other sea.

Then He sought to place vegetation on the land and animals in the sea, and the planet began to be populous and green. The streams ran with fish, the land overflowed with the animals of the field.

But there was a gap in this new system of life. There was no animal with the intelligence to govern this land, no creature to organize and to regulate. So God created a new creature, one with the intelligence not possessed by the great apes, one with the teeth of the rodent, the horse, and the lion, one with the limbs for grasping and walking upright. This creature God created in His spiritual image and called Man.

Man grew. He founded great cities, learned the art of baking brick, learned to domesticate animals with less intelligence than he, and even to make captive others of his kind. Then Man began to create God in his image. He said, "Let us worship God as we see him, as an avenger, a friend, or a source of power." So he began to commit great crimes in the name of his God.

But the sons of Man began to doubt the wisdom of the elders. They failed to see how a kind and generous Lord could also bring death and suffering to women and children. They failed to see how He could kill the families of one people and cause the fields of another to prosper. They failed to understand how a mortal could claim the powers of an immortal.

So the sons of Man soon dispelled the ideas of their fathers. They adopted the universality of the True God. They ceased to quarrel among themselves, as men of old, and sought to settle their differences in the Parliament of Nations, and the Brotherhood of Mankind. They beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning hooks. They learned to respect the rights of others and the dignity of man. They began the worship anew of God the Omnipotent. And they settled forever in the valleys of peace.

Repairs Made During Summer

Mr. J. W. Wood, business manager, said that important steps were taken during the summer to repair and refurbish many buildings on the Millsaps campus.

In Burton Hall ceramic tile floors were laid in the individual rooms. In addition to this, one built-in bed and an inner-spring mattress was added to each room.

In Galloway Hall two new sofas, four chairs, and carpeting were added to the living room, and Mrs. Helen Daniel's apartment was redecorated.

In Founders Hall on the third floor, asphalt tile floors were laid and new closets with additional hanging space were built in each room. New furniture and carpeting were added to the living room and eight rooms were painted.

The tops of all the desks in Murrah Hall were sanded, and the dome of the observatory and the tower of the Christian Center were painted.

Finally, new Copper Hall at 350 Adele Street was rented, refurbished, and now houses twenty-six girls.

Millsaps Majors

The Millsaps Majors football team, plagued by injuries, will be trying for their first win of the season when they play Livingston Alabama State at 8 p. m. in Meridian.

Majors Scared Delta State Before Losing By 20-7 Score

The Millsaps Majors surged back from a 13-love halftime deficit to scare the daylights out of the Delta State Greenies before finally succumbing 20-7 at Memorial Stadium Thursday night a week ago. Delta, a scholarship school sporting a 13 game win streak, was slated to make short work of the a tie or possible defeat.

Crow Parnell performed ably and superbly in his first game at the quarterback slot, scoring the Major's T. D. and directing the almost-successful split-T attack. Fullback Cliff Rushing showed well. This 150 pound speedster gave the Greenies fits. Also, performing well on offense were halfbacks Hardy Nall and Terry Moore.

The game might have ended with the Majors on top had a fourth-quarter drive produced results with Millsaps behind 13-7. Parnell passed to Roy Wolfe for 45 yards to Delta's 14 yard line. Millsaps moved to the three in three plays but couldn't manage a score and wound up losing the ball at the twelve on downs. Running plays by Lowery and Nall lost yardage, Parnell was dropped for a five yard loss, and on fourth down, a pass to Kirkland was batted down.

That broke the Major's back and the Greenies drove 88 yards in 12 plays to reach paydirt and sew up the game, 20-7.

Delta scored twice in the first half on drives of 41 and 56 yards, which were begun by an intercepted pass and recovery of a fumbled pitch-out, respectively.

Behind 13-0, late in the third quarter, Rushing intercepted a pass on the Delta 27. Rushing got 5 yards, Nall eleven, Rushing seven more and Parnell three for a first down on the one-yard line. On the next play, Parnell sneaked over for the score and Kirkland added the point from placement.

Outstanding Millsaps linemen, both offensively and defensively, were James Hood and Paul Comola, centers; John Awad and Tom Boone, guards; and Tom Prewitt, tackle.

Tomorrow, Millsaps plays Livingston (Ala.) State in Meridian. Kick off time is 8:00 p. m.

Organization Meet
Of A.S.A. To Be Held

An organizational meeting of the American Studies Association of the Lower Mississippi (Arkansas, Louisiana, and Mississippi) will be held in the Christian Center of Millsaps College on Saturday, October 15, 1955, from 11:30 a.m. until 3:00 p.m. This group is being formed to study American civilization and culture by an interdisciplinary approach. This approach will enable the members to explore some aspects of American development more fully. The A.S.A. will meet for the exchange of ideas at regular intervals.

The following program has been planned in the hope that the members can get acquainted, form the organization, and have a dramatic illustration of the interdisciplinary approach.

11:30 a.m. Address: "Southern Literary Revival".

Randall Stewart, head of the English department
Vanderbilt University

12:30 p.m. Intermission for lunch.

1:30 p.m. Panel discussion of the topic: "Southern Cultural Tradition".

Romantic Tinsel or Practical Utopia?"

Panelists: Richard E. Amacher, English, Henderson State Teachers College

John K. Bettersworth, history, Mississippi State College

Rudolf Heberle, sociology, L.S.U.

William L. Kolb, sociology, Newcomb College, Tulane University, moderator

Walter F. Taylor, English, Blue Mountain College

2:30 p.m. Nomination of officers and adoption of proposed constitution.

Frosh Day
Set Oct. 7.

Millsaps' freshmen will have their "Day" October 7. Sponsored by the Student Executive Board, Freshman Day is held each year to help acquaint freshman with one another and with upper classmen. Rules for the day will be issued by S.E.B.

Millsaps greenies will dress up to look their worst and assume their most humble pose before the upper classmen. Freshmen royalty will be crowned at the close of the day.

by Dick Bibler

Stylus Staff Meets;
Deadline Announced

Reynolds Cheney, editor of Stylus, has announced that there will be a meeting of the Stylus staff sometime next week. The deadline for entries will be the last of October; and the English department will select material to be presented in Stylus. There is a tentative plan to award citations for the best poem, essay and short story. The Stylus, of which Miss Thomasina Blissard is advisor and Hiram Polk is business manager, will be priced at 25c.

This year Stylus will be dedicated to Luke Wasson. The first article will be an eulogy to him by Dr. Fleming.

Opportunities For Students Listed

A list of scholarships, contests and jobs available to the students of Millsaps will be published weekly in the Purple and White. As space in this column is limited, anyone desiring more complete information may call at the Purple and White office, where all material will be filed.

Graduate Record Examinations will be administered at examination centers four times in the coming year: November 19, 1955; January 21, April 28 and July 7, 1956. Each applicant is advised to inquire of the graduate school of his choice which of the examinations he should take and on which dates.

Law School Admission Tests will be given on the mornings of November 12, 1955; February 18, April 21, and August 11, 1956.

Applications are now being received for 1956 Marshall Scholarships, two-year scholarships for American students to study in England. Applications must be in by October 15, 1955.

U. S. Navy Lieutenant R. M. Everett will be present at Millsaps on October 3rd and 4th, 1955, between 10:00 a.m. and 2:00 p.m. to answer questions for those students interested in the Naval Officer Candidate Program.

Sponsored by Mademoiselle, the College Board Contest, the Fiction Contest and the Art Contest offer an opportunity for women undergraduates to test their abilities on a professional level. Awards in the College Board Contest include a salaried month in New York, round-trip transportation paid, writing and editing Mademoiselle's 1956 College issue. The Fiction contest offers $500 and publication in Mademoiselle; the Art contest winners receive $500 and illustrate the winning stories in the Fiction contest.

Millsaps Singers Offer
Rich Heritage To Students

By Martina Riley

When grads of our own Millsaps mention their favorite college, a portion of their attention turns quite naturally to the particular facet of the college community known as the Millsaps Singers.

Rich in heritage, the Singers had their beginning in 1935, when a little gray-haired man from Ohio suggested that the then existing Men's and Women's Glee Clubs combine to present a Christmas concert without accompaniment. From that concert evolved the Millsaps Singers under the direction of Alvin Jon King.

Since that date, "Pop" has succeeded in developing untrained as well as trained voices into a choir of stature comparable to the best known choirs of the nation. He introduced the "Feast of Carols", which has become a traditional Christmas celebration, along with the annual presentation of the Messiah by the combined choirs of the city high schools, churches, and colleges.

With the development of the choir came the desire to share sacred music with groups outside the college and city community. Beginning in the state, the Singers' tours grew until they extended in 1941 to Ohio and Kentucky. Since then, the Singers have toured the South and West, interpreting religious music across the nation.

All those who have been on the annual tour have known an experience in group living. A fertile field for romances as well as their destruction, the spring tours have left their effect on many Millsaps lives. From the joy of meeting people of other states to the em-

Bishop A. J. Moore To Hold Revival

Bishop Arthur J. Moore, resident Bishop of the Atlanta area of the Methodist Church, will conduct a revival series October 2-9 at Galloway Memorial Methodist Church in Jackson. Bishop Moore has served in many important positions in the Methodist Church including supervision of churches in Japan, China, Korea, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Belgium and the Belgium Congo. He was elected to the Methodist Episcopacy in May, 1930.

The patient complained bitterly, "Five dollars is an awful lot of money for pulling a tooth—just two seconds' work."

"Well," replied the dentist consolingly, "if you wish, I can pull it very slowly."

Speedball To Start Monday

Intramural Speedball begins Monday with five teams slated for action in the annual gridiron competition. Teams participating are the Pikes, Sigs, KA's Lambda Chi's, Norsemen and Ministers. All games will begin at 4:15 P.M. and each participating team is to furnish a time keeper, a linesman and a man to carry one end of the chainmarker. Competition is expected to be keen again this year and the defending champs, the Sigs, will have to field an extra strong team to repeat as the victors.

"The Star-Spangled Banner," the kick-off, and the first home game of the season was underway at Memorial Stadium last Thursday night! The student body was on hand to cheer the Majors as they played a good hard game from beginning to end. Half-time was a time for flashy maneuvers and football music as the Millsaps Band gave its clever rendition of "Major Millsaps Goes to College."

"Smile Please"

"Smile Please" might well be the campus slogan this week, for annual "picture-taking" time is upon us. The Bobashela Editor, Bill Lampton, and members of the staff certainly deserve a pat on the back for rolling up their sleeves and getting right down to work.

Freshman Day

A rumor is hopping about that Freshman Day will be here before "a cat can wink its eye." It's going to be such fun for the upperclassmen and even more fun for the freshmen. While the day will bring back fond memories for some, for others it will offer stark reality. Freshman, begin planning your costume for that epoch-filled day. Wear something fetching — something like Dracula's cape, Blue Beard's beard, or Gravel Gertie's wig. Buy your toesack early, for upperclassmen's books can get mighty heavy. And don't forget that eating peas "freshman style" means the floor's the table and the knife's the fork! Enough said — except for this last little word. This event is going to be a great one and one which you'll never forget, because, freshman, this is Your Day. You'll love every minute of it so plan now to relax, settle back, and enjoy Your Day — Freshman Day!

And now 'tis time again for the weekly 'nuncements.'

RINGED

Helen and George

Helen Reilly, a sophomore from Jackson and a member of Chi Omega Sorority, became ringed to George Alexander, a senior from Jackson and a member of Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity, September 17.

PINNED

Greta Bo and Billy

A recent pinning was that of Greta Bo Childress and Billy Brown. Greta Bo is a Belhaven senior, while "Buster" is a Millsaps senior and a member of Kappa Sigma. Both are from Jackson.

MARRIED

Edna and Tom

A summer wedding in Moss Point was that of Edna Khayat to Tom Boone. While a student at Millsaps Edna was affiliated with Kappa Delta Sorority. Tom is a Millsaps senior from Memphis, Tennessee, and a member of Kappa Sigma Fraternity.

Ivey and Hardy

Married this summer in Jackson were Ivey Wallace and Hardy Nall. A 1955 graduate of Millsaps, Ivey is a member of Kappa Delta Sorority. Hardy whose home is in Jackson is a senior and a member of Kappa Alpha Order.

There would be fewer divorces if the husband tried as hard to keep his wife as he did to get her.

Phi Mu Entertains District Officer

Mrs. W. L. Thompson, Vice President of District IX of Phi Mu Fraternity, was a visitor to Epsilon Chapter at Millsaps. She arrived Friday morning and was entertained at luncheon and dinner by various members of Epsilon.

Mrs. Thompson is from Montgomery, Alabama. She attended Howard College in Birmingham where she was active in the Phi Mu Fraternity.

Byrd Is President Of Phi Mu Pledges

The Phi Mu pledges elected their officers Friday, September 23. Barbara Byrd from Jackson was voted president.

Other officers elected were vice-president, Clara Smith of Natchez; secretary, Jo Ann Wilson of Inverness; treasurer, Elaine Nicholson of Hollandale. These four officers are freshmen.

Starnes Is Chosen Chi O Pledge Prexy

Lillian Starnes, a freshman from Utica, was elected president of the Chi Omega pledge class at a pledge meeting Tuesday, September 20.

Other officers elected were as follows: Vice-president, Yvonne Giffin, a freshman from Louisville, and Secretary-Treasurer, Mary Charles Price, a freshman from Jackson.

Maid Of Cotton Entry Deadline Announced

The 1956 Maid of Cotton Contest is now in progress. Deadline is midnight, December 1, and all entries must be postmarked no later than this date.

To be eligible, a girl must have been born in a cotton producing state, be between the ages of 19 and 25, never have been married, and must be at least 5 feet 5 inches tall.

Entry forms and complete information about the contest are available from the National Cotton Council, P. O. Box 9905, Memphis 12, Tennessee. Forms must be completed and returned along with two photographs, one a head and shoulders portrait and the other a full length view.

The maid had been surreptitiously using the bath tub of her employer, an elderly Gentleman. He was a bachelor, very fastidious about his toilet, and desired the exclusive use of his tub.

He reprimanded the maid with much indignation:

"What distressed me most is that you have done this behind my back."

Debate Tourney Dates Chosen

January 6 and 7, 1956, have been chosen as the dates for the 16th annual Millsaps Invitational debate tournament according to Professor Harmon Tillman, Millsaps speech teacher and debate coach.

Last year this tournament, which is the South's largest in the debate field, attracted 82 debate teams from 21 schools over the nation. So far, Notre Dame, University of Pittsburgh, University of Alabama, L.S.U. and Spring Hill at Mobile have signed up to participate.

The 1956 intercollegiate topic is: Resolved that all non-agricultural industries provide a guaranteed annual wage for their employees. According to the debate class, reference material for this topic will be more difficult to locate than that for last year's subject concerning the diplomatic recognition of Red China.

Professor Tillman will instruct a class of 35 in the fundamentals of debating for the next two weeks. The debate teams will be chosen from this group.

Some of the schools included on this year's tournament tour are the University of Arkansas, Mississippi College, Emory, Mississippi Southern, Tulane, University of Florida, Spring Hill at Mobile, M.S.C.W. and Notre Dame.

Fall P&W Staff Listed

Alton Boyd, junior from McComb, has been appointed news editor of the Purple and White, succeeding Ed Upton, senior of Yazoo City. Jack MacDonald, Betty Landfair, Mary Frances Pleasants, Janice Bower, Mary Elizabeth Burton, Wynona Madole, Don Lisle, James McQueen, and Biggie Wilkins will staff the circulation department.

Drum Major And Majorettes Selected

Marvin Jeter, West Point, was selected in May as Drum Major, succeeding Mary Lynn Graves of Jackson.

On Wednesday, September 7, tryouts for majorettes of the Millsaps Band were held. The following were selected: Margaret Whitfield, Jackson, senior majorette;

Lynda Munson, Mendenhall; Elwin Addkison, Louisville; Gail Hood, Magee; and Jane McIngvale, Laurel. The four who play instruments will become members of the concert band after the football season.

N. R. Walley, Pres. Of SEB, Is Major Major Of The Week

N. R. WALLEY

N. R. Walley, President of the Student Executive Board, is the Major Major of the week. "Nannie Ray" hopes to enter Dental School at Emory University next September.

N. R. is active in many campus organizations. He is president of the Millsaps Singers, Vice-president of Alpha Phi Omega (National Scout Honorary). He has played varsity basketball and is a member of the M Club. He played Dr. Jadin in the Millsaps Players production of The Mad Woman of Chaillot. He is a member of the Kappa Sigma Fraternity and has played intramural speed ball for three years. In 1952 N. R. received the National Methodist Scholarship and in 1954 he received the "Pop" King memorial scholarship.

Homecoming Day Plans Underway, Schedule Given

Millsaps' annual homecoming day has been set for October 22. The Mississippi College-Millsaps football game will climax the activities of the day.

For the benefit of our new Millsaps students we would like to list the courses that are recommended for the B.L.A. (bachelor of liberal arts) Degree. These courses form a very important part of our curriculum here at Millsaps College. No student should neglect to take the electives and certainly no student should wait until his senior year to begin these courses. We want to build well-rounded, well informed men and women; not academic machines.

Unfortunately these courses have not been listed in the official college catalog. In order that students may make out their schedule, we are printing a list of these suggested electives.

Political Science 501-502: Practical Campus Politics. This course is designed to acquaint the student with the organization and function of local political factions and machines. Occasional labs and field trips are required throughout the year, usually during the campus election. No pre-requisite.

Conversation 11: Advanced Chit-Chat. An intensive one semester course covering the art of speaking without saying anything worthwhile. Prerequisite conversational-A2

Bridge A1-A2: Introduction to Bridge. The basic course in fundamentals of bridge to be followed by advanced courses in the Department of Bridge. A term paper is required. For a major, thirty hours in the department are required, plus courses in the related fields of grillogy and sociability.

These are the basic courses in the curriculum for the Bachelor of Liberal Arts Degree. Other courses in these various departments will be offered on the demand of the students.

Finding Correct Relationships

Yesterday, the Millsaps-Wilson Library was dedicated and formally opened for the use of Millsaps students. This is a milestone in the growth of Millsaps College, and an indication of the forethought which guides the development of the college. The Carnegie-Millsaps library was not the oldest or most obsolete building on the campus when it was replaced and incorporated in the new library, but an improved library was needed by a growing student body. This fact is a key to the effectiveness of Millsaps College. Millsaps College grows with its student body.

A great many students who sought entrance were turned away from Millsaps College this fall because college officials did not believe that the facilities could accommodate more than the 840 students enrolled this year. The capacity of the college will possibly be expanded in the next few years, and prospective students can be assured if they are admitted that the college has facilities for their study and development. Fewer students than usual were admitted on probation to Millsaps College this year, and members of the freshman class seem active and able to participate effectively in college activities at this stage of their college lives.

New students, particularly freshmen, should make it a point to know Millsaps College, and these students must decide what kind of education they want from Millsaps. Quite naturally, class work must come first, but Millsaps offers much more than that. A Millsaps diploma can mean that you know how to get along with people, that you know something of effective thought, that you have established values for your life, and an almost endless line of important things.

A diploma that looks just like the one given to the well rounded student may represent only 120 academic hours credit and a few disjointed and useless extra-curricular credits. The difference lies in the student.

A majority of the social, honorary, service and religious organizations on the campus are vitally concerned about opportunities for the student to develop his personality. New students should associate themselves as soon as possible with those organizations that hold their interest.

Functions of the Millsaps Student Executive Board have been enlarged to draw more students into active participation in student government. Students will see the value of this student organization's work as the year moves forward. New students should prepare themselves to serve in student government to gain practical experience for effective citizenship.

Mississippi Methodists and others supporting Millsaps College are providing facilities for training students in correct relationships. Students will realize these relationships will make worthy citizens.

What Is Wrong With Literary Activities?

During this college year many of us may ask what is wrong with a certain department of the college. This question is asked often on the fields of the college this week, not to make anyone mad, but to create thought on the subject while something may be done. The Millsaps college community, by nature, should contain a great many people who are interested in literary activities. Journalism and creative writing courses are conducted; Stylus, the Purple and White, and the Bobashela promote creative writing to the limit of their time and ability; Kit Kat and Chi Delta are organizations devoted solely to creative literary activities; and the Southern Literary Festival is held annually to recognize outstanding literary talent. Yet, when the deadlines for contributions to the various literary publications and contests arrive, the deadlines must be extended in order that some of the faithful writers who have already contributed material can be canvassed for less refined articles to fill out the allotted number of pages, or to enter in the phases of the contest where there are no entrants.

This is really a sad situation at Millsaps. No one is solely guilty. Writing is hard work, but even those of us who are more illiterate than literate should try our hands at it. Very often good material comes from the inspiration of a unique mind as well as the genius of a trained literary mind. The opportunities are at Millsaps. More people should take advantage of them.

A lawyer was complaining about people who buttonholed him on social occasions to get free legal advice.

"Does that sort of thing happen to you?" he asked a member of the party who was a well known physician.

"Often," was the reply. "But I've got a good way of dealing with it. I just say, 'Undress.'"

The very thin lady on the street car tried to squeeze into a seat by a very fat lady, remarking to a companion as she did so: "They really ought to charge by weight on these cars."

The fat lady, exhaling comfortably and spreading out gently, opined: "If they did, honey, they couldn't afford to stop for some folks."

Five Additional Faculty Members Announced; Three Promoted

Dr. James S. Ferguson, Dean of Millsaps College, announced that three members of the faculty start the 1955 academic year in new positions, while new members have joined the staff.

Dr. Franklin W. James has been promoted from associate professor of chemistry to professor. Mrs. Nellie K. Hederi from instructor in Spanish to assistant professor, and Dr. William J. Brett from assistant professor of biology to associate professor.

New members of the faculty are Dr. Harry S. Manley, associate professor of the department of political science, Dr. Williams B. Knowles, associate professor and head of the department of psychology; Holmes Ambrose, associate director of choral music; and Miller Williams, instructor of biology.

The curriculum has been strengthened by the addition of a regular journalism course which is to be instructed by Norman Shavin, feature and Sunday editor of the State Times. In the past this course has alternated each year with a course in creative writing, but now a tentative consecutive journalism course is being set up.

One degree in law and three in political science tells the story of the educational preparation of Dr. Manley for his position on the Millsaps faculty. Dr. Manley received his B.A. degree from Westminster College, his L.L.B. degree from the University of Pittsburgh Law School, and his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees in political science from Duke University.

Dr. Knowles is a graduate of the Illinois Institute of Technology. He has studied at Oberlin College, Case Institute of Technology, and received his M.S. and Ph.D. degrees in psychology from Northwestern University.

Mr. Ambrose did undergraduate study at the Juilliard School in Indianaplois, where he was director of choral music. He received his Master of Music degree from the University of Nebraska and will receive his doctorate in music from the University of Indiana within the near future.

Mr. Williams is a graduate of Arkansas State College where he received a Bachelor of Science Degree, majoring in biology. He has done graduate work at Louisiana State University and the University of Arkansas. In 1952 he received his M.S. degree in zoology from the University of Arkansas.

Mr. Shavin graduated from Indiana University with a B.A. degree in journalism and a double major in history. He worked on his Master in history at Indiana University and did further graduate work at the University of Louisville. Mr. Sharin has written for the New York Herald Tribune and Look magazine.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Cooperation Asked By Annual Staff

To the student body of Millsaps:

The Millsaps Catalogue defines the Bobashela as the annual publication which attempts to give a thorough and comprehensive view of all phases of campus life. As we begin our work on the 50th edition of this illustrious publication we will attempt to keep this purpose in mind.

However, there is one other object we have in mind as our project unfolds—the delivery of you 1956 Bobashela at least two months before graduation. As rash as this sounds we feel that it is possible with the cooperation of the entire student body.

It is with this in mind that I now ask you, the students of Millsaps College, for your interest and cooperation in our job. We appreciate the fine turnout for our staff, and welcome the support and suggestions of all those who have expressed an interest in working for us.

As a group, we ask you to please attend all picture appointments and help us give you an accurate, interesting, and complete Bobashela for 1956.

We welcome your support and any suggestions you wish to offer at any time.

Sincerely yours, Bill Lampton

Bobashela make-up pictures will be taken all day Tuesday, October 4.

The cost of the pictures was slightly higher this year because of the increase in photographer's rates.

"The people in our part of town are watching the result of a very interesting conflict."

"What is it?"

"An irresistible blonde has just met an immovable bachelor."

Man (getting a shave): "Barber, will you please give me a glass of water?"

Barber: "What is the matter? Something in your throat?"

Man: "No—I just want to see if my neck leaks."

Mrs. B. "George, will you love me when my hair has turned to gray?"

Mr. B. "Why not? I've loved you through four colors already."

Ed's Excerpts

By Ed Upton

Last year when Shirley Brown began her column, she was so confused that she named her weekly words of wisdom "?". Well—here 'tis another year and this writer is even more confused and doesn't even have an idea as good (?) as "?". Of course, I could name it "!" but that puts me in the group with Brown and who wants that to happen to them? And then again, when you write about a lot of things one time and then just one thing the next time, that again brings complications. How can you win?

Yesterday's dedication of the library is certainly worthy of note—especially since classes were cut short and I had three! Another highpoint in the history of the college was reached. Now that things are beginning to slow down and the students (after a year at the library they will be called scholars) are settling down, I suppose that the path to the library will be well-trodden (WHAT an assumption!). With a building like that on the campus, there oughta' be umpteen 3.00 indices.

Class elections, Master and Miss Millsaps election, and the Favorites election scheduled for next week, are reeeeelly keeping the students on the ball. I 'spose Peacock (the shining new pinnee) will chirp and Brown (in her old, sarcastic way) will comment on all the honors being thrown around. Therefore, to be different, I refuse to mention congratulations in writing.

Speaking of writing reminds me of studies, and studies reminds me of scholarships, and scholarship reminds me of the cup that we didn't win. I did get a glimpse of one of the scholarship trophies last week when they were awarded in chapel (I haven't been given the opportunity to see it up close!) It seems there are a few others who have only seen it from a distance, too. Overheard last week was, "Wait 'til next time." (Seems that I've heard that before from some losing football, too — no mention of state institutions!)

TO ACTIVES OF FRATERNITIES AND SORORITIES: Isn't it nice to have pledges around again to do all the unpleasant tasks for you? Thank goodness that the statement by President Finger about social organizations not getting any pledges didn't come true! ! !

TO PLEDGES OF FRATERNITIES AND SORORITIES: Every dog has his day!

Food for thought is always good for the searching mind, so let me leave you with a few precious pearls to think on:

Thirty days hath September,
 April, June, and No wonder,
 All the rest eat peanut butter Except grandmother—and she rides a tricycle!

7 Foreign Students Enrolled This Year

Included in the enrollment of Millsaps College this semester are seven students from foreign countries. Three of these students are from Korea, two from Greece. One is from Canada, and one is from El Salvador.

SEB Sponsors Dance Sat.

The Millsaps Student Executive Board will sponsor a dance at the YMCA from 8 until 11 p.m., Saturday, October 8, 1955.

The dance will be sponsored in connection with the Sewanee-Millsaps football game which will be played at 2 p.m. at Hinds County Memorial Stadium.

The Tersiens, band from Tougaloo College, will furnish the music. Admission has been set at $1.00 stag or drag for Millsaps students and their dates only.

Students Offered Flu Shots Again

An influenza immunization program for resident Millsaps students is being offered again this year. Students receiving immunization for the first time may secure their shots at the rate of $1.00 per student. Booster shots will be given for twenty cents.

The program last year enabled Millsaps to continue a full-time class schedule while other schools were forced to curtail their activities because of flu epidemics. Only three of the three hundred and thirteen students receiving immunization were affected by any of the flu viruses.

Dr. J. E. McCracken, Dean of Students, urges everyone to cooperate in this program.

Army Reserve Will Be Discussed Oct. 11

A new component of the army reserve program is being organized in Jackson. The 492nd Military Gov't Co., a reserve organization activated only a few months ago, is divided into several functional teams and provides opportunities for a person to hold jobs in which he is qualified by civilian experience or college training.

Openings exist in all of the 10 platoons of the company, and a group of trained officers will meet with interested students in the Christian Center Auditorium at 10:45 a.m., Oct. 11, 1955, to answer questions about the company and the part it may play in helping students fulfill their reserve obligations.

Dear Mom . . . On Freshman Day

By Martina Riley

Methodist Hill
Freshmen Day, 1955

Dear Mom,

Gosh, you've got to come quick! B4 it's too late! Have almost lost the intelligence, with all the things those silly think-they're-smarter-than-freshmen are making us do.

Honestly, you should see the boys in class with their pajamas on. It's sorta embarrassing for a girl like me. No telling what Grandma would say.

And I have lump-sitis of the backbone from wearing one high heeled shoe! Just really does not make for good health.

But, oh! the best part! This darling boy named Jon Ed kissed me this A. M. (It's o.k. for anybody to kiss a freshman today, and vice versa.) The only thing, Betty Jane has already been kissed 20 times, and if I don't get kissed that much, it won't be too good. (You know what I mean.)

Honestly, we look terrible, with no make-up on. The worst looking pair will be crowned king and queen tomorrow at the game. Exciting, I know. Just hope I have a chance in my camel costume.

You should have seen Lacey and Ray scrubbing Major Millsaps' tomb with their toothbrushes a while ago. Lacey forgot and used his toothbrush afterward (on his teeth). Now he's scalding out his mouth with Lysol.

But the worst part of all. You remember Wimpy, the boy I had a crush on? Well, Dillard made me tell him I loved him! Could hardly have wrung her neck. Now I probably won't have a chance with him.

Here come a slew of upperclassmen. Better get prepared for the works. Bye now.

Luv,
Tina

P. S. . . later . . . It's over now, Mom. You know, it was codles of fun after all. Really . . . the very greatest.

Y's Sponsor Get Acquainted Special

A Y. W. C. A.—Y. M. C. A. October get-acquainted special is in progress for all young men and women in Jackson. All regular facilities of the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. will be open which include volley ball, wrestling, weight training, and dramatics for men. Square dancing, art, judo, ballroom dancing, and beginners bridge will be open for the women. Arrangements for special events such as dances and parties will be made later.

People who are interested may sign up for classes at the Y. M. C. A. or the Y. W. C. A. immediately. The starting date was October 3, 1955.

New Students Meet Faculty Advisers

All new students, both freshmen and transfers, are to meet with their faculty advisers on Tuesday, October 18, at 10:50 a.m. At this time appointments will be set up for individual conferences with the advisers. If there is any question about your adviser you should consult the main bulletin board in Murrah Hall where a list of advisers and their advisees has been posted, including the listing of rooms where these meetings are to be held.

10 Are Chosen Favorites In Bobashela Election

In Bobashela-sponsored elections held Wednesday, John Hubbard, Burton Jackson, Hugh Johnson, Sam Jones, N. R. Walley, Clara Parks Booth, Karen Gilfoy, Barbara Jones, Nancy Peacock, and Biggie Wilkins were elected Millsaps favorites. Nearly 700 students voted in the election. The order in which they ranked in the election will be announced in Bobashela.

LIBRARY DEDICATED

"A Good Book Is Precious Lifeblood . . ."—Sanders

By Betty Miller

"A good book is the precious life-blood of a master spirit, embalmed and treasured up on purpose to a life beyond life."

With this quotation from Milton, Dr. A. G. Sanders highlighted his address at the library dedication service last Thursday.

Dr. Sanders went on to give the very earliest history of the library and to rejoice that the college chose "a first class library rather than a first class swimming pool."

In tracing the history of the Millsaps library buildings, Dr. Sanders explained that Andrew Carnegie and Major Millsaps financed the first, the Carnegie Corporation the second, and the Wilsons and the Million for Millsaps fund the third.

Originally, Dr. Sanders commented, the library occupied the present Public Relations Office, then it moved to offices in a building north of Burton Hall. The first library building stood south of the present day Christian Center and finally what today's Millsaps students know as "the old library" was built across from Founders.

Professor Sanders emphasized the fact that a first class college library is not necessarily a large library. Educational associations and Phi Beta Kappa are more interested in how large and well selected its book collection is, what its annual circulation of books amounts to, how much is spent annually for books and periodicals, and how well trained its staff is. The Millsaps-Wilson library's collection of 30,000 books measures up nicely to that of the model library, the Lamont undergraduate library at Harvard, which has 39,000. He said in tribute to Miss Swearingen, "If you seek her monument, look about you."

In closing Professor Sanders outlined the many things he hoped the library might do for the college—in short, "those in charge—have planned and earnestly hope that the library will become the cultural center of the college community."

Following his speech, Professor Sanders was made honorary doctor of humane letters by President Finger.

Other highlights of the dedication service were the brief addresses by Dr. A. Boyd Campbell, President, U. S. Chamber of Commerce; Bishop Marvin A. Franklin, Bishop of the Jackson area; and N. R. Walley, President, Millsaps student body, and the Act of Dedication written by Dr. N. Bond Fleming and led by Bishop Franklin.

Following the dedication services, open house was held at the library. Some of the rooms open to the public were the Millsaps Room on the third floor which was furnished by the W. M. Buie family; the faculty lounge room, a memorial to Dr. William L. Kenyon given by the Oxford-University Methodist Church and the Social Science Seminar Room given by the Waynesboro Methodist Church.

Jim Livesay's Father Died Last Saturday

E. R. Livesay, 68, of 125 Glenmary Street, died suddenly at noon Saturday. He was the father of James J. Livesay, Public Relations Director of Millsaps. Mr. E. R. Livesay was a Mason and a member of the Capitol Street Methodist Church. He was an active educator before entering business and received his BA Degree from the University of Virginia and did additional work at the University of Missouri.

Funeral services were held Monday at 3 p.m. at the Wright and Ferguson Chapel with Rev. Roy C. Clark and Dr. Bond Fleming officiating. Interment was held in Lakewood Memorial Park.

Religious Views And Reviews

One of the most prominent things on any college campus, and yet one of the least noticed at times, is the church. Since the days when the first universities were established by the monastic orders, the church has led in the teaching and religious fields and today, in the areas of college fellowship.

Yet the church is most often "out of the picture." Full dorms at eleven on Sunday morning show this to be true, as well as study lights burning early on Sunday nights. Of course, there are various and sundry reasons for not attending church, some of them good, others only poor excuses.

One of the most common and probably that given by most freshmen is that First Church just isn't like Mount Shiloh back home and I just can't worship there. This is a natural feeling during orientation because First is different from the church back home. It's larger, has a bigger program, doesn't have that sense of security radiating from it like dear Mount Shiloh does. It's longer distance to First, too, than it is to Mount Shiloh, and so many students decide the effort to clamber out of bed, get dressed and wait for a bus just isn't worth the effort.

Now, ma'am, let's face the facts. First, you need the church. Not only do you need a spiritual recharging once a week, at least, but you need a spiritual brain-clearing. College life is rough. A week of tests and outside readings can make for a well-befuddled mind if there isn't some type of a break, and the fellowship of the church is the only solution. It's well-rounded program of Christian education provides knowledge; its worship services, inspiration; and its youth program, fellowship. Our churches fully realize the need for recreation in their youth programs, so a fellowship period is planned at least twice a month in most churches and not less than monthly in others. And speaking of boy-girl relations...

Our city's pastors are usually free for individual counseling. If that problem seems to be a little too heavy, they are open any time to help.

And then, the church needs you. A building is only as strong as the bricks which compose its walls. The church's program is only as strong and effective as the people who take part in it. All of the city's youth fellowships need people for worship services. Some need help on the editorial staffs of the department newspaper. Whatever your talent, the church can use it, and it is your duty as a student to do the most with your talents. So attend your church, support it, and lean back with pride as you watch it grow.

Don't forget morning watch and vespers. See you in church Sunday?

Majors Defeat Livingston Tigers 18-6 In Meridian

Our Millsaps Majors broke into the win column by virtue of a 18-6 victory over Livingston State Teachers College of Alabama. Both teams played loosely in the first quarter.

In the second, Crow Parnell, on his second game at quarterback, fired a flat nine yard pass to Benjie Kirkland. Kirkland took the pass over his shoulder, knocked a would-be tackler to the ground, and went over standing up for the first score. John Lowery's try for the extra point was no good.

In the third quarter capitalizing on a fifteen yard penalty against the Tigers for roughness, the Majors drove to the one yard line. Big John Lowery, from fullback, took the handoff from Parnell and smashed over center, leaving a wake of Tigers in his path. Again the try for the extra point went wide.

Late in the fourth, after a desperate bid for a first in ten failed for the Tigers, Millsaps took over on the Tiger 38. Again John Lowery drove straight ahead for eleven yards. Two plays later, Quarterback Parnell fired a pass to Lowery on the 12, who, after being hit hard on the five, dove over the goal for the final Millsaps score.

Livingston's lone tally came in the fourth quarter when Tiger Allen Bass scored from the 2 yard line.

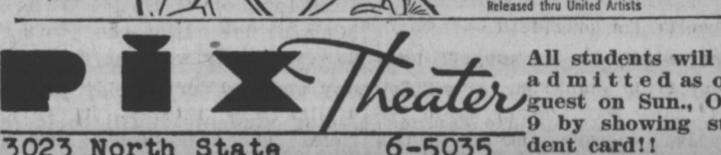

The maid was helping with last-minute details before the club arrived. She looked up from the silver she was polishing and said with a sigh, "Miss Harriett, I love to socialize, but I can't afford to retaliate."

Intramurals

BY JACK TAYLOR

Intramural speedball got off to a start Monday afternoon as the KA's and the K-Sigs fought to a 6-6 deadlock. The KA's after a scoreless first half, took possession of the ball on the Sigs two yard line. Seconds later, they lead the game, 6-0. Scoring was George Armstrong on a pass from Max McDaniel.

Taking the kick-off, the Sigs passed and ran to the 28 yard line of the KA's. Powers Moore looped a pass to Jack Taylor on the 5, and he went over untouched to tie the game 6-6.

With three games remaining this week, next week's P&W should show an early trend of the leading contenders for the speedball crown.

Are you in doubt about your future? Do you worry about tests, grades, money, or love? Would you like to know what the future has in store for you? If so, there is an answer to your problems. Three public spirited men of science of Millsaps College now have the answer to these plaguing problems of the future.

One of these men is a biology major. He predicts the future by reading the entrails of various animals. The fetal pig is usually read for predictions of the immediate future. The internal organs of the dogfish shark are studied for long range predictions of world wide importance. This augur is available for consultations at any time in the biology laboratory. For a small fee, he will dispel all your fears of the future.

The second man of science is a geology major. He carries with him a small box of bones which he casts out on a table. The position of the bones shows the future to his trained eye. This eminent geologist carries his instruments with him at all times and his services are available without appointment.

The third oracle is an astronomer who holds his office hour every Wednesday night at the observatory. This oracle predicts the future in the most scientific of all ways by following the course of the universe and studying the signs of the Zodiac.

All of these men of science offer their services to the students of Millsaps at a special reduced rate for students. Take advantage of the opportunities offered by this group of prophets of the doom!

HIGH POINT

Last Thursday a high point in the history of our college was reached, for on that day the Millsaps-Wilson Library was dedicated. The building is truly beautiful and one to which every Millsaps student looks with pride. And mingled with this feeling of pride is a warm glow in knowing that each afternoon we students can tuck a book underneath our arm and head for this library of ours where studying becomes pleasure!

Victory

Plowing through the Livingston line-up, the Majors scored an 18 to 6 victory in Meridian last Saturday night. We salute the Millsaps Majors on winning their first game and we are confident that they will win many more.

Headlines

Headlines in last week's Purple and White announced that the titles of Master Major and Miss Millsaps had been won by Jack Loflin and Ann Anderson. To these deserving seniors we offer a huge and lovely orchid of congratulations.

And now it's time for this week's 'nouncements.

Engaged

Cindy and Don

Cindy Faulkenberry, a Beta Sigma Omicron whose home is in Jackson, became engaged to Don Youngs, a senior Lambda Chi Alpha whose home is in Deposit, New York, September 15.

Ruth Marie and Everett

Ruth Marie Williams, who is a senior from Meridian, became engaged to Everett Connell, who also is from Meridian, September 30.

Gail and Billy

Gail Moorehead, who is a Millsaps sophomore, is engaged to Billy Coile, who is in the Air Force and is stationed in Colville, Washington. Both Gail and Billy are from Vicksburg.

BSO's Entertain Lambda Chi Alpha's

The Beta Sig's entertained the actives and pledges of the Lambda Chi chapter with a supper at the Lambda Chi House Thursday night. This is the first in a series of suppers that will be given for the actives and pledges of the various fraternities.

An informal program centered around impersonations of outstanding and well-known characters was given. After the program the group enjoyed a period of singing and fellowship.

A delicious menu of ham, potato salad, French bread, ice cream, cookies and ice tea was served. Chaperons were Dr. and Mrs. Brett and Dr. and Mrs. Knowles.

Stovall Elected Pike Pledge Prexy

Pi Kappa Alpha pledges elected officers for their group Thursday, September 29. They chose Russell Stovall a sophomore from Magnolia, for president.

Other officers include William Jeans from Jackson, vice-president; Mac McClanahan from Indianola, secretary; and Joe Hinds, from Jackson, treasurer.

sorority ring and diamond badge to the sorority to be used as an annual rotating award. These two are awarded to seniors best representing the ideals of B S O as evidence of their character and outstanding ability. Selection of the recipients, who wear the ring and badge are made by the governing body of B S O after investigation and recommendation of a national committee. This is truly one of the highest honors a Beta Sig can get.

Claudette has been outstanding on Millsaps' campus. She was tapped into Sigma Lambda last year and she now holds the position as President of the Y W C A, President of Pan-Hellenic, and President of B S O. While at Millsaps she has worked with the W C W and on the Bobashela staff. To show her outstanding ability and interest in various fields, she was tapped into the Majorette club, K D E, and I R C.

Ed's Excerpts

By Ed Upton

Here 'tis another week, and here 'tis another blank mind. And here 'tis the editor (the man in the black coat, with the black mustache, with the whip) saying, "It matters not whether we have a four page paper, a six page paper, or a sixteen page paper—WRITE A COLUMN!!" So—here goes, not knowing whether I will make the paper or not. But if you're reading this, I guess I made it. (What a logical conclusion! If you want to learn to wind up with such logical conclusions, Dr. Fleming invites you to his Logic course.)

If you see a flashy new red and white car on the campus—one that was new in 1925, that is—your eyes aren't deceiving you. It's REAL!! Jimmie Newell's daddy lucked last Saturday night at the Livingston game and won the swanky machine. Jimmie's daddy doesn't go to school here, but what would have happened to the car if your daddy had won it?) Probably the only reason you won't see it here (if you don't) is because it wouldn't make it from Meridian. I still can't get over the shock of not winning that auto. And after that man at the gate promised—

Not spring, not winter, and not even rain is in the air, but flu shots are. Shots (of the flu type variety!) will be offered to everyone on the campus. But don't get up your hopes—they aren't free! They're gonna' charge us to let them stick us with that dad-gum needle! And then the teachers won't even cancel tests and our poor aching arms will have to be under the strain of all that writing. There ain't no justice!

Today marks one of the highlights in the frosh's year. In their fancy clothes and best looks (?) they've been parading around the campus all day. (Frankly, I think that this is probably the first time that some of them have been away from home. They have the worst table manners—they don't even use manners, much less the table! I think that a course should be taught on Frosh Etiquette. Why some of those green freshmen don't even know that there is such a thing as a fork! All they use is a knife. If your mothers only knew how you were acting!

If you hear of any good poems, you might share them with me. All of the ones I know are as old as Founders (Heaven forbid!). So if you don't want to listen—or re-listen—to the same old jokes (?), come through with some (no prizes for those published!).

In my travels of last week-end—all the way to Meridian—I latched on to the following. Take careful study of the meter and rhyme scheme of the following. Who knows? This may someday be a classic!

Back to back they faced each other,
Drew their swords and shot the other.
A deaf policeman heard the noise
And came and shot the two dead boys.

Jack Loflin, S.E.B. Vice President Is Major-Major

Jack Loflin, recently elected Master Major by the Millsaps student body is featured as this week's Major Major. Jack is very active on the campus. He is a ministerial student, has served as secretary of the Ministerial League, reporter for the organization, chairman of the Ladies' Home Commission, and assistant pastor of the Star charge. He won the Carter Speech Medal and the Sullivan Ministerial Scholarship. Jack has been active in the Millsaps Players and intramurals. He is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha and serves as S. M. C. (president) of that fraternity.

Last, but definitely not least, Jack is vice president of S. E. B. I'd say that he deserves to be Major Major. What do you think?

"And now, gentlemen," continued the congressman, "I wish to tax your memory."

"Good heavens," muttered a colleague, "why haven't we thought of that before?"

Service To Millsaps College . . .

A great deal more interest is being seen in student activities this year than usual, but something not as good as the student interest seems to be creeping over the edges of the happenings on Millsaps campus. This thing is "service" being rendered the college community, not for the benefit of the community, but for the sake of the individual rendering the service. When personal gain is removed, the participation ceases.

To think that the motive of personal gain can be eliminated altogether is unrealistic, but when this motive becomes so obvious, it is degrading to the community and to the individual.

No legislation by a legislative body can remove petty politics, but college opinion can do this effectively and quickly. Only when this is done can student government function successfully and only then can there be a cohesion of the student body even if there is not total agreement.

Millsaps college has a lively program in many fields which tends to improve the character of students, but unless students are willing to serve conscientiously, much of the program avails nothing. The rewards for conscientious service are bestowed naturally, without its being necessary to seize them.

About Parking . . .

Let's do something about the parking problem. During the spring session at Millsaps, the college arranged for parking violators on the campus to be given traffic tickets. This year, student parking is a more serious problem than it was last year. People park their cars across the yellow lines in spite of frequent requests that they exercise care in parking their vehicles. In the opinion of this writer, the same policy that was so effective last year should be adopted this year in spite of the extra work entailed on the part of some of the college officials. If this policy can be initiated, the parking problem on the campus will be eased until additional parking space can be secured.

 "She will vote as I vote."
 "And who will you vote for?"
 "Well, I haven't talked it over with my wife yet."

"Well, well," the doctor said cheerfully. "You're coughing more easily this morning."

"I should be," the patient replied "I've been practicing all night."

Charlotte Elliott Gets KDE Award

Recently Charlotte Elliott was awarded the first national Kappa Delta Epsilon scholarship. To be eligible for the scholarship a person must maintain a two-point average for the years in college and must be a Junior when she applies. She also must be a member of K D E. Charlotte was tapped into K D E first semester last year and has served as publicity chairman for the group. She holds the positions of sec.-treas. of the Westminster Fellowship and social chairman of Beta Sigma Omicron. She is a member of the band and the Majorette Club and in previous years has worked on the P&W and Players.

The doctor rushed out of his study. "Get my kit at once," he shouted.

"Why Dad?" asked his daughter. "What's the matter?"

"Some fellow just phoned he can't live five minutes without me," gasped the doctor, reaching for his hat.

His daughter breathed a sigh of relief. "Just a moment," she said. "I think that call was for me."

On Wednesday, October 12 from 9 A.M. to 3 P.M. the Hinds County T B X-Ray unit will be in the parking lot behind Murrah Hall. All students are urged to participate in this free program, which is sponsored by the Millsaps Chapter of AED.

Ross Announces Homecoming Program And Committees

Plans are underway for the biggest Homecoming in Millsaps history, according to Dr. Thomas G. Ross, president of the Millsaps College Alumni Association. More student-faculty-alumni participation is expected.

The Homecoming committee met Monday to make final arrangements for the big day. The committee is composed of students, N. R. Walley, Sam Jones, Barry Stewart, Carolyn Allen, and Peggy Jo Stanford; of alumni, Bryant Horne, J. C. Clark, and Leonard Clark; of faculty, Mrs. K. E. Hedere and Dr. Gustavus Williamson, and representatives of the Alumni Relations Dept., Mrs. Tom Boone and Jim Livesay.

President of the student body, N. R. Walley, particularly stressed that the parade which forms at 1:30 will be the best Millsaps has ever had. As before, the eight social organizations will enter their floats. In addition it is hoped that the honoraries and various organizations will contribute floats or some other decoration.

Jim Livesay pointed out that at 2:30 the annual Variety Show featuring student entertainment would get underway. The principal address this year will be by Dr. James S. Ferguson. Another highlight of the show will be the presentation of the fifth annual alumnus-of-the-year award, the highest honor given exclusively to alumni.

The program for Homecoming is as follows:

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 11

P.M. 6:30 Dinner Meeting—Early Days Club Cafeteria

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 22

American Studies Association Meets At Millsaps Tomorrow

The first meeting of the American Studies Association of the Lower Mississippi (Arkansas, Louisiana, and Mississippi) will be held in the Christian Center of Millsaps College tomorrow. The group is being formed to study American civilization and culture by an interdisciplinary approach. The A. S. A. will meet for the exchange of ideas at regular intervals.

The program for the meeting is as follows:

11:30 a.m.—Address: "Southern Literary Revival" by Randall Stewart, head of the English department, Vanderbilt University.

12:30 p.m.—Intermission for lunch.

1:30 p.m.—Panel discussion of the topic: "Southern Cultural tradition." Panelists: Richard E. Amacher, English, Henderson State Teachers College; John K. Bettersworth, history, Mississippi State College; Rudolf Heberle, sociology, L. S. U.; William L. Kolb, sociology, Newcomb College, Tulane University, moderator; and Walter F. Taylor, English, Blue Mountain College.

2:30 p.m.—Nomination of officers and adoption of proposed constitution.

Tap Day Is Set For October 27

The Student Executive Board has announced that Millsaps' semi-annual Tap Day will be held during the chapel period on Thursday October 27.

The following honoraries will take part in Tap Day: Omicron Delta Kappa, national men's leadership fraternity; Sigma Lambda, women's leadership honorary; Kit Kat, men's creative writing honorary; Chi Delta, women's creative writing group; Theta Nu Sigma, general science honorary; Alpha Psi Omega, national dramatics honorary; Eta Sigma Phi, classical languages fraternity; Alpha Epsilon Delta, national pre-medical honor society; Kappa Delta Epsilon, education honorary; and Pi Kappa Delta, national forensics fraternity.

Omicron Delta Kappa is in charge of the Tap Day ceremonies.

McQueen, McCaskell, Pool Take Sewanee Flag From Tiger Fan

If you weren't there, you missed it. Where? At the ball game. The attention focused on the death-struggle between the Millsaps Majors and the Sewanee Tigers was deflected for a moment to the struggle of three of Millsaps' young freshmen, upholding the honor of this institution.

A Sewanee fan, apparently feeling no pain, had tried to disrupt the Major band maneuvers during halftime by parading about the field bearing a flag with "Sewanee" written upon it in bold letters. Then James McQueen, Ed McCaskell, and Jack Pool, rightly feeling indignant that such a situation should be allowed to exist, took the situation in hand.

They got their heads together and McQueen said, "Ed, we'll go over and sit behind this fellow. I'll grab the flag and run, and you and Jack keep him from beating heck out of me." Ed and Jack nodded assent, and the three proceeded with their plans.

Shortly after the second half had begun, McQueen came hurtling across the football field with the Sewanee banner. McCaskell and Pool were not so fortunate, however, as they were captured by the now-indignant and thoroughly aroused Tiger supporters.

They were to be held for ransom, and maybe even carried back to Sewanee and strung up by their big toes.

However, the visitors soon relented, and with the aid of several policemen the invaders escaped.

The battle-scarred trophy was presented to Student Body Prexy N. R. Walley by Jim and Ed.

Bobashela Lists Plans; Editor Commends Staff

By Betty Miller

"I am very proud of the work the Bobashela staff has done so far, and if it continues, we will be able to meet the goals we have set," stated Bill Lampton, editor of the 1955 Bobashela.

Lampton went on to comment that, "If the students will cooperate we should have the annual to the printers by January 30, and possibly distributed by the middle of April."

Only one fourth of the annual material must go to the printers December 15, but Lampton hopes to up this to one half. So far 660 faculty and student pictures and almost all of the activities pictures have been taken. Organizations' pictures will be taken after tap day.

This year the staff plans to have more art work and pictures and to use color throughout the annual to a much greater extent. The pictures emphasizing the theme and on the division pages are geared to present a representative view of a Millsaps student's life.

Nine hundred and fifty annuals are being ordered from the publishers, Myers and Co. of Topeka, Kansas, to meet the increased student enrollment.

Lampton said that many questions had been raised over the higher prices of pictures but "I hope they will understand why when the annual comes out."

RELIGIOUS VIEWS AND REVIEWS

Role Of Revivals In Our Culture

If there is anything which may be called the original contribution of Protestant Christianity to the religious customs of this country, it is the revival. The rural revival has changed the lives and society of this nation more than any other force, and evangelism continues to be the dominant aspect of the program of most of our churches.

In spite of its importance, some of the so-called intellectuals in the nation have, in recent years, thrown a light of satire on the revival. Portraying it as a "glorified tent show," they have succeeded in introducing a form of watered evangelistic appeal into the time-honored revival. For example, in recent years, a major emphasis has been placed on the weekly sermon as the only time for evangelistic action. While the minister's sermon certainly should be filled with a ray of hope for the weary, it is necessary for the individual to take a certain time out from his routine affairs for true spiritual relaxation and recreation.

The revival should not be an outlet merely for emotions, nor

Former Millsaps Student
To Star In Jackson Opera

Former Millsaps student Andrew Gainey will star in the opera "Così Fan Tutte" or "Women Are Like That," by Mozart to be presented on Monday and Tuesday, October 31 and November 1, by the Jackson Opera Association in Bailey Auditorium. Mr. Gainey is now teaching voice at Birmingham College in Alabama.

A little boy in a crowd had been giving vent to his feelings. An old lady observed, "My word! Doesn't that little boy swear terribly?"

Little Joe replied: "Yes'm, he sure does. He knows the words all right but he don't put no expression in 'em."

arouse emotions, "save" a few souls, and come back next year. Modern preaching should be geared for modern living, and modern living is that peculiar combination of hard work, technical thinking, and an enjoyment of life, so therefore the message for our times is one which challenges us to higher thinking, nobler living, and inspires us to go with enthusiasm to spread that which we have learned.

Major Major

President Of ODK Is Chosen
The Major Major Of The Week

Hardy Nall, this week's major major, is a versatile person, and he demonstrates this fact in many ways. Not only is he on the football team, but he is also on the Dean's List. Not only has he been in the Millsaps tour choir, but he has also been active in Players, starring in The Infernal Machine, Hamlet, and Arms and the Man. Not only has he been a favorite, but he is also President of Omicron Delta Kappa, men's honorary leadership fraternity. He is Number II of Kappa Alpha Order.

Along with all this Hardy is a member of the Ministerial League and associate pastor at Pelahatchie. He was active in the Millions for Millsaps campaign and is included in 1954 Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Hardy's future plans are to attend seminary.

FRESHMAN ROYALTY

Daisy Mae, Davy Crockett, Witch Hazel, Peter Pumpkin, Man from Outer Space—all stalked the Millsaps campus last Friday when Freshman Day was "Hectic Day!" Such original costumes were worn by all the freshmen that the suspense ran high to see just who were to wear the Freshman Crowns. At last the high moment arrived and Sophomore Class President, Hugh Johnson, placed the crowns upon the heads of the king and the "twin queens," Tweedledee and Tweedledum, roly poly and "cute as pie," were the pillow-stuffed Queens of Freshman Day, Lynette Garst and Susan Wheeless. Sharing the spotlight with the two "Tweedles" and dressed as a "nosey" looking Cyrano was the King of Freshman Day, Lacey Causey. We tip our hat and cry, "Long live the king and his queens!"

ANOTHER WIN

So exciting was the ball game between Millsaps and Sewanee last Saturday afternoon that the student body stood on its feet for practically all of the fourth quarter. Between "Dixie" and the "Big M," the crowd cheered and held its breath all at the same time as the Majors crossed the goal line to score a 12 to 7 win over Sewanee. And speaking of Sewanee reminds us that Millsaps has none other than the Sewanee flag which was waved a bit freely from the other side last Saturday. In Millsaps territory, this sad little banner bows in defeat as it recognizes the victors!

STATE FAIR

Sniffing fall air and jingling two or three dimes in their pockets, Millsaps students head for the State Fair Grounds where sawdust and cotton candy offer fascination for all ages. If you want to have your weight guessed, your fortune told, or your picture snapped, then the fair grounds is the place for you. And while there, be sure to ride the Merry-Go-Round and to Go Fishing. Buy a candied apple to munch on and, above all, win a kewpie doll to remind you of all the fun had at the State Fair of '55!

And now for the 'nouncements of the week.

PINNED

Jeanette and Crow

Jeanette Ratcliff, a member of Chi Omega Sorority and a sophomore from Vicksburg, is pinned to Robert "Crow" Parnell, a member of Kappa Sigma Fraternity and a senior from Shreveport, Louisiana. They became pinned Saturday, October 8.

Aden Coleman, a member of Kappa Delta Sorority and a sophomore from Greenwood, became pinned to Michael Kelly, a member of Kappa Alpha Order and a sophomore from Jackson.

MILLSAPS TO HAVE MALE QUARTET

Have you any old quarter notes lying around in your desk? Is there any barber shop harmony left from last summer's camp? We want you! Sure enough, Millsaps is going to have a real men's quartet.

Profs. King, McCracken, and Ambrose will hear all first tenors, leads, baritones, basses, and crows, next Monday, October 17th, at 4:00 P.M. Tryouts will be held in the new Music Building Classroom, which is in the basement of Elsinore (Music Hall).

Everyone is invited to form groups, woodshed a bit, and come around to warble. If you can't find a group, grab a sparrow and come on, anyhow. We'll find a place for you!

Chi O's Entertain The Kappa Alphas

The Chi Omegas entertained the Kappa Alphas with an informal supper at the K.A. house last Thursday.

After a supper of ham, potato salad, french bread, and cokes had been served, actives and pledges of both groups were introduced.

K.A. and Chi O talent joined in presenting a talent show. Performers were: Ann Foster, contralto; Jane Pickering and Jeanette Ratcliff, pianists; Mary Louise Moore and Betty Miller, flappers; Joe Lee Porter, Tommy Spell, Hardy Nall, and Terry Hayward, a K.A. quartet; B. B. Montgomery, guitarist; and Lewis Lord, vocalist.

The evening was closed with a period of singing and fellowship. Dr. and Mrs. Ross H. Moore and Mr. and Mrs. Bryant Horne were chaperones.

National Award Received By MU

Mu chapter was awarded the highest honor a chapter of Kappa Delta can receive at the thirty-first national Kappa Delta convention in July. Mu was one of eight chapters that received the Kappa Delta merit award when its convention met. This award is presented to those chapters which are outstanding in every phase of campus activity. Mu also claimed a magazine award which was presented to those chapters with outstanding magazine sales.

Texas Mitchell Campbell, an alumna of Mu chapter and a resident of Jackson, was elected national president of Kappa Delta at the convention. Mrs. Campbell had served Kappa Delta in the capacity of vice-president for nine years.

International Relations

Club Met Tuesday

The Millsaps International Relations Club met Tuesday night, October 11, at 7:30 in the Christian Center lounge. Dr. Ross Moore presented the topic for discussion—French Morocco. Tom Prewitt was initiated into I. R. C. at this meeting, and the club decided upon the students to be invited to membership in I. R. C.

MARRIED

Freida and Leverette

A late summer wedding was this fall.

FRESHMAN ROYALTY

Daisy Mae, Davy Crockett, Witch Hazel, Peter Pumpkin, Man from Outer Space—all stalked the Millsaps campus last Friday when Freshman Day was "Hectic Day!" Such original costumes were worn by all the freshmen that the suspense ran high to see just who were to wear the Freshman Crowns. At last the high moment arrived and Sophomore Class President, Hugh Johnson, placed the crowns upon the heads of the king and the "twin queens," Tweedledee and Tweedledum, roly poly and "cute as pie," were the pillow-stuffed Queens of Freshman Day, Lynette Garst and Susan Wheeless. Sharing the spotlight with the two "Tweedles" and dressed as a "nosey" looking Cyrano was the King of Freshman Day, Lacey Causey. We tip our hat and cry, "Long live the king and his queens!"

Chi O's Entertain The Kappa Alphas

The Chi Omegas entertained the Kappa Alphas with an informal supper at the K.A. house last Thursday.

After a supper of ham, potato salad, french bread, and cokes had been served, actives and pledges of both groups were introduced.

K.A. and Chi O talent joined in presenting a talent show. Performers were: Ann Foster, contralto; Jane Pickering and Jeanette Ratcliff, pianists; Mary Louise Moore and Betty Miller, flappers; Joe Lee Porter, Tommy Spell, Hardy Nall, and Terry Hayward, a K.A. quartet; B. B. Montgomery, guitarist; and Lewis Lord, vocalist.

The evening was closed with a period of singing and fellowship. Dr. and Mrs. Ross H. Moore and Mr. and Mrs. Bryant Horne were chaperones.

National Award Received By MU

Mu chapter was awarded the highest honor a chapter of Kappa Delta can receive at the thirty-first national Kappa Delta convention in July. Mu was one of eight chapters that received the Kappa Delta merit award when its convention met. This award is presented to those chapters which are outstanding in every phase of campus activity. Mu also claimed a magazine award which was presented to those chapters with outstanding magazine sales.

Texas Mitchell Campbell, an alumna of Mu chapter and a resident of Jackson, was elected national president of Kappa Delta at the convention. Mrs. Campbell had served Kappa Delta in the capacity of vice-president for nine years.

Newspaper Responsibility

Last week, National Newspaper Week was observed by the Newspapers of the United States. If the Purple and White had mentioned it many students would have insisted that the word newspaper be used in quotation marks because of shortcomings and limitations of the staff. This would have been their opinion. The editor would probably have insisted that these critical students' names as judges be placed within quotation marks. This would have been his opinion. And the significant part about it is that both have a right to their opinions, and both have the right to express these opinions so long as character is respected and the truth is followed.

This protection of the right of opinion is one of the things that the press is responsible for or takes upon itself to be responsible for in our democracy. The press has responsibilities too numerous to mention, but one that is particularly significant on this campus is that of deciding what to print and what not to print. Two of the Canons of Journalism declare that a newspaper must be responsible—that it consider the public welfare, that it be independent and faithful to the public interest.

On at least two occasions at this college campus in recent weeks, events have occurred that would have made rather sensational news in certain circles in the state. Both were common knowledge on the campus, and the Purple and White would have been livened up considerably by publication of the articles—if accurate information could have been obtained on the matters. Sources refused to be quoted, and even if they had not, the Purple and White had an obligation not to print material that could have harmed good will toward the college. Possibly it would have been easier for the college newspaper to have printed the material than to have taken the criticism for not printing it. In spite of this, facts must be obtained before an article can be published. Heresay does not go into print. What seems to be sensational news is often not newsworthy when a simple explanation is offered, and an article is not newsworthy when only part of the facts are printed.

This brings us to another part of the P. & W's problems—that of reporters and news sources slanting the news. As long as the machines that gather the news are humans, the news will be seen through their eyes, and those eyes will see only what they want to see, or will fail to see clearly what they do not want to see. Newspaper judges should realize this, and should also realize that their eyes may be slanting their own judgment. Objectivity should be the goal of reporters and judges.

Individuals and student groups have many of these responsibilities that the student press has in the college community. They should consider them well.

Millsaps Defeats Sewanee In Final Minutes Of Game

Crow Parnell fired a 17 yard A. T. that looked bigger and bigger as time ran out. Charles (Snake) Deaton with 1:10 remaining in the contest to bring to life a despairing crowd and pull out a 12-7 win over Sewanee.

Parnell, learning the T-quarterback role after several years as a halfback, saved face with the winning toss.

Defeat seemed inevitable late in the game with Sewanee controlling the pigskin, but Pat Bonner gave Millsaps a last chance by covering a fumble on the visitors' 28.

On the first play Parnell tossed to John Ed Williams and the freshman carried the ball to the sixteen. After an incompletely forward the stage was set for the game winning T. D. pass.

Fumbles seemed to be predominate throughout the chilly afternoon, as Millsaps lost 7 fumbles and the Tigers 3.

A Sewanee bobble in the first period was responsible for the Majors' first tally.

Quarterback Bill Kimbrough lost the ball when Tom Boone hit him hard behind the line, and before the pigskin could find its way to earth Williams had gathered it in and was rambling 47 yards to pay dirt. Williams also was a defensive standout all during the game, along with Boone and Benjie Kirkland.

Sewanee tied the game shortly after the second half opened. A John Lowery fumble gave the Tigers the football on the Millsaps 26, and freshman signal-caller Lee Rowell came in to engineer the attack.

Rowell ran the ball to the 13, and when the offense stalled he tossed fifteen yards to halfback Dick Foster for the tally. Bill Doswell broke the tie with a P.

INTRAMURALS

Pikes Hold Lead KA's Second; 3 Teams In Third

The Pikes took the lead last week in the intramural speedball race. In an evenly played game, both the Pikes and the Lambda Chi's remained scoreless until the closing seconds when Pete Bradford threw a thirty yard pass to Cliff Rigby in the Lambda Chi's end zone.

Another close fought game was the KA vs. Norsemen, which ended 6-2, favor of the KA's. The Norsemen obtained their two points on a dropped pass from center by Max McDaniel in the KA end zone. However, Max saved the game with a three yard run into paydirt.

The Ministers vs. Norsemen ended their game in a scoreless tie. Both sides threatened to score but lacked the touchdown punch to earn the victory.

The standings, at the end of the first week of play:

KA	1	0	1
Sigs	0	0	1
Ministers	0	0	1
Norsemen	0	1	1
LXA	0	1	0

By Anne Coker

Student opportunities for this week fall into three categories: vocational, cultural and scholastic. All information about the jobs listed in this column and about other job opportunities will be posted on the glass-enclosed bulletin board in Murrah Hall. Students interested in part-time work should check this board often.

There is an opening for a girl to sell the Avon products in the dormitories on a percentage basis. Anyone interested should call Mrs. Holmes at 3-1162.

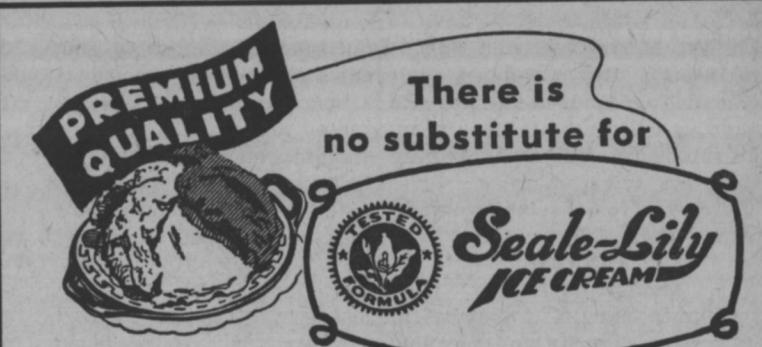

A girl is needed to room at the infirmary and be there when the nurse is away. No nursing experience is necessary; the room will be rent free, and there will be no obligation to buy meal tickets. See Dr. McCracken if interested.

Nominations for the Scholarship offered by the Rotary Foundation Fellowship for Advanced Study in a Foreign Country are now being considered. The student will be selected to represent the whole college; he must be between the ages of 20 and 29, receive his bachelor's degree by June, 1956, and be thoroughly familiar with the language of the country in which he is to study. Contact Dr. Finger if interested.

Tickets for the concerts given by the Jackson Symphony Orchestra are now on sale at Brown Music Co. Student season tickets sell for $2.50. The first concert will be held on October 18. Four concerts will be given.

The Jackson Music Association will present the following concerts in 1955-56: The Boston Symphony Orchestra on October 15; The Medium and The Telephone on November 16; Conner-Conley Joint Concert on Jan. 5; Claudio Arrau, Pianist, on February 6; and Igor Gorin, Baritone, on April 12.

Vol. LXVIII MILLSAPS COLLEGE, JACKSON, MISS., OCTOBER 21, 1955 No. 5

Parents Day November 5

The first annual Millsaps Parents Day will be held on November 5. Omicron Delta Kappa, national leadership honorary fraternity, will be in charge of preparations. Students are requested to advise their parents of the event. Complete plans are unavailable at this time.

National A.E.D. Convention Here

The Millsaps chapter of Alpha Epsilon Delta will be hosts to the national pre-medical and pre-dental society's biannual National Convention in 1956, Dr. J. B. Price announced this week. Scheduled for the weekend of the Easter holidays, the convention to be held at Millsaps represents a distinct departure from tradition. Previously, the meeting sites had been at large universities and had alternated between east and west of the Mississippi River with the 1956 gathering slated for the west. An outstanding record by the Millsaps Chapter in the last year, the college's growth as a center of pre-medical training, and generous cooperation by every college official made this choice possible.

The convention's program will of course be concentrated on the training of prospective students of the healing arts. At least one delegate from each of AED's sixty-five chapters will be in attendance, including some who will send large groups, plus a large number of the nation's leading medical and pre-medical educators.

Dr. Price, national vice-president, and Hiriam Polk, chapter president, are in charge of all arrangements. While taking the preliminary steps toward preparing for this big event, the members of AED have assisted in the flu inoculation and sponsored the X-ray unit which was here October 12. The X-ray unit will return at a date to be announced to complete the program.

S.E.B. Meets Under Revised System

The first meeting of the Student Executive Board under the revised system of representation was held Tuesday, Oct. 11. At this meeting S. E. B. voted on the organizational calendar, discussed the budget and S. E. B. appropriations, and voted on S. E. B. dates.

According to the new system, there are fourteen sub-committees each of which elects a representative to be present at the S. E. B. meetings. Although some of these subcommittees have not met to elect their delegates, the following have been elected: Claudette Westerfield represents the social organizations council, Reynolds Cheaney represents publications; Ed Upton represents religious activities; and Charlotte Elliot represents social activities.

Sword and Tomahawk??

The object of such intense concentration is the Millsaps sword, which the Choctaws hope to take to Clinton tomorrow night after the ball game. As of now, the Choctaw tomahawk rests in the trophy case in the Christian Center. N. R. Walley, Carolyn Allen, Peggy Sanford, and Dr. Williams expect to have them both back again in the trophy case Monday.

Thirty-Fifth Annual Game Will Be Hard-Fought

By Jack Taylor

In French Morocco this week, interest centers on the shaky Provisional government; in Egypt, the eyes of the world ponder on arms shipments by Russia; but in Jackson and Clinton, Mississippi, all talk revolves around the Major-Choctaw football game, Saturday, October 22. The 35th in consistently hard fought, high spirited games (both on and off the playing field), promises to be the best yet.

Although leading the series with 21 wins, 9 losses, and four ties, the Choctaws are still out for revenge from last year's 13-6 defeat. Also adding to the beat in the Choctaw's war dance is the not small item of one Mississippi College tomahawk which has been resting in the Christian Center of Millsaps for the last year. Although it is probable that plans were made last spring to "liberate" the axe without the benefit of a football game, the only way it will return to Clinton will be a victory over the Majors Saturday night at Memorial Stadium.

Statistics

Encouraging our Millsaps Majors was the 33-6 lashing over Howard last Friday. With Mississippi College barely sneaking by the same team, statistics point to a close, evenly matched contest. Further adding to the Majors desire to win were the quotations by several Choc players in a local daily news publication, who promised to do everything Saturday night but pull down the moon for lighting the field.

Homecoming

Adding to the cheers from both sides of the field will be the numerous "Old Grads" on hand for Homecoming Day. Both schools will hold ceremonies at the half time. High-lighting the Millsaps half-time program will be the crowning of the Homecoming Queen, details of which will be found elsewhere in this issue. Helping to cool off the effects of the game will be the dance sponsored by the M-Club, at the YWCA.

Eighty Attend ASD Meet; American Culture Discussed

Writers, teachers, scholars, students, and laymen interested in American culture met at Millsaps to organize the American Association of the Lower Mississippi.

According to T. D. Young, newly elected president, the group was formed, "because we feel the need of a regional organization interested in the study of American civilization and culture by means of an interdisciplinary approach." It seems that the three states of the Lower Mississippi Valley (Arkansas, Louisiana, and Mississippi) have enough geographical and cultural similarity to make them a logical unit for an organization which may meet one or twice a year for the exchange of ideas."

Southern Literary Revival

Highlight of the convention was an address entitled "Southern Literary Revival" by Randall Stewart, head of the Vanderbilt English Department.

Professor Stewart spoke from the viewpoint of a southerner educated in New England. He compared the southern literary revival to "the flowering of New England in the 19th century and that of Elizabethan England."

The speaker emphasized the Vanderbilt and the Mississippi groups in his discussion of the discoverers of the revival.

Stewart named such men as Donald Davidson, Allen Tate, Randall Jarrell, John Crow Ransom, and Robert Penn Warren in connection with the Vanderbilt group.

During his elaboration on the Mississippi figures, he referred to William Faulkner, Pulitzer Prize winner, as "a towering figure" in the literary revival of the South.

Stewart named the southern rural pattern, agrarianism, the race situation, and the existence of a strong fundamental religious consciousness as being among the influences in developing the revival.

Business

A panel discussion and a business meeting ended the activities.

Approximately 80 people attended the convention which was the first to use the forum room of the Millsaps-Wilson library.

Majors 'Turn On Heat' To Defeat Howard 33-6

It was a cool night in Birmingham, Alabama last Friday night, but our Millsaps Majors turned on the heat beating the Howard Bulldogs, 33-6. Behind an inspired, hard charging Millsaps line, Crow Parnell guided his team to five touchdowns. Holding the ball on a quarterback sneak, Parnell smashed across center for one yard and the first touchdown to start the scoring spree.

Halfback Roy Wolfe, repeating his fine run last week against Sewanee, took pitch-outs from Parnell and raced around left end for 16 yards and a score, and again for 39 yards and a score. Leading the way for these runs were the Major linemen who blocked, rocked, and blasted the way for the ball carrier.

Hard charging "Big-John" Lowery turned in an outstanding game at Fullback. Charging straight ahead through holes opened by the line, John racked up 69 yards in ten tries. Lowery joined the scoring column in the fourth quarter. Taking the hand-off from Quarterback Parnell, the "Millsaps Battering Ram" lowered his head and ripped off a quick seven yards and a touchdown.

Another repeat play from the Sewanee game was Crow Parnell's long overhead pass to End Snake Deaton, who went across the goal standing up on a play that covered 48 yards.

Statistics for the game:

	Millsaps	Howard
First Downs	13	8
Yards Rushing	221	147
Yards Passing	143	37
Passes Tried	12	11
Passes Completed ..	5	2
Passes Intercepted ..	2	2
Punting Average	41.00	26.7

Pikes Still In First Place After Two Weeks Play

All by their lonesomes at the top of the speedball heap as of last Friday are the Pikes with a 2 won, 1 tied record. Counting a tie as one win-one loss, the Pikes have a 3-1 record. Close on their heels are the Sigs, who have won one game and tied another. Kappa Alpha dropped from second to third place following a tie with the Lambda Chi, and the Ministers remained in fourth place. The Lambda Chis and the Norsemen are deadlocked in the tail-end spot.

Two first-half TD's spelled the difference in the Sig-Lambda Chi game. Powers Moore ended the first drive with a 10 yard end run for the score, and then added the PAT on another circle around end. Later, Steve Bumpas hauled in a Billy Rhyme's punt and scooted 60 yards down the sidelines to score. Moore's pass to Woods Cavett ended the Sig's scoring for the afternoon.

The Lambda Chis avoided a deadlock when Bill Johnson came crashing through to touch tail-back Moore in his own end zone.

In the Pike-Minister game neither team threatened severely and the game ended a scoreless tie.

Squeaking through with a tie against the Lambda Chis were the KA's. With the score 0-0, the ball game ended with the Lambda Chis on the KA's 3 yard line, second down and goal to go.

Pete Bradfield was the scoring punch for the Pikes as he ran for a TD on a 10 yard play and then ran the point over to defeat the Norsemen 7-0.

Margaret Whitfield Is Personality Of Week

Margaret Whitfield, secretary of the Student Executive Board, is honored as personality of the week. Margaret, an education major from Jackson, has been active in campus activities. She is secretary of the Majorette Club, Secretary of the Christian Council, and President of the Presbyterian Student group on the campus. Margaret is presently serving as pledge trainer of Beta Sigma Omicron.

When asked what she thought about Millsaps, Margaret said, "It is the most wonderful school in the world, and I shall never forget what it has meant to me."

Jackson Music Association's First Concert Held Saturday

By Barbara Swann

The Jackson Music Association's 1955-56 season was opened last Saturday evening by the music of the famed Boston Symphony Orchestra. The orchestra which is celebrating its 75th anniversary season is one of the finest in the world today.

The selections for the performance were "Symphony in B-Flat Major, no. 102" by Joseph Haydn (1732-1809), "La Mer" (Three Orchestral Sketches) by Charles Debussy (1862-1918) and "Symphony no. 2, in D major, Op. 73" by Johannes Brahms (1833-1897).

The first selection "Symphony in B-Flat Major" was chosen to open the anniversary season because it was the symphony which Georg Henschel chose for the opening concert on October 22, 1881 by the then newly formed Boston Symphony Orchestra.

"La Mer" or "The Sea", is three orchestral sketches by Claude Debussy, is impressionistic, and there is no doubt of his love for the sea. It is evident throughout this music, and one could almost feel the breeze and hear the roar of the sea.

The last offering was "Symphony No. 2 in D Major" by Johannes Brahms; it was beautiful music, bright hued, with its themes singing smoothly and easily throughout.

The orchestra is under the direction of Mr. Charles Munch who became its conductor in 1949. Mr. Munch is a native of France and prior to his association with the Boston Symphony was a conductor of four orchestras in Paris. The orchestra consists of approximately one hundred musicians, of which about one-third are violinists.

When the folding money is unusually dirty and crummy, the natural impulse is to spend it as quickly as possible to get rid of it.

THE OLD AND THE NEW

We want to welcome those returning to this their Alma Mater for Homecoming Week-end. We feel that those returning will find a mingling of the old with the new. Still to be seen is the faithful Founders, but now neighbors with the new and stately Millsaps-Wilson Library. Still beside the same well-worn walks are the Major's Tomb, the M Bench, the Millsaps Bell, but walking up and down these paths are new faces with new smiles. Yet each and every smile offers a special welcome to those alumni returning to their college — Millsaps.

Flying High

In more ways than one the Majors have been "flying high" these days. By way of air they traveled to Birmingham, Saturday. After landing on solid ground they flew to a 33-6 victory over the Howard Bulldogs.

Winter In Autumn

The fall season has been ushered in by a hint of biting cold. Yes, as sharp gusts of wind whip around the corners of buildings, we button our heavy coats and ask ourselves, "If autumn is such as this, can winter be far behind?"

None

No Millsaps ringings, pinnings, engagements, marriages — none seem to be demanding cupid's time and so, no 'nouncements for this week, but who knows what next week will bring?

Chi O's Entertain The Kappa Sigmas

Last Thursday night the Chi O's entertained the Kappa Sigmas with a buffet supper at the Kappa Sig house.

Following a supper of baked ham, potato salad, french bread, cokes and cookies, the Chi O's presented a talent show. Ann Foster, soprano; Sallie Ann Dement, soprano, and "The Filthy Four", a quartet consisting of Karen Gilfoyle, Blythe Jeffery, Claire King, and Ann Anderson, performed.

Pledge trainers Newt Harrison and Shirley Stanton introduced the groups. Chaperones were Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Wroten, Jr.

Phi Mu's Hostesses To Lambda Chi's

The Phi Mu's were hostesses to the Lambda Chi Alpha's at an informal party last Thursday.

After a buffet supper of turkey and dressing, cranberry sauce, cokes, and fudge squares, pledge trainers Bobby Tullos and Shirley Brown introduced their respective pupils.

Entertainment was supplied by the Lambda Chi Combo and a song period.

The Chaperones were Professor Hardin and Dr. and Mrs. Ferguson.

Two Initiated By Phi Mu's

Tuesday, October 11, 1955, Epsilon Chapter of Phi Mu Sorority, Millsaps, initiated two new members. They were Miss Beth Busby of Atlanta, Georgia, and Miss Annice Loflin of Star, Mississippi.

McDaniels Elected KA Pledge Prexy

Pledge officers of the Kappa Alpha Order have been elected. Max McDaniels, a junior from Jackson, will serve as president.

Other officers elected were Vice-President, Tom McNair, a junior from Jackson; and Secretary-Treasurer, Louis Lord, a freshman from Natchez.

Pikes Have Date Night

The first of a series of date nights was held by Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity for members and their dates on Friday, Oct. 14. Tables were set at the Fraternity house and a variety of games and refreshments were provided throughout the evening. A date night is being planned each month.

Grandma was giving the recent bride a heart-to-heart talk.

"Child, I hope your lot's going to be easier than mine," she said. "All my wedded days I've been carrying two burdens—Pa and the fire. Every time I've turned to look at one, the other has gone out."

EDITORIAL:

Thoughts On NAACP . . .

If you wanted to find out what the NAACP was, you would have a difficult time doing so. Opinions are varied, and the facts are hard to find on the subject. Several magazine articles have dealt with the personalities in the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. A book in the Millsaps library lists more . . .

than a dozen organizations with purposes similar to those of the NAACP. An occasional magazine article may be found dealing with a specific phase of the NAACP's work.

In the eyes of many southerners, the NAACP is a radical organization trying to stir up race hatred where it doesn't exist. Some people have wondered how the NAACP obtained the power it wields. Some people consider the Association to be Communist-inspired. Still others wonder why the NAACP stands head and shoulders above similar organizations.

Answers to these and other questions are not readily available.

One springboard remains—The NAACP is a powerful force in the United States today. The leaders of the organization are effective politicians with expert legal training.

The fact of good leadership alone could not produce the force of the NAACP. One possible explanation of this organization's power is that the Negro holds a balance of power between the Republicans and the Democrats in such areas as New York City and Chicago. Figures probably could not be produced to substantiate this hypothesis, but a review of the electoral college gives evidence in support of the hypothesis. The Negro population of New York City and Chicago, voting as a bloc, could determine the outcome of an election in New York and Illinois, and in turn the vote of these two key states could determine the outcome of a national election. If this is the case, the NAACP, as the chief spokesman for this minority group, could write their own check for participation in many political contests.

Another point that seems to indicate that the NAACP is more a political group than a humanitarian group, seeking civil liberties for the Negro, is the proposed boycott on goods produced in Mississippi. The democratic representative from New York who proposed such a measure should realize that the Negro employees would be the first to suffer if such a practice were put into effect. The representative was not speaking as a member of the NAACP when he made the boycott proposal, but such a move leaves a definite question in the mind of southerners: Is agitation for civil liberties the issue, or is the scheme one of getting votes for a national political party.

The NAACP claims that the south is playing into the hands of Communist propagandists by refusing to integrate. By its own actions, the NAACP is guilty of its own accusations. Why has the NAACP ignored discrimination against minority groups in other selections if its interests are in civil liberties?

A few years ago, one author predicted that the majority of Negroes would be located north of the Mason-Dixon line by 1956. If that will be the case next year, the NAACP could well take action to disperse the inhabitants of the Negro districts in large northern cities into the districts where few Negroes live.

The NAACP has mis-read southern thought. That organization is doing its best to coerce a majority group.

The NAACP has gone back to the reconstruction period to resurrect a southern "wave of terror" to strike fear into their political footballs in the north.

The NAACP is a powerful group, capable of rabble-rousing, but it has been ineffective in getting popular support in the region it is trying to "liberate." It has been successful in its legal aims—to get a supreme court decision on integration. The NAACP now borders upon advocating the use of force to obtain their desires (or to strengthen their political hold on a powerful minority of voters). That organization will bear watching for further dangerous tendencies.

Student Opportunities

By Anne Coker

As a feature of Homecoming, the Forum room of the Millsaps-Wilson Library will be open on Saturday and Sunday, October 22-23, to display the Wolfe exhibition of oil paintings. Mr. Wolfe is a member of the Millsaps faculty and an artist of standing in the South.

Tickets will go on sale on Wednesday, October 19, at Brown Music Store for the opera "Così Fan Tutte" ("Women Are Like That"), by Mozart, to be presented by the Jackson Opera Association on October 31-November 1, at Bailey Auditorium. Student tickets cost $1.00; reserve seat tickets sell for $2.50. Tickets may also be obtained by writing or calling either Mrs. Arnold Hederman at 1700 St. Ann St. or Mrs. James Wirtz at 1710 Lyncrest Ave.

Memberships are now available for the plays to be presented by the Jackson Little Theatre this year. Tickets cost $6.00 for the season. See Dr. Wallace or Dr. Moore for application blanks. The plays to be presented include "My Three Angels", with Dr. Fleming in the title role; "Rebecca", directed by Lance Goss; "The Remarkable Mr. Pennypacker" and "Solid Gold Cadillac". Students are welcome for backstage work on Tuesday and Thursday nights at the playhouse.

Twenty per cent commissions on everything they sell are available for the boy and girl interested in selling flowers at Millsaps for Penick Florists. Anyone interested may call 3-2882 for further information.

Caraway Outstanding Alumnus

Mr. W. J. Caraway, second from right, was named Alumnus of the Year and was honored in ceremonies held as a part of the Homecoming activities. Seen left to right are Dean Ferguson, Mrs. Caraway, Mayor Caraway, and President Finger.

W. J. Caraway Alumnus-of-Year

Mr. W. J. Caraway, mayor of the city of Leland and president of the Mississippi Municipal Officers Association, has been named the outstanding alumnus of 1955 by Millsaps College. Caraway, a 1935 graduate of Millsaps, was selected as the alumnus of the year by a committee composed of alumni, faculty members, and students. He was honored in ceremonies held Saturday afternoon as a part of the Millsaps Homecoming program. The Alumnus-of-the-Year Award, which is the highest honor given by Millsaps College exclusively to its alumni, is based on character, service to the church and community, and college. Mr. Caraway's selection from a large number of nominees came as result of his activity in civic and church affairs, his outstanding administration as mayor of Leland, and his interest in Millsaps College.

Following his graduation from Millsaps College and his study at the University of Tennessee, Mr. Caraway taught in Mississippi high schools and colleges for several years. He served in World War II as a pilot in the U. S. Air Force, entering as a private and holding the rank of major upon his discharge. In 1947 he was elected mayor of Leland and compiled an outstanding record of progressive leadership. He has long been a leader in the Methodist church. More recent contributions include leadership positions on the Board of Stewards, the Methodist Men's Club, the Church School, and the choir. He is a member of the Lions Club, the Rotary Club, the Civil Air Patrol, and a past commander of American Legion Post 66. Caraway is active in support of Millsaps College, serving as a member of the Board of Directors of the Alumni Association, a leader in the Million for Millsaps Campaign, and an organizer of alumni clubs.

Recipients of the Alumnus-of-the-Year Award in previous years include Gilbert F. Cook, Canton, 1954; E. A. Khayat, Moss Point, 1953; Dr. Charles L. Neill, Jackson, 1952; and James J. Livesay, Jackson, 1950.

Millsaps Parents Visit Campus

Millsaps' initial Parents' Day will be held Saturday, November 5.

At this time parents of Millsaps students are invited to be guests of the college for the day's activities.

A tentative schedule is: 10 to 11, inspection of the campus; 11:30 to 12:30, assembly in the Christian Center auditorium; 12:30 to 2:00, lunch in the college cafeteria; 2:00 to 4:30, football game—Millsaps vs. Ouachita.

This event is sponsored by the officers of the Millsaps College student body and the College Administration.

Fifteen Students Are In Who's Who

The following students have been named to Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges: Ann Louise Anderson, Elizabeth Ann Barfield, Clara Parks Booth, John Michael Awad, Charles Milton Deaton, Henry Burton Jackson, Jr., Barbara Mae Jones, Jack Milton Loflin, Hiram Carey Polk, Sara Jo Smith, William Frank Powell, James Lovick Wasson, Nathan Riley Walley, Claudette Westerfield, and Margaret Ann Whitfield.

RELIGIOUS VIEWS AND REVIEWS:

Will South Integrate Or Segregate?

By Brooks Hudson

In the newspapers, on the radio and television set, and in the eyes of the world there is no more important question today than "Will the South eventually segregate or integrate?" Probably at no other time has the nation faced such a crisis, even in the dark days of the Reconstruction period, when one section of a sovereign nation forcibly occupied the territory and controlled the affairs of another section of the same sovereign nation. This crisis has been intensified most recently by several things, namely the United States Supreme Court's ruling on the legality of Federally-aided segregated schools, the request by some Congressmen for non-segregated National Guard units, and most recently, the unfortunate death of Emmett Till.

Due to the interest aroused by the above events, the South has been placed in the path of much criticism. There are those who believe only force will "settle" the situation, others who see social action as the solution. Some of this criticism has been constructive, some unaiding and derogatory. The main portion of the latter has come from the pens of editors and from the mouths of pressure groups who, unfortunately for both parties, have not fully investigated the facts of the case. And it is apparent that empty words furnish no food for thought.

Segregation of something or other has been in existence since the beginning of time. In the root form of the word, the original meaning referred to a sheep who had strayed from the flock, hence, one who was separated from the majority. But, in a nation such as ours, founded on the principle of freedom of thought, worship, and pursuit of happiness, it seems that the word "segregation" has lost something of its meaning, for in our society each is dependent on the other for food, clothing, and defense from our common enemies.

It is necessary, then, that this topic be of prime concern to all of us, and that we be concerned enough to give it unbiased attention, for the segregation issue will be solved by compromise only, and not by efforts to "put the Negro in his place" or to make a martyr of him. Such a position may have been suited to the anti-Catholic, anti-Jewish, anti-Negro Ku Klux Klan, but what happens today will not only be of interest to the United States, but to the other nations of the free world who look to us as the symbol of freedom and justice as opposed to Communist slavery. In the next article in this series, we shall discuss a possible solution to the problem, and a course of action toward gaining a free world.

Majorette Club
Tapped Ten

The Majorette Club has tapped Mary Elizabeth Burton, Gail Moorhead, Jean Stellwagon, Valera Bailey, Dayne Miller, Ann Ragsland, Martha Ann Smith, Nancy Vines, Margaret Woods and Jeannette Wilkins.

Membership into the Majorette Club is extended to women students who show special skills and interest in the women's intramural program. A highlight of the school year is Stunt Night, which is sponsored by the Majorettes. Last year this organization purchased lights for the tennis courts. Under the sponsorship of Miss Sain, this organization has done much to stimulate an interest in women's intramurals.

Stylus Dedicated To Luke Wasson

"The first edition of Stylus will be dedicated to the memory of James Lovick (Luke) Wasson," stated editor Reynolds Cheney. The final article in Stylus will be the eulogy given by Dr. Bond Fleming at Luke Wasson's funeral.

The deadline for submitting material is November 11. All students are urged to submit any original article of literary stature and the stories and poems will be judged by the members of the English department. Faculty advisor of Stylus is Dr. M. C. White. Contribution of articles to Stylus is one of the pre-requisites for getting tapped into Kit Kat or Chi Delta, men and women's literary honoraries.

The budget has been submitted and Business Manager Hiriam Polk has made the necessary arrangements with S. E. B. Their approval is all that is necessary for production to start.

The proposed date of distribution will be the week before Christmas holidays.

'55 Bobashela
Arrived Last Week

Millsaps students anxiously stood in line last week to pick up the '55 Bobashela. Many were interested in seeing Millsaps as the camera saw it but many more were looking for pictures of themselves and their classmates. We all heard comments like "Gad, it doesn't do me justice. (or) It's really a flattering picture don't you think?"

The theme of the annual for the '54-'55 session was "The Picture of Millsaps." The Bobashela was printed by Myers and Company of Topeka, Kansas, by the offset method. A great deal of color was added by the use of greentone pictures which caught so successfully the beautiful scenes on the campus.

Walter Ely was the editor of the '55 Bobashela.

Notice

Dean J. E. McCracken requests that the following organizations turn in a list of their officers to the Office of Student Personnel as soon as possible: Alpha Epsilon Delta, Beethoven Club, Bobashela, Canterbury Club, Eta Sigma Phi, Inter-Fraternity Council, Kit Kat, "M" Club, Millsaps Singers, Omicron Delta Kappa, Pi Kappa Delta, Psychological Society, Stylus, Theta Nu Sigma, Wesley Fellowship, Woman's Council.

Homecoming Float
Prize Won By KA's

The Kappa Alpha Order won first prize in the Homecoming Parade Float Contest. The winning entry was a whale with the caption "Whale the Chocs." Second place went to Chi Omega with the theme "Get in the Swing." Their float depicted a garden scene with a girl swinging in a swing. Kappa Delta Sorority placed third with its float of an oyster with a girl inside surrounded by pearls. Their entry was titled "Priceless as Pearls." N. R. Walley, student body president, and Barry Stewart were in charge of the parade, which included units from 13 organizations.

The parade judges commented the floats showed much more work than usual.

Ratcliff Queen
Of Homecoming

Jeannette Ratcliff was crowned Homecoming Queen during the half time ceremonies at the Millsaps-Mississippi College football game Saturday night.

Queen Jeannette was escorted onto the field by student body president N. R. Walley and was crowned by President H. E. Fincher.

The queen was chosen by the student body from a group of five Homecoming maids nominated by the M. Club. They were Jeannette, Clara Parks Booth, Ann Dillard, Margaret Whitfield and Nancy Neyman.

Major Major:

Hiram Polk, President Of A.E.D., Is Honored This Week

This week we point with pride to Hiram Polk as Major Major.

Present

Hiram is now serving as president of A. E. D., national pre-med honorary, and reporter of Theta Nu Sigma, science honorary. He is business manager of Stylus, associate editor of the Bobashela, and is on the staff of the Purple and White. He is also vice president of Lambda Chi Alpha. Hiram's most recent honor is being tapped into O. D. K., men's honorary leadership fraternity.

Past

Our Major Major is past sports editor of the Bobashela and has served in the capacity of social chairman and rush chairman of Lambda Chi. His name has appeared on the Dean's List every semester and on the President's List four semesters.

HIRAM POLK

Future

Hiram's plans for future are to attend med school at Washington University in St. Louis, Missouri, where he holds a $2,000 scholarship.

When asked what he considered most important about his three years at Millsaps, Hiram said, "I think that the opportunities to learn to work with people by participating in extra curricular activities has certainly been most important to me."

The big game hunter was telling his wife all about his encounter with a tiger.

"Yes," he wound up, "it was a case of the tiger or me."

"I'm so glad it was the tiger, dear," she said. "Otherwise we wouldn't have this lovely rug."

Just Good Music

Millsaps Band Is Integral Part Of College Community

By Martina Riley

During the past two years, the Millsaps College Band, under the direction of Sam Jones, has become an integral part of the college community.

To be a member of this organization is to share in an experience different from most other band situations, for to be a Millsaps Band member is to understand the band's relation as a part to the whole of campus life.

At the first meeting of the band when Director Jones said, "Our goal is good music," he was expressing the feeling of every member. "Good music" is a term applied to those compositions which seek to raise the level of musical appreciation. Good music is well written and meaningful. Written with purpose and universality, good music is the kind that lives.

With such a goal in mind, the band seeks to lift higher the musical level of the campus, the city, and the state. For the first two months of school, the band serves in a public relations capacity, in service to the team and college at football games. The remainder of the school year is devoted to preparing for three concerts and special occasions. Just before the final concert in May, in an effort to perfect the selections for the program, the band sponsors a workshop weekend at a nearby camp. To extend its influence to the state even further than the concert area, the group engages in educational efforts such as band clinics. Thus, it is through the total working together throughout the year that the band matures musically.

To facilitate working together, the band has an executive committee composed of Larry Tines, business manager; Tex Sample, properties manager; Margaret Whitfield, librarian; R. W. McCarley, publicity; and Marvin Jeter, drum major. This committee works with the director, Sam Jones, and the faculty adviser, Dean McCracken.

And yet, reporting all of this is not enough to express the essence of the Millsaps Band. As one student phrased it, "It's got the spirit of a football team." According to Dr. McCracken, "That gang is knit so tight, you couldn't pull them apart for anything." Yes, there is a spirit that makes every member want to play better than his best.

To find the causes for such a spirit is not a difficult task. Perhaps the spirit exists because there is something of the making of a musician in each one who plays. Maybe that spirit has found its being because each member has realized the band's purpose in the campus community and his relation to it. And the spirit may have grown because the adult ad-

Student Opportunities

By Anne Coker

Various friends and alumni of Millsaps have established scholarship funds for the assistance of worthy students. Granted on the basis of financial need and former scholastic record (either high school or college), these funds may be obtained by application to the Awards Committee, which consists of Dr. F. M. Laney, chairman, Mrs. Marguarite Goodman, Dr. W. J. Brett, and Professor R. R. Haynes. Application blanks may be obtained from any member of this committee. Although applications are usually received in the spring and the awards made during the summer, a student finding himself in need of financial assistance may apply at any time.

Certain funds have been designated for students following a particular course (such as ministerial students or geology students). Although a student does not apply for any specific scholarship, he must qualify to receive funds from any of these special scholarships. The various available funds are listed in the catalog.

The Little Theater needs three boys to work part-time on backstage and construction work. No previous experience is necessary. Students would work from eight to ten hours a week, on Tuesday and Thursday nights and on Saturday. Pay is a dollar an hour; the job will last for the entire season. See Dean McCracken if interested.

The Continental Casualty Co. needs several part-time, door-to-door insurance salesmen. Anyone interested should call Mr. Austin Arnold in Clinton, Mississippi, at 82-2272.

Lambda Chi Wins National Trophy

The Millsaps chapter of Lambda Chi Alpha won the scholarship trophy given by Millsaps College to the fraternity having the highest scholarship average on the campus. The Lambda Chi chapter also received a trophy from their national headquarters for having the most improved scholarship average on the campus for the school year 1953-54.

The Lambda Chi chapter has won the campus scholarship trophy two successive times.

Millsaps Singers Elect Officers

The Millsaps Singers held their annual election of officers Monday night. The Singers returning from last year voted the following members into office: president, Johnny Awad; vice-president, Bobby Tullos; girls' secretary, Walter Jean Lamb; boys' secretary, Tom Hardee; reporter, Nancy Vines. Bobby Smith was appointed as business manager at the beginning of the school year.

A woman walked into a millinery shop and pointed to a hat in the window.

"That red one with the feathers and the berries," she said. "Would you take it out of the window for me?"

"Certainly, madam," the clerk replied, "we'd be glad to."

"Thank you, very much," said the woman moving toward the exit. "The horrible thing bothers me every time I pass."

"How close did it come to you?" asked the farmer, driving up to the tree where his hired man had taken shelter from an electrical storm.

"Well," stammered the hired man, still excited, "I don't know, but my pipe wasn't lit before."

Theta Nu Sigma Program Announced

Luke Wasson

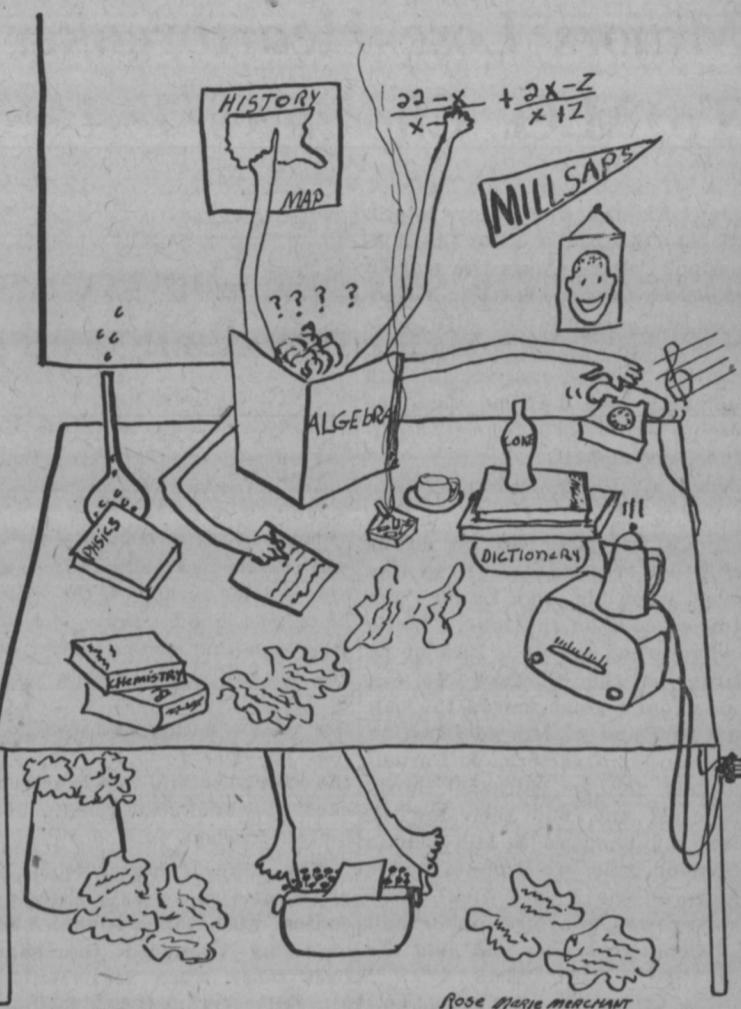

Memorial Begun

The October meeting of Theta Nu Sigma saw a number of changes take place in that organization. The colors were changed from gold to gold and black; a coat of arms designed by alumna member Ann Butler was adopted; and the new initiation ritual written by Mike Conner was accepted. The farthest step away from organization tradition was the decision of the fraternity to admit in the future, only natural science majors entering a field of commercial or educational science.

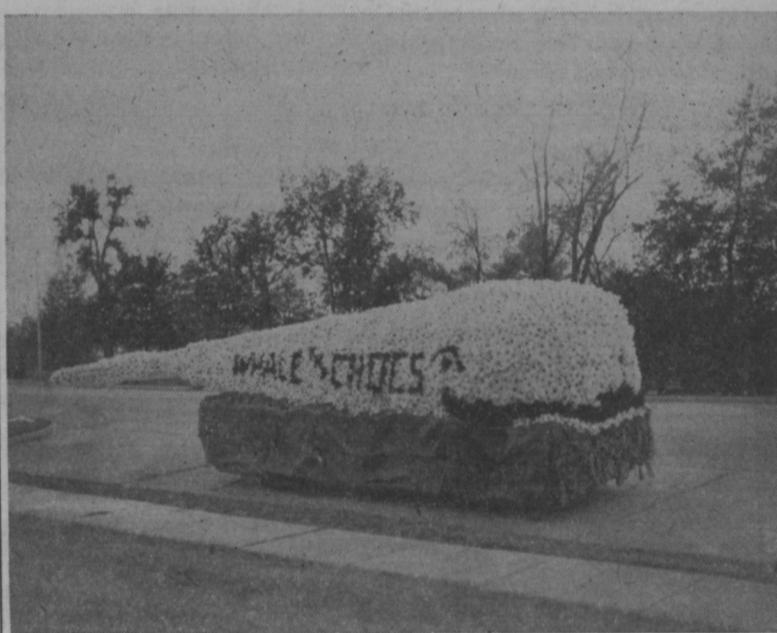

The fraternity voted to donate at least one book each semester to the new library. These books will be of a non-technical scientific nature and will be known as the Luke Wasson Memorial Collection. The first book is to be The World We Live In, published by Life magazine.

A trip through the Chemstrand Corporation plant at Pensacola, which will be sponsored by Theta Nu Sigma in the near future, was discussed.

On November 8, initiation and the biannual banquet in honor of the tappees will be held.

Majors Lose Heartbreaker To M.C. Choctaws 18-14

A 41 yard sprint by halfback Sonny Emerson for a score late in the fourth quarter gave the Mississippi College Choctaws the margin of victory over the battling Majors from Millsaps Saturday night by a 18-14 score. After leading from early in the second period, and holding a 14-6 halftime edge, the Majors succumbed to a two TD Choc second half.

The Majors fought back and drove to M.C.'s three yard line, only to lose the ball on downs with 50 seconds to go in the game, when big John Lowery was stopped cold on the four. Wolfe had returned the Choc kick of 26 yards to the Choctaw 46. A fine ground game moved the ball to a first and goal to go situation on the 9. Quarterback Parnell sneaked for 2; halfback Hardy Nall lost one, and then Parnell fired a jump pass to end Bennie Kirkland, who was dropped in his tracks on the 3 yard line. Then Lowery was swarmed under and the Choctaws took over and held the ball till the final whistle.

Parnell played an outstanding game despite a gash between the eyes he received on the first play of the game. Center James Hood, tackle Tom Prewitt, and guards John Awad and Tom Boone played outstanding defensive ball. John Lowery gained 69 yards in 15 plays.

Principal thorns in the Major's side were quarterback Ken Toler, end Charles Pryor and Emerson.

In the first quarter, the Injuns threatened, reaching the Millsaps 6, but tackle Tom Prewitt recovered a Ken Toler fumble on the 11. The Majors moved up field to the 37 where Lowery fumbled and the Choctaws rolled back down to the Millsaps 8, only to lose the ball on downs at the Major 26 when center James Hood and Prewitt downed quarterback Toler on an attempted pass play.

An intercepted pass by Toler on the Choc 44 ended a Millsaps drive, but four plays later Charlie Davis fumbled a pass from center and finally got away a 7 yard kick.

Lowery, Cliff Rushing, and Roy Wolfe got the ball to the 32, where Parnell passed to Kirkland for the first score of the game.

Lowery converted to put Millsaps ahead 7-0. A 26 yard pass following the kickoff was made complete on a pass-interference call against Terry Moore. Neither Moore nor the receiver were anywhere near the ball. The Choctaws moved to the 10, then lost 10 yards. On the next play Toler hit Bryan on the 10 and Bryan went over for the score. "Golden-toe" Gore failed to convert and Millsaps led 7-6.

Two plays after the ensuing kick-off, Parnell found halfback Hardy Nall wide open and passed to him for a score, the play covering 75 yards. Lowery again converted. The first half ended 14-6 in favor of Millsaps.

Another Millsaps drive was stymied as Toler again intercepted, this time on his own 17. A ground game and passes to Jack Bass and Jim Wilson took the ball to the Major 8, and Emerson went over right guard for the second Choc score. The "Golden Toe" again failed to convert and Millsaps led 14-12.

Lowery punted into the Choc end zone and Roy Wolfe intercepted a pass on the 46 six plays later. Millsaps moved to the M.C. 42, then a series of fumbles and penalties shoved them back to their own 26. Lowery punted to the Choc 47 and 4 plays later Emerson scored the winning TD.

SPEEDBALL:

Sigs Capture Speedball Lead

By Don Harder

By rolling up two impressive shutout victories, the Sigs moved into first place in the speedball standings as of last Friday. The unbeaten Sigs now have a 4-1 record (three wins and one tie), one-half game ahead of the second place Pike's 4-2 mark. The KA's added another tie to their record and are still close with a 4-3 record. The ministers split during the week's action and remain in sole possession of fourth; while the Lambda Chis and Norsemen, each of whom lost, remain deadlocked for last.

The Pikes removal from first place came as a result of their tie contest with Kappa Alpha. A long pass play produced the game's first score when Max McDaniel hit Billy Graham with a toss in the left flat and the latter made it 6-0 KA. The Pikes quickly struck back and Pete Bradfield capped the scoring drive with a two yard jaunt around left end. Again the pat try failed and the halftime score was 6-6. The teams battled scorelessly the rest of the contest.

The Sigs rolled by the Ministers on the throwing arm of Powers Moore, as Moore passes produced a single touchdown in each half. The first time Jack Taylor was on the receiving end and a flat pass to Steve Bumpas added the point. In the second half Charlie Purifoy snagged a long aerial and a spot pass to Newt Harrison tacked on the final extra point.

Moore passes again filled the air against the Norsemen when the Sigs compiled the largest margin of victory of the season thus far, 26-0. Two of the TD's came on pitches to halfback Bumpas, while others were to Bubba Mize and Purifoy. Two more touchdowns were called back as the high scoring Sigs warmed up their offense for their big game with the Pikes.

The Ministers showed a hard charging ground game, plus an occasional long pass to drop Lambda Chi 6-0. On three occasions the Preachers were within the Lambda Chi two yard line, but only once could they push it across, that time on a quarterback sneak. Intercepted passes gave the Lambda Chis several opportunities but their offense couldn't click.

Cheering The Majors

Millsaps cheerleaders are Betty Jane Cleveland, Ed Upton, Ann Dillard, Jack Loflin, Nancy Neyman, and Lea Heyman.

Millsaps Cheerleaders Are Six Busy, Jolly Folks

By Martina Riley

To interview the Millsaps cheerleaders is to catch six of the busiest, swingingest, jolliest folks on the campus somewhere between bites and meetings. And that is not an easy thing to do!

When asked why they liked leading cheers, they each agreed it was foremost to support the Majors. "Majors" seems to be a favorite word with each of them, especially Nancy Neyman, who "loves getting to know the team." Ed Upton likes to promote school spirit, and Jack Loflin "likes to make a lot of noise." According to Ann Dillard, she "loves to do the motions," or as Ed phrased it, "the little precision things."

This year the cheerleaders have attended all but the William Carey and the Howard College games with the Majors. With two games left this season, they are enthusiastically leading the student body to support the team. This season is witnessing an increase in school spirit at the games. And the cheerleaders and the team are no doubt thankful.

The six say they feel unified—like a team, more or less. With Ed as head cheerleader, somehow they manage to start on the same yell (after a brief debate on whether it is to be Betty Jane Cleveland's or Lea Hyman's favorite).

And speaking of favorites, "our six" have some vastly different ideas. Blue-eyed Dillard likes basketball, cooking, green, and dancing. Her ideal man is a 6 ft.—plus brown eyed blonde who likes music, coffee, and dancing, but "no alcohol or cigarettes." To be a second grade school teacher is her ambition.

Now Ed is quite different. He likes black and yellow, raw oysters, and steaks. He's not so definite about his ideal girl, but she must have personality. Says Ed, who plans to do youth work in a church, "I want to be married."

Observing vivacious Nancy, the reporter thought she had blue eyes, but she says they're "probably green." She loves yellow, people, and Millsaps—to death. Jack, a ministerial student, likes public speaking, people, and talking to girls. Betty Jane, a 5 ft. 2 in. blonde from Jackson, likes sports and sweet and understanding boys. Lea lists dancing and hunting girls as his favorites. (He must have meant hunting and girls).

Yes, our cheerleaders are quite a team. We thank them for spreading enthusiasm and helping us to give all we have toward supporting our favorite team.

Custer's Last Stand or Something!

By Hiram Polk

Shades of the pioneer days! All Mississippi is no longer to be considered civilized. Skulking thru the shadows and fog of the ending night, a number of primitive savages nightly visited the stronghold of the Millsaps Majors on Methodist Hill during the week preceding Homecoming and wreaked great damage in brave and glorious assault on the sleeping and unguarded campus.

The Choctaws, sneaking from their reservation rat-holes, proceeded to paint, wreck, and burn any part of the campus they could find not under guard.

Seriously, the actions of the Mississippi College students as tension heightened over the approaching football grudge-game possibly reached an all time low for any group of supposedly civilized adults. After the initial raid, the tables turned on the destructive invaders as Millsaps under-grads rose to the protection of the campus. Perhaps a tribute to their real success was that little damage was inflicted after the Choc's Pearl Harbor-like sneak attack on Tuesday night.

Ed's Excerpts

By Ed Upton

Some of the modern writers find their models in Donne, Tennyson, Poe, or what-have-you, but Upton prefers a more modern writer—Brown (Shirl, that is!). Few struggling young writers care to copy her for fear of becoming more struggling, but here goes with this one! Who cares? I don't intend to do this for a living anyway. (Don't say it! I know it's a good thing!)

You know—if you sit in the grill for a few minutes, you might well agree with Darwin that man has descended from an ape-like creature. In fact, you might think of numerous things from which man could have descended—some unmentionable. At any rate, let's "type" some of these illustrious characters.

See the girl in the far booth in the grille—the one who is wearing the sun glasses and has her hair kinda' wind-blown. Goodness knows that she should have been a celebrity! Rain, shine, indoors, outdoors, playing, studying (?), or sleeping she keeps those blinkers on. She wears those blooming things so that she won't be so conspicuous. SURPRISE!!!

Then there's that boy over by the juke box. Sure he should have been Arthur Murray or a Fred Astaire! Put on slow music, he sways slowly. Play fast music and he'll shake his shoulders, shuffle his feet, and snap his fingers for you! Entertainment while you dine.

If you were on the inside of the post office, you might feel like you were an animal in a zoo the way some people continually peer through the bars observing each move you make. Anybody got a sign "Please don't bother the animals"?

The boy by the door wearing the white tee shirt and the blue jeans and greeting each person who arrives is undoubtedly the campus athlete. But wait—has he got you fooled! Just because he's dressed as he is and has a big mouth means nothing. He does indulge in football, though—Foto-Electric Football.

The door opens, no one enters for a moment, then slowly the campus character slinks in (walking slowly, mind you!). A cheery hello for everyone and a hearty laugh for each sentence mumbled exhibits the girlie's personality (?). Is this a student or a member of a subversive organization?

Don't think that I've run out of "types"—only space. Keep your eyes turned in this direction, because other "types" will be good subject matter for a later date. Who knows? It could be YOU!

HOMECOMING

Floats bearing hit records, sail boats, priceless pearls, and victory swings lent their color and beauty to downtown Jackson Saturday afternoon when a spirited parade opened the festivities of Homecoming Week-end for Millsaps students. A huge flowered whale, spouting water and moseying down Capitol Street wagging its tail, brought home the float trophy for the Kappa Alphas who won first place with their theme, "Whale the Chocs." To these winners we offer hearty congratulations.

Walt Disney seemed to have spread his fairyland fantasy over our campus, for such friendly characters as Donald Duck, Bugs Bunny, Tweety Pie, and Sylvester the Cat were on hand to welcome our homecoming guests. The Vikings and the Norsemen rolled up their sleeves and with nail and hammer, paint and brush, went right to work dressing up our campus with this Disneyland Magic. We loudly applaud these groups as they take a well-deserved bow.

On the football field Saturday night the Majors fought a good hard fight and displayed excellent sportsmanship. Scoring two beautiful touchdowns, kicking the extra points, and working together in the line, the Majors chalked up 14 points. Though the Choctaws had a four point lead over us, we cheer the Majors for working together as a team and making us proud of them!

The band, presenting a half-time show which deserves a crown of its own, formed a jeweled tiara for the coronation of the 1955 Homecoming Queen, Jeanette Ratcliff, and her maids, Clara Parks Booth, Margaret Whitfield, Nancy Neyman, and Ann Dillard. A royal carpet of congratulations is rolled out for Queen Jeanette and her court.

And now for the 'nouncements.

Waiter (ignoring very rare steak): "Yes, sir, thank you very much, sir. It's seldom we get any thanks."

BSO's Entertain Pi Kappa Alpha

Alpha Zeta Chapter of Beta Sigma Omicron Sorority entertained the Millsaps chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity Friday night, October 20.

After a buffet supper of ham, potato salad, French bread, tea, and brownies had been served, the pledges of both groups were introduced.

The Beta Sigs presented a skit based upon the participation of the Pikes in campus activities. The Pike pledge quartet and other performers entertained the group, after which there was an informal period of games and group singing.

Chaperones for the evening were Dean and Mrs. J. S. Ferguson and Mr. Paul Hardin.

Mrs. Massey Given Birthday Party

By Ann Coker

"Hurry, Mrs. Massey! Something terrible has happened!" As excited girls burst into her room, a startled Mrs. Massey sat up in her bed.

"What is it? Have the Choctaws invaded again? Is somebody sick?" she asked, suddenly wide-awake, as she struggled into a housecoat and slippers. Following the girls, she raced down Founder's hall into the living room.

"Oh, My goodness! I thought I'd kept it a secret!" she gasped as ninety-six girls sang "Happy Birthday" to their favorite house mother. Carolyn Allen presented her present; then Mrs. Massey received huge hugs from each and every girl in the dormitory.

Seeing ourselves as others see us wouldn't do us much good—we wouldn't believe it anyway!

Characteristics of Majors . . .

The material of which the Millsaps Majors are made was tested during the hectic week before the game with Mississippi College.

The Millsaps campus was attacked and the scars are still visible. Mississippi College's campus was not attacked. On the administrative level of Mississippi College, there were regrets expressed for the unfortunate incidents, but on the student level, the conduct of affairs was not of the same calibre.

Mississippi College students were not satisfied with friendly rivalry, but resorted to property destruction.

Millsaps students got a measure of revenge in a good-natured way when they seized the tom-tom at noon last Friday in Clinton. Perhaps it would have been more fun to have outwitted some Choctaw boys, but the Choctaw girls gladly gave up the tom-tom. If there is any truth in rumors that Mississippi College girls have seized Millsaps freshman caps, the Chocs should not get too upset about last Friday's incident.

Mississippi College students used a rather unfamiliar rule as an argument to get their tom-tom back. They claimed that an agreement existed that there should be no visits to the campuses of either college by students from the other college on the day before the football game. When this agreement was cited, Millsaps College students turned over the tom-tom to the Choctaws. Friday night, the Choctaws took the Majors' dummy. We can only wonder at the character of an institution that uses a rule only when it works in their favor.

Perhaps we should not point to happenings on the football field, but the majority of 15 yard penalties went to the Choctaws last Saturday night.

The Jackson chief of police remarked in connection with the primitive horseplay that "This type of stuff happens every year." It should make Mississippi College students ashamed that this "happens every year." They could at least get a little variety into their pattern of operation.

Millsaps students are simply not interested in primitive practices such as the ones that were seen last week. Millsaps students are at college to obtain the basis for an educational process that will continue throughout their lives. Millsaps College's program is geared to teach people how to think; not what to think. Millsaps officials keep a close watch in order that enrollment does not outstrip faculty requirements and facilities. Millsaps recognizes that sports are part of a well-rounded education, but that sports can be over emphasized. Perhaps these are some reasons that Millsaps students conducted themselves as they did last week.

Millsaps students showed outstanding interest in homecoming activities and the football game. Millsaps students bore the defeat on the football field with dignity and pride in the things for which this college stands. Millsaps students passed a test of their character.

Letter To Millsaps Students

October 25, 1955

Mr. N. R. Walley, President
Student Body
Millsaps College
Jackson, Mississippi

Dear Mr. Walley:

Will you please convey to the student body through the columns of the Purple and White the sincere appreciation of the alumni for the wonderful welcome extended us Saturday and for the many ways in which the students contributed to the entire day.

The spirit and enthusiasm of the student body has never been better. Graduates and former students who came back for the day were greatly impressed.

Specifically, our heartfelt congratulations for a job well done are extended to you and your Homecoming Committee; to the organizations responsible for the campus decorations and the floats and other features in the parade; to the band and cheerleaders for a great performance; to the students who greeted us and served as guides during the day; to the cheering section Saturday noon and Saturday night for its marvelous spirit; to the Purple and White staff for publicizing the day; to the Millsaps Singers and Ann Foster for some beautiful songs; and to the entire student body for their conduct during the week and at the game.

We salute especially the men who played such a great game Saturday night. The alumni are proud of the Majors—of their spirit, their determination, their sportsmanship. To every man on the squad we say congratulations; to those who saw service in the game we say well done. The game you played paves the way for next year—and a victory over Mississippi College.

Again our sincere thanks to the student body for helping to provide us with an unforgettable weekend. We look forward to the day when you join us as loyal alumni of Millsaps College.

Cordially yours,
Thomas G. Ross, President
Millsaps College Alumni Assn.

Parade, Speeches, Game Highlighted Homecoming

The Millsaps campus came alive with the activities of the annual Millsaps College Homecoming Saturday. The program began with registration at 10:00 a. m., a student-alumni rally at 11:00 a. m., lunch with the students in the cafeteria at 12:00, and an Alumni class "get together" at 12:45.

At 1:30 p. m. the parade of colorful floats representing the sororities, fraternities, independent organizations, honoraries, and the Christian Council began. Prizes for outstanding floats went to the Kappa Alpha Order, first place, for their "whale" with the theme "Whale the Chocs"; to Chi Omega sorority, second place, for their lovely garden-swing float with the theme "Get in the Swing"; and third place to Kappa Delta sorority for their pink, pearl-studded shell, which had as its theme "Priceless as Pearls."

The presentation of the Alumnus-of-the-Year Award to Mayor Caraway of Leland highlighted the variety program at 2:30 p. m. in the Christian Center Auditorium. Dr. James S. Ferguson, Dean of Students, presented his address entitled "Education for What." The Millsaps Singers, under the able direction of Mr. Alvin Jon "Pop" King, gave their usual excellent performance in rendering "Salvation is Created" and "Carol of the Drums."

Following the inspection of the new library and a tour of the campus was the Homecoming Banquet in the cafeteria honoring classes of '54, '53, '52, '51, '35, '34, '33, '32, '16, '15, '14, '13, '06 and before.

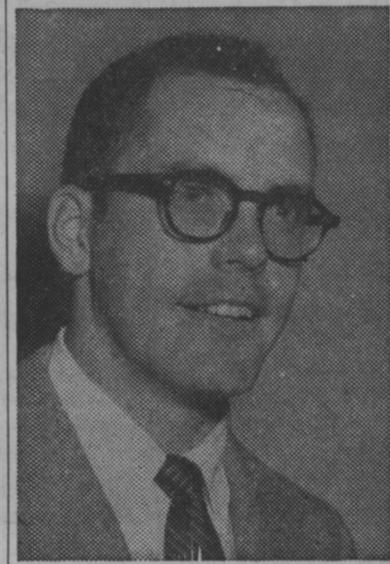

The highlight of the homecoming festivities was the hard fought football game at Hinds Memorial Stadium between arch rivals, the Millsaps Majors and the Mississippi College Choctaws. Regardless of the final score, the game was one of the most thrilling possible. Queen Jeanette Ratcliff and her maids, Nancy Neyman, Ann Dillard, Clara Parks Booth, and Margaret Whitfield, made up the homecoming court.

After such exciting events as the "coup de tom-tom" performed by a group of daring Major fans and the recapture of the "dummy," among other things, the homecoming festivities came to an end with a dance in the YMCA gym.

Cooper Speaks In Chapel November 3

Lee Cooper, field secretary for the Board of Missions of the Methodist church, will speak in chapel on November third. He has just returned from Asia and the Middle-East, and his subject will be the recent "revolution" there.

Mr. Cooper is eager to contact students who are interested in missionary service at home or overseas. Make arrangements for an interview with him through Dr. Bond Fleming.

LEE COOPER

U.S. Civil Service Representative Here

"Career Opportunities in the Federal Civil Service" will be the subject of a talk by Charles F. Montgomery, U. S. Civil Service Commission representative to Millsaps seniors after chapel on November 3. Mr. Montgomery will briefly discuss this subject and will be on the campus throughout the day to discuss civil service work with individuals.

The Civil Service Commission will hire about 7,000 college graduates for trainee-type positions all over the United States. Beginning salary is usually $306 per month.

Doctor (to patient who has just returned from track meet with a handful of medals): "You're running a temperature of 103."

Athlete (suddenly becoming interested): "Yea? And what's the record, Doc?"

in the composition are important, but correct sentence structure is the most emphasized element. (Watch those comma splices, people).

All junior and seniors who did not pass their tests last year are required to take the test at the time specified. Make up tests will be given only upon petition presenting satisfactory reasons for not being present at the first test.

Dr. M. C. White says that there is no way to prepare for the test, but that it is not difficult. All that can be done is to write carefully so—write carefully, juniors!

Intercollegiate Forensic Conference Met At L.S.U.

Students Discuss Annual Wage

Twelve colleges and universities were represented at the Intercollegiate Forensic Conference Friday and Saturday at L. S. U.

Over 100 students participated in the discussion-progression conference which was under the direction of Dr. Waldo Braden and Dr. Owen Peterson of the Speech Department.

Inaugurated this year, the conference included three hours of discussion, in which participants defined and analyzed problems dealing with the solution of unemployment compensation "in the best interests of the American people. Participants were also required to present two speeches of advocacy in which they set forth and defended their own solutions to the problem.

Saturday morning a legislative assembly was held under the chairmanship of Dr. Giles Wilker-son Gray of the L. S. U. Speech Department. Four bills concerning solution to unemployment compensation problems were presented. Only one, authored by Alfred Statham of Millsaps, was successfully defended and passed by the assembly. Opposition by a bloc of students favoring a guaranteed annual wage over Statham's bill (which advanced the merits of the "status quo" with a 1% increase in employer payroll taxes) provided a heated debate for the full length of time allocated to discussion of the bill.

Each event was judged by faculty critics and outstanding participants of the conference were cited at the end of the legislative session. No school or group "won" the conference, but awards of superior went to Millsaps students Alfred Statham, Alton Boyd, Susie Lipsey; Jerry Trigg and Jim Waits received a rating of excellent.

Production Of Cyrano Directed By Experts

By Hazel Truluck

As I was charging through the Christian Center Wednesday on my daily trek from dinner to the Grill, I realized that slightly unusual noises were penetrating the usual afternoon silence of C. C. Curiosity (which killed the cat, I am told) led me to search for the origin of these sounds. I opened the door to the auditorium and found myself in a completely different world. What on earth was going on?

I hesitantly advanced toward the stage which seemed to be the center of all the activity. Before I arrived at the stage, however, I saw a group of industrious-looking people sitting at a table writing feverishly. I went closer in order to get a better look with my myopic vision, and when I was standing about six feet away, I realized that I knew these people. Was that Bill Lampton? I went closer. It was Bill Lampton. "What are you doing, Bill?" I asked. This was an ignorant question because obviously he was addressing envelopes. He was kind enough to refrain from making a sarcastic remark, though, and he explained that this was the Publicity Committee for the Millsaps Players' production of Cyrano de Bergerac. They were sending bulletins about the play to the Hinds County alumni of Millsaps, to various state high schools, and to a number of people interested in the Jackson Little Theater. Bill even let me look at one of these bulletins. I read thereon that Cyrano was to be the most spectacular production the Players had ever presented. It would have costumes by Eaves of New York and even wigs by Bernstein and Migliore. I also read that it would be given on November 9, 10, 11, and 12 at 8:15. I wondered if I'd have time to go. It sounded pretty good. I also wondered if I could afford to go. I asked how much tickets would cost and Bill said $.60. "Not bad," I thought. I headed for the stage leaving Bill and his committee to their work.

Once on stage I looked around trying to figure out which direction I should go. I decided to put on my glasses. Why, heavens, that was David Franks over there! I walked, cautiously to keep from tripping over the boards, cans of paint, and dishes laying all around, to where Dave was. He was standing amidst pieces of colored plastic, balsa wood, and papers reading a book and muttering. I sort of coughed. Nothing happened. I coughed several more times and finally he looked up. "What are you reading?" I inquired. "A book on stained glass windows," he answered. "Great," I said, "but, although it's none of my business, why?" He pointed to a wooden frame laying on the floor and told me that he was making the window for the convent scene of the play. Then he showed me the part he had finished. It was an intricate and beautiful piece of work. I knew that I would have to see this when it was completed. I couldn't get over the fact that Dave could do something this beautiful. He began the tedious work of fitting the little pieces of balsa and colored plastic together. My nerves couldn't stand the strain, so I left.

I saw Director Lance Goss sitting in a rocking chair surrounded by Shirley Brown, Claudette Hall, and Burton Jackson. I decided to eavesdrop a little. They were involved in a discussion on how to build a balcony for Act 3. "They'll never be able to do it," I said to myself; however they must have figured out some solution because, as I walked away, the conference disbursed, and Shirl, Claudy, and Burt started sawing, hammering and making an awful lot of noise.

What was that other noise? I turned to see, and "what to my wondering eye should appear" but a sword fight! I didn't want to get too close, but my curiosity got the best of me again. The participants were Walter Ely and John Potter with Professor Miller Williams supervising, but what was the purpose? When they stopped for a rest, I approached Walter. They were practicing the swordfight between Cyrano (Walter) and Valvert (John) which takes place in the first act. Professor Williams was giving them instructions on the art. "Golly, a sword fight, too," ran through my mind, and I knew that I had to see this play.

Director Goss was still sitting in his rocking chair so I went over to talk to him. "This is going to be a fabulous play," I remarked, rather timidly as he seemed to be in deep thought. He said, "Thank you, we hope so." Then Karen Gilfoyle came up to talk to him about the nun's choir of 18 that she is conducting for the play. When she left, I said something about not knowing there would be music. Mr. Goss informed me that not only was there the choir conducted by Karen, but that Professor Holmes Ambrose had composed the theme song of the Gascon Cadets especially for this production; and that there would be a flute solo by Martina Riley, and a solo by Bobby Smith. I can hardly wait to see this play was my opinion.

I started out but as I reached the door, somebody grabbed me by the shoulder, put a paint brush in my hand and said, "Here, go paint."—Curiosity killed the cat.

Upton Heads Jackson MSM

Ed Upton is the newly elected president of the Jackson District Methodist Student Movement.

Included in the Jackson District, which held its first meeting at Hinds Junior College last Sunday, are the MSM's of Belhaven, Millsaps, Mississippi College, Holmes Junior College, Hinds Junior College, and Copiah-Lincoln Junior College. Its purpose is to provide opportunity for sharing ideas and knowing students from other schools.

Millsaps Students Spoke To Jaycees

Three Millsaps students spoke to Jackson Jaycees Thursday night.

Young Chull Lee, Pyong Yang, Korea; Jose Espana, Santa Ana, El Salvador; and George Thomas Charuhas, Sparta, Greece, introduced by Jim Livesay, Millsaps public relations director, spoke briefly to the Jackson Junior Chamber of Commerce at the group's regular meeting.

Study Skills Class Begins

A study skills class will be conducted this afternoon for veterans and married students in Murrah Hall, room 27.

This will be the first of six to eight meetings of the class Dean J. E. McCracken stated.

Meeting New Professor...

Political Science Professor Has Held Various Jobs

By Betty Miller

Milkman, bill collector, clothing salesman, ship yard worker and steel mill employee number among the varied jobs Dr. H. S. Manley, professor and chairman of the political science department, has held.

A native of northwestern Pennsylvania, Dr. Manley received his A.B. in economics from Westminster College in Pennsylvania, his L.L.B. from the University of Pittsburgh school of law, and his Ph.D. in political science from Duke University. He also did graduate work in political science at the University of Wisconsin.

Prior to becoming a member of the Millsaps faculty, Dr. Manley taught at Westminster, Duke, and the American Institute of Banking.

He cites as one of the most interesting phases of his career the two summers he conducted an orientation course for a foreign student exchange program.

Under the Fulbright program, students from such countries as Japan, Italy, Iraq, Iran, and India came to the U. S. for graduate study. Before these students came to the 12 institutions participating in the program, they met at Duke for orientation. Dr. Manley taught them the rudiments of American government.

Professor Manley finds the South as hospitable as tradition would have it. His wife, Lindy Hamilton Manley, and his six year old daughter, Melinda, like it "fine." Baby Martha, 21 months, hasn't expressed an opinion as of yet.

While a Westminster undergraduate, Dr. Manley was business manager of the college annual

Millsaps Parents Visit College Tomorrow

By Martina Riley

The students, administration and faculty of Millsaps College cordially welcome the five or six hundred parents expected to be on campus tomorrow for Millsaps' initial Parents' Day.

According to President H. E. Finger, two parents out of every three invited are expected to attend the event. Indeed, Millsaps is pleased with such a response from the parents of her students. This interest is good for the welfare of her community.

Beginning at 10:00 Saturday morning, the visitors will have opportunity to inspect the campus. Dormitories and fraternity and sorority houses will be open. At the 11:30 assembly in the Christian Center auditorium, the parents will become acquainted with the over-all program of college life and will be shown how the college endeavors to assist them in the education of their sons and daughters.

Boyles, a 1949 graduate of Jackson Central High, is a past president of the Mississippi Conference of the Methodist Youth Fellowship.

From 12:30 to 2:00 parents will have lunch with the students in the college cafeteria. From 2:00 to 4:30 is the Millsaps-Ouachita football game in the Hinds County Memorial Stadium. The half-time activities will be directed especially toward the parents' enjoyment.

Sponsored by the officers of the student body and the college administration, this initial Parents' Day will lead, it is hoped, to its establishment as an annual affair.

It is with eager anticipation that President Finger and many others await the arrival of Millsaps' visitors for Parents' Day. Indeed, the whole campus joins in welcoming these very special guests.

Donahoe Is R.E.W. Speaker

Reverend John Donahoe will be the Religious Emphasis Week speaker this year.

Reverend Donahoe, pastor of the First Methodist Church, Corpus Christi, Texas, will speak February 20-22 under the auspices of the J. Lloyd Decell Foundation at Millsaps' sixth annual Religious Emphasis Week.

Dr. J. W. Wroten and the Christian Council request that students suggest topics they would like to hear discussed during R. E. W.

DR. MANLEY

and paper, president of Alpha Sigma Phi, social fraternity, a member of the senior men's honorary (comparable to O.D.K.), a member of the tennis team, listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, and a member of Pi Delta Epsilon, national journalism honorary.

He is also a member of the American Political Science Association and the Masons.

Golf, photography, swimming and family activities number among the Professor's special interests.

When asked what advice he would give concerning the choice of a career, Dr. Manley replied, "Pick something you like to do and are happy in. After all, you will spend eight hours a day the rest of your life at this job, and if you dislike it, your attitude toward everything may be warped."

I.R.C. Initiates; Plans For Year

The International Relations Club initiated Jim Witten, Gail Fielder, Tom Prewitt, Jerry Trigg, Jack Loflin, Betty E. Barfield, Ann Myers, and Jerry Hilton.

At the meeting held at the Beta Sigma Omicron house, the members discussed plans for the year and had their picture made for the Bobashela.

IRC plans to secure several outstanding speakers during the year and to invite the entire campus to hear them.

RELIGIOUS VIEWS AND REVIEWS:

Will South Integrate Or Segregate?

By Brooks Hudson

Last week we discussed the segregation issue and this week we shall attempt to form some solution for the problem. Any solution for the segregation issue is made doubly difficult, for not only is there a difference of race involved, but there are also social, economic, religious and technical aspects barring the way to an easy solution.

Let's Face the Facts

Any solution involves compromise, not radical, didactic attitudes by the parties involved. In the light of this, let's face the facts.

First, no amount of political, economic, or social pressure upon the Negro will solve the problem. Nor can he be pacified with a condescending attitude by the white man. In grandfather's time, the "darky" assumed it was natural for him to shuffle along the street and say "yassuh" to each little witticism of a white man. This was the mode of behavior of Negroes toward whites.

But now, with the introduction of inexpensive radio sets, newspapers, higher salaries, and increased educational facilities, there has arisen in this section a New South in which the former middle class holds equal social status with the planter. The Negro in the New South has changed, too, and he now wants new cars, better homes, and most of all, political equality, a rather nebulous substance that is unfortunately lacking in most areas of our nation. He wants a voice in his affairs, a notion echoed by our fathers when they protested against George III's "taxation without representation." He wants better jobs, and an equal pay scale.

Second, integration will not be effected by radical groups in the other direction (such as the NAACP and other "Northern" radicals, to use the conventional term) who drag poor Mamie Bradley all over Chicago exhibiting her as the mother of a "genuine" Southern lynch victim. The more thinking people of the nation have already expressed genuine, sincere concern for the unfortunate death of Emmitt Till and resent the use of a mother's grief for purpose of cheap showmanship, no matter for which cause.

Certainly persons interested in the Till case have a right to be concerned that justice is done, that the guilty party is punished, but those persons use the wrong approach. Mississippi is not degenerating into a race of Neanderthal men, nor does a Negro hang on every REA pole, nor is the Third Army likely to occupy Jackson in the near future. It just isn't in the nature of Americans to harken to such ravings as pleas for social justice.

What, then, should we turn our ears unto: continued segregation or integration? Which is "right"?

After giving the matter full consideration, we have come to one conclusion: segregation, as it now stands, is unChristian, undemocratic, and unethical. It is unChristian to deny any person his God-given right of political equality. In our state a Negro theoretically has equal rights before the courts with the white man, but this is seldom observed. He has no power to elect his favorite political leaders, as our one-party system forbids recognition of a non-party vote and local elections seldom show a Negro vote.

A local newspaper columnist recently pointed out that segregation is not unChristian, quoting from Bishop Charles B. Galloway, under whose bishopric Millsaps College was established. The bishop's view was correct. Due to three centuries of living in a separate sub-society from the white man in this country, the Negro, with his traditions, customs, and religious views cannot suddenly and completely become a social equal with the white man as a race any more than the white man could suddenly and completely adopt the behavior patterns of the Negro. But we aren't rebelling against social separation; we are objecting to the discriminatory practices used against other citizens of the United States.

We firmly believe that integration is inevitable: maybe not in our time, maybe not for a century, but with continued integration in the armed forces, churches, schools, and industry, we see eventual social integration. If we are so inclined to forestall this, we must relax our hold on the Negro, he must be allowed to vote, freely; to serve on juries where matters of his interest are concerned; and be given decent schools and colleges with well-trained instructors. He must be given the chance to have decent jobs.

Yes, there are many who say the Negro already has decent jobs, good schools, the right to vote and so what is the fuss about? To this we reply, look again. Balance what has been done with what needs to be done and the progress being made. Is it fast enough?

In conclusion, may we summarize our views on the segregation question. First, social segregation is a sociological precept. It is a natural thing. Second, the discriminatory practices connected with our system of segregation are unfair and unChristian. Third, we should not consider it as our Providence-given duty to lift the status of the Negro, but we should, as the group in control of government, see that he receives his rights as guaranteed by our national Constitution. Fourth, and last, a change of attitude will not be effected by legislative action, but by the man on the street, and it is the duty of the church to instill in its members the principles of tolerance that Christ taught in Galilee so many years ago.

Sigs Won Speedball

LXA's And KA's Get First Wins

Kappa Sigma won the first half of the speedball season in rather lack luster fashion by battling to a scoreless tie with the Pikes in their final game. The contests seemed to be the fashion all during the first half, the large number of deadlocks making it possible for three teams to remain undefeated. The Sigs simply won more games and tied less, registering three wins, while the Pikes won two and the KA's one (they tied four).

The Ministers finished at the top of the second division with an even .500 mark closely followed by the Lambda Chi's and the Norsemen in that order.

The only win of the final week of the season was registered by Lambda Chi, their first of the year, while both other games were ties. Lambda Chi pulled out of a last place tie by whipping the Norsemen 7-0.

Howard Jones tossed a 10 yard aerial to Wingback John Baxter for the game's only TD. Baxter then romped through a hole in the middle of the line for the point after.

In the Pike-Sig contest, the 'big game' of the first half, neither side could manufacture a point, although each team narrowly missed being caught behind their own goal.

The Sigs were deep in Pike territory all during the second half, while the only Pike threat came right after the opening kickoff.

The KA's managed another tie, this time with the Ministers by a 7-7 count. KA scored first with Max McDaniel carrying the pigskin across from four yards out. A McDaniel pass to Tom McNair produced the PAT.

After the Preachers scored, Leonard Jordan ran for the crucial extra point around left end.

The Norsemen won a protest but lost a game when the KA's dropped them in a replay of a previous game 6-2. Only the last half was played the second time and the score had been the same before anyway.

McDaniel waited until the game's final play to score when he hit Harry Mills with a pass from 25 yards out. It was the KA's first win.

Linx Defeat Low-Spirited Majors 33-7

The Millsaps Majors, their spirits at a low ebb after the close Choctaw game, were run over roughshod 33-7 by a pack of avenging Southwestern Lynx at Memphis last Saturday afternoon. Millsaps had, in years past, made a practice of spoiling Southwestern homecomings—in fact the Lynx hadn't won a game from 'Saps in many years, losing by scores such as 40-0 and 35-7.

But quarterback Bill Young gave the homecoming crowd something to cheer about as he ran for two TD's and passed for two more as the Lynx gave the Majors a good pasting.

Young received able support from a fleet crop of scatbacks who gave Millsaps heck all afternoon. One Millsaps player commented—"We chased 'em all over the field!"

Southwestern's initial TD came early in the first quarter after a Millsaps fumble with Young bucking over from the one yard line to score.

Before the smoke of the quarter had cleared, the Lynx had ripped off two more touchdowns, one on a 17 yard pass to George Gracey and the other on a 72 yard run with Kimmy Higgason lugging the ball.

Roy Wolfe managed to salvage some of Millsaps fast-fading prestige in the third quarter as he hauled in a Southwestern pass and romped for 72 yards and a score. Lowery converted and the score stood 20-7.

However, Young got a loose again and completed a 29 yard pass to John Martin for another score and then in the fourth quarter scored from 42 yards out on a option play. All the while the Southwestern rooters were in the throes of complete bliss.

Tomorrow afternoon at 2:00 p.m. Millsaps plays their last game of the season, meeting Ouachita in Memorial Stadium.

KA's Entertained By Kappa Deltas

The doors of the KD house were thrown open and the welcome mat was extended to the KA actives and pledges from 8-10 on October 27. The evening was spent in fellowship, singing, and drinking cokes. B. B. Montgomery and his guitar were the center of one group who sang loudly, if not well; then the KA quartet was in the spotlight as they offered renditions of "Wait Till the Sun Shines, Nellie", "Evaline", and other old favorites.

This is the first of four open houses which the KD's will give honoring the pledges and actives of each of the fraternities.

A woman in the United States sent a play pen to a friend of hers in Australia. The thank you note she got read as follows:

"Thank you ever so much for the pen—it's a perfect godsend. I sit in it every afternoon and read—and the children can't get near me."

Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge, for the seventh consecutive year, provides awards to individuals, organizations, and schools for their work in bringing about a better understanding of the American Way of Life. Every American is eligible to submit his own or any other person's or organization's or school's material based on the American Way of Life in this program, which will give over $10,000 in awards. Cash award categories include cartoons, community programs, editorials, essays, photographs with captions, public addresses, sermons, music, poems and songs. Nomination deadline is Veterans Day, November 11, 1955. All available material is on file in the Purple and White office for anyone who is interested.

Halloween Party Given For Children

Kappa Delta Sorority entertained the children at the Cerebral Palsy Home with a Halloween party, October 28.

The room was decorated in the traditional spirit of Halloween. Jack-o'-lanterns, black cats, and witches on brooms adorned the walls. Balloons and rattlers were given to the children. A program of songs and dances was then presented.

Welcome Parents . . .

Tomorrow is Parents' Day. The college administration has said that Parents' Day will be an annual event at Millsaps. This will be a good thing.

We welcome our parents to Millsaps and are glad they will have a chance to see where we study, to meet our instructors, and to see the campus facilities.

Even though the activities of Parents' Day are planned in order that parents will have a good time, they will ponder the things they observe for days to come.

Parents will be impressed by what they see and by what they don't see.

The Millsaps-Wilson library will attract their attention, and the different departments of the college will be of interest to them.

They will be impressed by the need for a student union building and particularly the new cafeteria it will house. They will be impressed by the crowded housing conditions.

They will gather something of an idea of what Millsaps College's future program will be in regard to such things as enlarged facilities and student body.

Millsaps' sports program will be analyzed in their minds.

The religious activities and facilities will interest many parents.

More parent interest in what goes on at Millsaps will benefit the college.

Parents should ask questions. Millsaps officials and faculty should discuss their plans with parents. By getting these two important factors—parents and college personnel—together, Millsaps will take another step forward.

Clayton: "How did he get up there?"

Jim: "He was being hanged."

Ed's Excerpts

By Ed Upton

Small, church-supported, liberal arts colleges can produce many advantages; and one of these is a healthy atmosphere for cats. Have you ever considered the many types of cats that we have on our compact campus? (Now in considering this statement, remember that there are two species of cats—people cats and cat cats. The two are not to be confused. You can easily tell the difference because a cat cat has a long tail).

First, there is the purry cat. This cat is the type which is furry, soft, and affectionate toward homo sapiens. They let forth a soft "purr" and rub against one's legs, hoping to be picked up and petted. This type is envied and often imitated to no avail by other less domesticated cats. (NOTE: This type is to be watched with a careful eye for at the least sound of a bark, you will be clawed unmercifully and found holding nothing but wounds).

The second species of cats is the alley cat. This cat comes in "seven varieties". You can find it in any color, size, or shape. Probably the most common of all cats, this animal is the most ferocious and the wildest of its family. It delights in teasing dogs and getting them to chase them, while the poor, unsuspecting dogs end up being the beaten rather than the ones doing the beating. This variety may be found in any nearby garbage can.

Thirdly, the group which wins the vote of the feminine members is the stuffed kitty. (Kitty is a more affectionate name than cat). These may be found in any room in the girls' dormitory lounging around on any flat place. This type usually receives more attention from its owner than the person who gave it.

The fourth cat to be mentioned is the fearful feline. The fearful never makes passes at humans; never teases dogs for fear they will chase them; always wished he had been a stuffed kitty rather than a fearful feline, and always has a constant fear of meeting a

President Of Sigma Lambda Is Major Major

Barbara Mae Jones, one of Millsaps most versatile girls, has been named Major Major this week. She is a senior from Jackson majoring in History and planning to teach.

Honors

Barbara was listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities and was elected as a favorite. She is now serving as president of Sigma Lambda, president of Chi Omega Sorority, president of the International Relations Club, and secretary-treasurer of Alpha Psi Omega. Barbara is a member of Chi Delta.

In the past she has been a member of the Millsaps Singers Tour Choir, appeared in Millsaps Players productions, and has been active in the Varsity Show. Barbara has been listed on the Dean's list every semester while at Millsaps.

Opinions

When this remarkable girl was asked what she will most remember about Millsaps, she said that the friendly and understanding attitude among the students and the faculty would be very high on her list.

In reply to that inevitable question about the future Barbara giggled and said, "Your BA is worth waiting for as long as you receive your MRS degree along with it."

Notice

Dean J. E. McCracken requests that the following organizations turn in a list of their officers to the Office of Student Personnel as soon as possible: Alpha Epsilon Delta, Beethoven Club, Bobashela, Canterbury Club, Eta Sigma Phi, Inter-Fraternity Council, Kit Kat, "M" Club, Millsaps Singers, Omicron Delta Kappa, Pi Kappa Delta, Psychological Society, Stylus, Theta Nu Sigma, Wesley Fellowship, Woman's Council.

Majors Clobber Ouachita In Last Game Of Season

By Jack Taylor

By completely outplaying their opponents in every describable way, our Millsaps Majors defeated Ouachita College of Arkansas Saturday afternoon by a score of 34 to 6. As the statistics show, the fired up Majors played outstanding offensive and defensive ball in a way of farewell to the 1955 football season. Playing their last game for the Purple and White were the following ten men: Hardy Nall, halfback; Charles (Snake) Deaton, end; John Lowery, fullback; "Crow" Parnell, quarterback; Bennie Kirkland, end; Tom Pruitt, guard; Murry Pinkston, tackle; Bobby Joe Smith, tackle; Tom Boone, guard; and John Awad, guard.

In the first period of play "Crow" Parnell broke the scoring ice by sneaking 2 yards to pay-dirt, with "Big John" Lowery converting for the extra point. Later in the same period, "Crow" faked a pass and went off left end for 4 yards and the second score. Again the toe of "Big John" counted for a point and the Majors led 14 to 0.

During the second period the ball changed hands several times, and only Lowery was able to reach the end zone. The extra point attempt was no good.

In the 3rd period, Parnell fired a flat pass to Lowery, who took it on the 20 yard line and went across for his second score of the ball game and his sixth of the University-Millsaps Center Fall Enrollment Is 334

The University of Mississippi-Millsaps Center has an enrollment of 334 students for the fall semester. The Center, which offers evening classes in both graduate and undergraduate courses, is directed by Mr. E. E. Davidson. All classes are held on the Millsaps campus.

Public service education on a non-profit basis is the purpose of the Center. The curriculum includes instruction in business, engineering, nursing, the liberal arts, and the fine arts. Residence credit for graduate courses is allowed within limits which vary from course to course.

The courses which the Center offers this year are: economics, English, geology, music, sociology, accounting, chemistry, engineer-

British Consul General Here

Mr. R. G. Dundas will speak on the "Situation in the Middle East" to the International Relations Club and interested students Thursday at 4 p.m. in the forum room of the library.

Mr. Dundas, British Consul General at New Orleans, will also speak to political science and history classes Friday morning on appropriate subjects.

Lipscomb Appointed P.&W. Copy Editor

Walton Lipscomb has been appointed copy editor of the Purple and White.

He assumed his duties of reading, punctuating, and correcting copy and writing heads for the Purple and White Monday. Walton has served on the P. & W. Staff for two years.

The Purple and White's deadline is 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Organizations should plan events at times when the Purple and White can effectively report them if possible.

First Parent's Day Was Successful

The students, administration, and faculty of Millsaps College were pleased with the success of the first Parents' Day ever to be held on the Millsaps College campus. According to President H. E. Finger, eight hundred visitors and students ate their noon meal in the cafeteria.

Beginning at 10:00 Saturday, the visitors had an opportunity to inspect the campus. Dormitories and fraternity and sorority houses were open. N. R. Wally, president of the Student Executive Board, was emcee at the assembly in the Christian Center Auditorium and welcomed the visitors on behalf of the entire student body. The Millsaps College Singers, under the direction of Mr. Alvin Jon "Pop" King, rendered "Praise to The Lord," "Fanfare for Christmas Day," and the "Hallelujah Chorus from the Messiah." Of particular interest was "the trip backstage" conducted by Mr. Lance Goss. He told the history of the Players, named some of the plays they have done, and then drew back the curtains to display work being done by the stage crew on sets for the current production, Cyrano de Bergerac, and several actors and actresses in costume as they appear in Cyrano. Dr. Ellis Finger, representing the administration and faculty, welcomed the parents and visitors.

The Millsaps Majors increased the enthusiasm felt by students and visitors alike on this Millsaps' first Parents' Day by defeating Ouachita 34-6. Comments from visitors about Parents' Day have been most favorable. Any suggestions for the improvement of the schedule, program, or any other aspect of Parents' Day will be appreciated.

Cyrano Presented Tonight, Tomorrow

Walter Ely Is Cyrano, Dyane Nelson Is Roxanne

Cyrano de Bergerac, the Millsaps Players' first production for the 1955-56 session, will be presented for the last time tomorrow night at 8:15 in the Christian Center Auditorium.

The play began production on Wednesday night and continues through Saturday. Cyrano is Millsaps' first play to run for four nights.

Taking the lead roles in the play are Walter Ely, Greenville, as Cyrano; Dyane Nelson, New Iberia, Louisiana, as Roxanne; and Tom McNair, Jackson, as Christian.

The play is directed by Lance Goss, professor of speech and dramatics. Assistant to the Director is Gail Moorehead of Vicksburg.

Stage Managers are Burton Jackson of Jackson and Shirley Brown of Belzoni. Assistant Stage Manager is Claudette Hall of Ontario, Canada.

The stage crew has worked diligently to produce different sets for each of the five acts. Laid in seventeenth century France, scenes include a theatre, pastry shop, balcony, battleground, and convent.

Costumes are from Eaves of New York, and wigs are by Bernstein and Migliore of New York.

Cyrano de Bergerac is the Millsaps Players' most expensive production.

The public is cordially invited to the production. Admission at the door is 60c for students and $1.00 for adults.

Tryouts For One-Act Plays

Tryouts for the Millsaps Player's one-act plays will be held Wednesday at 6:15 p.m.

The one-act plays, presentation of which is an annual event, will include: In the Narrow Place written and directed by Walter Ely; acts 3, 4, and 5 of East Lynne, written by Mrs. Henry Wood and directed by Karen Gilfoy; and On Monday Next, written by Phillip King and directed by Burton Jackson.

Players director Lance Goss stated that the plays require a large number of boys and girls, and he urged that all interested students try out for parts.

Student Opinion Of S.E.B. Varied

S.E.B. has not given Millsaps College the student government it expected.

Non-members of S.E.B. and student body leaders granted this point in a P. and W. conducted poll.

The student leaders lay the blame for this on the fact that there is little student interest in the organization and its problems. The students claim conversely that were there adequate leadership from S.E.B. there would be student interest.

Don't Know

Out of 38 people interviewed, 18 admitted they knew very little about it with such comments as, "They should publish a weekly report so the average student will know what's going on." "Since I'm not in it, I don't know what it does." "We hear about S.E.B. only when they sponsor an election or dance." "I know what it is, but what does it do?"

Against

Nine students felt it could definitely be improved. "Nice title, but that's as far as it goes." "It is not too great." "It is time for a change." "Faculty has too much authority." "Committees are not functioning." "The campus can run itself." "I'm tired of being a spoke on a tricycle wheel." "It has too many people to function properly." "S.E.B. is something I wouldn't give my honest opinion of." "The system is too complicated to function properly. By the time all the meetings are held, school will be over," were some of the opinions.

For

Ten students felt that the organization was essentially good, though perhaps it could be improved. Some of their comments were: "It's necessary to have some type government." "Good ideas should be carried out further." "It's good because it gives the student voice in the government."

"A good system if it can be put into operation." "The system is a challenge requiring the highest effort of all students. So far it has had little effort from few of the students. This is a transition year, and everyone should understand that it would be impossible for the new organization to function perfectly."

"This is the first time student government has been left up to the student body as a whole. There needs to be more student interest, more organization work, and more campus activities. The theory behind the system is perfect. It is the actual work that is at fault."

Student Opportunities

By Anne Coker

Today is the last day for seniors who want a career in the federal service to file for the first written Civil-Service Entrance Examination, which will be given in Jackson on December 10. Job offers can be made by federal agencies to persons passing the exam once their names become available on the lists of eligibles which the Civil Service Commission will set up early next year. Appointments follow graduation. Interested students can obtain full information and application blanks from Dr. McCracken.

The Davidson Dental Supply Co. has a full-time job available to a student's wife who has had experience as a stenographer and a record keeper. Call Mr. John at 2-3657 if interested.

Hooper Homes Bureau of Jackson has an opening for a part-time insurance investigator with a car. He would work one full day a week and receive a 37 percent commission.

Summing It Up

By Foster Lowe

Them Majors looked mi-i-ghty good in whipping Ouachita 34-6 Saturday. We believe that if the wheels of time could be turned back and the whole schedule could be replayed the gross result of the season would be different. Although a 4-4 record is mediocre, the mauling Methodists showed that they had what it took several times during the season; and, on the other side of the ledger, they showed what happens to a team without desire.

Examples of Millsaps hot-and-cold behavior: Millsaps 33-6 over Howard, and 34-6 over Ouachita, and William Carey and Southwestern, both 33-7 over Millsaps. Then there were the close games: M. C., 14-18; Delta State, 7-20; Livingston, 18-6; and Sewanee, 12-7.

Totaling up the scores shows Millsaps with 131 points to the combined opposition's 129. John Lowery accounted for 45 of these points on 6 touchdowns and nine PAT's, quarterback "Crow" Parnell scored four times for 24 points and passed for 7 more TD's, and halfback Roy Wolfe crossed into pay dirt 3 times for 18 points. Other Majors who scored were, in order, end Bennie Kirkland, 13 points; end Charles Deaton, 12 points; halfback Hardy Nall, end John Ed Williams and quarterback Bob Sowell, 6 points each; and halfback Ralph King, one point.

Outstanding Millsaps linemen throughout the season were Deaton and Kirkland on the flanks, Tom Prewitt at tackle, guards John Awad and Tom Boone, and James Hood at the center slot.

After first-string quarterback "Red" Powell was injured in the first game, halfback Bob "Crow" Parnell was converted to take over the quarterback position. Parnell, who had never before been a T-quarterback, did an outstanding job all season. Lowery, of course, was always dangerous, and fullback-halfback Terry Moore and

In the final period of play, substitute quarterback Bob Sowell went over from the 3 yard line to end the touchdown parade for the game and for the year. "Skinner" King converted for the extra point, and the Millsaps Majors, some for a year and some forever, put away their pads and helmets and waited to read the following statistics.

	Millsaps	Ouachita
First Downs	23	5

halfbacks Hardy Nall, Roy Wolfe and Cliff Rushing were consistent ground gainers.

Neither coaches Sammy Banting and Erm Smith or the faculty, students, alumni, and supporters of Millsaps need be ashamed over their Majors' performance this season.

Sigs Hold Lead; LXA, KA, Pikes Not Far Behind

By Don Harder

Second half action got underway in the speedball league with all the earmarks of the first. Two more scoreless ties featured the first week's action after the Sigs had jumped right back into first place on the opening day.

The Sigs were followed by three teams with even records: Pikes, KA's, and Lambda Chi's. The Ministers had no decisions either way, while the Norsemen lost their first contest.

The only surprise of the week came when Lambda Chi battled the high flying Sigs to a hard 0-0 deadlock. Neither team could move the ball with much success, but the Sigs had their backs to the wall most of the game.

It was a different story, however, in the Sig-Norsemen contest as the league leaders rolled to a 19-0 breather. Woods, Cavett snagged a long Powers Moore aerial to set up the first score, with a Moore to Jack Taylor pass putting it over. Moore then hit Newt Harrison for the point. In the second half Steve Bumpas added to the advantage by intercepting a pass and racing 50 yards for the score. Ed Mize engineered the next drive passing to Bumpas for the touchdown, after his own running had set up the tally.

The Ministers dropped Lambda Chi 6-0 on the strength of Leonard Jordan's long punt return, however, the game was successfully protested. The contest will be replayed since the Lambda Chi's did not wish to simply accept a forfeit victory.

The KA's registered their fifth tie in six games, their second with the Pikes, to put both clubs in a tie with the Lambda Chi's for second place.

The Millsaps Scene . . .

A great deal of griping about happenings on the Millsaps Campus has been heard during the last several weeks. These things include the Millsaps Cafeteria, "closed" weekends, the three cut system in classes, "segregated" studying in the Millsaps library, "malfunctioning" of S.E.B., and a few others.

S. E. B.

One good reason for a "tightening down" idea is expressed by the attitude "why have student government anyway?" This brilliant question is one answer to a P. & W. conducted opinion poll asking students to evaluate S.E.B. Such an answer indicates that the student doesn't care what happens on Millsaps Campus.

Some students' thoughts turned to personalities, and they blamed certain people for S.E.B.'s "malfunction." They haven't stopped to find out why S.E.B. has not been set up—simply because some students think one person can't represent more than one group's interests. If this is the case of anyone in office at Millsaps, he is not fit to hold his office. At least one last try should be made in student government before we go to "anarchy".

Cafeteria

A new cafeteria will be included in the Student Union Building which will be constructed next year. More information on this subject will be forthcoming.

"Closed" Weekends

"Closed" weekends are something this writer didn't know existed at Millsaps College. The student executive board would be a legal means of protesting this measure if a person desired to do so. "Closed" weekends are a way to liven up college events, but college-age students should be able to determine the events they desire to attend.

Three-Cut System

The three-cut system in classes is a measure that hasn't excited students as much as one would expect. The fact is that students must attend classes to pass courses. Some students just resent being "limited".

"Segregated" Studying

Rumors about segregating boys and girls in seminar rooms and stacks have been going the rounds this week.

In the Library

Perhaps placing these gripes in print will do harm, but the fact is that these things are what students are talking about.

A tolerant evaluation of these things by students and faculty will create more understanding.

Major Major

Walter Ely, Alpha Psi Omega President, Is Major Major

This week's title of Major Major goes to Walter Ely of Greenville. He is a senior, majoring in English.

Walter's first love at Millsaps is the Millsaps Players, and he has used his talent and versatility for them all four years. He has had seven character roles and feels that his biggest and most prominent role is that of Cyrano de Bergerac. His dramatic career began with small roles in Lilliom and The Torch Bearers and developed into roles like the Prospector in The Mad Woman of Chaillot, which is one of his favorites, and Colonel Petkoff in Arms and the Man. This season Walter is going to direct one of his own plays, "In the Narrow Place." He won the award as best supporting actor for his role in Hamlet.

Aside from his work with the players, Walter is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity, Kit Kat, Eta Sigma Phi, Omicron Delta Kappa, and he is president of Alpha Psi Omega, having served as secretary-treasurer last year. He was listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities his junior year.

Walter likes Millsaps for its small size, yet wide curriculum. He also likes the closeness of the students and faculty. After graduation Walter plans to go to graduate school to study speech and dramatics.

Religious Views And Reviews:

Grow Up Spiritually

"When I became a man, I put away childish things."

In the famous drama by Sir James Barrie, Peter Pan was a boy who refused to grow up. He did not believe in the grown-up business. In the play it made a pretty picture; in real life it makes a tragedy.

Some people never grow up at all, apparently. They are afraid of it. They want to keep the care-free life of a child. They want to escape from the knocks, shocks, and trying decisions.

"Be your age, Mother," a girl said to her mother when they went to a family counselor about a problem. The mother was about to go into a tantrum, which is the method by which a child gets his own way, regardless of others.

Some people grow up in one way, but not in others. Physically and mentally they are adult, but emotionally they are children. Childishness is "cute" in children, but in adults it's like water in the fuel; it makes us unable to function properly.

The child wants to avoid the unpleasant things in life; he wants security in his mother's arms instead of having to find it; he wants his own way, not the way that would be best for the "gang".

The child refuses to face life squarely, and his emotional life is played by fears. The adult passes from illusion to reality, from fairyland to fact; but if he is wise, if he really grows up, he does not lose the ideals that glorify life.

Probably most important, he grows in his religious life. If he continues to look at God as someone who feeds him as his mother once did, his life will count for nothing, but if his ideas of religion mature so that he can tackle any problem, then his life will add to the creation of heaven on earth.

Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and man. Should we, as His children, pledge ourselves to do less?

The 1955 football season ended on a high note when the Millsaps Majors scored a 34-6 victory over the Ouachita Tigers!

Looking back over a successful football season, we salute the Majors, Coaches Sammy Bartling and Erm Smith, and Managers Brooks Hudson, Ted Alexander, and Roy Andrews.

Deserving a round of applause are the cheerleaders who pitched the yells with fervor and enthusiasm. These cheerleaders who did such a fine job are Ann Dillard, Betty Jane Cleveland, Nancy Neyman, Lea Hyman, Jack Loflin, and Edwin Upton.

The Millsaps College Band presented outstanding half-time shows and gave us throughout each game spirited football music. Now that the band has completed its marching season, we look forward to the coming concerts.

Nine Weeks Tests

With nine weeks tests a thing of the past, the grades will soon be flooding the mail. Now the question involved is simply whether relieving passes or dismal failures will be traveling homeward? Only time will unveil this mystery!

And now for the 'nouncements.

RINGED

Helen Dall and Brooks

Helen Dall Barnes, a pledge of Kappa Delta and a freshman from Jackson, became ringed to Brooks Hudson, the president of Norsemen and a junior from Shubuta, November 5.

ENGAGED

Jo and Jack

Jo Nall, a member of Kappa Delta and a Millsaps graduate from Jackson, is engaged to Jack Loflin, the president of Pi Kappa Alpha and a senior from Star. A December wedding is being planned.

Beta Sigs Have Party For Sigs

Alpha Zeta Chapter of Beta Sigma Omicron Sorority entertained the Kappa Sigma Fraternity with a buffet supper November 3. The menu consisted of ham, salad, baked potatoes, rolls, tea, and a choice of cakes for dessert.

Outstanding Kappa Sigmas were saluted with a skit presented by the Beta Sigmas. The entertainment was closed with the entire group singing Kappa Sig and Beta Sig songs.

Chaperones for the occasion were Dr. and Mrs. E. S. Wallace and Dr. and Mrs. H. S. Manley.

An undertaker wired a man: "Your mother-in-law just died. Shall I bury, embalm, or cremate her?"

The guys wires back: "All three, take no chances."

KD's Entertain The Lambda Chi's

The second in a series of KD open houses, each honoring one of the campus fraternities, was held when the Lambda Chi's came to visit on November 3.

Following a period of games and refreshments, the KD's and Lambda Chi's sang fraternity and sorority songs. The Lambda Chi Alpha Quartet sang, and Bobby Tullos, with the Lambda Chi actives and pledges accompanying him, sang "Love Is a Many Splendored Thing."

Miss Mildred Morehead chaperoned the open house.

Pi Kappa Alpha Pledges

Vikings Give Party For New Members

The Vikings entertained their new members at a spend-the-night party near D'Lo, November 5. An informal supper of hot dogs, baked beans, and cokes was served after which a period of extemporaneous entertainment was enjoyed. As the highlight of the evening, a ceremony was held in which each old member presented to her little sister a Viking pin or key.

Early Sunday morning, a delicious breakfast of sausages, pancakes, and hot chocolate was served.

Those present were Mrs. R. R. Priddy and Mrs. J. B. Price, chaperones, Nina Mitzellauteu, a visitor, and the following members: Ruth Atwood, Jeanette Sylvester, Jo Anne Abernathy, Annette Leshe, Eugenia Kelly, Carolyn Allen, Diane Douglas, Edna Wixon, Gwin McRaney, Kay Bufkin, Dany Miller, Joan Anderson, Ernie Lee Nelson, Gloria Halbert, Martha Egger, Betty Dyess, Acka Lewis, Patsy White, Frances West, Carolyn Holloway, Zora Curry, Gail Morehead, Rosemary Parent, Marilyn McNeil, Ruth Ann Pearson, Lucy Price, Virginia Everitt, Kaisa Braaten, Juanita Wright, June Martin, and Bobbie Jean Potts.

Phi Mu Sorority Entertains K.A.'s

A turkey and dressing buffet style supper was served to the K.A.'s by the Phi Mus. After supper the Phi Mus entertained with Phi Mu songs, and the K.A.'s in turn sang K. A. songs. The K. A. quartet sang "Wait 'til the Sun Shines Nellie" and others. Each group introduced their pledges and transfer students. The chaperones were Dr. and Mrs. A. P. Hamilton and Dr. F. W. James.

Wesley Project For Thanksgiving

Clothes and toys are being collected for needy families of Jackson as a Thanksgiving project of the Wesley Fellowship.

For two weeks boxes will be in the dormitories and fraternity houses for clothing and toys. The Wesley Fellowship invites the entire student body to participate in the project and urges students to bring clothes of various sizes from home.

The clothes and toys will be distributed through the Family Service Agency of Jackson just before the Thanksgiving holidays.

Pi Kappa Alpha Has Bowery Party; Hillman And Catledge Win Prizes

Pi Kappa Alpha had a Bowery Party at the Cedars of Lebanon Clubhouse Saturday, November 5. Members and their dates came dressed as characters from the Bowery.

Pat Hillman, who dressed as a gun moll, and Charles Catledge, who appeared as a delinquent from the "Blackboard Jungle," were winners in the costume contest. Costumes were judged on the basis of originality and authenticity.

The clubhouse was lighted by candles, and a back room was decorated as a saloon complete with poker tables and a bar. Bartenders Hal Miller and John Calvin Philly served punch in small jiggers from old liquor bottles. Music for dancing was provided by a juke box, and guests danced, chatted, and played cards throughout the evening.

Chaperones were Dean and Mrs. James Ferguson, Professor Paul D. Hardin, and Miss Anne DeMoss. Guests were Jimmy Schimpf, Pat Hillman; Warren Doiron, Lodusca Catledge; Gordon Jones, Nena Doiron.

Program Of One-Act Plays Is Scheduled For December 6-7

Ely's "In The Narrow Place" Presented, Ely, Gilfoyle, And Jackson To Direct

Those who plan to attend the Millsaps Players' program of one-act plays on December 6 and 7 are assured an evening of varied entertainment. The three plays range in tone from bitter to ludicrous to utterly hilarious.

Directed By Students

As is the tradition, the one-act plays will be directed by students. However, this year the Players depart from tradition in presenting for the first time in their 31-year history the world premiere of a play written by a Millsaps student. The play is "In the Narrow Place", and the author is Walter Ely.

"In The Narrow Place"

Walter, who gave such a distinguished performance in the title role of the Players' production of Cyrano de Bergerac, will also direct his play. "In the Narrow Place" has a serious and somewhat unorthodox theme, and it should be effective, lending another bright facet to Walter's outstanding career in dramatics at Millsaps.

The other two plays, "East Lynne" and "On Monday Next," will be directed by Karen Gilfoyle and Burton Jackson, respectively.

All three of the student directors are seniors and have had no previous experience in directing, though they have been active in the Players.

"East Lynne"

The device which will be used in "East Lynne" to produce humor will be, oddly enough, to play it straight.

The play, "the daddy of all the old-fashioned melodramas," written almost a hundred years ago, has become decidedly out-dated, though it was so popular in its time that it remains one of the "golden fourteen" most popular plays in the history of American theatre. John Chapman, renowned drama critic, said the play, which was written by Mrs. Henry Wood, mixes "sex, high fashion, humble worthiness, and quarts of tears, so that it ran practically forever." The Players will present an abbreviated version of "East Lynne," but all its famous characters remain: Lady Isobel, the heroine who strayed and paid (and how she paid); Sir Archibald, the well-meaning husband; their son, Little William; the black-hearted villain; and all the rest.

"On Monday Next"

"On Monday Next" is an ingenious farce which was written by Philip King, and which was the basis for the movie, "Curtain Up." This production is also a contracted form of a longer play, but it loses none of its charm from the cutting. If anything, it gains in its comedy pace, which was already riotous. "On Monday Next" takes a clever idea and makes the very best of it. Its characters are those most fascinating of characters: theater people.

Awards For Participants

Those who participate in the production of the one-act plays are eligible for two awards which

Thanksgiving Party Friday

An all-campus mixer will be held Friday night in the gymnasium.

The Freshman class will sponsor the Thanksgiving get-together from 7:30 until 10:30. Admission will be 25 cents per person.

Group singing, solos, quartets, skits, other entertainment and refreshments are planned for the party.

Lacey Causey, freshman class president, said, "This is the first organized get-together on the campus since the week of freshman orientation. We hope it will create a new spirit of campus fellowship on weekends, and we urge the entire college community to be present."

Campus Study Rules:

Miss Swearingen Announces New Library Study Rules

Miss Bethany Swearingen, Millsaps Librarian, has found it necessary to set up several rules to apply to students while studying in the library. These are summarized below:

Students are expected to work at the carrels (study desks in the stacks) in groups of one only. These are considered to be the best places for studying in a library, and in many places must be signed for in advance. There should be quietness in these places, and it is felt that study groups of two are not conducive to quietness.

The seminar rooms are to be used only by groups of three or more. Because of the expense involved in heating and lighting these rooms, and the fact that the library is trying to be as economical as possible, smaller groups should use the reading rooms. She added that the library is an inappropriate place for a date.

Miss Swearingen concluded by reminding the reporter that students have far more freedom in the Millsaps-Wilson Library than is generally the case. (Her desire is that the library should be made the study center of the campus.)

Student Union Building

"The meeting is called to order," said Jack Loflin, vice-president of S. E. B., and with these words the third meeting of S. E. B. opened on Nov. 1. Following a prayer by Laverne Smith, Margaret Whitfield read the minutes of the previous meeting. There were no committee reports, so the old business came next on the agenda. Al Doyle represented the Ministerial League, requesting an explanation as to why the student government refused to give them a 1 o'clock S. E. B. date. Since the faculty social committee rather than S. E. B. had refused the date, Dr. McCracken suggested that a committee be appointed to discuss this with President Finger, who has jurisdiction over the S. E. B. dates. Foster Lowe, Charlotte Elliot, and Hugh Johnston were appointed to see Dr. Finger.

There were ten of the nineteen members present at this meeting, and although this was not a quorum, the budget had been brought up at two meetings; thus it was voted on and approved. The budget is as follows:

Student Union Plans Are "In The Hopper"

Site Has Been Changed, Suggestions From Students Asked

Planning for Millsaps' proposed Student Union Building was renewed this week. A group of student leaders met in the forum room of the library Tuesday to discuss plans with the Dean of Students.

The site for the building has been changed. Instead of the new building being constructed between Murrah Hall and the library, it will be placed between Sullivan-Harrell Hall and Buie Gymnasium. Parking facilities and proper spacing of buildings were factors in the decision to change.

All planning is still in the preliminary stage as the original plans were not practical in regard to size. Present estimates as to the cost of the building, including fixtures, are $475,000. Work will probably begin next spring or as soon as sufficient funds are available from the "Million for Millsaps" fund.

Students are urged to look over the plans in the Dean of Students' office and to make suggestions and observations about them.

Debate Team In Oklahoma

The Millsaps debate team is in Edmond, Oklahoma, today, participating in the lively Central State Debate tournament.

This makes the fourth out-of-state debate trip "Tillman's Talkers" have taken this year. After a successful showing at L. S. U., the debaters moved to Tuscaloosa for the University of Alabama Discussion Conference. Here awards of excellent were presented to colleagues Alfred Statham and Alton Boyd. Twenty-four colleges and universities were represented by 144 participants, of whom 24 received awards.

Last weekend the Louisiana Tech debate tournament was held at Ruston, Louisiana, and was attended by a number of Millsaps debaters. The record they brought

Miss. Power & Light Co. Presents Hull's Memoirs

Millsaps College has received both volumes of the Memoirs of Cordell Hull recently published. These books were a gift from the Mississippi Power and Light Company.

Next year the meeting is to be held at Duke University in Durham, North Carolina.

Those attending were Dr. James S. Ferguson, Dr. Ross H. Moore, Dr. Frank Laney, and Dr. Gustavus Williamson.

Major Major:

Awad, President Of Singers, Is Personality Of The Week

Singers

We feature John Awad, the newly elected president of the Millsaps Singers, as Major Major of the week. Johnny is enthusiastic about Singers; this exerted a great influence in his decision to come to Millsaps, and he says that the Singers tours are his favorite part of college activities. He is a soloist and served last year as vice president.

Football

Awad has been vice president of the M Club and has lettered in football for four years playing guard. The Millsaps team will miss him next season, but we feel sure that our opponents will be glad to see him graduate.

Miscellaneous

Awad, who has recently received the highest honor a Millsaps Student can get—that of being named to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities—says, "If I had it all to do over, I'd try to improve scholastically."

Johnny is a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity and has served as an officer. He is from Jackson but is a resident of Buie Gym. Claiming the distinction of living in the gym longer than anyone else, Johnny likes the life there. One could call him the Dean of Buie Gym.

Although he can frequently be seen at the Snack Shop about 11:00 p.m. eating fried eggs, when we questioned him about it, he told us that steak is his favorite day time food. Fried eggs are only for late at night.

In reply to a question about his future Johnny said that his next two years will be spent in a visit with Uncle Sam. He feels that he will have plenty of company during this visit and will not be lonely.

Thanksgiving—A Time Of Sharing With Others

Over three hundred years ago, a group of seasick, water-soaked, and anxious people filled with a compelling yearning landed on the rocky New England coast with little food and water and no idea whatsoever of the land about them. These people, whom we have honored with the name Pilgrims, immediately lifted their thanks to God for the safe voyage and institutionalized the first Thanksgiving service, forever linking their names within the hearts of people.

Now, in 1955, as we come to the Thanksgiving season, we need again to remember the bitter cold of that first winter, the lack of food and shelter of these first people, and to thank them for their brand of courage which we call the American Dream.

Thanksgiving did not start as a custom with the Pilgrims, but in every society men have always returned part of the harvest to their gods as a symbol of their appreciation for the sun, rain, and fertility of the soil which made this harvest possible. When the practices of Christianity became customs, men thought of a burnt offering directly to God as somewhat wrong, and using the principle of sharing suggested by Jesus, they decided to give a little of the harvest each year to the poor, ill, and homeless, so as to spread Christian giving along with Christian worshipping.

There are many things for which we should be thankful to the Pilgrim fathers of our nation. Not only is there the American Dream for which we are proud, but also they have given to us a way of life dependent upon the principles of freedom of thought, speech, and worship. We are the richest nation in the world, but that wealth has not come by world conquest and economic imperialism. It is the result of understanding, of compromise at the conference table, of helping to lift instead of helping to crush. We should, then, be doubly conscious of our responsibility in the world today, of our position in the eyes of other nations. We must keep our honor clear, our hopes high, and our outlook forward. As President Eisenhower stated in a campaign speech, "As long as America is good, she is great; but when she ceases to be good, she will cease to be great."

This Thanksgiving thousands of turkeys will be sent to homes, and many boxes will be left on doorsteps of shut-ins by people who are helping to share the spirit of Thanksgiving and, in like measure, are returning a bit of their gifts to God from whom they came.

Curtain Closes On Last Performance Of Cyrano

"Places for Act 1. Places for Act 1." "Good gosh, Burton, please fix this flat in place. I can't hold it up the whole act." "The bottles—who's got the bottles?" "Please y'all, places for Act 1. It's curtain time."

And so it was four times last week—curtain time for Cyrano de Bergerac, the most magnificent and elaborate production in the Players' 31 years.

It is often sad to realize that a play is over and done with. It's somehow disturbing to walk backstage and see the stained glass window David spent so much time on now serving only as a prism for the sun's rays, the arches and steps Shirley and Burton planned being torn up for the next play, the Cardinal's shield Rosemarie painted—now only a dust rag, the ancient footlights Eddie and Clint cut laboriously out of old tin cans holding trash in the place of candles, Byrd's realistic chandelier lighting the way for spiders, the cinnamon rolls keeping ants alive, the balcony steps leading into air, Claudette's stage curtains inch deep in dust.

Sometimes it seems to the cast and crews that it is futile to spend so much on something that lasts so short a time. Little do they know that they have created forever a thing of beauty—an impression of Cyrano never to be captured again, a glimpse of a lighthearted Roxanne, a new interpretation of Duenna, a fond memory of Rageneau, the baker, a romantic notion of Christian, a feeling of final respect for Comte de Guiche and impressions of 17th century France that all the history books in the world could not create.

The audience gets all this for nothing but the small price of admission. Those really involved with the play received for their time and effort a never to be regained fellowship, a knowledge of Millsaps students, their whims and ways, not to be obtained in the classroom, a picture of Cyrano applying his famous nose, a vision of a lovely Roxanne struggling with her homework, the chance to watch a masterful Le Bret helping move flats.

When these intangibles are considered, it is not extremely necessary to mention the obvious—that Walter Ely, a superb Cyrano, made the play live, that it seems impossible that the scenery should ever be surpassed, that Dyanne Nelson was a charming Roxanne, that Mr. Ambrose's music indeed set the mood for the play, that ticket sales were the largest in Players history except for Hamlet, that the costumes and wigs were well worth the $1,000 they cost.

Cyrano de Bergerac was indeed a production in the highest sense of the word, but it was also a dream, a dream conceived in one man's mind and transferred to a thousand.

David Franks Made Stained Glass Window

By Martina Riley

The stained glass window in Cyrano de Bergerac, beautiful creation by David Franks, was an outstanding feature in the Millsaps Players' production last week.

Where did our stained glass window have its beginning? Probably in the mind of a small sandy-haired boy of Jackson. It seems that David used to make model airplanes from balsa wood, and it was this experience plus the influence of an artistic family and an Episcopal minister's home that gave him the background for such a creation. But that was not all. David used to have an architect boss. And he says he's drawn lots of pictures—of teachers, that is (in class, we're afraid).

Anyway, when David entered the wonderland of backstage theatre, he wanted a part, too. It was then that he began to read about stained glass windows of sixteenth century France. With his artistic environment, his experience with balsa wood, his close contact with church buildings, and his recent research, he was able to have a very important part in the convent scene.

The frame is made of hardwood, and the figures on the window are outlines in balsa, a soft, easily cut wood. The colored portion is made of cinebox, a new, plastic, better-than-gelatin stuff that does not melt under heat, disappear under soap and water, or fly in every direction under glue. When light shines through cinebox, it diffuses to produce a glow similar to real stained glass windows.

The whole window cost about $20 and all the time David had for two weeks before the play. "Just spend a couple of nights in this place," he said, "and you get sorta attached to it."

That's really about what happened. He started off with a little idea, caught the theatre working spirit, and ended with a job more complicated than he ever dreamed. David worked so fast he hardly had time to look at his books on windows.

But there does remain that medieval symbolism in his window. At the foot of Christ's cross is a griffin, half bird and half beast, symbol of St. George, who, in defending the Christians once, had to kill a dragon in his journey. The figure on the right of the cross is recognized as Mary because she wears a blue dress, symbol of the Virgin. The intricate design on the side is typical of medieval architecture. For the side work he had help from Betty Jane Cleveland.

We wonder what will become of this evidence of long hard work. Two department stores have asked to use it in their Christmas displays, but we don't know whether Lance will let it get out of his sight. One thing we are sure of—it will be taken care of.

And our closing word is a big "Thank you" to David Franks, one of the many who had a part in making Cyrano de Bergerac a play to be remembered.

The houselights dimmed, the curtain swung back, and audiences thrilled to the magic of Cyrano de Bergerac, which was presented by the Millsaps Players under the direction of Mr. Lance Goss, November 9-12.

Wearing the huge "white plume," Walter Ely gave an outstanding performance as Cyrano. Stage managers Burton Jackson and Shirley Brown with their crew turned out scenery which was breathtakingly beautiful and realistic. The stained glass window was the creative work of David Franks.

Over two hundred people, on stage and off, gave their time and talents to this major production. This large number certainly deserves a thunderous round of applause as well as numerous curtain calls!

Ole Miss to Millsaps

Seemed as though Ole Miss had moved to Millsaps last week-end when Ole Miss students flocked to Jackson for their game with Houston. We certainly welcomed the Rebels and their victory over the team from "outa state".

Dr. Knowles Implants Electrodes In Brains

Is Electrical Engineer Turned Psychologist

Dr. William B. Knowles, Jr., head of the psychology department at Millsaps, has a background of experience worthy of note. After serving two years in the Navy during World War II, he turned to college and a career of electrical engineering. After an introductory course in psychology he changed his mind and became a psychology major.

He has attended Oberlin College in Ohio, Case Institute of Technology, and Illinois Institute of Technology. At Illinois he received his Bachelor of Science degree. He spent a year at Northwestern, a year at the University of Washington in Seattle and returned to Northwestern to receive his Master of Arts and Ph.D. degrees. While at Illinois Tech, Dr. Knowles was on the Dean's List. He was made a member of Sigma Xi, a scientific honorary for graduates.

Dr. Knowles has accomplished considerable research mainly in two fields—graduate and naval research. First, in the nature of his graduate work he dealt with the neural basis of sleep. He experimented with cats and recorded their brain waves. At this time he published several articles. One deals with the method he has developed for implanting electrodes down deep in the brain of animals, thus permitting the recording of brain waves during normal activity.

Dr. Knowles has four and one half years in naval research in engineering psychology or "fitting the machine to the man." During this time he wrote and published seven papers.

It was Dr. Knowles' desire to broaden his field of psychology and in particular to continue in the field of teaching. Therefore, he accepted the chairmanship of this department at Millsaps College.

Ministers Take Lead; Standings Shuffled

By Don Harder

The Ministers rolled up an impressive 21-0 victory over the KA's, while the other teams couldn't win for tying, to move into first place in the second half speedball standings. The Lambda Chis took over the second slot with a win over the same outfit.

The Pikes and Sigs held on to a third place tie with identical records of two ties and a single victory. They were not behind, however, in the games behind department. The KA's single tie left them slightly ahead of the last place Norsemen.

The Ministers varied their attack, scoring on a run, a pass, and an interception runback, to shut out the KA's. Leonard Jordan had a hand in two of the TD's, scoring the first on a run and later connecting with Tex Sample on a pass for the TD. Curt Holliday's interception produced the other score. After each tally passes for the point were successful, one each to Cy Vance, Sample, and Holliday.

The Pikes picked up their first win of the half by dropping the Norsemen 13-0. Nick Greener, a newly found pass receiver for the Pikes, scored both of the touchdowns. Each time Pete Bradfield did the passing. Bradfield also ran for the point after the first score.

The Pikes and Sigs got together for their second meeting of the year with the same results as the first, a hard-fought scoreless deadlock. The Pikes made the most serious threat, moving to the four after a pass interception early in the game, but the defenders shoved them back.

The Lambda Chis dropped the KA's on the strength of Howard Jones' long pass to Gilbert Woods for the game's only score. The KA's never threatened seriously.

THE PURPLE AND WHITE, NOVEMBER 18, 1955

Letters To The Editor

Dear Mr. Carney,

I would like to know why you did not print the article about the management of the Millsaps Cafeteria which appeared on the front page of the State Times Thursday, November 17. It seems to me that this article which stated that "Millsaps is considering the possibility of turning the management of its cafeteria over to a national food handling firm" definitely is a matter of interest to the Millsaps students. I believe that every student at Millsaps would be interested in knowing that "the college has had conferences with the Morrison Cafeteria chain and has scheduled additional conferences with other food consultants."

Replacing Millsaps' controversial "free" cut system this fall was a regulation limiting a student to three unexcused cuts per class before being placed on attendance probation for that particular course. The fourth unexplained absence places the student on probation, which specifies that after three additional unexcused absences, the student shall begin to lose hours and quality points as prescribed in the Student Handbook.

Students React To Cut System

After nine weeks under the new attendance regulations, Millsaps students are exhibiting varied reactions to the new system.

Replacing Millsaps' controversial "free" cut system this fall was a regulation limiting a student to three unexcused cuts per class before being placed on attendance probation for that particular course. The fourth unexplained absence places the student on probation, which specifies that after three additional unexcused absences, the student shall begin to lose hours and quality points as prescribed in the Student Handbook.

A minority of students questioned on the topic gave a negative reaction, the typical reply being, "I can take responsibility for my own attendance. I know how much to cut a class." The majority seemed to think that the new system's chief benefit was to eliminate much of the ambiguity of the previous regulations. The old rules gave a number of students the mistaken idea that they could cut when and what they pleased, when in reality their attendance was subject to regulations very similar to those now in effect.

ONE-ACT PLAYS—

 are to be given at the end of this school year: the Millsaps Players junior acting award for the best performance by a boy or girl in a one-act play, and the award for the best director of a one-act play.

 back is proof enough that some of Prof. Tillman's newest debaters are among his most valuable.

Susie Lipsey, Rose Cunningham, and Betty Bell Ford won 5 out of 6 contests—taking second place in the girls' division. Further, Susie won second place in women's extemporaneous speaking, and Rose won second place in poetry reading. Both girls received individual awards in debating. Baylor won the women's division.

In the senior men's division Jerry Trigg won a superior award and his colleague, Jim Waits, won a rating of excellent. The University of Houston won the Senior men's division. Millsaps was ably represented in the junior men's division by Paul Kern and Robert Mims, both of whom won ratings of excellent, and they comprised the only team that beat the strong Baylor squad, who won the junior men's division.

Baylor, of Waco, Texas, won the junior men's division, the women's division, and the overall Sweepstakes Trophy.

Millsaps is now well into its debate year and has already proved its ability to threaten even the giants like Baylor and the University of Houston. Judging from their racy beginning, "Tillman's Talkers" are in for another successful year.

The genius of a local man had carried him to big success in business without much aid of education.

He was asked to distribute the prizes at a school, and made the usual speech of good counsel.

"Now, boys," he said, "always remember that education is a great thing. There's nothing like education. Take arithmetic. Through education we learn that twice two makes four, that twice six makes twelve, that seven sevens make— and then there's geography."

Viceroy-Sponsored Contest Prizes Total $50,000

Ten new 1956 Ford Thunderbirds will be given as top prizes in a contest now underway on this campus under the sponsorship of Viceroy cigarettes.

The contest to "Name The Viceroy Filter" is awarding 60 prizes, totaling $50,000, to the college students who send in the best names for Viceroy's filter.

Each of the 10 Thunderbird winners will be able to present a college organization of his choice (fraternity, sorority, etc.) with an RCA Victor Big Color Television Set.

As second prizes, Viceroy is awarding 40 students high fidelity phonographs, the Columbia "360" K.

The $50,000 "Name The Viceroy Filter" Contest has been planned for college students. There are no letters to write, no jingles to complete, no 25-word statements to prepare. All you do is make up a name for the Viceroy Filter and submit it on a special entry blank or a plain piece of paper. There is no limit to the number of times a student may enter—but send a picture of the Viceroy Filter Tip from the backs of two (2) Viceroy packs with each entry.

The rules of the contest are given in detail in large-space Viceroy advertisements which are running in this newspaper as well as on entry blanks which have been distributed around the campus. The business manager of the Purple and White also has full particulars.

Early reports from campus organizations here indicate that many groups already are at work to promote the contest among their members in an effort to win one of the RCA Victor Big Color Television sets which Thunderbird winners will be able to award to organizations of their choice.

The Viceroy Filter Tip Cigarette, a product of the Brown and Williamson Tobacco Corporation, is known widely among smokers as the cigarette with 20,000 tiny filters in every tip.

Stylus Material Being Selected

The record amount of material submitted to the Stylus is being carefully read and considered for use in the semi-annual publication. Editor Reynolds Cheney reported that the selection committee, composed of the English Department, was making excellent progress in choosing the material.

Scheduled to come out in early January, Stylus will this year appear in a new cover with 32 pages of Millsaps' best creative writing and a number of appropriate illustrations. Stylus Business Manager Hiram Polk said that since the book is financed principally by sales and only secondarily by S.E.B. funds, a new high in sales will be necessary to continue to improve the quality of the magazine. It is hoped that sales for the first semester will top 500—a new record.

Millsaps Mentioned In National Publication

The text of the article mentioned many colleges which offered certain advantages in curriculum, expenses, scholarships, etc., which might appeal to particular students, and urged that a student choose his college not necessarily because of "name" or family tradition, but according to his own needs.

Mississippi Youth Congress . . .

Millsaps Students, Faculty Serve In Simulated State Government

The Eighth Mississippi Youth Congress convened at 10:00 this morning at the state capitol.

After a period of politicking and getting acquainted with delegations from other colleges, the Millsaps delegation entered into full-scale legislative and committee actions. Professor Handlin of Ole Miss is the Director of the Senate. Representing Millsaps in the Senate are Betty Jane Cleveland, Alfred Statham, Alton Boyd, Jon Williams, and Jack Pool. Prof. Harmon Tillman of Millsaps is the director of the House of Representatives; Ann Myers is his assistant. Jim Waits is Parliamentarian of the House. Regular committee and legislative actions will be taken on bills submitted by the delegates.

Millsaps Entertains Med. School Faculty

The Millsaps College Faculty will entertain the Faculty of the School of Medicine of the University of Mississippi with a reception in the Millsaps-Wilson Library between the hours of eight and ten this evening.

Guests for the reception will include the entire faculty of the School of Medicine, the faculties of Belhaven and Mississippi College, and the Boards of Trustees of Millsaps College and Mississippi College.

The receiving line will be composed of Chancellor J. D. Williams of the University of Mississippi, and Mrs. Williams; Dr. David S. Pankratz, Dean of the University of Mississippi School of Medicine, and Mrs. Pankratz; Dr. David Wilson, Administrator of the University Hospital, and Mrs. Wilson; President and Mrs. H. E. Finger; and the Chairmen of the several departments of the University of Mississippi School of Medicine, with their wives.

The receiving line will be in the Forum Room. Guests will be served in the Humanities reading room of the library. Members of the Millsaps College faculty will assist in serving and receiving the guests. Approximately 500 people are expected for the party.

Staff members are requested to check with chairmen—work begins immediately.

Millsaps Cafeteria Will Be Managed By Richardson

Millsaps College has contracted with the J. L. Richardson Company of Houston, Texas, to serve in a consulting and advisory capacity for the college cafeteria beginning January 1, 1956.

Library To Close December 2, 3

The Millsaps-Wilson Library will be closed from 1:00 p.m. Friday, December 2, until Saturday morning, December 3, at 8:30 a.m. The closing of the library for this half day and evening will enable the library staff to prepare the building for the reception being given Friday evening by Millsaps College for the Faculty of the School of Medicine of the University of Mississippi. The building will be decorated with appropriate Christmas decorations.

The Richardson Company is currently operating in a similar capacity in a number of colleges and universities in the south and southwest.

Under the terms of the contract Millsaps College will continue to operate the cafeteria. The Richardson Company will furnish the college consulting personnel and whatever management personnel may be needed. The cost of food will remain the same.

President H. E. Finger said, "No change in personnel is anticipated. The contract with Richardson has been made due to the resignation of Mr. M. J. Marley, who has served as manager of the cafeteria for approximately four years. Mr. Marley's services to Millsaps College have been valuable. It is with regret that his resignation was received."

Feature Writing May Be Offered

If there is sufficient demand, the College plans to offer a course in feature writing during the second semester of the 1955-1956 session. The course would be taught by Mr. Norman Shavin, who is currently teaching a course in journalism. Journalism is not a prerequisite.

Dean Ferguson requests that all students who are interested in taking a course in feature writing contact his office or the Registrar's office and leave their names. This should be done by Tuesday noon, December 6, 1955.

Every effort will be made to find a time for the class that will be convenient to all wishing to enroll.

Miss. Student Governments Meet At Southern Dec. 9-10

The Mississippi Intercollegiate Council Conference convenes on the campus of Mississippi Southern College the weekend of December 9-10. Slated as the outstanding event of the year within the Student Government Association circles of Mississippi, this conference will attract the student leaders of the state's senior colleges.

The Mississippi Intercollegiate Council promises its delegates a practical two-day discussion of the pressing needs on Mississippi's college campuses. Highlights of the agenda include the addresses of Dr. D. W. McCain, President of Mississippi Southern College, and Dr. L. L. Love, Dean of Students at the University of Mississippi.

Friday evening at the informal banquet; the Common Problems Discussion Groups the following morning, and the Business Session Saturday afternoon.

A Millsaps delegate will preside over one of the Discussion Groups Saturday morning.

Mr. Bud Walker, Mississippi College's Student Body President, is Chairman of the Mississippi Intercollegiate Council; other officers are Mr. Howard Stroud, Mississippi Southern's Student Body President, Vice-Chairman; Miss Mary Elizabeth Barrett, M. S. C. W's Student Body President, Secretary; and Miss Carolyn Smithson, also of M. S. C. W., Treasurer.

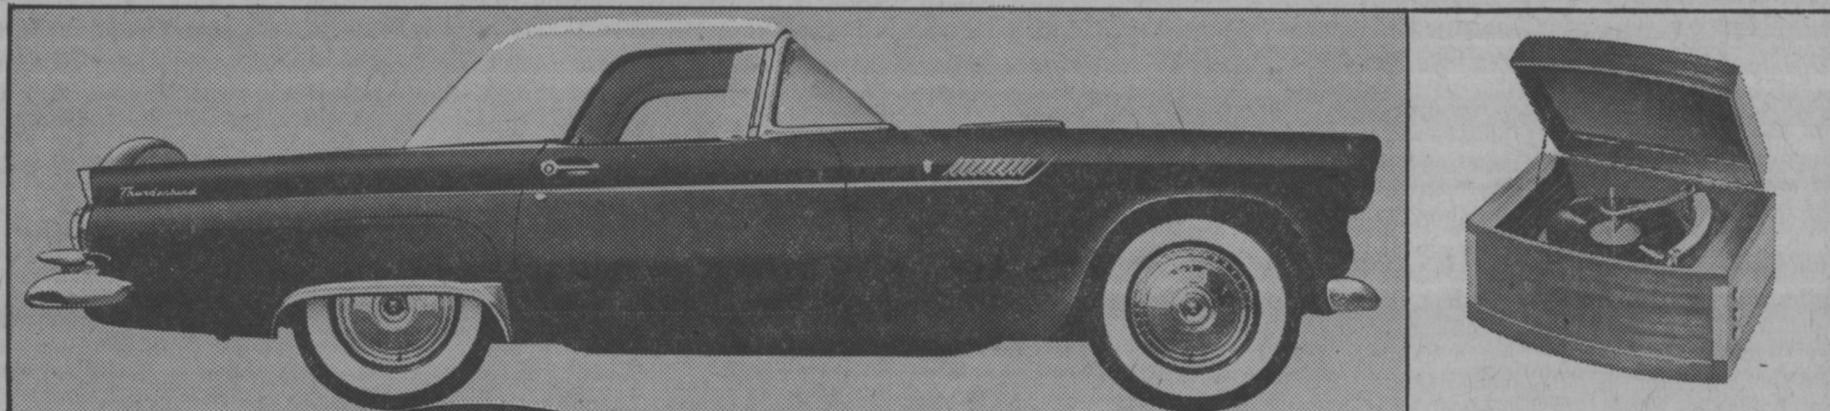

The Conference meets twice yearly. Its purpose is to promote a better and improved program of education — physically, mentally, and spiritually — in the schools which are members of this organization; to promote a permanent building program; to deal with problems common to all students bodies; and to work for the improvements of the state of Mississippi through higher education.

Actor Attends Classes To Increase Dramatic Skill

By Sandra Miller

John Agar, popular Hollywood actor, is still a student. When he is not making a movie (he averages two or three movies a year), he attends classes to augment his knowledge and skill in dramatics.

This interesting fact was brought to my attention while I was dining with the actor himself. Talking with movie stars is not exactly my line of work, but my uneasiness quickly disappeared for John Agar is just as natural, unaffected, and down-to-earth as you or I. He cordially answered all my questions, the first of which was how he got his start in the movies.

He said he was in the Army Air Corps in 1943 when his family moved to California. In 1945 he was home on a visit when he met producer David Selznick at a party. Mr. Selznick asked him if he had ever acted in high school or college plays; getting a negative reply, he asked him if he would like to try a little acting in movies. Mr. Agar thought Mr. Selznick was kidding, but two weeks later he received a letter at camp containing a thirty-day test option contract which meant that Mr. Selznick could test him within thirty days after his release from the service. After the test, John Agar signed a seven-year contract with David Selznick. He met director John Ford and made his first movie, "Fort Apache," in 1947. Although Mr. Agar likes all the roles he has played, he considers his role in "Sands of Iwo Jima" his best.

Mr. Agar, his lovely wife, and Mr. Ed Nelson, Mr. Agar's promotion agent, stopped in Jackson to publicize Mr. Agar's latest movie, "Put Off Tomorrow," which will appear at the Royal Theatre, December 4, 5, 6, 7.

Mr. Agar said that Universal Studios has recently set up a building specifically for the development of talents such as voice, riding, dancing, fencing. This facility is not just for the benefit of newcomers, but also for established actors and actresses who wish to "brush-up" or learn anew some particular skill.

Emphasizing his whole-hearted belief in continuous learning, Mr.

Agar made this statement which can be applied to everything we do in life, and I quote: "The ones that survive in this business are those that keep learning every day."

Ed's Excerpts

By Ed Upton

During the holidays many of us, without a doubt, sat around the house with our families watching "Badge 714" or "Private Secretary" on the television set—the thing which has become such a necessity in household furniture. Silence would be prevailing over all members of the family when all of a sudden your brother, who just thought of an "A" he made on a research paper, (they are made, so I'm told!) would decide he would let the family in on one of his better grades. Just as the first word flows through his lips, a "Shhhhhh! We can't hear the program" hits the brain child from all directions. People just don't talk during a television program. Why conversation is a thing of the past!

It used to be—back in the Dark Ages prior to TV—that families could gather around in a living room and converse with each other. Or there might be a game of Canasta or Monopoly going on on the living room floor. Of course, things old-fashioned like this were prior to the discovery of TV—way back in the 1940's—and people didn't know what a good thing they were missing.

Suppose you had friends to drop in for an evening and thought you'd talk or play cards rather than watch television. This would be the catastrophe of the age!

Why people don't just sit around and talk when TV is handy! Why in the first place—what is there to talk about? Of course, we used to find topics of conversation, but that was in the Pre-Teevy Age.

And everyone knows that the best topics for conversation are the "catchy" commercials—the ones with the dancing cigarette packs and the bopping lambs. It's so easy to strike up a conversation then—about "how cute the lamb

Dr. Bertocci Is MSM Speaker

Dr. Peter A. Bertocci, professor at Boston University, will be the platform speaker at the annual Methodist Student Movement conference in February.

Dr. Bertocci is professor in the philosophy department at Boston and author of Philosophy of Religion, textbook used currently at Millsaps. Dr. Bertocci will address the MSM conference four times in Columbus at M. S. C. W., February 10-12, 1956.

Final plans for the conference were made at the state MSM council meeting held Friday and Saturday in Starkville. Martina Riley, president, and Jim Waits, publications chairman, attended the council meeting from Millsaps.

is" or "why can't the cigarette packs stay together?"

The reason it's so easy to talk on such subjects is the length of time you have to talk. Now almost anybody could talk for one minute on one subject.

Well, I could rave on, but it's time for my favorite TV program; I've got to be on time for it, 'cause if I'm not there on time, there are stares from all over the room on account of the disturbance.

The minister drove the second hand car he had recently purchased back to the dealer's.

"I want to return this car," said he. "I'm afraid it's too stubborn for me."

"What's the matter with it?" asked the dealer. "Can't you run it?"

"Not and stay in the ministry," came the reply.

Press Agent Says "TV Has Revolutionized Picture Industry"

Television has revolutionized the motion picture industry. This fact was emphasized by press agent Art Katzen in a speech to the Millsaps journalism class.

He said, "With the development of the coaxial television cable and the multiplication of television stations, the motion picture industry saw that it must join the TV industry instead of fighting it."

This step led to a reappraisal of the quality of motion pictures and a subsequent improvement of the product. Specific developments include cinemascopic, greater use of color, and the three-dimension effect. Mr. Katzen pointed out that these improvements were necessary and desired—that by employment of these new devices, motion pictures surpassed their former entertainment and educational values.

Development of Movies

Mr. Katzen traced the development of the motion picture industry from its beginning through the development of sound to the changes caused by television.

Why Opinions Differ

In answer to questions from the audience, Mr. Katzen said that conflict in opinion of movies as a mass medium is natural. Individual ideas conflict with the mass mind, and different intellectual

Millsaps Preachers Are Serious And Dedicated

Practice makes perfect, so they say, and it's just as true for preachers as it is for carpenters, dentists, or artists. In the Millsaps Ministerial League, the outlet for the energies of budding Clovis Chappells, Billy Grahams, and Norman Vincent Peales, there is plenty of time for practice.

The Ministerial League, organized when the first group of students enrolled in Millsaps, opens its membership to all ministerial students on the campus: Methodist, Presbyterian, Episcopalian, and so on. Its Tuesday night meetings in Fitzhugh Chapel feature speakers on pastoral guidance, sermon preparation, doctrine and discipline of the Methodist Church, and forums on social issues and current events. One of the featured programs for the past two years has been Mr. Tillman's synopsis of the course in speech for ministerial students. Bishop Franklin, Dr. Weersing, and others are frequent visitors and speakers.

It is true that all work and no play make Jack a dull boy, so at least bimonthly the League has a fellowship meeting with refreshments and a good "bull session." In past years, the League has also had a series of programs on interdenominational relations and has sponsored visits to Protestant, Catholic, Greek Orthodox, and Jewish houses of worship.

One of its most important functions, and one which has gained it much recognition, is the number of mission points it jointly sponsors with the Women Christian Workers. These include visits weekly to the Old Ladies' Home, Methodist Children's Home, Methodist Boys' Farm, Baptist and University Hospitals, and work done by individuals for the world tomorrow.

uals in other areas. Although sponsored by the League and the WCW, this visitation program is open to each student of the college, and all wishing to participate are urged to contact the League.

The Millsaps Ministerial League is headed by Tommy Price, a junior from Ellisville. Jim Waits from Hattiesburg serves as vice president, Jack King of Booneville is secretary, Al Doyle of Memphis is treasurer, Leonard Jordan, Jackson, membership chairman, and Brooks Hudson, Shubuta, publicity chairman. Rev. Robert Anding, instructor of religion at Millsaps and Director of Town and Country Work for the Mississippi and North Mississippi Conferences of the Methodist Church, is serving as faculty adviser.

Regular meetings of the League are held each Tuesday night at 6:30 in Fitzhugh Chapel, and all ministerial students are invited to attend. The League especially urges students serving churches to participate in its program, for the prime purpose of the League is to develop the traits in students that will make them effective ministers for the world tomorrow.

RELIGIOUS VIEWS AND REVIEWS

Label Carefully And Well

By Brooks Hudson

Labels are useful items. Without them we wouldn't be able to tell the difference between a can of corn and a can of peas, or between Babs and Sally, since personal names themselves are labels of a sort. A bottle on the shelf could contain either sulphuric acid or water, as far as we are concerned, if there weren't some distinction set up by us to designate the difference between the two.

Labels are indeed useful, but like all other useful articles, they are sometimes misused. Personal likes and dislikes of some persons and things and the opposite feelings toward others lead to prejudices toward the object and the affixing of derogatory names or labels to the article. Thus public opinion is molded and reputations are made and blasted, for an opinion once born in the mind of a person soon spreads to another and eventually infects the mass.

Resentment toward contradictory opinion is sometimes more intense than that toward persons and things. We frequently affix labels to those groups who cross our fixed paths. In this sense, within recent years, we have tended to label everything of opposite view "communistic," and thus opposite sides have applied the same term to each other. In our zeal to discover subversion, for instance, we have prepared long lists of subversive organizations, only to have the same organization strike back directly, and rightly so, at their accusers. Much publicity has been given to "witch-hunts" in which the accused persons differed only in personal opinion with their accusers.

It is important, then, that we label carefully and well, for the bright picture on the can often hides the spoiled fruit within, but also the worn and soiled cover of the book may hide the immortal wisdom of the pages. Labels are designed to give clear, unbiased, and accurate descriptions, and if we expect to sell the goods, we must not forget to advertise correctly, mentioning only those virtues of the article which will encourage the sale.

The Major's basketball team got started on the wrong foot in their 96-62 defeat at the hands of Carey College in a pre-Thanksgiving game, but Millsaps should settle down and improve tremendously on their 1954-55 record. Last year they failed to win a single ball game.

Guards Tom Carey and Jack King and forward N. R. Walley are the only returnees from '55's perfect record team. Walley and Carey are both seniors, while Jack King, although a junior, will probably not be around next year. Five more juniors, one sophomore and eight freshmen round out the squad of 16.

Starters in the Carey game were: forwards Buster Hollaway and Walley, guards Gene Gordon and Bill Livingston, and Center Ed Whaley. However, Coach Erm Smith states that this line-up is not definite and changes will most likely will be made as the season progresses.

Tonight the Major basketballers take on Lambuth College at Jackson, Tennessee. All next week's games are on the road, with outings set for Bethel on Thursday in McKenzie, Tenn., and Sewanee Friday and Saturday at Sewanee.

Another game of interest next week is a planned ruckus between the Millsaps "B" team and Belhaven College (boys' team) at Buie Gym on Monday night.

Perhaps a little premature, but of interest, is this announcement—the Millsaps tennis team, under the direction of Dr. M. C. White, is planning a big season, with a schedule of about 25 matches.

In addition to meetings with traditional Mississippi rivals, the team plans to take on Birmingham Southern, Alabama, Southwestern, and Sewanee, among others. A road trip through Alabama and Georgia is being considered. Five out of the six last year's lettermen are returning.

Powers Moore, Willard Leggett, Jimmy McCormick, Freddy Abraham, and James Vaughn, as well as newcomer Max McDaniel will offer stiff opposition to all comers.

Bill's Super Service Station needs a man to work as an attendant from four to eight daily. However, for students who cannot work on week-ends, hours may be arranged. Anyone interested may call 6-8725 for further information.

Any men interested in working at the Baptist Hospital should go by the office of the Dean of Students and discuss the job with Dean McCracken.

The Admission Test for Graduate Study in Business, required for entrance by a number of graduate business schools or divisions throughout the country, will be offered on three dates during the coming year, according to Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the test. The tests will be administered on February 2, April 14, and August 18 in 1956.

Freedoms Foundation Offers Cash Awards

A better understanding of the American way of life is the object of Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge, Pennsylvania. That organization is providing awards to individuals, organizations, and schools for the seventh consecutive year.

Cash awards ranging from $50 to $1,000 will be given for cartoons, community programs, editorials, essays, photographs and captions, public addresses and sermons developed after November 11, 1955.

C. M. Oliver of Laurel is Mississippi representative for Freedoms Foundation, and Mr. Jim Livesay, Millsaps Public Relations Director, will explain the awards to interested students.

Pikes Won Second Half Speedball

Pi KA won the second half of speedball play by trouncing the Lambda Chis 13-0. The victory gave the Pikes the opportunity to meet the Sigs, winners of the first half, for overall first place honors.

A long pass from Pete Bradfield to glue-fingered wingback Nick Greener gave the Pikes their first and winning touchdown. The pass for the point was good. Late in the contest Bradfield hit again, this time on a short toss off an optional pass or run.

The Ministers took second place laurels by edging the slumping Lambda Chi club 7-6. The preachers' squad tallied first when Curt Holliday pulled down a long pass from Tex Sample in the end zone.

A short toss by Pappy Jordan produced the all important point. Howard Jones flipped to Perrin Smith for the Lambda Chi score.

The Pikes had ruined the Ministers' championship hopes by dropping them in a 6-0 game. Bradfield threw to Bobby Smith to cap the Pikes only scoring drive.

The last big upset of the year came when the KA's whipped the Sigs in a 6-0 thriller. Max McDaniel threw to Billy Graham for the winning touchdown with only 20 seconds remaining. A McDaniel to Leslie Shelton aerial had set up the score.

Scores in other contests were Ministers 6, Norsemen 6; Lambda Chi 0, Norsemen 0. The Preachers were forced to score in the final seconds to tie their game, after a pass from Greg Ballard to Earl Greneau had given the Norsemen an early lead.

The turkey gobbler has long since lost its head, for Thanksgiving is now a thing of the past. Storing away the holidays as fond memories, we focus our attention upon those "pre-Christmas" term papers and tests which for the next three weeks will be invading our weary slumber, as well as our conscious hours!

But the holly and mistletoe season will not only be ushered in by thick reference books and chewed pencils, but also by colorful decorations and the swish of party taffeta, for many S.E.B. dates are scattered across the calendar.

And now we list for you these parties which are just around the corner.

Carol and Noel

Carol Cully, a member of Kappa Delta Sorority and a senior from Jackson, recently became pinned to Noel Mills, a member of Kappa Alpha Order and a junior from Jackson.

Helen and Jerry

Pinned during the Thanksgiving holidays were Helen Thorne and Jerry Eskridge. Helen is a pledge of Chi Omega Sorority and a freshman from Holly Springs, while Jerry, formerly a Millsaps student, is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity and a University of Mississippi senior.

Yvonne and Dewitt

Yvonne Giffen, who is a pledge of Chi Omega Sorority and a freshman from Louisville, recently became pinned to Dewitt Crawford, formerly a Georgia Tech student, who is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity and a Millsaps junior from Louisville.

Aadron and Kermit

Aadron Moss, who is a freshman at Delta State, became pinned to Kermit Scott, who is a Millsaps sophomore and a member of Pi Kappa Alpha, November 23. Kermit and Aadron are from Leland.

M.C., Millsaps Groups Discuss Rivalry Problems

A committee of Millsaps and Mississippi College students has been set up to formulate a wholesome competitive program rather than vandalism between the schools.

Millsaps Committee members are Lacey Causey, N. R. Walley, Margaret Whitfield, and Ed Upton.

At a supper meeting held at Primos it was decided to plan a coordinated constructive program (such as a talent display) to absorb the student interest during orientation week.

Plans are also being made for the week before homecoming.

Chi Delta Met, Initiated Seven

Chi Delta, the woman's creative writing honorary, met in the home of Mrs. W. F. Goodman, the advisor. The meeting was for the purpose of initiating the honorary's seven tapees. After separate initiation ceremonies for each of the seven girls, President Shirley Stanton welcomed Nancy Crawford, Cara Lloyd Hemphill, Susie Lipsey, Aden Coleman, Shirley Brown, Eugenia Kelley, and Betty Anthony as new members.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Goodman to Miss Morehead, Shirley Stanton, Alice Starnes, and the new members.

Marine Officers Visit Millsaps

The Marine Officer Procurement Team will visit Millsaps, December 1 & 2. While on the campus they will talk with students who are interested in earning Marine Commissions.

Qualified students may enroll in one of three courses: Leaders Class, Officers Candidate Course, and the Aviation Officer Course.

Religion Class Visits Parchman

The Church and Society Class of Millsaps College toured the State Penitentiary at Parchman.

Dr. J. D. Wroten, head of the Millsaps Religion Department, and fourteen students were given a supervised tour led by Chaplain S. R. Harrington and Educational Director R. L. Patterson, Jr. The tour included visits to the hospital, cannery, dairy, sewing rooms, and kitchens. Students interviewed prisoners in various camps, where handiwork was displayed.

Superintendent and Mrs. M. E. Wiggins were hosts to the group for dinner. Each visitor was given an issue of the prison newspaper, The Inside World.

Those attending were: Dr. J. D. Wroten, Patricia Chunn, Betty Dyess, Decatur Butler, Charlotte Elliott, Young Lee, Ann Kenman, Jimmy McCormick, Bobby Joe Smith, Laverne Smith, Dorothy Starnes, Jeanette Sylvester, Joseph Way, and Nancy Peacock.

Chi O's Have Dance Tomorrow

Chi Omega's Christmas dance will be held tomorrow night at the Edwards Hotel. Stags are invited. Music will be by the Statesmen.

Kappa Deltas Entertain Sigs

The Kappa Deltas entertained the Kappa Sigs at an open house before the holidays. Some of the group gathered around the piano and sang, others played games, while others sat around and talked.

Cookies and cokes were served to the group, which was chaperoned by Dr. and Mrs. Ross Moore.

KD Dance Music By Duke Huddleston

The Kappa Deltas are giving a dance tonight at the Walthall Hotel. Music for the dance will be furnished by Duke Huddleston and his band. Stags are invited to the dance which will be from 8-12.

The confident young man arose and spread out his notes on the reading desk, adjusted his glasses, cleared his throat, and prepared to debate the affirmative of the subject: "Modern Education Doesn't Meet the Needs of the Day." He stared intently at the notes, and bewilderment spread over his face.

"I'm sorry," he stammered. "I've got it all written down, but hanged if I can read it."

"Sit down, young man," an old gentleman in the group admonished. "You've won the debate!"

Major Major:

"Singing In Weddings, Free" Is Karen Gilfoy's Pastime

The Major Major spot light for the week is pointed right at Karen Gilfoy, a senior majoring in music and education. She is a well known figure on the Millsaps campus; in fact, if there is any student on the campus who doesn't know her, that student must be a bona fide square.

Singers

Karen, who counts Singers tours among the things she has enjoyed most at Millsaps, has been in the tour choir three years. She is a soloist and will be heard singing the contralto solos in the Messiah on December 11.

Players

Contending with Singers for Karen's attention is the Millsaps Players. Karen has appeared in Phoenix Too Frequent, The Madwoman of Chaillot, The Infernal Machine, and A Streetcar Named Desire. She is now directing "East Lynne," a one act hilarious melodrama, which will be presented Tuesday and Wednesday. Karen is a member of Alpha Psi Omega, national dramatics honorary and won the award for best supporting actress last year.

Miscellaneous

One of Karen's most important honors was that of being included in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities last year. She has been a favorite for two years and is a member of the Majorette Club. Karen is a member of the Chi Omega Sorority, having served as chapter correspondent and Rush Chairman.

Comments

Karen, when asked about her most frequent pastime, responded, "Singing in Weddings, free." She says if she could go back in time and start her college career all over, she would do almost everything differently. To begin with she says she would pass Latin on her first try and change a few of her other grades.

Future Plans

Karen plans to teach for a year, and then to do more voice study, probably at the Conservatory of Music in Cincinnati, Ohio.

In conclusion Karen remarked, "Time to go to Singers," and dashed out the door.

"He who ventures to start a business on a shoestring can reasonably expect a good lacing."

The Plight of the Purple and White...

The time has come for another Purple and White editor and business manager to be chosen. This is also the time to think about things that could improve the college newspaper.

Choosing Editor and Business Manager

The heads of the P. and W. are now chosen by a faculty-student publications committee. Popular election of the editor and business manager has been the desire of many students. There is no good reason why students could not elect an editor and business manager from candidates approved by a publications committee. That committee should have certain written points upon which to base their decision, however. Some arguments against the elective system are: 1. Election would turn the offices into popularity contests, and good editors are not popular people. 2. The election would be carried by a fraternity-sorority bloc and "political affiliation" would be more important than qualifications.

Qualifications of Candidates

The editor should be a junior with at least three hours in journalism. He should have worked with the P. and W. at least one semester, preferably the semester just before taking his office.

Fraternity or sorority succession should be limited to two terms consecutively for both editor and business manager. A certain point index should be required as P. and W. editors' grades usually drop during their term of office.

Rewards for Service

The editor and business manager receive two extracurricular hours per semester and divide two-thirds of any profit from the Purple and White.

This system seems fair enough so long as the S. E. B. appropriations are just under the actual operating cost of the P. & W. This leaves incentive for the editor and business manager to boost profits in order to "pay out" and earn some money for their work. On the other hand, the editor and business manager may "economize too much." Engravings and the size of the paper may be cut to the point that the student body does not receive its money's worth.

Perhaps some salary-plus-bonus system could be set up. By this, the editor and business manager could be paid a set monthly salary and a bonus could be given at the end of the year to the P. and W. heads whose income exceeds a set amount. This would not remove the incentive for reasonable economy and the profit-motive of active advertising solicitation.

Six department editors and six reporters now receive one hour credit for their work on the Purple and White each semester. No provision is made for the business staff, but an interpretation of the rules gives some of the "reporters' hours" to members of the business staff. This arrangement leaves the editorial staff short of hours to distribute; thus short of workers. Something should be done to clear this up.

Class Sponsorship

In some colleges, the newspaper is operated by a journalism class. This could be the case at Millsaps. The class idea would offer a double advantage: 1. Hours and grades could be given for work done. 2. The editor would assign stories and know within reason that the stories would be written. In other words, work on the P. and W. would be taken more seriously. Such a set-up would improve the quality of the paper and give practical value to journalism classes. Instruction in the mechanics of news, feature, and editorial writing; makeup; headline writing; and advertising management from a qualified instructor who did not direct paper policy would be invaluable.

News Values

A journalism class open to freshmen would also improve the college newspaper. Many students at Millsaps have no sense of newspaper values—a linotype is what a printer calls a typewriter, and a story must be giddy to be a feature. Students and faculty members have praised the P. and W. articles that were judged "impossible" by newspaper standards. People will be associated with newspapers the rest of their lives. A large freshman journalism class would be instructed in the use of newspapers as a source of information and entertainment and as a means of promoting their business.

Apathy and Publication Dates

The Friday publication date of the P. and W. leaves something to be desired. A great many of the "suitcase students" do not see a P. and W. until they return to the college Monday morning, as they leave for home before the paper is distributed. The publication date should be changed to Tuesday, with the deadlines on Friday afternoon (if the printers could agree). The articles would be more "newsy" under this set-up as the Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday meetings could be reported. (They are "after deadline" happenings now.)

Students may not care—Only one letter to the editor from a student has come this semester—And there has been discontent that could have been discussed in the "letters" column. The reason for some of the apathy could lie in the fouled-up situation at the Purple and White. Some of it could lie in the fact that other organizations need to take stock of their activities and alter their ways of doing things.

S. E. B. could petition the faculty to consider the problems of the Purple and White.

S.E.B. Appoints Social Activities Committee

The Student Executive Board has appointed a committee to decide who has jurisdiction over S.E.B. dates. This action was prompted by a Ministerial League request for a one o'clock night even though the ruling states that only social organizations are entitled to this privilege.

Members of the regular S.E.B. social activities committee, two faculty members, the two deans, a single girl and boy, and a married girl and boy will compose the group.

Also discussed at this last meeting was the Mississippi Intercollegiate Student Council Convention to be held December 9th and 10th at Mississippi Southern. S.E.B. plans to send at least a carload of students to the meeting.

N. R. Walley, president of S.E.B., appointed Ed Upton, Lacy Causey, and Margaret Whitfield as a committee to meet with a Mississippi College group before Thanksgiving. S.E.B. executives have already met with Mississippi College students in an effort to "formulate something constructive rather than vandalism between the schools."

Jackson Symphony Concert At Bailey

The Jackson Symphony will present a Christmas program on December 13 at 8:15. The concert will be held at Bailey Junior High School, which is within walking distance of the campus.

The program will consist of selections from the "Nutcracker Suite" by Tchaikovsky, "March of the Toys" by Victor Herbert, "Sleigh Ride" by Leroy Anderson, Christmas Carols arrangement by Morton Gould, "Ava Maria" by Schubert, "It is Enough" from Elijah by Mendelsohn, "Evening Prayer" and "Dream Pantomime" from Hansel and Gretel, by Humperdinck.

The Millsaps students and faculty should take a personal interest in this concert as several of the participants will be known to them. Dr. Williamson and Dr. Hamilton of the Millsaps faculty will play the violin and bass respectively. Millsaps students who will participate are Howard Jones, bass, and Bill Avera, French Horn. Fred Jones, baritone, will be the soloist.

Four-year-old Bobby was stroking his cat before the fire in perfect content. The cat, also happy, began to purr loudly. Bobby gazed at her for a while, then suddenly seized her by the tail and dragged her roughly away from the hearth.

His mother said—"You must not hurt your kitty, Bobby."

"I'm not," said Bobby, "but I've got to get her away from the fire. She's beginning to boil."

A Challenge To A Student

By Martina Riley

Now that the Thanksgiving Holidays are history, along with the turkey, the ball game, and the warmth of being at home again, we regard them as pleasant memories to recall and relate. But more than a pleasant memory should be the deep significance of Thanksgiving, a meaning of which we ought to have made ourselves aware.

For our own sakes, let us hope that sandwiched somewhere between Thursday's satisfied appetite and Friday's new anticipation of Christmas was the realization that our American way of life, for which we have so long given thanks, is now being tried by fire.

Our American democracy was founded on freedom of the individual and built by a people free from the fear which possesses our land today. No doubt the early settlers did fear the wrath of their mother country and the savage practices of the Indians. But they did not fear each other. They looked at one another without suspicion, without mistrust.

Some in our land have realized that we can no longer take our freedom for granted. Some, indeed, are seeking sincerely to preserve that most precious of our inheritances. But through lack of insight they are crushing to death that which they love most.

It's like the frightened mother in a car wreck, who tried to save her baby's life. But, in her frantic effort, she almost smothered the child to death.

What is it today when men with their voices pray for freedom, and with their hands snatch it away from another? In a land of free speech, how can the neighbor next door, the state, even the church dare to silence one person? In a land where men can choose for themselves, why are some areas closed to their investigation?

Is this consistent, America? Wake up before it is too late! Before there is no longer a need to fight the enemies of democracy.

Our Obligation

The task would be easy if our obligation ended here—with the realization of our situation. But it cannot stop here. We ask ourselves, "What can I do?" But no one has the answer.

By ourselves we cannot awaken America. But we can begin with ourselves, for America is composed of individuals. The next time we see a person's freedom being snatched away, we can speak out in opposition. The next time we refuse to listen with open mind to another's opposing opinion on a controversial question, let us remember that he has the same right as we to express his view.

Perhaps we can set an example for our state through our student government. It is new, and we know little about it. But who is to say where its possibilities end? If we are enough concerned, we could build a government like America's ideal. We could, if we determined, put freedom into practice. Our influence could have no end.

But if we are not concerned, our student government can lose itself in the details of campus life. Perhaps it will not be big enough for the expression of our concern; if it is not, it will be because we have not made it so.

We must start somewhere.

Perplexed Papa: "Why were you kissing my daughter in that dark corner last night?"

Lineman: "Now that I've seen her in daylight, I sort of wonder myself."

"In The Narrow Place"

The first meeting of Gloria and Richard (Johnnie Marie Swindull and Keith Tonkel) is a scene from Walter Ely's "In the Narrow Place".

"On Monday Next"

The furious stage director (David Franks) and the irate actor (Harold Edwards) and their innocent scape goat, the writer (Clarence Shannon), are pictured in "On Monday Next".

"East Lynne"

Lady Isabel (Pat Warren) tearfully contemplates the untimely demise of Little William (Johnny Fleming) in "East Lynne".

Stylus Distributed After Christmas

The initial 1955-56 edition of Stylus, Millsaps literary magazine, will greet students on their return from the Christmas Holidays. The semi-annual publication will be ready for distribution during the week of January 2-7, 1956.

The list of contributors includes the names of students from every class enrolled at Millsaps, and the contents will provide for its readers a well-balanced reflection of reading material.

Departing from the time-honored (?) traditional form, Stylus for the Fall Semester will appear in a shiny illustrated binding and a new form throughout. Stylus will be available through the English classes and the Bookstore at 25c per copy.

Players Workshop Plays End A Successful Run

The Millsaps Players' "workshop" plays had a successful two-night run this week. The three one-act plays were directed by Millsaps students Walter Ely, Karen Gilfoyle, and Burton Jackson. The plays have been regarded as three of the "best one-act plays ever chosen for presentation on the Millsaps stage."

"In the Narrow Place," the dramatic story of a crippled girl's revenge on the boy who loved her, was written and directed by Walter Ely. Johnnie Swindull and Keith Tonkel played the leads, and Janice Bower played the girl's spinster aunt. Before the plays were presented, Professor Lance Goss remarked in regard to the world premiere of Walter's play: "I am pleased, Walter is pleased, and I think the audience will be pleased with it." This was the first time in its 31-year history that the Players have presented a play by a Millsaps student.

The melodrama, "East Lynne," was appropriately tearful, especially the interview between Barbara, the second Mrs. Carlyle, and Madam Vine, who was in reality Lady Isabel, the first Mrs. Carlyle,

Millsaps To Participate In Mock Political Convention

When the presidential year rolls around and mock political conventions come back to the nation's campuses, Millsaps College will take a part. For the first time in Mississippi, college students will have the opportunity to participate in a large scale Democratic mock convention.

Tentatively scheduled for April 17-19, Millsaps' mock convention will follow very closely the party pattern and give student participants and spectators alike a lively view of politics in action. The mock convention is created to interest students in current political issues and in the presidential election. Needless to say, it will borrow much of the pageantry, promotion and horseplay of the American political parties.

Dr Harry S. Manley, chairman of the political science department, is guiding the planning of the convention. He worked in 1948 and 1952 with the Republican mock convention at Westminster College in Pennsylvania. Working with him will be a committee of about 15.

Tentative plans include a keynote address by a well-known politician on Monday evening, the adopting of a party platform on Tuesday afternoon and evening, and the electing of the presidential nominee on Wednesday.

All students will be eligible to participate. Certain ones will be campaign managers for national figures. There will be much debate and soliciting for votes. At Westminster college, students extended the final session, in which they nominated a ticket of Eisenhower and Warren, until 2:30 in the morning.

Library Closes December 16

The library will close at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon, December 16th, and not reopen until the morning of January 3rd.

All library books now in circulation, if not due earlier, will be due without fail before the college closes on the 16th. If such books are not returned or renewed by that date a fine will be charged for the entire vacation period.

Regular 2-week books may be checked out on December 14th, 15th and 16th, to be returned on January 3rd. Reserve books may be checked out on December 16th only.

Carter Speech Contest To Be December 13

The annual Carter Speech Contest, oratorical contest among members of the Millsaps student body, will be held at Millsaps College on Tuesday, December 13, announced Lance Goss, head of the speech department.

This contest will consist of a ten-minute original oration without notes, the winner to receive a medal from the Carter Jewelry Store in Jackson. Each speech will be judged on content and delivery. The first and second place winners will represent Millsaps in the oratorical phase of the debate tournament. For the first year judges will not be selected from the faculty but will be business men from the Jackson area.

First-place winners for the last two years have been Robert Bradley and Jack Loflin. The contest is open to all men and women students at Millsaps. Any student wishing to enter should see Mr. Goss or Mr. Tillman.

Martin Luther To Be Shown Next Week

The film Martin Luther will be shown in the Christian Center at 2 p.m. Monday afternoon, December 12. It is being shown under the sponsorship of Trinity Lutheran Church to whom the film was presented by Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Schuetter. There will be no charge for admission.

Religious Views and Reviews

In Freedom, There Is Life

By Brooks Hudson

Recently Alfred Statham, one of "Tillman's Talkers," and a delegate to the Mississippi Youth Congress, introduced a measure approving Ole Miss' invitation to Rev. Alvin Kershaw as its Religious Emphasis Week speaker. This bill was roundly applauded by the assembly.

We throw our full support behind Mr. Statham's position, for we feel that the Ole Miss student body is entitled to and has the right to hear Mr. Kershaw.

Much has been said in the past few weeks about the matter. The minister, who recently contributed half of his $32,000 (minus taxes) prize money to the NAACP, has been sharply criticized for his action, and it is felt by some that he will appear at Oxford to preach his opinions to the student body.

This, we believe, is a false assumption. The minister has announced that he will not touch on the segregation question, and consequently, this we believe he will do: deliver messages that will inspire students to higher thinking, which is the purpose of a religious emphasis program.

But the question at stake here is not theological, but political. What Mr. Kershaw will preach makes no difference, but the point emphasized by observers is — by his actions, he has struck a blow against an institution which he does not support. They seem to say, "He who is not for us is against us and should be repelled."

McDONALD'S

Although Mr. Kershaw's views may not be ours, nevertheless he has the right to have them, and even the right to express them. There is the policy of academic freedom involved — to hear both sides of the case, and from them choose one's position. To hear only one viewpoint leads to indoctrination, and indoctrination is destructive to our Southern democratic way of life.

Here at Millsaps we are encouraged to think. We are given the tools: many viewpoints from which to choose one. We are not told this or that is right, but are asked to consider all the factors before deciding on one. If Mr. Kershaw gives any of his views on segregation he will be giving us a viewpoint, and our natural curiosity will encourage us to consider, accept, or reject this in formulating our final decision on the problem.

S. E. B. Discussed Records, MC Relations, Student Government Meet

The Millsaps Student Executive Board held its bi-weekly meeting in the Forum Room of the library Tuesday, November 29.

Three subjects occupied most of the evening's time. A discussion on the organization and recording of the budget for this year and for the years to come led to adoption of a central record, to be kept in simplified form, with each of S.

No, the right to hear another's views is not in opposition to our Southern way of life, for the South was founded on the principles of freedom of speech and petition. We believe that a person has the right to speak and be heard. In Russia, free speech may be stifled, but not here in Mississippi.

Yes, Mr. Kershaw has a right to speak; whether or not the Ole Miss students hear is their business. And Mr. Kershaw should hear our point of view, for only a free interchange of ideas will help to bring about an understanding of this business. In freedom, there is life; in restriction, destruction.

E. B.'s dependent organizations having a more detailed ledger. The system will eliminate much of the confusion in drawing up the distribution of the Student Activities Fund.

Continuing toward the object of gaining smoother relationships between Millsaps and M. C., a meeting with the M. C. student governing group for early Sunday afternoon. Several recommendations were presented as worthwhile endeavors for the combined student bodies of the two colleges.

Plans were also made for a large number of S. E. B. members to attend the state-wide meeting of college student governing bodies at Mississippi Southern in Hattiesburg on December 9 and 10.

Also included in the activities was the Bobashela picture of S. E. B.

Youth Congress: Five Millsaps Students Get Superior Ratings

Congress Exemplified

"Evolution Of Thought"

The eighth Mississippi Youth Congress reflected an evolution of thought in Mississippi. College and high school students from every part of the state, nearly 200 in all, spoke out in defense of measures designed to improve our state. The students tried to face the important issues, and the legislation turned to the segregation problem in Mississippi.

Senators Alton Boyd of Millsaps and Charles Pickering of Jones Junior College introduced a resolution calling for the youth congress to go on record as being opposed to the use of any form of violence in the maintenance of segregation. The co-authors defended the bill on the floor and when the vote was taken, only two students opposed the bill.

Kershaw

Alfred Statham, Senior Senator from Millsaps, led the fight for adoption of his resolution calling for the congress to go on record as favoring the participation of Rev. Alvin Kershaw at Religious Emphasis Week at Ole Miss.

Rev. Kershaw had been invited to speak at Ole Miss, when he made the announcement that he would donate some of the $32,000 he won on a T.V. program to the NAACP. Steps were taken to rescind the invitation to Rev. Kershaw. Jim Mathis, Ole Miss senator followed Statham in defense of the resolution. Mathis said that the overwhelming majority of Ole Miss students want Rev. Kershaw to speak at Ole Miss, and were up-in-arms about the actions to prevent his coming to the university. The resolution passed unanimously.

Other Legislation

The youth congress senate passed a resolution striking at the board of trustees of state colleges for suggesting that speakers on state college campuses be "screened" before they are invited to speak. This measure, authorized by John Bevon of Mississippi Southern, asked that the screening program be stopped.

Jim Dukes of Ole Miss was author of a bill passed unanimously by the senate denying the legislature power to abolish the public schools. High school students who composed the House of Representatives failed to concur, however.

Student legislative committees killed a measure introduced by Southwest Junior College of Summit calling for the outlawing of the NAACP by declaring it subversive. When the Summit delegation attempted to rewrite the measure in the form of a resolution and get it before the legislature, it again met with failure.

Other legislative action included the passage of the following measures:

A bill by Alfred Statham of Millsaps permitting unemployed persons to receive supplementary payments in addition to state unemployment compensation.

An important bill by Peggy Ross of Belhaven and Jim Rankin of Mississippi College to make it compulsory for day nursery schools for pre-school children to meet the requirements of the state Public Welfare Board.

A bill by James Mathis of Ole Miss subjecting the state of Mississippi to suit for tort claims.

LXA Participates In March Of Dimes Drive

Mr. Stan Hart, director of Hinds County March of Dimes, announced this week that the Millsaps chapter of Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity will present the first annual Teens Against Polio Benefit Dance at City Auditorium on January 28. Sponsored by the Hinds County division of the National March of Dimes, the event will climax a month-long campaign to raise funds for the fight against polio. The dance will be the high point of the campaign for Organizations Should Consult "Clearing House" For Christmas Giving

Any organization desiring to present food or gifts to the needy at Christmas may obtain names and descriptions of people needing help from the Christmas Clearing House, which was set up by the Community Services Council of the United Givers Fund to prevent duplication in giving. To obtain names or further information call Mr. Bill Owen at 3-5251.

Ratings on Members

In pre-legislative action, the college delegations presented lively nomination and acceptance speeches for the office of president pro-tem of the senate. Glenda Pevey and Elizabeth Barrett of MSCW won ratings of superior for their nominating and acceptance speeches, respectively. Charles Carruth of Ole Miss was elected president pro-tem by secret ballot, and he appointed Talmadge Littlejohn of Mississippi College parliamentarian. Both received awards for their outstanding work in running the senate.

Jerry Trigg of Millsaps was clerk of the Senate.

Jim Waits of Millsaps received recognition as parliamentarian of the House.

Ann Myers was assistant to Director of the House, Professor Harmon Tillman.

B. T. Bishop of Mississippi College was outstanding in bringing into focus the moral issues of the various bills and resolutions.

Superior awards were won by following Millsaps students:

Statham: bill, debater, speaker; Boyd: bill, debater, speaker; Jon Ed Williams: bill parliamentarian; Betty Jane Cleveland: parliamentarian; Jack Pool: Parliamentarian.

Professor Irvin Handlin of Ole Miss was director of the Youth Congress.

Steve Allen tells of the vaudevillian whose act included a flock of trained pigeons. Riding along on a railroad train in Ohio, he was approached by the conductor, who told him the birds could not stay in the passenger car.

The actor protested that they were his livelihood and he had to take them with him wherever he went. The conductor was adamant—the pigeons had to go.

Finally the actor gave up. Much against his will, he opened the windows and threw the birds out. Then he turned on the conductor. "When we get to Cleveland," he growled, "I'm going to the officials of the railroad and report you."

"This train isn't going to Cleveland," said the conductor. "It happens to be bound for Cincinnati."

Frantically the actor threw open the window again, leaned out and called to the trained pigeons, "Hey, fellows, not Cleveland—Cincinnati! Cincinnati!"

Beethoven Club Elects Officers

Officers were elected at the newly organized Beethoven Club. These were as follows: president, Annette Johnston, Tupelo; vice-president, Carolyn Allen, Shaw; secretary, Darby Gilmer, Long Beach; correspondence secretary, Billy Avera, Jackson; reporter, Martina Riley, Jackson; decoration chairman, Mary Pendergraft of Belhaven College. Mrs. J. L. Roberts is the sponsor.

The purpose of this newly organized club is to stimulate interest in classical music. It is open to all students who are interested in music. At the first meeting Mrs. Foster Collins of Jackson, a member of the Chaminade Club, entertained the members. The future programs are planned to include different guest artists as well as students. The next meeting is to be held in Dr. W. H. Smithson's home.

Promoting Better Education —

Millsaps Students Attend State Intercollegiate Council

Members of the Millsaps Student Executive Board will attend a meeting of the Mississippi Intercollegiate Council at Mississippi Southern next weekend.

The purpose of the council is "to promote a better and improved program of education, physically, mentally, and spiritually, in the schools which are members of this organization; to promote a permanent building program; to deal with problems common to all student bodies; and to work for the improvement of the state of Mississippi through higher education."

Plans for the weekend include plenary sessions, an informal banquet, a Beauty Ball, informal bull sessions, common problems discussion groups, and a business session.

To be admitted into the council a school must attend two of the organization's meetings (it meets twice a year) and be approved by the council.

Some Millsaps students planning to attend the conference are Margaret Whitfield, Charlotte Elliott, Hugh Johnson, Lacy Causey and John Hubbard.

Major Major:

Emily Greener, President Of Majorette Club, Is Featured

Hats off to Emily Greener, a senior majoring in education, who is Major-Major of the week.

Extra Curricular

Emily, who is now on the Special Occasion Committee, has served on S. E. B. for two years. She is a member of Kappa Delta Sorority, of which she has been president and is now assistant treasurer. She has also served as president of Panhellenic Council and is now president of the Majorette Club. When asked if she'd ever been on the Dean's List, Emily only smiled and said, "No, 'fraid not".

Opinions

Emily is one of the few seniors who is finishing in the regular four years. She says that she wouldn't take anything for going all four years, and she only wishes it would last a few more years. If everyone took Emily's advice, they would stay at college just as long as they could. Emily, who considers the friends she has made here one of the best parts of college life, says she likes Millsaps because it's small and so friendly.

We asked Emily if she had to start all over again would she do anything differently in her college career. She laughed and replied, "Well, I'll say I'd study more, but actually I'd probably do every bit of it exactly the same."

Singers Present Handel's Messiah Feast Of Carols Also Presented

The Millsaps Singers will present the annual performance of Handel's Messiah this Sunday at 3:00 p. m. in the Christian Center auditorium.

This year the Singers, under the direction of Alvin Jon (Pop) King have undertaken to present the Messiah without combining with the other choral groups of the city. The program has been shortened to include selections from Part I and the Hallelujah chorus only. The performance will last an hour and a half.

Next Wednesday night at 6:30 the Singers will present their annual Feast of Carols in the Christian Center auditorium. This program will include familiar carols and hymns as well as religious music. The Singers will present selections from the Feast of Carols in Chapel Thursday morning.

Students and town people are all urged to attend these inspiring presentations. The traditional and beautiful programs make us realize just a little more the true significance of the Christmas season.

Billie Burke, the movie actress, was enjoying a transatlantic ocean trip when she noticed that a gentleman at the next table was suffering from a bad cold.

"Uncomfortable?" she asked sympathetically.

The man nodded.

"I'll tell you just what to do for it," Miss Burke said. "Go back to your stateroom. Drink lots of orange juice. Take five aspirin tablets. Cover yourself with all the blankets you can find. Sweat the cold out. I know what I'm talking about. I'm Billie Burke from Hollywood."

The man smiled warmly and said. "Thanks. I'm Dr. Mayo of the Mayo Clinic."

Homeward Bound

After fifteen days have been marked off the calendar, Millsaps students will be homeward bound, for those ever-to-be-desired and never-to-be-forgotten Christmas holidays will have come at last!

The Singers

Singing in front of the Governor's Mansion last Friday night, the Singers sang a series of Christmas selections which thrilled the many who were listening beside their radios, as well as those who were present for the concert. Lending a special glow to the Christmas season, the Singers will present their annual Feast of Carols, December 14.

Youth Congress

Congratulations to those students who represented Millsaps at the 1955 Youth Congress. Bringing home superior ratings were Alton Boyd, Alfred Statham, Jon Ed Williams, Betty Jane Cleveland, and Jack Pool.

With a long face, we 'nounce that there were no 'nouncements this week!

Winter Wonderland KD Party Theme

The pledges of Beta Sigma Omicron, Chi Omega, and Phi Mu were entertained by the Kappa Delta pledges at the KD House Thursday afternoon, December 1. A theme of "Winter Wonderland" was carried out in the decorations and program.

Welcoming the guests was pledge president, Patti Bradley. A skit entitled Queen of the Snowflakes, which was written by Barbara Ann Thomas and starred Dyane Nelson, was presented to the group. Favors were "Snowflake Booklets," which included the afternoon's program.

Refreshments were salted snowflakes, Wonderland sandwich delight, creamed snowballs, snowman goodies, and melted snow slush.

Lambda Chis' Open House

Theta-Eta Zeta of the Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity will observe its annual Christmas open house on Thursday, December 15, from 7 until 9:30 p. m.

Millsaps faculty and students, alumni of Lambda Chi Alpha, parents, and friends are invited to attend the informal event.

Social chairman George Alexander of Jackson is in charge of arrangements.

A swell-headed football star had gone on for 30 minutes about how wonderful he was and how he came to perform all those miracles in the game. He finally stopped and said:

"But enough about me, old man. Let's talk about you. How do you think I played the game?"

An Englishman, an Irishman, and an American were flying over the Sahara desert.

"A beastly place," the Englishman said.

"The devil's home," the Irishman said.

"What a parking lot!" the American said.

Social Groups To Decorate Campus

Christmas campus decorations are to be put up by the various social groups. This project is sponsored by the Majorette Club.

The Kappa Deltas working with the Lambda Chis will decorate the library; the Chi Omegas and Pikes, the front of Sullivan-Harrell; the Phi Mus and Kappa Sigs, the front of Murrah; and the B.S.O.'s and K.A.'s, the front of the Christian Center.

"Autumn Leaves" Theme Of Dance Given By Vikings For Campus

"Autumn Leaves" was the theme of the Viking dance which was held at the YMCA recently. The gymnasium and game room were decorated with sparkling leaves of many colors. Playing for the dance was a band from Hinds Junior College under the direction of Charles Wicker. A color scheme of green and yellow was carried out at the refreshment table, where punch and cookies were served during intermission. The party was open to the entire student body and faculty members.

Chaperones were Dr. and Mrs. M. C. White and Dr. and Mrs. A. P. Hamilton. Other faculty members were Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Price and Dr. and Mrs. R. R. Priddy.

Kappa Delta Entertains With S. E. B. Christmas Dance

The Walthall Hotel was the scene of the Kappa Delta Christmas Dance on December 2. A large pine tree sprayed with white snow and hung with red balls was brightly spotlighted in one corner, and a punch table decorated in the Christmas style was the focal point at the south end of the ballroom.

The Kappa Deltas and their guests danced to the music of Duke Huddleston and his band from 8 until 12. During intermission the favors, which were leather studded boxes lined with suede, were presented, and punch and petit fours were served.

Chaperones for the evening were Dr. and Mrs. T. L. Reynolds, Dr. and Mrs. Harry S. Manley, Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Welch, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph O'Ferrall, Miss Jean Sain, and Dr. Gustavus Williamson.

Guests were Jeanette Smith, Dickie Pepper; Ann Dillard, Jimmy Jones; Alice Ferguson, John Awad; Nancy Neyman, Bob Sartin.

Kappa Deltas and their dates were Margaret Woods, Hal Brown; Nancy Peacock, Sam Jones; Clara Parks Booth, Murray Pinkston; Nancy Vines, Cy Vance; Emily Greener, Parker Sojourner; Nita Reed, Billy Greenlee; Pat Grauer, Sam Tomlinson; Hazel Truluck, William Jeanes; Sarah Jones, Leslie Shelton; Robin Smith, Foster Lowe; Carol Culley, Noel Mills; Sylvia Stevens, John McEachin; Annette Johnston, N. Chi Omega Has Dance In Edwards Crown Room

The Chi Omega Sorority celebrated its S.E.B. date with an informal dance held in the newly-decorated Crown Room of the Edwards Hotel Saturday night, December 3. The gold theme of the Crown Room was carried further with little gold Christmas trees and candles on the tables.

The Statesmen from Mississippi State College, under the direction of Fred Beaufait, furnished music for the occasion.

During intermission refreshments of pimento-cheese, chicken salad and meat salad sandwiches, cookies, pickles, olives, and cokes were served.

Chaperones for the dance were Dr. and Mrs. Ross Moore and Dr. and Mrs. T. L. Reynolds.

Ferguson Attended Florida Convention

Dean James S. Ferguson attended the Convention of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools at Miami Beach, Florida last week.

Representatives of all accredited schools participated in activities concerned with evaluation of college standards. The featured speaker was Dr. Edwin Mims, professor emeritus of the English Department at Vanderbilt University. His speech, "60 Years of Southern Education", was particularly interesting as he is a charter member of association and has been a close observer of southern education.

Kappa Sigma Wins Speedball

Kappa Sigma won the speedball crown last Tuesday with a 6-0 victory over the runnerup Pikes on the strength of Power Moore's long run-back of a pass interception. Steve Bumpas quelled the only serious Pike threat by intercepting a pass in the end zone. A long aerial from John Hubbard to Bobby Smith had set up the scoring opportunity.

Moore's interception came early in the first half on a short pass by Pete Bradfield. The victory was especially significant in view of the fact that the Sigs contributed fourteen members of the varsity football team aside from their powerful intramural squad.

Sweet young thing (on first fishing trip): "How much did that red and green thing cost?"

Boy friend: "You mean the float? Oh, about a dime I guess."

Sweet young thing: "Then that's what I owe you—mine just sank."

Politickin' For Majors . . .

The Purple and White would like to be among the first of college groups to endorse a mock national political convention that is being planned for this spring.

Dr. Harry S. Manley, head of the Millsaps political science department has "got the ball rolling," and the college administration has agreed to furnish about half of the necessary funds for the three-day program.

Plans for the "Convention"

A set of "very tentative" plans includes: (1) a keynote address by a prominent member of the political party out of power in the United States (This time the Democrats), (2) committee action to draft a party platform, (3) nomination speeches for national candidates, (4) and a vote to determine whom the Millsaps student body prefers as the Democratic nominee.

Representation

Representation would be based percentage-wise on the number of delegates to the real Democratic convention. State delegations would be named from students participating in the "convention."

Chance for Further Application

The "convention" will be of benefit not only to political science and history students, but to the entire campus. The Student Executive Board has a good chance in this project to try-out the operation of its committee-level system by working with Dr. Manley and the political science classes. The student body should welcome this opportunity to see just how the president of the United States is chosen.

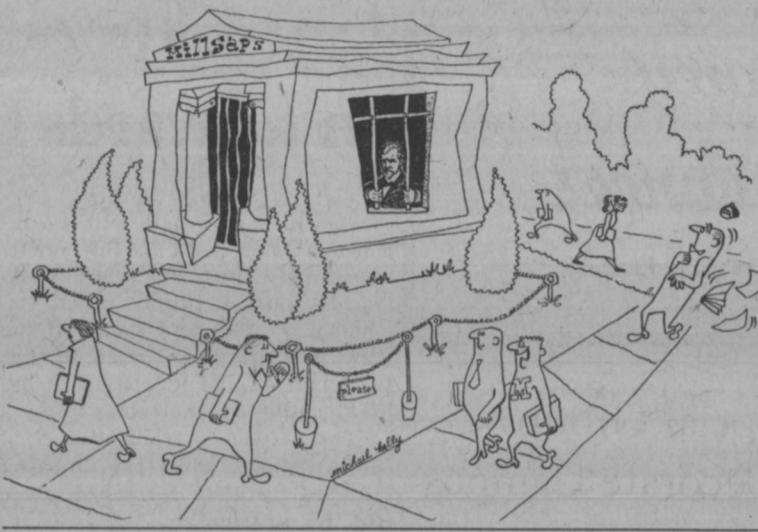

Cooperation with Mississippi College on the project could be worked out to create a "better kind" of rivalry.

High school students could be invited to be the spectators at a benefit to themselves and to the college in interesting prospective students.

The appearance of a prominent Democrat at Millsaps would be valuable.

Both National political parties provide kits for these "conventions," and the candidates furnish a great deal of campaign material free of charge. This reduces the cost of the project considerably.

The mock convention has tremendous possibilities and deserves the support, suggestions, and active participation of Millsaps students.

In Mississippi . . .

The Short View And Fear Of Dark Places

By Roy Grisham

There are footsteps in the hall, but they pass on by. A Millsaps student is sitting in his room on a December night in 1955. Table-light and close darkness struggle with each other for dominance in the dimly-lit room. The student looks out on the campus . . . looks out and thinks about his island set in the midst of his home state. It is an island that seems far removed from the problems of his home state; far removed in many ways, some happy and some troubled. He thinks about these troubled ways. They worry him in a vague sort of way. For the student has heard rumblings, ominous, yet seemingly far away. He has seen and heard things that disturb him when he has a moment to think about them.

He has seen a senator rise to give his views on a burning issue. The senator has many things to say. He waves the "bloody shirt" of Communism at many things. He looks up from his notes and, with great gusto, points a senatorial finger northward—northward at the student's island—and exclaims: "Today many of our students in higher institutions of learning are misguided. Nothing is being done to check the people who are doing the guiding." The speech goes on, and the student thinks—and wonders.

A law student lies on his bunk in a Southern university. He lies there sipping bourbon whiskey and talks. "I don't know why I feel about it the way I do. I just all of a sudden found myself thinking that way. And I'll bet most of the law students coming up think just about the same way, and they're the ones that'll be handing down the decisions twenty or thirty years from now . . .

But I completely forgot about the subject when I go home to see my folks. I learned a long time ago not to talk about it around them." He sips more bourbon whiskey and talks some more and gets a huge thrill out of it . . . He slips out of the student's thoughts, and the student thinks of other things.

The student picks up a newspaper and reads about another part of his Southland. He sees where students are going about the business of rioting while a governor goes hunting. Maybe the students aren't concerned with the issues, but they have a lot of fun. The student wonders how it would be if he were there.

A man off in the vast Delta of the student's state writes an article for a magazine — a national magazine. He has something to say. The magazine is read all over the state. What he has to say is not popular. He is condemned by the state legislature. One man in the legislature does not follow the crowd, but he is drowned out and forgotten. The man from the Delta sets forth his views of the legislature. He is again unpopular. He sits in his newspaper office in the Delta and continues to work toward his goal, and the men in the legislature sit and continue to work toward their goal.

A congressman holds the views of the legislature and energetically goes about spreading them. He believes in these ideas he is speaking out for as much as the man from the Delta believes in his. "The Black Monday decision of those nine men in Washington is illegal," he says. "Therefore, why should we obey it?" He likes the phrase "Black Monday" and uses it repeatedly. They say he originated it . . . And the student wonders.

A judge, in the southern part of the state, takes up his pen soon after "Black Monday." He also likes the phrase and wants to express himself. He makes "Black Monday" the title of his book. The book gets into print. People read it and are stirred up more.

The student hears rumblings from without. People outside his home state take up their pens and voices. They have their views. From within the home state comes the statement: "This is our problem, leave us alone!" But, from without, the voices only get louder, the pens more active. From various parts of the country, murmurs are heard, some learned and some not-so-learned. They whisper of bad times and doom for the American way of life. People of the short view and the fear of dark places, just as they did a century ago, predict nothing but disaster. They say that it is a lesson of history that no nation or civilization lasts very long; that sooner or later it crumbles.

The student listens to the vague rumblings and looks and wonders. The distant noises seem to get louder. What is the answer? The student only wonders some more. A future presidency hangs in uncertainty. There may be no 7th of March speech, no Daniel Webster, to calm feelings — to hold things off for more opportune times.

Where does a Millsaps student, sitting in his room on his educational island, stand? Where does he stand on a December night in 1955?

Footsteps are no longer heard in the hall. It is late. The student takes his feet off the desk, undresses, and goes to bed. He wonders once more about the short view and the fear of dark places, and then falls asleep.

Where does a Millsaps student stand? He wants to know.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

In the past few weeks, articles in the P. and W., a visit to the S. E. B. meeting, and talks with many students, have led me to believe that community government as it now exists on our campus is falling far short of the community's needs. As your articles have pointed out, there is little understanding of the present system and substantial opposition among those who are informed.

One viewing the present system sees an S. E. B. meeting in which one major item of the agenda was over the problem of how to obtain a quorum at each meeting. One also sees some potential seats on the Board as yet unfilled. In discussions, one constantly hears, "S. E. B.? What's that? I haven't the slightest idea what goes on, when they meet, or even if I really am represented."

Such a condition is like a cancer. If students are presented with a system, hard to understand, complicated with circles within circles, they naturally lose interest. In such a situation, student or community government is a farce, and a very real danger to student training in citizenship.

I feel we need an immediate increase in S. E. B. student understanding. This could be accomplished by a weekly P. and W. article, written by its head, on each meeting, problems, and proposed solutions. This will be the first step. The next step would be the adoption of a new constitution in which community government is, in reality, our system. This can be accomplished by open, announced, and fully discussed elections, and machinery that would carry out the needs of our college.

We must have government on our campus large enough to meet our every need, broad enough and democratic enough to give every individual direct and equal representative voice, and we must have students mature to receive this responsibility.

I believe the student body is ready for actual community government to begin. If each of us will begin asking questions, seeking, and reaching, we shall find the true answers, and "the truth shall make us free."

Sincerely,
 Graham L. Hales, Jr.

Last P&W Before Holidays Dec. 16

The Purple and White will be published for the last time before the holidays on December 16. The first edition after the holidays will be January 13.

Organizations are asked to check their calendars and publish announcements for after the holidays in the P & W dated December 16.

A single girl came into her office and began passing out cigars to the men and candy to the girls. Some-what puzzled, her coworkers asked what the occasion was. Proudly she displayed a solitaire on her left hand and announced:

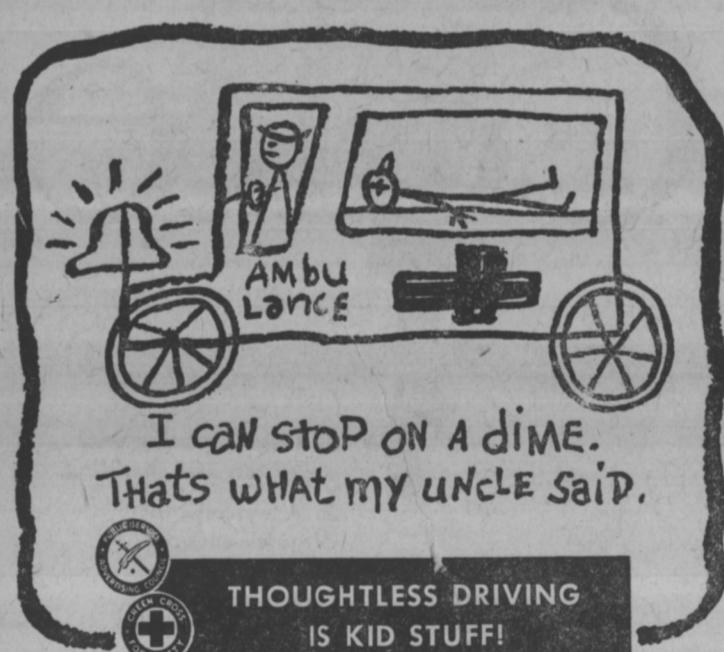

"It's a boy—6 feet tall and 185 pounds."

One dark stormy night, a traveler ducked into a haunted house to get out of the rain.

"Get out! Get out!" wailed a ghostly voice at him.

"Where are you?" asked the man. "I can't see you."

"I know," replied the voice meekly. "The sheets haven't come back from the laundry yet."

Campus Decorations:

Christmas Spirit Invades Millsaps

By Betty Miller

One day all was quiet on the Millsaps front. Students calmly went about their everyday affairs, i. e., cutting classes, being campused, avoiding homework, etc.

Then all of a sudden the campus sported all sorts of Christmas decorations. The social groups, under the sponsorship of the Majorette Club, put up large decorations in front of the classroom buildings. The

B. S. O.'s and the K. A.'s set up a manger scene in front of the C. C., the Phi Mus and Kappa Sigs highlighted Murrah with a typical Christmas scene of fir trees and packages, the Pikes and Chi O's adorned Sullivan-Harrell with a Santa Claus, Christmas tree, and lots of snow, the K. D.'s and the Lambda Chis arranged for the library decorations.

Founders, Whitworth, Sanders, Burton, and Galloway glowed with Christmas trees, bright lights, and tinsel. The fraternity houses sported the granddaddies of all Christmas trees, bright doors, and most of all, red lights.

The Singers went around humming songs from the "Feast of Carols," and everyone was planning Christmas projects and parties.

What was it that prompted all this activity? It was the Christmas Spirit.

A Christmas Prayer

Thank You God

For things infinite and things finite—for things great and things small—for supreme beauty—for boundless love—for intangible angel hair that weaves a friendship—for the limitless resources from which to draw—for the lesson found in the saffron sunset—for the wonder inspired by the morning glory—for the sermon found in a saintly life—for lovely emotion that responds to a symphony—or the storm (within) and the clear horizon that follows—for responses seated in creative desires—for the highest of aesthetic experiences—for earthly comforts and faith that whispers of something greater—for eternal hope—for the grandeur of human experience—for a spirit kindled deep within the heart—a spirit that gives us a glimpse of our finer self—a spirit born long ago whose heritage was the lowliest of births—whose livelihood was the pinnacle of human sacrifice—whose death was the chronicle of human suffering—and whose destiny was the most majestic of all who have ever lived and died. Thank you God for that first Christmas—that most memorable day on which was born the reason or life—the spring of hope—the seed of culture—the mainspring of knowledge—the desire for brotherhood—the thirst for and fulfillment of peace—the nemesis of fear—and the ethereal haven for every man who earnestly seeks and once found, goes forth with a clear mind and an unconquerable soul.

Millsaps Gets $214,100 Ford Foundation Grant

Speech Contest Was Postponed

The Carter Speech Contest, which was to have been held on December 13, has been postponed until the week after the Christmas holidays. This contest is an annual oratorical contest among the students of Millsaps College; it will consist of a ten-minute original oration to be judged on content and delivery.

Millsaps received Ford Foundation funds totaling $214,100 as part of the largest philanthropic grant in history.

Five hundred million dollars was given to private colleges and hospitals in the United States to bring the total grants of the Ford Foundation to $650,000,000. This new grant is earmarked for endowment funds to increase teachers' salaries and improve teaching methods in some instances.

Thirty-nine institutions in Mississippi received grants of $1,815,400. Millsaps ranked second in the group, with Mississippi College at Clinton receiving the largest grant of $221,300.

The gift roughly equals $3 for every man, woman, and child in the nation.

Amounts of the awards were determined on the basis of faculty salaries, and bonuses were granted to institutions which had already taken steps to improve salaries. Millsaps received a 50 per cent bonus for the improvements it had already made.

Opinion Poll

Sixteen Students Opposed To Saturday Classes At Millsaps

Sixteen of the sixteen students questioned in an informal student opinion poll conducted by the P&W, Monday were opposed to Saturday classes. The students, picked at random from the halls and lounges of the Christian Center Building, were asked the following question: "What is your opinion of the six day week, or Saturday classes."

Four of the students objected on the grounds that Saturday classes would ruin school spirit. One student said, "It's the most asinine thing I ever heard of. They're trying to build school spirit but that's the fastest way to wreck it."

Three students were opposed to the six day week because they have part time jobs. They stressed the fact that they must work in order to stay in school. If they had classes on Saturday their working hours would be cut and so consequently would their earnings.

Two students said that they lived too far away to go home on weekends if there were Saturday classes. Another said, "My family relationship would be wrecked if I couldn't come home except at Thanksgiving and Christmas."

One student stated that the students learn just as much in five days as they would in six—possibly more. The factor of Saturday boredom and resentment would probably nullify any value to be gained by Saturday classes.

The rest of the students questioned were rather startled at the very mention of Saturday classes. One student answered the question with this statement, "Oh my land, no, no, no." Another said, "Definitely against them". Perhaps the strongest statement was this: "They stink. I would transfer if we had Saturday classes."

Ann Anderson Finalist In Maid Of Cotton Contest

Ann Anderson, Millsaps senior, is one of twenty-three finalists in the 1956 Maid of Cotton Contest. From this group the eighteenth Maid of Cotton and her alternates will be selected.

Ann will go to Memphis December 27-28 for personal interviews, television appearances, social events, and a public appearance at Ellis Auditorium.

Mississippi, with three entrants, ties with Tennessee in the number of finalists. Sandra Sutherland, Canton 20, a senior at Southern, and Frances Habig, Jackson, 19, a sophomore at M. S. C. W., are the other two Mississippi candidates. Texas leads in the number of finalists with five representatives, North Carolina and Louisiana each have two, and Alabama, California, Georgia, Kentucky, Missouri, New Mexico, Oklahoma, and South Carolina have one.

The total of twenty-three finalists includes sixteen brownettes, six blondes, and one red head.

The 1956 Maid of Cotton, who will succeed blonde De Lois Faulkner of Sallisaw, Oklahoma, will visit more than forty cities in the United States, Europe, and Canada. On this good will tour, sponsored annually by the National Cotton Council, the Memphis Cotton Carnival, and the Cotton Exchange of Memphis, New Orleans, and New York, the winner will represent the thirteen million members of the cotton industry.

Selection will be based on personality, poise, and intelligence, as well as appearance.

So far this year Ann has been selected Miss Millsaps, a member of "Who's Who," a beauty candidate, and make-up director of the Players.

Applications Accepted For New P&W. Heads

Applications are being received by Dr. M. C. White for editor and business manager of the Purple and White. The new P&W. heads will take office at the beginning of next semester and will serve for two semesters. No definite qualifications have been set up, but preference will be given to junior students. The deadline for applications is January 6, 1956. Appointments will be announced in the P. & W. dated January 13, 1956.

The planning committee for the Mock Political Convention will be selected after the holidays. Interested students are asked to turn in their names, classes, and majors to Dr. H. S. Manley today.

A Christmas Carol

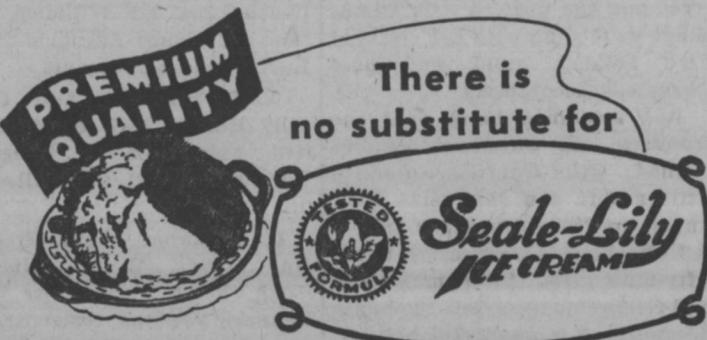

The bells in the Tower began to proclaim with the setting sun the close of the day. A fitting sound, thought Timothy O'Brien Dugan, because it was like a funeral—his funeral, that is. College was fine for the dandies who could afford it, like the Eton dandies who celebrated Christmas in the tavern close by, but tough for Irish country boys who were far from home and broke.

It was fate that brought Timothy O'Brien Dugan to Smithson. It was the King's Grace, the Beadle had called it, a scholarship to Irish lads for study in England. A bribe to keep rebellion away, thought Timothy. His mother had cried when he stepped on the dock and his uncle had smiled as he pushed the hundred pound note into Tim's pocket. "We're expecting great things from you, laddie," he had said before the boat pulled away from the dock.

That seemed a long time ago, now. That hundred pounds had gone quickly, and the English boys were not exactly examples of friends, thought Tim, for their jokes about his accent showed anything but the King's Grace. And now it was Christmas, and Timothy O'Brien Dugan was feeling far short of charitable.

The sunset hinted rain, and now it came, mixed with that combination of sleet and wind which chills to the very bone. Timothy turned and walked down the Mall, scuffing the snow as he walked. "Adeste fideles," it seemed strange that this song of praise should come at a time like this, when his spirits offered everything but praise, but the sound persisted. Squinting against the rain, Tim looked to see the source of the music. From the Chapel Tower the music drifted out into the snow and his thoughts. Tim stopped and ground a shoe into the snow. What were the people doing at home now, around a fire and everything? Yes, what, what of the time his father had been injured in the Great Snow? Could Tim not remember his struggle for life during that Christmas? Could he not remember how his father had insisted that the pain was not intense, hoping that the others would enjoy Christmas, although he himself knew he would never see another? This was family courage, the courage of the Dugans. Was Tim to forsake it?

Tim. Perhaps everything would work itself out. Perhaps he could find a job, even in the kitchen, and spend the holidays with the head cook and his wife. Perhaps—

The Madonna smiled down from her niche in the wall, and the infant Jesus cast his radiance upon the students at prayer. Timothy O'Brien Dugan looked into the face of the Christus for a long time, catching the changing expression in the candlelight, and then his lips began to move with the anthem of the choir. "Gloria in excelsis Deo! Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace—peace, to all men!"

Debaters Compete At M.C., Florida U.

Millsaps Debaters participated in two widely separated debate tournaments last weekend.

At the Mississippi College Tournament, Susie Lipsey and Rose Cunningham swept away their opposition in five straight wins to become the only team in the tournament to go through undefeated. Their rating was that of superior.

In the Junior Division, Keith Tonkle and Jim Waits copped a superior with their record of four wins and a loss to the well known University of Alabama girls' team.

Susie Lipsey and Bob Mims won superior ratings in extemporaneous speaking, and Paul Kern, a superior in oratory.

In Gainesville, Florida, the other division of the Millsaps debate team was engaged in competition with the host team, the University of Florida, Abilene Christian, Wake Forest, Florida State, Florida Christian, University of South Carolina, Mississippi Southern, and the University of Miami.

President Of The Senior Class Is The Millsaps Student Of The Week

John Hubbard, a senior from Jackson, is featured as the Millsaps student of the week.

Extra Curricular

John is president of the senior class and president of Inter-Fraternity Council. He was elected a favorite by the Millsaps student body, and his picture will appear in the Bobashela as such. John, who serves on SEB, is a member of the newly formed Millsaps Geological Society. He is Vice-Presi-

Alfred Statham and Jerry Trigg, the Millsaps affirmative team, tied the team which won the tournament, the University of Miami affirmative, but lost first place when the individual points were figured. The Millsaps negative, Ann Meyers and Alton Boyd, won four of their six debates, losing to Abilene Christian and Florida State. In both losses, however, the individual points of both teams were the same.

The overall team trophy went to the University of Miami, with Millsaps taking second place.

Opinions

In answering the question, "Are you glad to be through?" John said, "In a way, but it's hard to leave." He says, "It's sure nice to be through studying," but he hates to leave the friendly atmosphere for which he thinks Millsaps is noted.

MILLSAPS STUDENTS WELCOME

nancy 'nounces

by Nancy Peacock

Giving a chapel performance which rates a superior, the Millsaps Symphonic Band presented its annual Christmas Concert last Thursday morning. The instrumentalists rendered a moving performance of a well-balanced musical program.

Members of the student body turned out to see the productions of the Millsaps Players Workshop. Presented were three one-act plays under the fine direction of Walter Ely, Karen Gilfoy, and Burton Jackson.

Once again the Debaters have brought recognition to Millsaps' doorstep. Attending the University of Florida Debate Tournament, the Debaters placed second over nine colleges and universities. Also the Debaters walked off with top honors at Mississippi College, where they won all five debates and received several superiors.

During this holiday season, Christmas decorations of Santas, gaily lighted trees, and the more serious and beautiful manger scene certainly added to our campus. And speaking of the holiday season, today is the day we bid one another a fond farewell until the brand new year of 1956!

And now for the 'nouncements!

PLEDGED

Phi Mu sorority announces the pledging of Ethyl Shapley, a freshman from Dallas, Texas. The ceremony was conducted Sunday, December 11.

RINGED

Margie and Bill

Margie King, a Beta Sigma Omicron and a sophomore from Grenada, is ringed to Bill MacDonald, a Norseman and a sophomore from Fort Worth, Texas. Margie and Bill became ringed December 11.

PINNED

Jackie and Paul

Jackie Petermann, who is a freshman from Jackson, recently became pinned to Paul Comola, who is a member of Kappa Sigma Fraternity and a junior from Yazoo City.

ENGAGED

Yvonne and Dewitt

Yvonne Griffin, a Chi Omega pledge and a freshman from Louisville, is engaged to Dewitt Crawford, a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon and a junior from Louisville.

Harrison Is 1956 Sig Prexy

Alpha-Upsilon Chapter of Kappa Sigma Fraternity announces the 1956 officers. Newt Harrison, a junior from New Albany, will lead the group as president.

Vikings Honor Pat Hewlett

After the regular Viking meeting on Thursday, December 8, a surprise shower was given in honor of Pat Hewlett, who is to be married in Laurel on December 27.

She is the bride-elect of Jack Campbell, who is to enter the University of Mississippi Medical School in February. The miscellaneous kitchen shower well-supplied her with pots and pans for her perspective housekeeping.

Lambda Chi Fraternity Gives Red Top Dance

Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity held its annual first semester SEB dance last Friday night. The festivities began with a buffet supper at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Lipscomb.

The group traveled to a nearby lodge where a night of dancing to the music of the Red Tops began. A holiday decorations theme was carried out and corsages of multi-colored roses, which adorned a Christmas tree, were presented to the guests. The favors were white stuffed scottie dogs with red ribbons and the Fraternity Crest about their necks. During intermission punch and salted nuts were served to the Lambda Chis and their guests.

Chaperones for the evening were Dr. and Mrs. T. L. Reynolds. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Naylor, Sr., Mrs. J. W. Lipscomb, Mrs. Brister Ware, Mrs. H. C. Polk, Carolyn Polk and Jimmy Harrison, and Mr. and Mrs. Dooley Fisher.

Beta Sigs Entertain With Informal Dance

Beta Sigma Omicron Sorority entertained with an informal dance at the Walthall Hotel Saturday night, December 10, with music furnished by Sammy Graham and his Band.

The guests were welcomed into the ball room by an alternating string of red and white letters spelling the words, "Candy Land." A large tree, bright with colored lights and candy canes, filled one corner of the room, while sprinkled along the walls were enlarged images of gingerbread men, gumdrop trees, lollipops, and candy canes.

Chaperones for the evening were: Dr. and Mrs. J. E. McCracken, Dr. and Mrs. James S. Ferguson, and Mr. Paul D. Hardin.

Beta Sigs and their dates were as follows:

Jo-Ann Brenke, Terry Moore; Patricia Smith, Billy Mullins; Kay Shelton, Joe Armstrong; Betty Chaney, Don Ates; Becky Larche, Doug Campbell; Marilyn Smith, Perrin Smith; Carolyn Allen, Thad Leggett; Lynda Andrews, Jimmy Weedy; Jane Smith, Bill Rush Mosby; Fran Furr, Clifton Ware; Jo Anne Tucker, Charles Plance; Rosemary Flint, Bob Patterson; Carol Broun, Pete Stribling; Anne Brooks; Merrimen Watkins; Sue Woodward, Billy Rainey; Hoyte Curtis, Don Harder; Bettie Clare

The Six Day Week . . .

Student speculation is that some attempt to initiate a six-day class schedule at Millsaps will be made.

There is merit for both the present five-day week and the proposed six-day week. Even a four-day class week would not be undesirable.

The Five Day Week

The five-day week offers more free time than the six-day plan. It is unlikely that any additional semester hours could be added to a student's schedule. Therefore, the change would be a case of taking six days to do what has been done in five.

Just as much class material can be covered in the Tuesday and Thursday classes as in the Monday, Wednesday, and Friday classes, as there is less time needed for checking the roll and the process of "getting started" on the long-class days.

The five day plan makes it possible for students to hold part-time jobs with a minimum of interference in their class room activities. The eight or ten hours worked on Saturday sometimes equals the entire time that could be worked during a five-day week of part time work. Forcing more students to work on class days would not be an advantage of the six-day schedule.

Unless afternoon classes on Monday are instituted simultaneously with the six-day plan, students would not have time to go home on weekends after class Saturday and return to college by Monday morning.

The Six-Day Week

The six-day week offers the advantage of keeping the student body on the campus on weekends. This would tend to improve the school spirit.

The six day week would also shorten long Tuesday and Thursday classes.

Four Day Week

Some students would prefer a four-day week with the obvious advantages of giving students time for outside work and more campus activities.

Seriously, though, the five day week is working satisfactorily here and at the colleges about us. An interesting weekend program in the facilities of the new student-union building will be the most desirable means of keeping students on the campus when they care to stay.

Dancing

Once in a small, liberal arts college there were about 840 normal American students: big ones, small ones, studious ones, silly ones, fun loving ones. As they were normal American boys and girls, they liked what young America likes: to date, play ball, go to the show, watch TV, read, play bridge, walk, go on hayrides, and dance. Now these students didn't like to dance anymore than they liked to do anything else. In fact, 750 had probably just as soon do any of the other activities as dance. While they could go on dates almost anywhere they wanted, often play quite dangerous games, attend hayrides where anything conceivable could happen, they must dance off the campus, sometimes in unchaperoned circumstances. They must not dance on the campus.

For a while they just wondered why. After all, they were adults and were reasonable enough to be willing to conform to anything with a reason behind it. There were various rumors that Major Millsaps had definitely forbidden dancing—well, that was all right. They could accept that. After all he built the college—he had some right to requests. Another reason was that the original rules and regulations stated that Millsaps students must not dance. This didn't look too good, because rules applying in grandmother's time don't fit in the Atomic Age. Also it seemed that members of the Board of Trustees felt it would antagonize some members of the Methodist Church if Millsaps students danced. This, seeming to be the immediate reason keeping them from dancing, hurt a little. They wondered—they were members of the Methodist Church. Didn't they have any voice? The faculty seemed to feel dancing on the campus would be preferable to dancing downtown where it was harder to chaperon and much more expensive. Didn't they have any voice? More than half the Board of Trustees seemed to advocate the change. They wanted to see the other fellow's point of view, but it was rather hard to understand why nearly everyone closely connected with the situation thought dancing would be a good idea, and a few people hundreds of miles from the college could prevent it.

But with hope in their hearts, they looked back 50 years when there was no dancing, 20 years ago when dances could be given only during holidays, then at today when expensive rooms must be rented so there will be no dancing on the campus, and last of all at tomorrow when with the faculty, students, and many of the trustees behind them, they might prove to the people of Mississippi that they wanted to dance on the campus not because they were forbidden to, not because some other Methodist schools allowed it, but just because Millsaps was like their home, and they didn't want to have to leave their home to find fun. Dancing was a social asset, and they wanted to dance where the whole college could participate, because they didn't particularly enjoy patronizing "juke joints" in order to dance.

Yes, they hoped and "while there is hope, there is life" and fun and dates and hayrides and T. V. and maybe some day dancing.

S.E.B. Met Tuesday Night

The Student Executive Board met Tuesday night with Vice-President Jack Loflin presiding. A social activities committee will report on Student Executive Board dates for the various organizations on campus. Dr. Harry S. Manley, chairman of the political science department, discussed plans for the proposed mock presidential nominating convention to be held on the campus.

Choctaws Want Semester Plan

A change to the semester plan of classroom work at Mississippi College was the suggestion of students and faculty members in a survey conducted by the Collegian, Mississippi College student newspaper, last week.

In response to the question "Does academic work at Mississippi College need improving?" students and faculty expressed the need for additional faculty members, more ambition in scholarship, a revamped grading system, and the semester class work plan.

The Rainmaker Next Players' Production

Director Lance Goss has announced that tryouts for The Rainmaker, the next production to be presented by the Millsaps Players, will be held on Tuesday, January 3, at 6:15.

Director Goss plans to have only casting and reading rehearsals during the first few weeks after the Christmas holidays. Full scale rehearsals will begin second semester. The play will be presented on March 15, 16, and 17 in the Christian Center. The closing night falls on High School Day, and the production will be a feature of the High School Day activities.

The Rainmaker, a romantic comedy by N. Richard Nash, has one female and six male characters. The action takes place during a summer drought in a western state. (This is the first "western" ever done by the Players).

Since its introduction on the Goodyear-Philco Television Playhouse two years ago, The Rainmaker has charmed audiences all over America. It had a successful run on the Broadway stage, with Geraldine Page and Darren McGavin in the leads, and it will be filmed by Paramount with William Holden in the title role. It also proved popular in summer stock with Eva Marie Saint starring. Critics have called it "a wonderful, wonderful play" and "a cloudburst of a hit."

Four Millsaps Students Attended Southern Meet

Representing Millsaps at the Mississippi Inter-collegiate Council Convention at Mississippi Southern last weekend were: Hugh Johnston, Margaret Whitfield, and Lacy Causey.

On Friday night Dean Love of the University of Mississippi spoke to the group on Student Judicial Boards in Colleges. Saturday morning group discussions of the various types of student government organizations were held, followed by a business meeting at which these officers were elected: Chairman, Charles Ritter, Mississippi State; Vice-Chairman, Doug Hudgins, Ole Miss; and Treasurer, Carolyn Smithson, MSCW.

Twenty-Five Teams Compete Largest Millsaps Tourney

University Of Houston, Central Of Oklahoma First Place Winners

By Alton Boyd

The largest and most successful debate tournament in Millsaps' history was held on the campus last Friday and Saturday. Twenty five colleges and universities from all over the United States were represented by nearly two hundred debaters and their coaches.

Oratory and extemporaneous speaking contests were held Friday morning. Pat Stallings of the University of Houston won first place in extemporaneous and Kay of Southwestern Missouri first place in oratory. Debate began on time Friday noon despite last minute cancellations of two universities. The cancellations necessitated completely resetting-up of the debate matches by Drs. Wallace and Fleming.

There were four rounds of debate Friday afternoon, with Millsaps' girl team of Susie Lipsey and Rose Cunningham making the entire

Consultant Rion To Study Millsaps' College Union

College Joins "Union Association;"
Film Shows Place Of Union

A student union building consultant will be on the Millsaps campus soon.

Dr. William Rion of the University of Florida, past president of the Association of College Unions will discuss the physical plant, matters of programming, and operation of Millsaps' soon-to-be-built college union.

Dr. Rion has been studying present plans and facts about the college and will come to Millsaps well versed in the needs of the school.

The basic structure of the college union has been approved by the building committee, and the architect has been given the go-ahead to complete specifications.

Various college groups have submitted suggestions as to their needs in the new building, and these needs are being considered and incorporated into the new building.

Millsaps college has joined the Association of College Unions along with 240 other colleges and universities in the nation.

A 40-minute film of college unions and their roles in college campus life will be shown on the Millsaps campus January 17-20. Announcements will be posted about the time of showing.

This living room of the college campus is to be constructed between Sullivan-Harrell Hall and Buie Gymnasium with funds secured in the "Millions for Millsaps" drive.

AED To Present Two New Awards

Two new awards to be presented annually at graduation have been established by the Millsaps chapter of Alpha Epsilon Delta, national pre-med and pre-dental honor society. These awards, as the one already in existence for the most outstanding all-round senior pre-med or pre-dental student, will be in the form of framed engraved certificates. One will be presented to the freshman student studying pre-medicine or pre-dental with the highest scholastic average. The other award will go to the member of the graduating class who has, in preparation for the study of medicine or dentistry, maintained the highest overall scholastic average.

STUDENT OPPORTUNITIES:

Danforth Fellowships Awarded February 15

By Anne Coker

Applications for Danforth Graduate Fellowships must be completed by February 15, 1956. Appointment for these Fellowships is given annually to fifty men preparing for college teaching, who have had no graduate study. Selection is made on the basis of outstanding academic ability, personality congenial to the classroom, integrity and character (including faith and commitment in the Christian tradition). An applicant may be preparing to teach any academic discipline common to undergraduate colleges. A Danforth Fellow is free to use his Fellowship at any accredited university in the United States. Appointments are for one year—with the expectation of annual renewal if the graduate record is distinguished. Grants are given according to individual need with a limit of $1800 a year for a single man and $2400 a year for a married man. Anyone wishing to apply should see Dr. Bond Fleming.

Notice

Millsaps students graduating this year who need employment are requested to contact the student personnel office. Several choice positions are available at present.

What's Wrong With Majors?

Coaching?

A number of Majors cagers are science majors, and as upper classmen, their lab schedule becomes so heavy that it is impossible to meet practice more than once or twice a week. The college's emphasis on scholarship tends to lessen the chances of reducing this detriment to Millsaps sports. But there are other players who don't come out as upperclassmen for other reasons. It definitely doesn't seem to be the coaching. Coach Smith is well-liked by his players and appears to be making the best of this rocky situation. The growing string of losses itself may cause some players to lose interest and a small minority cannot play because of part-time jobs.

Apathy

The one remediable cause for all of Millsaps' best basketball players not being out for Varsity ball seems to be that a number of players feel that most students don't care what happens in Millsaps ball games. A general lack of interest and the lack of sufficient information about games is responsible for Millsaps students staying away from games.

If those students who are interested in basketball would attend the games, those less interested would take notice. Attendance would increase, and the Majors might balance the deficit in their won-lost record.

The Millsaps Major varsity basketball team is now in the throes of a seemingly interminable losing streak. A losing cage squad is the exception rather than the rule here at Millsaps, but the apathy of the long succession of losses seems to be rapidly pervading the entire student body. This situation causes a student who is interested in Purple fortunes in intercollegiate athletics to wonder just what is wrong with basketball at Millsaps.

Teams Attitude

When an athletic team turns up with a losing record at season's end, the usual tendency is to decry the lack of material and begin beating the bushes for round-ball aces and/or to scream for the coach's hide. Strangely enough neither of these seem to be the solution to the Major basketball problem. Millsaps annually has been drawing its share of qualified high-school players and good junior college transfers. Just how long boys interested in playing college ball will continue to migrate to Methodist Hill with the staggering string of losses continuing to mount is doubtful. The fact is that the boys now out for varsity basketball do not include all the college's top basketball players. It is indeed an alarming thing to see a boy give great promise of developing into a top college player as a freshman and/or sophomore, then not go out as an upperclassman. The all too frequent occurrence of this situation prompts one to seek the reason behind this action.

viable record of three wins and one loss—the loss being to the team which won first place in the Women's Division.

In the second round of debate on Saturday morning Millsaps' girl team was eliminated—as were at least three other top contending teams. Extremely tough competition was credited with reducing the number of contending teams to two in each division by late Saturday afternoon.

The finals of the senior Men's Division produced one of the finest debates ever heard on the Millsaps College campus. Master debating by Don Alford of the University of Houston edged out the extremely adept University of Pittsburgh team.

Professor and Mrs. Harmon Tillman, Dr. and Mrs. Wallace, Dr. and Mrs. Laney and other members of Millsaps faculty and members of the debate class worked together in the preparation and administration of the tournament. Timekeepers were volunteers from the student body.

Saturday afternoon, coffee and cookies were served in the Christian Center lounge for participants and the overall tournament was highly successful.

Colleges participating were Southwestern Louisiana Institute, Central State of Oklahoma, M. S. C. W., University of Arkansas, University of Alabama, Northwestern State College of Louisiana.

Louisiana College, Howard College, Mississippi Southern, East Central of Oklahoma, David Lipscomb College, Louisiana State University, Tulane, Louisiana Tech, University of Pittsburgh, Kansas State, Baylor, University of Houston, Memphis State, University of Kentucky.

Here it is 1956 and a brand new year before us. We wonder what will unfold in the months to come. Will we make resolutions and stick by them—gain or lose weight—win a jackpot prize—fly to the moon?

Though we cannot tell about the "sorta" far-off weeks of '56, this we do know—the 1956 Monster Week is hungrily waiting to pounce upon innocent victims! Yes, Exam Week is coming soon and needs no bugle blasts to 'nounce it. So let's sharpen our pencils and alert our brains in order to meet the Dragon "face on."

This week "takes the cake" in 'nouncements. During the holidays, Cupid went right to work and almost had a nervous breakdown shooting love darts at so many folks. So here, getting the 1956 romance calendar off to a flying start are 'nouncements, and 'nouncements, and more 'nouncements!

RINGED

Becky and Douglas

A recent ringing was that of Becky Larche to Douglas Campbell. Becky's home is in Jackson, while Douglas hails from Bolton. Both are freshmen.

Riley, Whitfield Attend Christian World Mission

Margaret Whitfield and Martina Riley attended the Ecumenical Student Conference on the Christian World Mission in Athens, Ohio, during the Christmas holidays.

Representing Millsaps, the girls said there were delegates from eighty nations concerning the theme "Revolution and Reconciliation". With 3500 present, 1275 of whom were students from other lands, the week long conference attempted to study the worldwide revolution from the Christian point of view.

Speakers from around the world pointed out the attempt of their people to rise and demand their freedom, by revolution if need be. The students learned the attitude of other nations toward the United States and contemplated what those attitudes meant for us.

Meeting people from so many lands was indeed a unique experience. This conference was the first of its type, assembling students from eighty countries, ever to be held in the United States.

Millsaps student body will hear a report of the conference from Margaret and Martina during chapel of the second semester.

Pledge's Diary

Dear Diary,

It's only a short time now till all of us pledges will go through that experience we've waited for so long—initiation! I can hardly believe it's almost here.

Of course we're still worried that something awful might happen: Some will not make their grades, some may not pass the initiation test, or they might still black ball us! (the worst). And we'd be so sad too, after all these months of waiting.

But I guess it's something worth waiting for—Least it looks that way from all that gang that seems so happy.

What I can't understand is why a little ole initiation takes four hours! They want us to be scared, I know (and I am a little). But really we're not. Still, we're just sorta uneasy.

Honestly, Diary, I'll be glad when the date gets here. If you have a remedy for chewed nails, baggy eyes, and so much excitement our wee little hearts can hardly flutter any longer, send it this way.

RELIGIOUS VIEWS AND REVIEWS . . .

In The Beginning . . . God

By Brooks Hudson

"In the beginning . . . God!" These three words, at the beginning of our Bible, are the keys to all the mysteries of the universe, for they explain both the origin of our earth and the force that lies beyond what we mortals call time and existence.

It has been shown by modern science that time is relative, that is, what we call "time" is a quantity we measure; to another person or object, time may be altogether different. No one knows where time begins or how far it goes, but we do know that our lifetime is like one speck of dirt on a long highway, only a trifle in the infinite measure of time and space.

For time to exist it has to have a Creator, for even an oak which grows from an acorn produced by another oak has to trace the first acorn or the first oak back in time to some point. If we could return in time to the point of beginning, there we would find God.

What is God? We don't know. We don't know what He (or She) looks, feels, tastes, or sounds like.

We don't know where He is, and what He does. But we do know He exists, because not only must somebody or something put this machinery into existence and motion, but some force must regulate it.

God's machinery, the universe, the most exact in all creation, so delicate that minute periods of time can be measured by its movement, was put to motion, and through the laws which we mortals call chemistry, physics, and the like, has been regulated and controlled by a Divine hand since its creation.

What is God? We don't know, but man is constantly trying to find out. The study of His laws, science, has partially answered the question, some believe, and when the limits of scientific knowledge have been reached, philosophy has carried the study further. In going beyond even the realm of philosophy, and in paying homage to this Being, which man realizes is beyond his understanding, man has turned to religion, and it is in a scientific - philosophical - religious study of God that he has his highest achievement.

As God is in the beginning, it is only fair to expect Him in the end at that time in time-space when this universe will end and a new one will be created, like the New Jerusalem of golden streets and pearly gates, as seen by John in Patmos.

What is God? To all of us, He is light, and He is darkness; He is white and black; He is from time and to all time, for all existence. He is in the cities and the towns; in the cathedrals and the chapels. He is the Father and the Son; the Alpha and Omega.

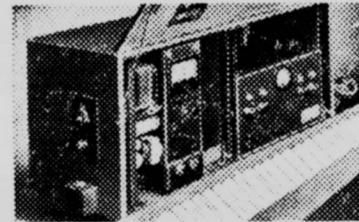

"In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was God, and the Word was God. was in the beginning with God things were made through him and without him was not anything made that was made. In him life, and the life was the light of men. The light shines in darkness, and the darkness not overcome it."

news analysis

by

Alfred Statham

President Eisenhower's indecision concerning his candidacy for re-election has become one of the most controversial and speculative questions of the day. Illustrative of the fervor which has been reached regarding this matter is an advertisement which appeared recently in a local newspaper: WILL IKE RUN? WILL OUR CAR RUN?

The President's decision will have serious consequences, however, and is undoubtedly of the most political importance. Many servers feel that without the strong personal popularity of Eisenhower, the prospects of a Republican victory in 1956 are greatly reduced. Also, Mr. Eisenhower is the support of many Democrats, as well as being the overwhelming choice of his own party. The importance of his decision cannot be underestimated.

It is this writer's personal opinion that the President will again be the Republican nominee this fall, if he continues to receive favorable reports from his physicians.

Fifteen years ago France was world power; her leadership and influence have greatly decreased since the end of World War II. One of the basic factors of this decline of power has been the inability of the Fourth French Republic to maintain a stable government. Once again the political leaders of France are attempting to form a coalition government capable of commanding a majority in the National Assembly.

President Rene Coty has designated Guy Mollet, leader of the Socialist Party, as the new Premier. The Socialists and Radical Socialists have formed an alliance, but have refused the strong support of the Communist party. The success of M. Mollet will be known by the time of this publication, at best, not a stable government, but merely a government, may be expected.

Korea, Formosa, Indonesia — the cold war continues; specific conditions change, but the pattern remains the same. Today the area of crisis lies in the Middle East, and once again the United States has been lured into the Communist trap. We are faced with the familiar dilemma: should we supply military aid to Israel and the members of the Middle East Treaty Organization, thereby creating an armament race; or should we deny this aid and enhance the extension of the Iron Curtain. Yes, the game continues. Unless we play our hand correctly, we may again find our nation involved in a rather warm "cold war".

A Statement Of Policy

This must be a student centered newspaper. Its policy must be formulated by the reasoned judgment of the majority—with minority consideration. I consider it my first duty as editor to reflect the student body's reasoned judgment in all matters.

The Purple and White is the student body's organ of communication and vehicle of opinion. We of the staff ask that you keep us informed about what you want—and need.

This editor intends to step softly at first, until situations have been appraised. Hasty, superficial or unnecessary attacks on issues can only come to naught—they are "full of sound and fury—signifying nothing."

We recognize that there are areas of our campus life in which change is desirable, such as student government and relations with Mississippi College, and when an intelligent direction is determined, a change will be strongly advocated—complete with an analysis of the situation, the needed goals, and possible means of their achievement.

Preceding any such recommendations here, however, there must be a total awareness of the situation. It is the examination of total information which will lead to suitable solution of such problems. We call upon you to help supply this information. Let us know how you feel—and your good reasons for your stand on the issues, and your voice will be heard here—in the PURPLE AND WHITE.

We're for you, we'll do our part—but what really determines the margin of success or failure is how much serious enthusiasm and effort you're willing to sustain for the goals you seek.

Committees For Mock Convention Are Announced

By Ann Myers

Announcement of the Steering Committees to guide the Mock Democratic National Nominating Convention was made today by Committee Chairman Alfred Statham. Buie Gym has been designated as "Convention Hall" for the three day session—April 17, 18 and 19—during which an anticipated 500 delegates will participate in nominating the Democratic presidential candidate.

The appointment of these committees, whose purpose is to handle the preliminary arrangements for the convention, is the initial step in the long-run planning program. The filling of state delegations is the next order on the agenda. It is the hope of the Steering Committee that five-hundred from the college community will enlist as delegates.

The committees are as follows:

Rules Committee—Charles Deaton, Roy Grisham, Alton Boyd.

Resolutions (Platform) Committee — Ann Myers, Graham Hales, Merrimen Watkins, Dick Blount.

Delegations) — Claire Manning, Betty Jane Cleveland, Ed McCaskel, Powers Moore, Jim Waits.

Physical Arrangements — Mickey Kelly, Tom Boone, Betty Jane Cleveland, Newt Harrison, Claire Manning.

Public Relations — Jim Waits, Charlotte Elliott, Jon Ed Williams, Alton Boyd, Roy Grisham, Robert Mims.

Candidates Committee—Charles Deaton, Newt Harrison, Paul Comola, Jerry Trigg, Ann Myers, Jon Ed Williams.

Finance Committee—Charlotte Elliot, Merrimen Watkins, Robert Mims.

Student Leaders Work For Better Millsaps-MC Relations

One warm fall night at the first of school a band of Mississippi College students climbed in a car and headed for Millsaps to perform their traditional duty of tearing up the rival campus. They burned an M. C. in front of the girls dormitories, they painted the ancient bell, and they initiated the M. benches. It was fun, it was great, it was what they were expected to do and what they thought their Millsaps counter-parts would do if they had the chance.

One among these students wondered. One had the guts and the stamina to stand up and ask, "Why are we doing this? Why do we waste this energy tearing up things when we could be using it to build." One boy had the nerve to face Dean McCracken, a person who had all reason to dislike him. One boy had the character to admit his guilt and to go even further, to ask to be allowed to do something about it. This boy was Bud Walker, the president of the student body at Mississippi College.

It was his desire to start relations between Millsaps and M. C. that would not only prevent the harmful rivalry but would promote cooperative projects.

Bud went back to M. C. to start the ball rolling, and Dean McCracken and N. R. Walley began working at Millsaps. Finally a planning committee met at Primos. At first they were wary—after all these were the rivals of years. There was no predicting what anyone might do. But lo and behold, the rivals wore the same type clothes, spoke the same slang, and even thought the same thoughts. The meeting turned into a panel that was determined to see this thing through.

A smaller nucleus group was appointed from both student councils. Even before this committee met, M. C. had acted in good faith and changed the emphasis of its freshmen orientation which had traditionally been "Tear up Millsaps." This nucleus group set up several projects to enable Millsaps and Mississippi College students to work together and thus to learn what that very first group had discovered, i. e., that they were not so different. The planning committee decided to promote a talent show with talent from both colleges, reciprocal chapel programs, and a coordinated Homecoming program for 1956. The most outstanding project to date was the benefit basketball game for the March of Dimes held Tuesday night. The fact that M. C. won is not half as important as the fact that Millsaps and Mississippi College students were working toward a common goal.

There are those who would ask "What has happened to the spirit of the schools?" They just don't realize that it is equally possible to have spirit for the right things as for the wrong.

This is a good idea. But—so was the League of Nations a good idea. It remains to the students to see that it works. Bud Walker deserves the credit for starting it, N. R. Walley the credit for seconding it, and the administrations and student councils of both the schools the credit in carrying it along. These have done all they can. It remains to the individual students to pick it up and take it from the realm of an idea to a living, working ideal.

M.C.-Millsaps Intramural All-Stars

Millsaps Basketball All-Stars lost to Mississippi College All-Stars 53-42 Tuesday night, but the March of Dimes gained over $250 and M.C.-Millsaps student relations received a boost. (Photo by Boyd)

'56 Varsity Show Plans Shaping Up

Plans have been announced for the 1956 Varsity Show, sponsored annually by Sigma Lambda, to be held in the Christian Center auditorium on March 22, 1956. This year's production, which will be a musical play entitled "Good News", was written by Barbara Jones Cook and Barbara Ann Thomas and stars Howard Jones and Elwyn Addkison.

Prob'ly So

By Hazel Truluck

The melancholy mood of exams is a thing of the past. Those famous last words "I'm going to keep up with all assignments and not get behind" have been heard on all corners of the campus and are now forgotten. Also forgotten are the resolutions not to participate in too many extra-curricular activities and to avoid too much social life. The comment heard now is once again the old standby, "I'll study tomorrow." The new semester is officially under way with this classic statement.

The Grill is once again a much frequented place, and the happy sounds of people busily studying sociology 00 (campusology) have replaced the tomb-like atmosphere which reigned during the deadly time of testing. The tables are surrounded by people concentrating on card games. (This, by the way, was an illegal practice on the Millsaps Campus until recently. It may be illegal at the present, but we won't delve too deeply into this.)

talking, fellowshipping crowd. Two or three people are engaged in discussions (euphemism) on the much discussed topic of segregation. A few drag out the old soap boxes (figuratively) and preach against outside reading. Some of the ever-present occupants of the lounge sit placidly staring into space, while others consider the unpleasant prospect of some studying which must be done.

The Purple and White office is again the scene of activity now that the "Reign of Terror" (exams, not Mr. Carney) is past. Typewriters clack busily. Uninspired young journalists sit around and wait to be inspired. Reporters dash frantically in and out with scoops. (This last is a trifle exaggerated. Poetic license, maybe?) Life has returned to the P. & W.

Life has returned to Millsaps! The students live for another 17 weeks and then—the vicious circle starts all over again. But that's a long way off, why worry? Now is the time to live!

1956 Millsaps Singers Tour Choir Announced

The 1955-56 Tour Choir of the Millsaps Singers has been selected. Rehearsals will be held in Murrah Hall Auditorium at the following hours: Monday, 6:15 P.M.—mixed rehearsal; Tuesday, 4:00 P.M.—women's rehearsal; Wednesday, 4:00 P.M.—men's rehearsal; Wednesday, 1:00 P.M.—mixed makeup rehearsal.

All other members of the Millsaps Singers will meet as a new unit, the chapel choir, in the Christian Center balcony on the same schedule as last semester. New members will be welcome and may see Mr. Ambrose in the Music Hall to enroll. One hour extra-curricular credit will be given.

Those selected for Tour Choir are:

MILLSAPS STUDENTS WELCOME

My First Year In America ...

The Life Of A Korean At Millsaps College

By Young Lee

The light in front of my seat flashed, "Fasten Safety Belt," and over the public address system came, "Your next stop will be Jackson, Mississippi." After 9,000 miles travel, I was finally arriving at my destination.

The Robert E. Lee Hotel was my first stop in the city of Jackson. Robert E. Lee? Why, he has the same name as I do, I thought, could he be Korean, too? I asked the bell-hop, "Could you introduce me to Mr. Lee?" He laughed, but I couldn't understand why.

My first sight at Millsaps College was the Christian Center. For me, it has become the symbol of the Christian friendship I have found here—the thing I appreciate most at Millsaps.

The study was hard for me at first, but I found that the other students were always willing to help out. At first I could understand only a small amount of what was being said and done in the class. I had one trick which I used to help me understand more—I watched to see which of the students seemed to be taking the best notes, then I would borrow their notes to help me learn the course better. The only problem was that sometime the student I thought was taking good notes really wasn't doing so well. In those classes I didn't do too well either.

I found also that in some classes you don't use notes—such as Latin. So Mrs. Coulet and I got to see a good bit of each other. I spent seven hours a day on Latin 12—and as a result—horn rimmed eye glasses! This was the honorable presentation of the Latin class!

I still have some trouble with study, but much less now. I am able to understand more of what goes on in my classes, and this is in a large part due to the patience and help of my instructors. I consider my study the most important thing I am doing at Millsaps. I am studying not only for myself, but also for my people in Korea, whom I will serve as a native missionary.

I have learned another thing in America; I have taken on your outward smile. The Oriental smile is within; I still have that, but in addition, your outward expression. I hope I may use that expression in friendship with all of you, for I feel that friendship and brotherhood united in Christ will be the key to the world's problems.

VISIT OUR RECORD SECTION

Pearls . . .

By Karen Gilfoyle

During the two week interim fostered by the necessary evil of exams (pardon the expression), numerous alterations and additions have been brought about on the rolling grounds of our Alma Mater.

Even from my chair in the P. & W. office my watchful little orbits can spy the denuded branches of the scrubby little trees which have been ruthlessly maimed by the tree surgeon's saw.

The volume switch on the grill's juke box has been taped to allow only a murmur from the strangled phonograph. It is the opinion of this writer that if this is to be allowed then we should only be charged 2 cents for the record.

Psychology 12 has a phenomenal record of four new enrollees—the only four who passed Psychology 11. Hazel (Ahem, I made an A) Truluck is the new student assistant (Joke!)

Clint Petite was seen riding a three-wheeled bicycle around the campus. Grow up, Clint! Get a two-wheeler like the other big boys.

Wonder to whom those skinny legs pictured with the girls intramural section of the '55 Bobcats belong? Could her initials be J. P.?

George Alexander's shoes (size 9) are nailed down under the second table in the grill.

Thought For The Day

"If you want to be a leader, look and see which way the crowd is going, then run and get ahead of them."

Three's a Charm—We Hope!

By Jim Waits

"Tillman's Talkers" are away on another trip this week-end—this time to Carrollton, Georgia, home of West Georgia State College.

This is Coach Tillman's third trip to the Georgia Invitational Tournament, and there's lots riding in the balance. His first trip was back when he was a debater at Millsaps in 1951. That year Millsaps won first and second place. In 1953, when he was coaching debate at Vanderbilt, his team won five awards—all five awards that were given!

As for this year's record, we'll just wait and see. Defending this outstanding record this week-end are: Susie Lipsey and Rose Cunningham, negative, and Al Statham and Jerry Trigg, affirmative.

In Retrospect

By

"Chimneyville"

Within the last half-century, Jackson has not endured any real disaster. But in 1863, Jackson suffered her real "ordeal by fire". Before General Grant could effectively move against Vicksburg, the threat of Jackson had to be eliminated. He not only eliminated the threat, but almost eliminated Jackson...

A British army officer, Lt. Col. A.J.L. Fremantle, passed through Jackson only four days after its capture. He wrote that the railroad lines running into Jackson had been destroyed for a distance of three to five miles out of town. The city itself was a smouldering hulk when he arrived. Fremantle said, "During the short space of thirty-six hours, in which General Grant occupied the city, his troops had wantonly pillaged nearly all the private houses. They had gutted all the stores and destroyed what they could not carry away." The Roman Catholic Church, the priest's house, the principal hotel, and many private stores had been burned. The strange rules of war made it permissible to burn enemy governments' property, but Fremantle noted that many buildings were burned "which in no way could be identified with the Confederate government. I had previously heard the Jacksonians spoken of as not particularly zealous in the war. Heaven knows General Grant has now converted them into good and earnest Rebels."

It is interesting to note that "Millsaps Hill" played an important part in the capture and destruction of Jackson. The trench and cannon we see by the Library are the remains of Union gun emplacements. The hill was skirmished over several times, Union troops took possession and bombarded Jackson from the vantage point.

The Union troops who took Jackson dubbed it "Chimneyville" for obvious reasons. Little was left of the town except a few smokeblackened buildings (the Old Capitol building was one of those) and a mass of chimneys.

What have I wrought? During the last two weeks, it so happens that the local clientele have been lavishing their fond affections upon the books rather than upon the opposite sex; for ex nihilo nihil fit.

Since pinnings and ringings have hit an all-time low, for the benefit of ambitious females we publish this list of "value possibilities" (Bertocci): Clint Peteet, Burton Jackson, Billy Greenlee, Tom Pruitt, Jack Dubard, Ray Knight, Tom McNair, Walter Ely, Johnny Turner, Cliff Rigby, Reynolds Cheney, Frank Tucker, Edwin Mize, Mickey Kelly.

Rue to those second semester pledges and those less fortunate who did not make their grades. Better luck on the next fraternity or sorority you pledge.

It has been the custom in the past to end this column with ringings, pinnings, engagements, marriages, etc., but to start a new precedent, I think I'll end with unringings and unpinning; so turn in your tips, and those who don't want their names in my column for these infamous (or famous, which ever way you look at it), deeds, had better just stay together for one more semester.

"We shall see what we shall see."

Bearded Sigs Fight Polio

Have you noticed more bearded faces than usual about the campus this week? These luxurious beards aren't the result of neglect, but the outward sign of a desire by the Kappa Sigma to help humanity. The entire amount raised in the Beards for Polio campaign was given to the March of Dimes.

Over fifty dollars was saved by the members of the fraternity who contributed money that would have been spent on shaving articles. Fines of a dollar a day were levied on those who did shave.

At least a few professors have recommended the project be continued . . . some habitually late students, now not shaving, have reached eight o'clock classes on time. So "Beards for Polio" is serving a double purpose.

Pi Kappa Alpha Has Dance With Music By The Red Tops

On January 24, Pi Kappa Alpha gave a dance at the Colonial Country Club with music furnished by the Red Tops. During intermission, the court for the annual Cotton Ball was announced. The girls from which the Cotton Maid will be chosen are: June Stellwagon, Chi Omega; Clara Parks Booth, Kappa Delta; Claudette Westerfield, Beta Sigma Omicron; Mitzi Shelton, Phi Mu; and Beth O'-Neil, Independent.

The Cotton Maid will be chosen by Miss America, Sharon Kay Ritchie, and the winner will be announced at the annual Cotton Ball to be held March 10.

Chaperones for the dance were Dr. and Mrs. Harry Manley and Professor Paul Hardin. The girls present received black and white dogs as favors.

Hugh Johnston, Lillian Starnes; Robert Mims, Mary Helen Corley; Ed Stewart, Mary Elizabeth Smith; Lea Hyman, Sara Janis Black; Ed Williams, Beth Brandon; Pete Bradfield, Billy Faye Moore; John Hubbard, Peggy Ross; Jack Loflin, Jo Loflin; Don Lisle, Mary Frances Humphreys; Jerry Mizelle, Clara Smith; Russ Stovall, Mary Charles Price.

Kappa Delta Has White Rose Week

The annual White Rose Week of Kappa Delta sorority began January 29, when 17 girls took the second degree pledge vows. The week of informal parties in honor of the second degree pledges will be climaxed by initiation on February 5.

The first party was an informal tea at the home of Mrs. Grace Blair, a Kappa Delta alumna; Wednesday the actives treated their little sisters to a show. A house supper was on the agenda for Thursday afternoon, and today there is an informal party at the home of Emily Greener.

Underhill Is Top Phi Mu Officer

Phi Mu Sorority has elected its officers for 1956-57. The new officers who were installed Thursday night are: Teenie Underhill, President; Anne Foreman, Vice-President; Mary Elizabeth Burton, Treasurer; Peggy Perry, Secretary; and Pat Warren, Pledge Director.

K.A.'s Begin Semester With Party At Cedars

The first Kappa Alpha party of the semester was held Saturday night at the Cedars of Lebanon.

Music was furnished by Duke Huddleston. Cokes and cookies were served as refreshments.

Attending were members of the active chapter and their dates. Guests were Jerry Blakeney, Joe Toler, Sonny Ferguson, and Billy Tad.

Chaperones were Dr. Ross Moore and Dean and Mrs. James Ferguson.

Tullos Will Head Lambda Chi Alpha

Theta-Eta Zeta of Lambda Chi Alpha elected officers for 1956-57 last week. Leading the chapter for this year is Bobby Tullos, sophomore from Louisville.

The other officers are: John Stone, Jackson, vice-president; Tommy Naylor, Jackson, treasurer; Sam Tomlinson, Jackson, secretary; Marvin Jeter, West Point, social chairman; Howard Jones, Jackson, rush chairman; and John Coddington, Champaign, Ill., ritualist.

Major Major:

Blowing Wild--For The March Of Dimes

Lambda Chi Combo Plays In Polio Drive

The month of January ended Tuesday and along with it the annual March of Dimes Drive. Chairmen Hiram Polk and Tommy Naylor of the Lambda Chi Alpha committee have announced the results of Lambda Chi Alpha's efforts in the Drive, which included participation in a parade, two appearances on Capitol street, playing for a dance, a style show, and a high school assembly.

The Lambda Chi Combo mounted a truck on January 4 and blew their way down Capitol Street in a March of Dimes parade. On January 25 and 28, they created enough noise in front of the Heidelberg Hotel to pick up $250.00 in outstretched cups carried about by Millsaps students. On the 27th the Combo played for the combined three high schools in Jackson at a March of Dimes Dance as part of the Teens Against Polio, which netted $60. Finally, to wind things up, the group played for the Jaycettes Style Show

Monday which took in over one thousand dollars. All this activity has directed an estimated $1300 to the "Help Me, Too" cause.

Fire And Ice Is The Theme Of January Phi Mu Dance

"Fire and Ice" was the theme of the Phi Mu dance at the Walthall Hotel on January 6. Parlors A and B at the Walthall were decorated in red and white with red flames around the bandstand.

Duke Huddleston played for the dance. Chaperones were Mrs. Magnolia Coullet and Professor Paul Hardin.

Phi Mus and their dates were: Anne Foreman, Larry Derryberry; Betty Landfair, Jack McDonald; Annice Loflin, Sidney Hill; Peggy Perry, B. B. Montgomery; Harriet Ventress, Bobby Tullos; Martha Wolford, Tom Willets; Pat Warren, Roy Grisham; Carolyn Smith, Mark Yerger; Mitzi Shelton, Ed Sallis; Betty Barfield, Summer Walters; Pat Hillman, Jimmy Griffin; Teenie Underhill, Jimmy Jones; Helen Sue Callahan, John Major.

Guests were Boots and Undie Underhill.

RELIGIOUS VIEWS AND REVIEWS....

To Be Great, Be Yourself

By Brooks Hudson

...the great man is he who in the midst of the crowd keeps with perfect sweetness the independence of solitude."

...Emerson, Self-Reliance

Who are you? How do you "fit in" with the group? The most common of all the "sins" of everyday living is conformity. Of course, we must act like other people to a degree to stay away from Whitfield, but there are some who waste their own abilities and personalities attempting to copy the crowd's. Their interests are so tied up copying the "fashionable" way of lighting a cigarette or the current philosophy that their own ideas and modes of behavior are lost in the futile and unending scramble for conformity.

A man is only what he thinks he makes himself to be. In fact, each man is an individual and the world is what he himself perceives it to be. The group, then, is a collection of independently thinking individuals working together on a getting-giving basis; each giving only for the sake of receiving, whether the results be tangible, like money, or intangible, such as respect or love. Man, therefore, is to a degree self-sufficient, and not just an atom caught up in the will of the mass.

Imitation is suicide, said Thoreau. Leninism, or pure Communism, failed because it ruled out the individual. Fascism met its end because it demanded complete yielding to the state, a thing which man cannot do. A man wants to be his own boss, he wants to stand on his own two feet....

The skeptic may then raise the question—what about these movements where one yields himself completely to the cause, for instance—world peace? Aren't we all supposed to yield our national interests to one international brotherhood? No, because such a thing is impossible. Nationalism cannot be abolished because the people who compose the nation cannot be abolished. International peace will only come when nationalistic ideas are working in close harmony with ideas of other nations, each contributing to the cause of their own merits but none yielding up those philosophies which have been produced by thousands of years of culture.

Therefore, it is the individual that counts, and within his mental and physical limits he can become the superman of his dreams. But to become great he must have his own ideas and desires, sharing them and accepting or rejecting those of other individuals, but always thinking independently and on his own merits. His will to live and do must be strong, bending to nothing but the Eternal Will, which reveals itself through his.

A grumpy man boarded a train in Knoxville, called for a pillow, made himself comfortable and, just before closing his eyes for a nap, extracted a sizable sign from his brief-case and propped it on his lap. The sign read:

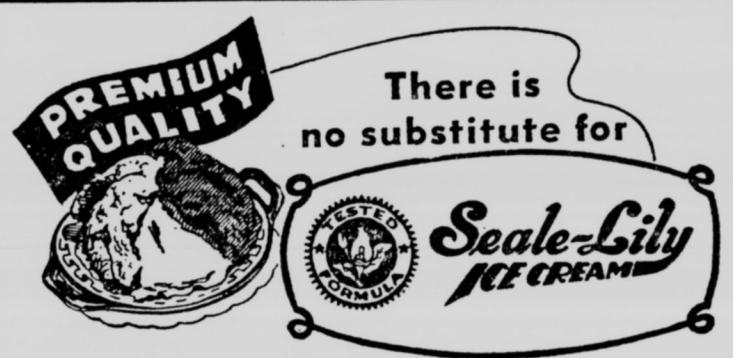

"I don't trust Malenkov. I hope we won't have another war. I think prices will start to go down in about a year, but that we won't have another depression. Wake me up at Atlanta."

New Psychology Club Formed

A new organization has recently been formed at Millsaps, the Psychology Club. Its first organizational meeting was held recently, and the officers elected were President, Barbara Swann, Jackson; Vice President, Alton Boyd, McComb; Secretary, Mary Frances Montgomery, Laurel.

All students at Millsaps majoring in psychology are eligible for membership in the organization. There is no membership fee, and it is not anticipated that regular dues will be collected. The group meets the first and third Tuesday in each month. The faculty advisor is Dr. W. B. Knowles, Jr., head of the Psychology department at Millsaps.

An outstanding doctor in the field of clinical psychology will address the group on February 7, at 7:30. All students majoring in this field are invited to attend the meeting.

Spiritual Life Retreat To Be At Roosevelt Park

Young people from all over the Mississippi Conference will be meeting at Roosevelt State Park, Morton, this week-end for the annual Spiritual Life Retreat. It is sponsored by the Conference M. Y. F. and is for the purpose of strengthening the spiritual life of youth. Reverend E. R. Watts will be the speaker, with the theme, "The Protestant Approach to Lent." A special emphasis will be placed on a study of the book, I Follow, which is the Lenten Reading Project book for this year. I Follow is the story of the Life of Christ, and the week-end will be an effort to interpret the meaning of that life to daily Christian living.

Concordia Choir To Appear Here

The Concordia Choir, consisting of sixty voices, will sing in the Christian Center Auditorium on February 14, 1956, at 8:15 P.M. The Director of the choir is Mr. Paul J. Christiansen.

Admission is $1.00 for adults and $.50 for students. Tickets are now on sale at Brown's Music Company.

Two old friends, who hadn't seen each other in years, met one day on a street corner. They soon were talking about their families. "It just doesn't seem possible that your son is in college," exclaimed one. "How is he getting along?"

Meeting New Faculty Members:

Ambrose Has Varied Musical Background

By Martina Riley

Last Thursday a native Virginian on our faculty, Mr. Holmes Ambrose, celebrated his 36th birthday. He has had an active life of music, beginning his career at the age of nine with a two dollar per month professional choir job in an Episcopal Cathedral.

Then he began an active life of directing church choirs: Foundry Methodist in Washington, D. C.; First Methodist in Albuquerque; St. Paul's First Plymouth Congregational, and Trinity Methodist in Lincoln, Nebraska; Tabernacle Presbyterian in Indianapolis, Indiana; and St. Luke's in Jackson.

Mr. Ambrose has studied with the world's foremost voice teachers, Frank Bebb at Peabody, G. de Luca and Rene Maison at Juilliard, Arthur Westbrook and Frank St. Leger of the Metropolitan Opera.

Mr. Ambrose has sung professionally for five years. He has appeared as Ferrando in Così, Don Jose in Carmen, and Canio in Il Pagliacci. He has appeared many times in the operettas of Gilbert and Sullivan and Victor Herbert.

Mr. Ambrose is well-known in the Midwest for his work in college opera workshops. And he has taught in Bethany College, Nebraska University, Ole Miss, Iowa, West Texas State, and Indiana University.

He lists as his hobby "pan-

ning" the musical scores in movies and plays. He loves to work with such music, though he has composed several anthems and a religious cantata.

With a double major in voice and music theory, he is well equipped to direct choirs. He believes that the person who participates receives more than he who listens, and so he puts excellence in music of lesser importance in the church than the participation of every person.

Millsaps welcomes Mr. Ambrose as a valuable addition to the faculty.

The Life Of A Pledge Or This Was The Epitome

By Betty Miller

Nothing is harder than the life of a pledge. This belief was firmly established when with policemen's hats covering our ears, eyes, and hair and policemen's badges weighting us down, we spent two hours on Capitol Street handing out tickets to weary pedestrians and demanding that they contribute to the March of Dimes or else.

When the actives told us the night before that the pledges were to collect for the March of Dimes we had an erroneous picture of lovely little girls adorned with pledge pins standing out in the freezing cold so inspiring passers-by that they gave all the money they had to the cause. Not so at all.

After

thirty minutes or so of small pickings, we caught on to this game.

The first and main rule was to leave the women alone —especially the ones with fur coats.

They are usually too busy planning the next meal or party to stop and are besides immune to a pretty smile.

What you do is spot your victim a block away and start planning your strategy.

If

he's with his girl friend, appeal to his vanity.

"Oh, I'm sorry, sir, it's against the law today for such a handsome couple to be walking down the street. However, if you will contribute to the March of Dimes, we'll let you off."

This

one usually rated from fifty cents to a dollar depending on whether they were going to the show or dancing.

The best victims are the older men. Select the ones who look kindest and then try some thing like this, "I'm sorry, sir, but a city ordinance has just been passed against well-dressed men walking on the sidewalks. How ever, etc., etc."

This one usually rated a good fifty cents, but you had to be careful whom you se lected.

One enterprising young lady stopped a nice looking man on the post office steps, and he in formed her that there was a stric law against soliciting on federa property. (Seems he was the county judge or some such offi cial.)

Other good victims were young businessmen in pairs. (If you snagged one alone he was usually too embarrassed to give much however, if with a pal he would contribute a lot just for the im pression.) Again, it was wise to be careful and watch out for the cheek-pinching type.

Eventually we learned their ex cuses, and they realized that they was nothing to do but assent. The ranged from "I just gave to the girl in the last block" to "I've al ready given my $20.00", to "M old lady's sick in bed and I have n't got a cent." Some of them wouldn't even bother to make up an excuse and would just give you explicit directions upon what place you could betake yourself to.

When we ran out of ideas, some one came up with a unique sug gestion. These tickets were exact replicas of their not so pleas counterparts — the parking tic

ets. And even more interesting placed face down on an autom obile parked in a loading zone or in front of an overdue meter, the would discourage an ambitious liceman from bestowing an a thentic one.

This was the hour we collecte only fifty cent pieces.

Mademoiselle magazine in its 1956 College Fiction Contest is offering $1,000 in prizes for the two best short stories written by women undergraduates under 26. The two winners will receive $500 each for serial rights to their stories and publication in Mademoiselle. The runners-up will receive honorable mention and the right to sell their work to the magazine at its regular rates. The winners and honorable mentions will be announced in the 1956 August College issue. Entries must be postmarked by midnight March 15, 1956.

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced an examination for Student Trainees in the fields of Agricultural Economics and Statistics, Plant Pest Control, and the Biological and Plant Sciences. These training positions are open to students who have completed, or expect to complete by June 1956, at least one, but not more than three years of appropriate college study. Applications for the written test must be filed with the Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., before February 15, 1956.

Competition is open for an award given by the Germanistic Society of America and for other fellowships for German study in Germany. March 1, 1956, is the closing date for applications.

New Perspectives on Peace and World Development, the annual inter-school working conference of the University Peace Center Association, a group working in cooperation with the Chicago Regional Office of the American Friends Service Committee, will be held at Judd Hall of the University of Chicago on February 18 and 19. The conference is intended primarily for university students and faculty who are sufficiently concerned with the problems of peace and world development to want to explore the possibility of undertaking some regular work and study in these areas.

To set up an agency for selling subscriptions of good magazines to places of business which usually keep the magazines for customers Duncan Little needs either two or three men. For further information call him at 2-1664.

Mr. Henshaw at the Daily News-Clarion Ledger needs a man who has a car to work forty hours a week teaching boys to sell papers, keeping up with thirty carrier boys and filling vacancies when they occur. For this the pay will be $50 a week and $20 auto expense. For the exact hours of work required, see Dr. McCracken.

All other information concerning these opportunities will be kept on file in the Purple and White office.

On Being Campused

By Hazel Truluck

This story proposes to tell you in brief of the disobedience and the loss thereupon the privileges of a sophomore damsels; then touches the accompanying motions.

The young sophomore, absolutely oblivious to the fact that Father Time was advancing with great rapidity for an old man, sat calmly sipping coffee with not a thought in her head—as usual. She talked happily with the gayety of a young sophomore who loves talking and has not a care in the world other than several tests for which she must study. But this is the present and, with characteristic procrastination, the Chief of all Procrastinators has decided to think about the tests later. Why worry—she has all night to study. So she sits and sips coffee. Father Time has gone quite a distance on his journey; the idea creeps into the coffee drinker's consciousness that it may be getting curfew time. But no hurry, it can't be very late. A leisurely ride back to the institute of higher learning at which she studied (or rather which she attends) follows. She doesn't have a worry in the world. Life is heavenly.

Suddenly everything is not heavenly! The young Sophomore is plunged into chaos. She is late! But this is an impossibility. A thousand thoughts spring into her mind to torture her. Life is horrible. Formerly happy co-ed days—a thousand horrible deaths without dying at all. What torture! What panic!

Springing from the car before it has even stopped, the unhappy piest of unhappy flies to the door in a state of complete shock. The door opens, and she is plunged into pandemonium. "If this is a nightmare, why in the world don't I wake up? This is too much." The young sophomore sympathizes with the angels who fell from heaven in Paradise Lost. She feels a kindred spirit. Their situations seem exceedingly similar to her own. For indeed she has fallen from a heavenly existence into a state of chaos, and for her transgressions she is sentenced to imprisonment in the dormitory for quite a spell. No longer is Father Time spry; no longer does he move quickly. He has undoubtedly become a hopeless cripple.

The young Sophomore has now earned the title of "Campus Queen". In her domain she rules quietly, having acquired a book on "Seventy Three ways to play Solitaire" and a deck of cards. Her reign will be long and unpleasant, but the Queen decides to remain calm, cheerful, and very good during her trials and tribulations for "This too will pass," and one day she will be free of this task of ruling. The Queen sits quietly and plays solitaire and talks to herself for she is a young sophomore who loves to talk. Over and over she murmurs quietly, "This too shall pass".

Majors Draw Blank Against Howard

By Dannie Anderson

The Millsaps Majors lost their ninth game of the season Wednesday night, January 25, to Howard College of Birmingham by a score of 74-34.

The Majors were overpowered by the taller and more accurate Baptists from Alabama. The Majors were, on the average, about three inches shorter than Howard. Millsaps hit 18% of their field goals and 63% of their free throws; whereas, Howard hit 45% of their field goals and 78% of their free throws.

The last time Millsaps was ahead was in the fifth minute when they led 4-3. Howard quickly bounced back and pushed the score to 9-4 in their favor.

Howard stumped Millsaps with their tight zone defense while cracking the Millsaps man-to-man quickly in the opening minutes. Millsaps trailed 20-45 at the half.

Howard was paced and sparked by forward Bill Langford who scored 24 points and walked off with scoring honors for the night. Millsaps was paced by forward Ken Parks with 17 points and sparked by captain Jack King.

Girls' Basketball Games Begin

The girls' intramural basketball tournament began January 26 with the game between the Chi Omegas and the Vikings. The Vikings took an early lead, but the Chi O's soon caught up and went on to win the game 20-12. High scorer for the winning Chi O's was Lillian Starnes with 12 points. High scorer for the Vikings was Gail Moorhead with 6 points.

On January 29 the Kappa Deltas and the Phi Mus played a close exciting game. There was only one foul called in the entire game.

The Phi Mus scored first, then the KD's gained the lead and held it throughout the rest of the game. The final score was, KD-10, Phi Mu-8. High scorer for the KD's was Jeanette Pullen with 6 points. Clara Smith and Shirley Brown each scored 4 points for the Phi Mus.

A late score of the week is: Chi O 35, Phi Mu 8.

Intramurals:

Kappa Alpha Edges Lambda Chi Alpha

Kappa Alpha and Lambda Chi Alpha battled an intramural game to a photo-finish Monday night. The KA's edged the opposition out by one point in the last five seconds after a neck-and-neck race for points. With ten seconds to go Lambda Chi led 30 to 29, but with five seconds to go Max MacDaniel wrapped things up with a fabulous, clinching two points through the net, to put Kappa Alpha ahead for good, 31 to 30.

Dr. Reynolds To Head La.-Miss. Math Meet

Dr. Thomas L. Reynolds, head of the mathematics department at Millsaps College, will preside at the annual meeting of the Louisiana-Mississippi section of the Mathematical Association of America. Dr. Reynolds was elected to this position at the meet last February. This year the group will meet February 17 and 18 at McNeese State College in Lake Charles, Louisiana.

Professor Sam Knox will present a paper during the two-day meeting of the association. Approximately fifteen papers on mathematics will be presented.

Guest lecturer for the meetings will be Dr. J. C. Eaves, head of the department of mathematics and astronomy at the University of Kentucky.

Professor Arnold Ritchie will accompany Dr. Reynolds and Mr. Knox.

Wife: "Splendid! I'll start dressing at once."

Husband: "Yes, do. The tickets are for tomorrow night."

Dr. D. M. Key, Fourth President Of Millsaps College, Passes Away

Dr. A. P. Hamilton Presented Elegy

Dr. D. M. Key, the fourth president of Millsaps College, died Wednesday, January 25, in Birmingham, Alabama. He guided the Millsaps administration from 1923 to 1938.

Dr. Ross H. Moore, Dr. A. P. Hamilton, Dr. M. C. White, and Dr. H. E. Finger, Jr. attended the funeral, at which time Dr. Hamilton gave this elegy:

'Who, if he rise to station of command,
 Rises by open means; and there will stand
 On honorable terms, or else retire,
 Who comprehends his trust, and to the same Keeps faithful with a singleness of aim;
 This is the Happy Warrior'

Wadsworth's words "Faithful with a singleness of aim" describe David Martin Key as well as any in the language. His signature was always preceded by "Faithfully yours." He slipped away from us last night as he had lived and worked among us—quietly. He possessed the quiet energy of a strong river, with currents that ran deep. Whatever he did was done without ostentation. He was modest and genuine with the courage of his convictions no matter what the challenge happened to be. This unswerving loyalty to the right, motivated by a deep Christian faith, was one of the striking features of his strong character.

First of all, Dr. Key was a great Christian and churchman; but he was also an able scholar, teacher, and administrator. Under his administration and leadership as president Millsaps College attained its highest rating and recognition up to that time and the distinction of being one of the best liberal arts colleges in the whole nation.

I first met him when I was a Junior in college in old Greensboro, Alabama. He came to us in his late twenties with a Master's Degree fresh from Vanderbilt. Though not originally from the Deep South, he soon fell under the spell of the charming way of life of the section. During his second year with us he married his Missouri sweetheart, Anna Shelton, and brought her down to live among us. For the most part, they spent the rest of their very influential lives in Alabama and Mississippi.

After living and teaching for eight years in Greensboro, Dr. Key accepted a professorship in Millsaps College, Jackson, Mississippi, where, as teacher and then as president and dean he remained for almost twenty five years. In the meantime the old college in Greensboro had been moved to Birmingham and from Millsaps College he went back to Alabama and rounded out his active years of teaching at Birmingham-Southern College. There were several years more of teaching in retirement, then Doctor and Mrs. Key came back to Birmingham for their declining years, surrounded by their daughters and their families. The two sons, David Junic and Shelton, meanwhile, had made their homes in Chicago and Columbus, Ohio. David was born in Greensboro and Shelton in Jackson. These sons and the two girls, Ann and Mary Letts, grew up in a happy family circle in the president's home on the Millsaps campus. . . .

It would be hard for me to say how much I owe him, a teacher, fellow-member of the faculty, president, but above all as friend and counsellor. He came into my life when I was just eighteen years of age and made a deep impression on me that has lasted through the years. To give him up now like losing part of my very own life. I have been as close to him as to any other human being outside my own family circle.

Now he will rest beside his beloved Anna on that lovely green slope looking off to the everlasting hills, until the Son of Righteousness appears with healing in His wings and bring them both to rise.

PACATO NON POSSUM MERE ESSE DEO."

Husband—"Well, my dear, I carried you safely over all rough places of life, haven't I."

Wife—"Yes,—and you have missed a one of 'em!"

Public opinion polls indicate an increasing belief that President Eisenhower will seek re-election in November. One month ago there was considerable doubt that Eisenhower would again be a candidate for the Presidency; but in recent polls, the consensus seems to be that Ike will run. As the shock of the President's heart attack becomes more removed, this trend will probably increase.

It will be remembered that in last week's column, I expressed my personal opinion that Mr. Eisenhower will run for a second term if his physical condition continues to improve. It is now necessary to justify that belief.

Different individuals are motivated by different reasons to seek public office. Some do so because of love and devotion for their country; others for personal power and advancement. Dwight D. Eisenhower must be placed under the former category. He is a man of deep personal conviction; a man who devoted thirty years to the defense of his country, rising to the position of Supreme Allied Commander. After retirement from the Armed Forces, he again served his country by accepting the great responsibility of the Presidency. He has served well.

If Mr. Eisenhower sincerely believes that he can continue to perform a service for his country, and the free world, without placing the United States in a precarious position, he will surely do so.

Modern government is a complexity of many integrated factors and influences. Unless these factors blend harmoniously, it is difficult and often impossible for a government to function properly and effectively. Such a condition exists in France today.

The cultural heritage and many conflicting ideologies of the French people are certainly reflected in her government today. There are approximately ten major political parties, ranging from the Communists on the extreme left to the Poujadists on the far right. An electoral system of proportional representation is employed. Much of the political instability of France is a result of these two factors, yet the means of improvement are difficult to ascertain. The answer will surely involve an increased feeling of national interest and willingness to compromise, combined with an improved electoral system.

The National Assembly last week approved the appointment of Socialist Guy Mollet as Premier, but already danger signs have appeared. Twenty-two governments have fallen in France since 1947; what are the prospects of Mr. Mollet and the twenty-third administration? The conclusion must be that until the present political

Jackson To Head '56 Senior Class

Burton Jackson was elected president of the Class of '56 in a class election held Tuesday, January 31. He replaces John Hubbard, who graduated and is leaving for service with Uncle Sam's Marines. Burton was elevated to the top position after serving as vice-president the first part of the year. Clara Parks Booth was elected to take his place for the remainder of the school year.

Claudette Westerfield continues to hold the office of secretary.

Eminent Psychologist Addresses Local Club

Tuesday evening at 7:15, Dr. Jesse Rhinehart of the Veterans Administration Center at Jackson addressed the Millsaps Psychology club. Dr. Rhinehart's talk was concerned chiefly with different aspects of clinical psychology and its adaptability to industry as well as individuals. She also discussed specific cases (minus names) which the VA has handled, and progress made recently in certain psychological research fields.

After Dr. Rhinehart's talk, the club discussed plans for its next meeting on February 21.

Debaters Place Second In West Georgia Tournament

Traveling to Carrollton, Georgia, to compete with ten Southern colleges and universities, the Millsaps Debate Team was successful in winning six of the trophies offered at the West Georgia Tournament.

The school trophy was awarded to Agnes Scott with one hundred fifty-eight points, while Millsaps, credited with one hundred fifty-six points, captured second place trophy. Negative Championship trophy was awarded the Millsaps Negative team composed of Rose Cunningham and Susie Lipsey. Rose also won the trophy for third place Negative speaker. Affirmative speakers Alfred Statham and Jerry Trigg won second and third place individual trophies, respectively.

Competing schools were Agnes Scott, Howard College, North Georgia Military School, Mercer College, Auburn, Florida State University, Georgia Tech, David Lipscomb, West Georgia State, and Millsaps.

The debaters have a full schedule ahead of them. This weekend the team is participating in the Azalea Tournament at Spring Hill College, Mobile, Alabama. The following week they will be in New Orleans taking part in the Tulane Tournament.

S.E.B. Poll Reveals Widespread Dissatisfaction With Cafeteria

By Hiram Polk

The considerable unrest on the campus concerning the present cafeteria situation here at Millsaps was recognized in a meeting of the Student Executive Board recently, and a committee was formed to survey student opinion on the matter. To be considered were the general eating conditions, food, and prices. The $90 per semester compulsory board bill was also intended to be a part of the survey and during the early polling a number of students voiced their opinion on this subject.

A huge majority of these polled on this question felt that it was unfair for the college to require this specified food purchase, but only a few were aware that to operate the cafeteria at all the college must have an assured volume of trade. But now for the results of this widespread survey in which 253 students took part.

With such a large percentage of the entire student body being polled, it seems that this will provide an accurate indication of general campus feeling on the topic. 77.5% of the students replied "No," to the question, "Are you satisfied with the food in the cafeteria?" Also of importance is that 56.1% of the students felt that for various reasons the cafeteria had become a less desirable place since the change in management. To eliminate an aimless negative aspect in the poll, those students included in the "dissatisfied" category were required to list definite points of disapproval. Uncleanliness, poor seasoning, lack of variety, too much use of leftovers, and smaller servings all were objects of widespread protestation.

A rather small 21.8% of the students interviewed felt that the food was about the same as it has always been, and another 22.2% felt the new management had provided a better general level of eating conditions. Among the better elements in the cafeteria, according to those disliking as well as those liking the present food, were the salads and desserts and the more attractive methods of presentation of the menu.

Two recommendations which received wide support among the students polled were that the breakfast hour be extended to 8:30 in consideration of the great number of students not having early morning classes and that the installation of a juke box in the cafeteria be considered. Another very notable trend was the feeling of many students that if the cafeteria had less than $90 guaranteed board from each student, the cafeteria would have to compete with other food agencies for a greater part of student eating trade and thereby the cafeteria food might exhibit definite improvement.

All in all, it seems that such widespread dissatisfaction warrants some consideration of improving the quality and quantity of the food served in the college cafeteria.

Fellowship and Parliamentary Procedure

Joint MC-Millsaps Meeting Proves One Thing---Talmadge Littlejohn Knows Parliamentary Procedure

S.E.B. held its regular meeting Tuesday evening at 6:30 in the forum room of the library. The meeting was called to order at 6:40 by Margaret Whitfield, secretary of S.E.B., who read the minutes and then, in the absence of other S.E.B. officers, carried on the regular order of business; this included the announcement that March 8 has been set as the date when Mississippi College will be on our campus to present a chapel program, and that on the following day, Millsaps will present a chapel program on the Mississippi College campus. She then suggested that a date be set for Tap Day, but this was put aside for further consideration.

Students Initiated

The S.E.B. members present suggested that a great deal of good could come from issuing an invitation to all members of the student body who are interested in what goes on in student government meetings to attend the future meetings of S.E.B. Dates, times, and places will be posted on the bulletin board.

Other issues on which those present were prepared to speak were (1) the results of the poll taken on the cafeteria food, and (2) the cut system. The reason these two subjects could not be discussed was the fact that the delegation from M.C. arrived on time at 7:00 p.m., and present business was suspended in order to hold the scheduled joint M.C.-Millsaps meeting. Margaret Whitfield of Millsaps and Talmadge Littlejohn of M.C. presided over the joint meeting.

Minutes of the last joint meeting were read, and in the next 45 minutes two things were accomplished, (1) a date was set for the joint talent show March 6, and (2) after abundant discussion, it was decided to let the president of the two student bodies set the date for the next joint meeting.

The Pool Wasn't Discussed

At 7:50, the meeting stood adjourned. The campus food situation wasn't discussed. The cut system wasn't discussed. Tap Day wasn't discussed.

Those members absent from the S.E.B. meeting were:

N. R. Walley, President (Who was sick); Jack Loflin, vice-president; Reynolds Cheney, Hiram Polk, Ed Upton, Emily Greener, Laverne Smith, Burton Jackson.

Millsaps-MC Plan Variety Show

Millsaps College and Mississippi College are planning a joint variety show scheduled for some time in March.

Tentative plans are to center the program around a small southern college. Dances and songs of the eras since the Civil War will be presented in this setting by talent from both schools.

Millsaps members of the variety show committee are N. R. Walley, Hugh Johnston, Nancy Peacock, and Betty Miller.

Prob'ly So

By Hazel Truluck

This new week brought with it vague threats of a lawsuit to this writer. A certain individual claims that the title of this attempt at writing is original with him; therefore he claims that your author is guilty of plagiarism. We contest this statement on the grounds that the afore mentioned title is a campus-wide expression and therefore can be used freely by all the students of Millsaps College. Correct?

Now that we have settled that business let us go on to another subject. We would like to consider the matter of spring fever when it isn't even spring. Perhaps it's the reappearance of old Sol who had been so long hidden behind the clouds that we had almost forgotten he existed. The glorious sunlight viewed from a dormitory or classroom window looks doubly inviting. It creates an urgent desire in one to go tripping through the green grass barefooted (unless you're afraid of a little pneumonia). Inside there is the feeble and false glow of Mr. Edison's invention, but outside—the shining light of nature beams down. What creature has the will power to resist the temptation presented by the great out-of-doors?

The disappearance of the most of the campus co-ed's Bermuda socks worn with skirts also accompanies warm weather. This news will be greatly appreciated by some of the male population who hold this fashion in low esteem. Some people just do not appreciate style.

Warm weather fosters romance and toward this end we recommend the gals at loose ends (some are) our ever vigilant society editor's column. We commend her on her humane interest in the fate of the lonely female. We also recommend psychology, which probably won't work but makes one feel intellectual.

With these classic statements on the classic subject of the weather, we leave to our reader an idea for "something to say" when one runs out of everything else—the weather is always here.

Literary Festival To Be At MC

Dr. M. C. White has received information on the Southern Literary Festival to be held April 20, at Mississippi College in Clinton, Mississippi. He hopes to have more information about the Festival and manuscripts to be submitted, shortly.

The Festival is an annual literary occasion which draws the attention of undergraduates all over the south. It is designed for students interested in securing a hearing for their work.

Any undergraduate student enrolled in a member institution during any part of the 1955-56 session is eligible.

In most schools preliminary contests are held prior to the Festival to pick the two best manuscripts to submit. Manuscripts are classified in five categories—poetry, short story, formal essay, informal essay, and one-act play. Manuscripts must be turned in to the secretary of the Association by March 10.

President Finger Spoke At Wesley

President H. E. Finger visited the Oxford University Methodist Church February 4-5 as the second speaker in the 1955-56 Wesley foundation speakers' series.

The program opened at 3:30 p.m. with an informal get-together with Dr. Finger. Saturday night Dr. Finger addressed the Wesley foundation and members of the Oxford-University Methodist Church following a banquet at the church at 6:30 p.m. He delivered the sermon Sunday morning and concluded his visit with a discussion at the regular meeting of Wesley foundation at 5:30.

RELIGIOUS VIEWS AND REVIEWS . . .

The Day The Earth Stood Still

By Brooks Hudson

It was 2:30 in the morning on the twenty-first of June when the earth stood still. There wasn't any explosion or disturbance in the stars, just an extraordinarily long night to the wakeful sleeper and a godsend to the weary one, just a halt in the working of the rotation-controlled clocks in the observatories.

It wasn't expected by the scientists, this sudden event, and frantically they checked their instruments and shot weather balloons into the clouds while rolls of seismograph tape littered the labs, New York called Berlin, and Berlin echoed the cry to Johannesburg, and for a while Moscow forgot its Lenins, Stalins, and revolutions as it watched the far reaches of the heavens for a clue—any clue to this catastrophe.

Outside, in the pitch blackness of 10:00 in the morning, the streets clattered with many feet running away to nowhere. The National Guard was armed to face an enemy no one could see. But in marked contrast to the noise of the city, far away a smile of serenity crossed the wrinkled brow of the ancient priest. He alone of all people knew why the orb had ceased its movement. God, in His infinite way, had suspended the wars, the confusion of His world so that man, for a little while, might see a real need for Him.

Social Activities Committee Has New Composition and Purpose

February 1 the Social Activities Committee of SEB undertook a new composition and function. This committee is made up of the social chairman from each of the ten social organizations, one unaffiliated independent from town, one unaffiliated independent married student, one unaffiliated independent girl from a dormitory, and one unaffiliated independent boy from a dormitory. This group of fourteen students has as its governing board an executive board made of a chairman, Charlotte Elliott; a secretary-treasurer, Walter Jean Lamb; and two other members, Lucy Price and Jim Waits. This executive committee meets each Tuesday at 5:45 to approve functions pending for that week. Party forms are to be turned in five days prior to the function. A box will be provided at a central location for the party forms to be placed; until a box is provided, turn the forms into Dean of Students' office. Meetings of the full committee will be once a month. The chairman has the power to call a meeting in case of emergency.

The Social Activities Committee has the following functions:

1. Receiving requests for S. E. B. dates to be submitted to S. E. B. for approval at the beginning of each semester.
2. Setting policies and procedures regarding parties. Such policies and procedures as pertain to such matters as the following:
 - A. Setting up a party clearance form—stating the type of party, the time of party, the place, and the chaperones.
 - B. Determining the number of days the social activities form must be turned in to the committee before the social function is given.

3. Maintaining the official social activities calendar.
4. Approving all-campus social functions.
5. Supervising the storing and lending of recreational materials and equipment.
6. Providing for any other phases of the social activities program as needs arise.

The purpose of this committee is to provide for broader and fairer representation so that the recreational life of Millsaps College will be more effective.

The success or failure of this committee depends upon the students co-operating with the committee in turning in the requests in time and turning in the party clearance form with the chaperones needed.

Foot's Prints

Wanna know the three most profound statements one can make?

1. "You've had your hair cut." I spec the wearer of the new "do" is fully aware of this so if you can't comment (good or bad) don't mention it.

2. "I saw your picture in the paper." This little quote may well lead one to believe you never even read the paper—particularly the Carnegie column on "How to Win Friends etc."

3. And the epitome—"I heard you sing." If I could think of a priceless retort I would have employed it long ago.

Christian Brothers College (they're really not brothers at all) whipped us again. I nominate Stanley Thornton and Tex Sample for cheerleaders of the year as a result of their display at the game. A grimy handful of wilted Rhododendrons to all 700 of you who couldn't trouble yourself to attend the event.

Congrats to Teenie for being the new President of Why Mu and also to Marilyn for being the Prexy of whatever that club's name is.

Miz Pleasants thinks her little gal is unpopular 'cause her name hasn't been in the P & W yet. Don't worry, Ma'am. She really did have a date last October 24.

Here's a little clue to success: dedicated to those of you who failed to make a C average. "Remember why the good Lord made your eyes, So don't shade your eyes. . . Plagiarize!! (copy—to you o the limited vocabulary)

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

"It is better to be silent and be thought a fool than to speak and remove all doubt."

Forty From Millsaps Attend MSM Meet

Forty students from Millsaps leave today for the MSM conference at MSCW, where Dr. Pete Bertocci is to speak on the theme "CONVERSION: from what—to what?"

Dr. Bertocci is author of the philosophy of religion textbook used by Millsaps, and he is professor of philosophy at Boston University.

Taking part in the conference will be 350 students from all over the state. A vital part of the conference will be the student led discussion groups following each talk.

Martina Riley is president of the state MSM. Jim Waits serves on the Council as Publication Chairman.

Now The Figures Are Available . . .

The results of the S.E.B. poll on how the students rate the cafeteria are not surprising, but they do prove a point many of us have been aware of for a long time; THAT MOST OF THE STUDENTS EAT IN THE CAFETERIA BECAUSE THEY'RE FORCED TO. They have no choice. At the beginning of each semester they are charged $90 for meal books, and the only place to use them for meals is the cafeteria.

When 77.5% of the students queried are dissatisfied with the food they're being forced to eat, an unhealthy situation exists.

S.E.B. wanted figures, now the figures are available—let the Millsaps student body keep a close look to see if S.E.B. has the power to follow through and take steps to make the situation more pleasing.

Is Your Opinion Being Represented On S.E.B.---Now You Can Find Out

The next S.E.B. meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, February 21. Barring any drastic change in plans, two of the subjects which will very probably be discussed are cafeteria food and the cut system. If these two areas hold any interest at all for you, why not plan to attend the meeting. Who knows, you may have some idea for solution of these problems which no regular S.E.B. member has ever had. Frankly, you owe it to yourself to at least know what's going on in S.E.B. meetings. Their decisions affect you directly, as members of the student body, and you have the right to express your opinion directly to your representative.

Do you want better food in the cafeteria? Do you want an unlimited cut system, or do you prefer things the way they are? Make your own voice heard—or go to observe—but go—to the S.E.B. meeting on Feb. 21!

Registrar Receives Entrance Applications

Professor Paul D. Hardin, Registrar recently announced that he had already received eighty-one applications for admission to Millsaps in September. This means that Millsaps is ahead of its annual schedule in receiving applications.

Normally the college receives a greater number of applications for admission in March after High School Day.

Millsaps, CBC Vie For Lead

In the most exciting game of the season, the MAJORS battled to retain their early game lead, but the CBC cagers, notable for their second half spirit, went out in front to finish the game 61-53.

Tryouts For The Rainmaker Will Be Held Monday Night

Tryouts for The Rainmaker, the next Millsaps Players production, will be held Monday night at 7:00 P.M. in the Christian Center Auditorium. Director Lance Goss urges everyone who is interested in reading to come to the tryouts. There are roles for six men and one woman in the play. Although this is a small cast Mr. Goss would like to have a large number of men and women read for the parts.

The Rainmaker is a romantic comedy by N. Richard Nash. Since its introduction on Goodyear-Philco Television Playhouse two years ago, The Rainmaker has charmed audiences all over America. It had a successful run on the Broadway stage, with Geraldine

CBC Defeats Majors 61-53; Millsaps Leads First Half

By Dannie Anderson

Millsaps lost its twelfth game of the season Monday night in Buie gym 61-53 to Christian Brothers College of Memphis.

The Majors were in the lead until left forward Donnelly of C.B.C. dumped in the game turning field goal with 14 minutes and 15 seconds left in the game making the score 37-36.

* The Majors were challenged only once in the first half when C.B.C. pulled to within two points of the Majors, but at no time was C.B.C. more than seven points behind. C.B.C. pulled within two points of Millsaps five times in the second half until they edged ahead. Donnelly duplicated his game turning field goal quickly, making the score 39-36; Jack King tallied with a marker for Millsaps pulling to 39-38; then Goette of C.B.C. popped two quick field goals into the rim. From that point on Millsaps did not seriously threaten C.B.C.

C.B.C. broke up Millsaps' tight zone defense early in the second half and threw a tight net around their own goal to insure victory.

The Millsaps fans boosted their team loudly while they were ahead, but silence reigned when defeat seemed conceivable.

Millsaps hit only 42% of their free throws where C.B.C. hit 75%, and the majors hit 40% of their field goals while C.B.C. hit 44%.

Holloway of Millsaps was high scorer for the game with 25 points. Donnelly of C.B.C. was second with 20.

Millsaps (53) Pos. C.B.C. (61)
Holloway 24 F Crone 3
Parks 6 F Donnelly 20
Whaley 8 C Barnes 18
Livingston 2 G Goette 12
Weems 13 G Rolwing 6
Subs: Millsaps—Walley, King 2; C.B.C.—Pellegrin 2, Holohan. Halftime score Millsaps 28, C.B.C. 24.

Chi O's Lead In Girl's Basketball

The girl's intramural basketball tournament rolled into its second week with the Chi O's versus the Phi Mus on February 1. The Chi O's took an early lead and went on to win 35-8 in a game in which there were ten fouls. Karen Gilfoy sank 10 points for the winning Chi O's, and Clara Smith scored four for the Phi Mus.

The next day the Vikings took a 26-16 thriller from the BSO's. The Vikings dominated the first half, and the BSO's were unable to bounce back despite the netting of eight points by Frances Furr in the second half. Leading scorers were Gail Morehead, Vikings, and Frances Furr, BSO's, each with eleven points.

The Chi O's racked up their third victory Monday when they played the BSO's. When the game ended the score read Chi O's 29, BSO's 8. The Chi O's got off to a fast start with Alice and Lillian Starnes each scoring ten points in the first half. Mary Nell Roberts paced the BSO attack with four points.

The following is the won and loss record through Monday afternoon:

As of this date, over three hundred bills have been introduced in the current session of the Mississippi Legislature. Only a few have been signed by Governor Coleman, and many have been disposed of with incredible rapidity. Many more laws with far reaching implication, however, appear destined to be entered into the State's law code.

At this time, the most popular categories are taxation bills and measures intended to preserve segregation. Very few complaints have been heard against the various revenue measures; citizens are apparently reconciled to the fact that the operation of modern government is expensive. What bothers this writer, however, is the fact that even fewer complaints have been heard against the so-called "back door," or segregation bills. For regardless of your opinion concerning racial discrimination, some of these measures present a definite threat to the continuance of democratic government.

Most dangerous of these bills is the Legislature's criminal libel law. This measure provides punishment by imprisonment and/or fine for anyone who communicates defamatory information against "any state, county, city, community, their inhabitants, institutions, or governments." Such a law certainly threatens freedom of speech and the press.

As the Madison County Herald stated: "Many of those who are active in proposals to solve racial problems are proposing dangerous and un-American laws."

The highly controversial debate between flexible or rigid farm price supports is once again on the floor of congress. Democrats, led by Senator Allen J. Ellender of Louisiana, who is chairman of the powerful Senate Agricultural Committee, are fighting for a return to 90% of parity. President Eisenhower and Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson along with most Republicans, want to continue flexible price supports varying from 82.5% to 100% of parity.

Proponents of flexible price supports maintain that a rigid 90% parity will nullify Mr. Eisenhower's proposed soil bank program, and many observers predict the President will veto the bill if it contains this provision. Senator Ellender terms this charge "poppycock" and states that farmers need immediate relief from low agricultural commodity prices.

It thus seems necessary for Congress and the administration to put aside partisan interests and reach a compromise favorable to both sides, in a collective effort to relieve the great problem facing our farmers and our nation.

J. Nall And Dowdle Make Seminar Trip

Two Millsaps College students, Joyce Nall of Jackson and Oscar Dowdle, Jr., Greenville, were among 40 Methodist students in New York and Washington for a five-day on-the-scenes Christian citizenship seminar at the U. N. and on Capitol Hill.

In Washington after three days in New York, the teenage Methodist Youth Fellowship members from throughout the nation had group appointments with senators and representatives, followed by a forum in which a Republican speaker presented the accomplishments of the Eisenhower administration and a Democrat countered with his criticisms and proposals.

Welcomed in New York Sunday by Dr. Ralph Sockman, pastor of Christ Church, Methodist, the students plunged into a quick survey of the U. N. Included in the schedule were a briefing at the United States Mission to the U. N., a tour and lunch in the U. N. buildings, descriptions of technical assistance and the peaceful use of atomic energy and talks by representatives of the British and Czechoslovakian delegations to the U. N.

AED Convention Plans Completed

Plans for the National Convention of Alpha Epsilon Delta, national pre-medical honor society, slated for this campus on March 29-31, are nearing completion. Added to the previously published activities has been a supper for the members of the Millsaps chapters and the National Officers scheduled for the evening of March 28 at the Mississippi Power and Light Company Lodge on the Natchez Trace.

All Millsaps pre-med and pre-dental students, whether members of AED or not, are urged to remain on the campus for the speeches and other points of interest during the convention and especially for the important conferences on Pre-Medical Education planned for the University School on March 29, including a complete tour of the school and hospital.

Dr. Bell and other members of the technician staff at the University Medical School appeared before an open AED meeting on February 1, discussing the auxiliary divisions of medicine. At a business meeting following, Hiram Polk, president of the local group, was elected official chapter delegate to the Convention.

Westminster Elects Officers For Year

Westminster Fellowship, the student Presbyterian organization, recently elected officers for the coming year. They are: President, John Stone; Vice-President in charge of membership, Margaret McCorkle; Vice President in charge of attendance, Mary Louise Moore; Secretary-Treasurer, Millicent King.

Millsaps Students Active At MSM

Forty Millsaps students attended the MSM conference at M.S. C.W. last weekend. Dr. Peter Bertocci, philosophy professor at Boston University, was the featured speaker. His four talks on the theme, "Conversion: From What—To What?" were stimulating and relevant to the needs of college students today.

In his first talk, "From Fear to Purpose," he presented the idea that all of us have fears and cannot expect to be free from them, but we can recognize them and see that there is purpose in them. His second talk, "From Being Loved to Loving," expressed belief that we are not ready for marriage until we have learned that loving another is more important than seeking love for ourselves. "From Being Good to Redemptive Love" was Dr. Bertocci's third address, in which he showed that conversion lies not in refraining from doing "bad," but in positively creating good. His final talk, "From Dreaming to a Vision of Greatness," was a challenge that we must begin where we are.

On Sunday morning the conference discussed and passed the following resolution and sent it to the daily papers:

WHEREAS, the moral character of Dr. Morton B. King has been attacked by members of the Mississippi State Legislature and the press; and,

WHEREAS, we of the Methodist Student Movement have been associated with Dr. King while he has served as a member of the Executive Committee of the Inter-Conference Commission on Methodist Student Work in Mississippi and as Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Wesley Foundation at the University of Mississippi; and

WHEREAS, we have known his character to be above reproach, and his dedication as a Christian layman to be steadfast;

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED that we as students of the Methodist Church in Mississippi go on record as protesting the unfounded attack on his character and as expressing to Dr. King our appreciation for his service to the Methodist students of Mississippi and our continued respect for his Christian witness; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that while we do not necessarily uphold his views, we do uphold his right to express them.

Millsaps students had an active part in the conference. Retiring president of MSM is Martina Riley, and retiring publicity chairman is Jim Waits. R. W. McCarley was elected representative to the North Mississippi Conference MYF Council, and Martina Riley was elected World Christian Community Chairman for the coming year.

Discussion leaders from Millsaps were Tommy Price, Pat Hillman, R. W. McCarley, Jessie Moore, Tex Sample, Dayton Whites, and Jonah Ford. Ed Upton was in charge of the party Friday night.

Dr. Cunningham Is Featured Religious Emphasis Speaker

Dr. W. J. Cunningham, pastor of the First Methodist Church in Tupelo, is the featured speaker for Religious Emphasis Week, which begins on Monday. His theme is "A Faith to Live By."

At 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Dr. Cunningham will speak Monday through Wednesday in the Christian Center Auditorium. Ed Upton, president of Christian Council, has announced the REW schedule. "Things That Cannot Be Shaken" and "Religion Is Its Own Reward" are the topics for Monday; "Doubts Are Traitors" and "What Do We Mean By Sin?" for Tuesday; "What Can One Christian Do?" and "Christianity Is a Real Man's Religion," for Wednesday. Each night faculty members will lead discussions in the dormitories and fraternity houses.

Dr. Cunningham is president of the North Mississippi Conference Board of Education and a member of the General Assembly of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U. S. A. In 1954 he participated in the Evanson meeting of the World Council of Churches. In September he will attend the Methodist World Conference at Junaluska.

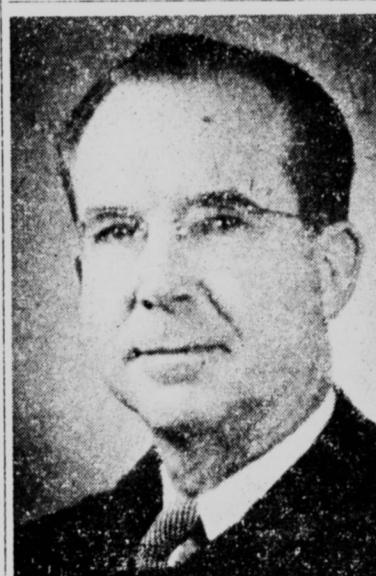

Before coming to Tupelo, Dr. Cunningham was at First Church in Greenville. He has also served the Oxford University Methodist Church.

A student at Millsaps 1925-1927 he was graduated from Ole Miss two years later. He received his B.D. from Emory University and his D.D. from Millsaps College.

During his college days, Rev. Cunningham served as the first president of the Methodist Student Movement in Mississippi. He is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity and an honorary member of Omicron Delta Kappa.

As Chairman of the Steering Committee in the Million for Millsaps Campaign, Dr. Cunningham has led his church to be first in financial support given in the North Mississippi Conference.

The Christian Council is completing the details for next week. Nancy Peacock and Martina Riley are chairmen of the worship committee, and Carolyn Allen is planning the music.

Wesley Elects New Officers

New executive officers, faculty advisers, and commission chairmen were elected at the last two meetings of Wesley Fellowship. Executive officers will serve for a year, while commission chairmen serve for one semester.

Executive officers are as follows: Martina Riley, president; Paul Kern, vice-president; Betty Gail Trapp, secretary; R. W. McCarley, treasurer.

Commission chairmen are Helen Sue Calahan and Anne Coker, publicity; Ed Upton, deputations; Nancy Crawford and Pat Hillman, worship; June Stellwagon and Max Miller, evangelism and outreach; Jimmy Griffis, recreation; Dayton Whites and Jonah Ford, World Christian Community; Betty Dyess, personnel and training; Nancy Peacock, study.

Millsaps Library Has Display Of Japanese Art Collection

By Betty Miller

Japan has come to Millsaps. Fragile kimonas and dainty umbrellas contrast sharply with American loafers and wool sweatshirts.

Tiny Japanese dancers perform their traditional steps while Millsaps students look on admirably, and festival wagons add a gay note to the collegiate scene.

Where is all this? How long has it been since you've been in the library?

William R. Morse, a special student at Millsaps, has arranged a library display of his Japanese collection. According to Morse, the collection is "the result of three years army service in Japan, from 1952 through 1954."

Each of the articles has a story behind it. There is a tiny doll, which although by no means the prettiest is unquestionably the most expensive. One of the Japanese students whom Mr. Morse taught English gave him this doll, her most prized possession, in appreciation.

Several different type dolls depict the various social classes. Mr. Morse explained that you can always tell a Japanese woman's age by the way she arranges her abi or sash and the manner in which her hair is styled. The clothes displayed range from formal attire complete with evening socks to everyday komonas. (Kimono, the English word for the Japanese dress, actually means "a thing to wear." Their word for dress is komona). In a glass cabinet all types of souvenirs from a bridal costume to birds made from silk worm cocoons are arranged. In another cabinet replicas of the masks worn by the Japanese in their dramas are displayed side by side with souvenir chop-sticks made by the Ainu, a mysterious white race of only a few hundred dwelling in the heart of Japan.

These are only a small number of the articles Mr. Morse collected while stationed in Kyato, the ancient capitol of Japan and a center of tourist trade, and in Nagoya.

Mr. Morse received his B.A. degree from the University of Pittsburgh in 1939 and will receive his B.S. in business from John Hopkins University this June.

RELIGIOUS VIEWS AND REVIEWS

Making Life Worth Living

By Brooks Hudson

If this writer could express his thoughts in stanzas instead of paragraphs, he would compose a poem entitled "Inspiration." There is nothing more essential to life, nothing that makes life more meaningful than a memory that can be recalled when the going gets tough: the picture of a face, the thought of a tree on a hill, or the sense of serenity of pecan leaves drifting in the pond by a rural churchyard.

Inspiration is the essential element in everyday living. Just being alive for twenty-four hours isn't living, but it's the events of the day that count. The bad events, those that are unpleasant, will soon be forgotten, but the pleasant happenings will be long remembered.

These pleasant memories are the channels for inspiration in later times. The memory of a sunny day will chase the clouds away; the memory of a smile, a look, a touch can cast the present gloom into the sea, and leave life cleaner, fresher, and ready to be remolded.

Throughout all the great literature of the Western world runs the story of God and His control over man. No one can read the first chapter of the Book of John without sensing something of the awe of the writer as he stood before the power of the Living God.

Milton in "Paradise Lost" takes man to the highest realization of God the Creator, and Browning expresses the whole essence of Christianity when he says, "O that a man's reach should exceed his grasp, or what's a heaven for?"

Inspiration is the essence of happy living, and without it life is just one big, empty, hollow globe.

Singers Will Tour Mississippi To Bring People Closer To Millsaps

By Nancy Vines

All aboard for those Greyhound buses!

Excitement is beginning to mount as the time for the annual tour of the Millsaps Singers approaches. Plans are beginning to assume definite proportions, according to Alvin Jon "Pop" King.

The tour will be completely within the borders of Mississippi this year. Mr. King and members of the choir agree that this will be doubly valuable in that the Singers will get to know Mississippi better and people all over the state will have a closer contact with Millsaps.

Although plans are incomplete, Mr. King has released the following definite dates for concerts.

Sunday, April 1—Clarksdale

Monday, April 2—(noon)—Tunica night—Holly Springs

Tuesday, April 3—Oxford (night)

Wednesday, April 4—West Point (night)

Thursday, April 5—Tupelo

Friday, April 6—Columbus

Saturday, April 7—incomplete arrangements

Sunday, April 8—Meridian (morning)

Laurel (night)

Monday, April 9—Friday, April

13—incomplete arrangements Saturday, April 14—Greenville (night)

Sunday, April 15—Benoit (morning)

Belzoni (afternoon)

Jackson—Capitol Street Methodist Church (night)

"Old" Singers will be glad to hear that "Big Joe" and "Curly" will be back driving the buses. It is also hoped that Mrs. J. B. Price and Mrs. Daniel will do a repeat performance as chaperones.

Mr. King feels that this will be a fine tour. He said, "There seems to be a feeling among the Singers themselves this year that this is a good choir. There is a lot of enthusiasm and they are rehearsing hard."

Officers for the Singers are: Bobby Smith, business manager; Johnny Awad, president; Bobby Tullos, vice president; Walter Jean Lamb, secretary; Tom Hardie, Boys' secretary; Nancy Vines, reporter.

After the tour the Singers will present "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast", a cantata by Coleridge-Taylor. On May 13, they will sing "Elijah" at Galloway Memorial Methodist Church.

"War Is Hell"

After the fall of Vicksburg, General William Tecumseh Sherman set out for a second "visit" to Jackson. The town had previously been captured and burned but had been reoccupied by the Confederate general, J. E. Johnston.

Fortification Street was the scene of bloodshed over the period of a week when Jackson was under light seige. The area between Millsaps Hill and Fortification Street was a hotly contested battleground. General Johnston, seeing he was in an untenable position, ordered his troops to withdraw to Meridian. Confederate and Union casualties were roughly the same for the second capture of Jackson. Both sides lost 1,000 men.

Sherman was ordered to pursue Johnston. To accomplish this, the Union army had to cross the Pearl River. The wooden bridge at Jackson which spanned the Pearl had been built in 1838 and had suffered through several military campaigns.

Sherman stood on the bank and watched as a cannon and limber box were slowly drawn to the center of the bridge by three mules. Suddenly the bridge, weakened by continuous passage, broke. The cannon, limber-box, mules, and driver disappeared beneath the water. Sherman roared "War is Hell!" and we can presume he had a few other comments to add to his first statement.

Sherman forgot his dislike of war for a few moments, though. He wrote President Lincoln that the capture of Jackson was successful and the flag of the Union proudly flew over the Capital. In his memoir he writes nothing of the incident....

It appears that all the eds and co-eds now in attendance at Mr. Finger's ("You send us the student; we send you the failure!") Academy have lapsed into the familiar rut. Seven days have passed since last you perused this portion of the paper and not one thing of interest has occurred.

A copy of last September's Book of Rules for Women and "2,741 Ways to Play Solitaire" to Zoe from 'Zoo, Fergie (Plunka, Plunka) Awad, and Lulu Riddell. After a long week-end of hard campaigning, these three lovelies won the coveted title of "Queen for a Week!" I notice it now takes them three hours to eat lunch.

A new trash can to all those who nibble on a sandwich or a "Twinkie" and leave the remainder on the table. Tch-tch! What would your mothers say?

A reputation for dependability and a strong sense of responsibility earned Rheba Westerfield and Carolyn Smith the position of Phi Mu Yard Boys. Incidentally, they are the first girls to hold this office.

Donations are now being taken for the purpose of purchasing a brand new S. E. B. calendar to call their very own for the frat which reserved a weekend for a house party after a dance had been scheduled on the same weekend for a month prior to their application.

A fire engine RED bonnet to Mademoiselle Craig for being high up on the list of The Top Ten Greatest Persons One Could Ever Hope To Meet.

It is rumored that Susan and Lynette (pint-sized frosh from Jackson) were seen addressing a Valentine to the Toddle House bearing the following loving inscription:

"If you will grow a little bolder,

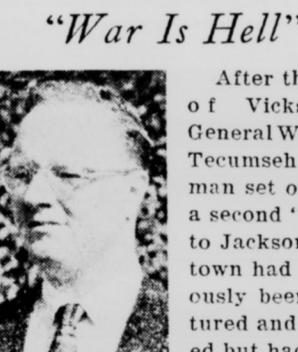

We'll return your napkin holder."

What's going on in the libe? From the street it appears we're having a rummage sale. I'd been speculating for days about it, and after going over for a closer inspection so that I could get a scoop, it seems that Mardi Gras costumes and lanterns are on sale CHEAP, especially imported from Japan for the urbane citizenry. If you aren't Mardi Gras minded, and just want to throw a party, orange pekoe tea will be served on the north mezzanine every day this week from three until five o'clock. Huge Crowd Hears Concordia Choir

by Karen Gilroy

The Concordia Choir, the most professional amateur choir in the nation, thrilled over 1,000 listeners Tuesday night with a program ranging from Bach to the contemporary works of the director.

Seldom, if ever, will we again hear tone quality, control, and balance of voices such as was displayed by this college group.

Of particular beauty and interest were: "Come Soothing Death," "Prelude For Voices," "Break Forth Into Joy," "Benedicamus Domino," and the two Spirituals, "Rock A' My Soul," and "Sit Down Servant."

Director Christiansen proved himself a master of artistry and showmanship as he extracted tones of incomparable quality characterized by an almost complete absence of vibrato.

The group performed works displaying the best of great masters to the New Orleans jazz ending of the spiritual.

It was with regret that we listened to the fading last note, and it is with anticipation that we await their return.

Debaters Place Third In Spring Hill Meet

Intercollegiate tournaments at Spring Hill College, Mobile, Alabama, and Mississippi Southern College at Hattiesburg, provided the opportunity for participation in forensic activities by the entire Millsaps Debate squad.

Competing with top teams from Auburn, F. S. U., University of Florida, Spring Hill, University of the South, Emory, Notre Dame, Agnes Scott, and Loyola University, the Millsaps teams composed of Alfred Statham, Jerry Trigg, Susie Lipsey, and Rose Cunningham, tied with Agnes Scott for third place. Notre Dame was the winner of the tournament, and Spring Hill captured second place.

Both Millsaps teams entered in the Senior Men's Division at Hattiesburg won Superior awards with Bob Mims and Paul Kern winning four out of four debates while Jim Waits and Keith Tonkel were accredited with three out of four wins.

Individual awards went to Keith Tonkel, Superiors in Junior Men's Original Speaking and Junior Men's Interpretive Reading; Alton Boyd, Superiors in Senior Division Men's Interpretive Reading and Radio Speaking; Paul Kern, Excellent in Senior Men's Original Speaking; Jim Waits, Superior in Junior Men's Extemporaneous Speaking; Bob Mims, Excellent in Senior Division Extemporaneous Speaking; and Delmar Saxon, good in After Dinner Speaking.

Three Millsaps teams will participate in the Tulane tournament at New Orleans next weekend.

For Unity - The Union Building

This year, the ground will be broken for a wonderful addition to the buildings on our campus. The proposed Union building will occupy much of the space between Sullivan-Harrell and Buie Gym. Judging from the present plans, it will be a beautiful, modern structure. Very functional in design, the Union building will have a new cafeteria, a new grill, a new book store, a great deal of space for games, new offices for the Bobashela and the P&W, offices for the Student Executive Board, many rooms which can be used for meetings of various groups, a space for hobbyists and a darkroom for the campus photographers. The Union building also boasts of a very large room which (take note) probably will be used for social gatherings.

We will be proud of the new Union building. Few tangible things could do more for school spirit and enthusiasm than a place such as this where we can get together as often as we like with the faculty and other students. The Union building and its facilities will be an asset to our campus in many ways.

Next week, the P&W will feature the latest news on proposed plans and tentative dates of this coming attraction.

STATE POLITICS

Complacency Or Complaint

By Alfred Statham

As a citizen of this state, you have the privilege, the right, and what is more important, the duty and obligation to participate in the conduct of your government. The most effective way to do this is to remain in contact with your representatives in government.

The significance and importance of this responsibility on the part of each and every citizen in Mississippi is greatly magnified today. For in the eyes of many people, our state faces a great danger; and when danger arises, it is often necessary for the government to assume increased power. When this condition exists, individual rights and liberty are also in danger. There are then two reasons for everyone's active participation in the conduct of government: (1) formulation of a solution to the problem, and; (2) the prevention of the subversion of individual rights.

A new administration is now at the helm of our state; an administration whose tasks are great, and whose pathways of action numerous. The success or failure of Governor Coleman, the Legislature, and therefore Mississippi, depends in great measure on YOU. If you express your opinions and convictions, your needs and desires, you may then rest assured of success; if you do not, you can have no complaint.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Mr. Editor:

Concerning the matter of the cafeteria service of Millsaps College I would like to point out several things. It is my opinion that some of the people who participated in the so called public opinion poll last week failed to put much thought into their votes.

Apparently some of these people don't realize that one may become tired of eating in any cafeteria after a period of six months three meals a day. The food does not necessarily have to be bad, for people to complain about it after so long a time.

Then there are some people who gripe about the food because it's "the thing to do." They never noticed the food until the day one of the campus heroes made a negative remark about the cafeteria. The old spirit really begins to move, and soon everybody's talking about the "lousy food in the cafeteria."

If the students of Millsaps would voice their opinions on certain institutions in a milder way the results might be better in the end. Instead they fly off on a tangent and defeat their whole purpose on an idea which might have proved worthwhile to all.

Sincerely,
Tommy Naylor.

Is our whole purpose really defeated, Tommy?

To The Students And Faculty of Millsaps

In order to answer many questions concerning the Bobashela which might arise later on, as well as at the present time, Burton Jackson and I wish to submit this statement to you through your Purple and White.

We have successfully met our last deadline for the yearbook in accordance with our contract. Final copy was sent off this week, which was two weeks ahead of time. We have been fortunate enough to meet all our deadlines two weeks ahead of time. Under our contract the Bobashela should arrive around May 10. However, we are hoping for early delivery since we have met our obligations more than adequately.

As for certain rumors around the campus concerning the Beauties, we have issued no official statement and will refrain from doing so. The Beauties will be announced accurately in the Bobashela. Therefore, we ask that you disregard certain rumors which might not necessarily paint a true picture of the situation.

In conclusion, Burton and I wish to thank you for the privilege of doing your Bobashela for you. It has been a job that has involved many headaches for both of us. We will feel that the job was well worthwhile if you enjoy the edition of the Bobashela which will be in your hands in a few short months. It is our hope that this annual will mean something to you in years to come. May it help you recall old events as well as old faces. If we have painted a true picture of Millsaps College and all that goes with it, then we have accomplished our task.

Again we thank you for your cooperation and hope you will be well pleased.

Sincerely yours,
Bill Lampton
Editor, 1956 Bobashela.

news analysis

Several important and constructive proposals have been either rejected or neglected so far by our Legislature during the current session. Reference is made here to bills which would reapportion the Legislature, repeal the black market tax, institute a state open range stock law, and employ the use of voting machines in state elections.

No greater need exists in Mississippi today than that of legislative reapportionment for present representation is based upon conditions which existed in 1890. Section 256 of the Constitution adopted in that year established three gerrymandered districts, each of which would have an approximately equal representation in the Legislature. REPRESENTATION HAS NOT BEEN ESSENTIALLY CHANGED SINCE THAT TIME.

However, considerable shifts in population have occurred, and the result is great inequality of representation among the various counties. For example, in 1948, Sunflower County, with a population of 61,007 had a total of 1½ representatives, while Stone County had the same representation with a population of only 6,527. The ratio of population to Senators was 112,578 to one in Harrison County, and 14,018 to one in Issaquena County.

Section 256 of the Constitution further states that the Legislature "may" reapportion the state according to each decennial Federal census; however, the provision for equal representation among the three districts of the state necessitates a constitutional amendment in order to effectively equalize representation according to population.

Those sections of the state which stand to gain from reapportionment do not have sufficient strength to bring the amendment before the electorate, and those that do have the strength will lose power if such an amendment is passed. It is not difficult to understand why Legislative reapportionment has not been accomplished in sixty-six years, although repeated efforts have been made during the past thirty years.

each citizen has the same influence on the conduct of government, the result will be reflected in sectionalism, favoritism, and the unattained interests of the general will.

The statistics contained herein and existing conditions are conclusive proof that the people of Mississippi do not have equal representation in their government. The unified EFFORT OF ALL CITIZENS is necessary to accomplish the needed change.

Progress On The Union Building..

Tentative plans have been completed for the ground and first floors of the Union building, and will now go to the architect for final specifications. Plans for the second floor, where student organizations and activities will be located, probably will have been finished by the time of publication. After all interior appointments are settled—there remains only approval of the exterior appearance of the building by the building committee before final plans go to the architect. The P & W will publish, as soon as it is available, the architect's sketch of the Union building as it will appear when it's finished.

Cafeteria Manager, SEB Members Meet

Mr. W. R. Drybread, managing consultant of the General Richardson Co. of Houston, Texas, as manager of the Millsaps cafeteria, invited student body president N. R. Walley and several other S. E. B. members to his office Thursday, February 16, to discuss the cafeteria situation—"in order to obtain constructive criticism."

The S. E. B. group, acclaimed "very co-operative", were, according to Drybread and his assistant Miss Pipes, only able to cite a few specific incidents to back up the general charges implied in the recent S. E. B. poll, at this meeting which, in the opinion of the cafeteria staff, "accomplished quite a great deal."

SEB Sets Tap Day; Approves SEB Dates

SEB met February 15 in the Forum Room of the Library. Jack Loflin, Vice-President presided over the meeting.

SEB approved March 22 as Tap Day.

The Social Activities Committee reported on the requests for SEB dates that had been submitted to the committee. All the dates were approved by SEB except the Chi O date, which is May 5 and the KA date, May 4. SEB decided that they must wait to approve both dates until the KA's go through the regular faculty channels to have their house party approved.

The Jackson branch of the American Association of University Women will present Dr. Evelyn Newman in a lecture on "World Trends in Contemporary Literature" at the Municipal Library assembly room at 7:30 p.m. on February 13, 1956. Tickets sell for $1.00 and can be bought at the Millsaps Library and Miss Morehead's office.

College graduates who look forward to teaching careers can gain paid experience and earn an advanced academic degree through a new program launched by Duke University and the Charlotte, N. C., City Schools. Liberal arts graduates selected on a competitive basis from among applicants will receive the Master of Arts in Teaching degree after a semester and a Summer Session of study at Duke and a semester of full-time teaching in the Charlotte Schools. Applications must be submitted by March 1 to the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences at Duke University. Any student who will receive the bachelor's degree before next summer and who has not had practice teaching is eligible to apply.

Kolb Cleaners on North State street needs a man to work 14 hours a week on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons. Pay is $12.00 per week.

Lauren Rogers Library and Museum of Art and the Laurel Camera Club is inviting photographers throughout the world to contribute prints to the First Lauren Rogers International Salon of Photography, which will be exhibited in Laurel, Mississippi, April 8 through April 22, 1956. The exhibit will be held at Lauren Rogers Library and Museum of Art. The closing date for entries is March 26, 1956. Cunningham, Trigg Cop First In Glendyburke Debate Tournament Tillman and two of his "Talkers," Rose Cunningham and Jerry Trigg, shown partaking of French Quarter Cuisine at Diamond Jim Moran's.

By Ann Myers

Things won't be the same in local debating circles since "Black Cat-Thirteen" Trigg has "arrived" at last with the help of his "Come sev'n-eleven" Lady Luck Rose.

It's quite a different tune that Jerry is singing these days since he and Rose returned from Tulane's Glendyburke Debate Tournament with an impressive 1st place Senior Division trophy. This writer has vivid recollections of his plaintive voice incessantly warbling "We Lose Again" on those numerous occasions when he had fallen victim to the giants of the debate business by one "cotton-picking" point. But Rose, in her first year of debating, has chalked up some tough breaks for herself—cite the Oklahoma tournament when two more points in her favor would have favored her with the trophy.

But the tables have turned. The "giants" have fallen at the hands of two of "Tillman's Talkers." Reference is made here to Don Alford and Charles Ledbetter of the University of Houston, winners of the Millsaps tournament this year and generally held to be the most feared team in the South. According to Rose and Jerry, a victory over this team in the preliminary eliminations meant more to them than winning over SMU in the finals.

Yes, it looks as though the losing streak is over. Rose and Jerry have most assuredly "arrived", and they have proof of it—witness the shiny new addition to the trophy case. When asked for a comment, they released this statement. "It's not that we're trophy hounds. Actually, we believe in debating for debating's sake. But it surely is nice to "bring home the bacon" once in a while."

Majorette Club Sets Stunt Night

The date for Stunt Night was set as April 26 at a recent meeting of the Majorette Club. A preliminary sketch of the idea must be turned in to Miss Sain by March 20. March 27 is the deadline for the final script on the skit to be handed in.

Stunt Night is an annual event sponsored by the Majorette Club. The Chi O's now have possession of the prized bucket, which is the trophy for the best skit on Stunt Night. Second and third places last year went to the Pikes and Phi Mus respectively.

Teacher: "How long has your father been unemployed?"

Chi O's Win Basketball; KD's Take Second Place

The girl's intramural basketball tournament came to a close with the Chi O's winning four straight to cinch the crown. Second place went to the K D's when they downed the Vikings 24-26. The Vikings held the lead up until the fourth quarter, and then the K D's took over. Elizabeth Ann Clark spiked the K D attack with 10 points. Dayne Miller and Gail Morehead netted 10 points each for the Vikings.

One of the final games of the tournament saw the Phi Mus over the BSO's. The game was close all the way with third quarter play ending in a 13-13 tie. The Phi Mus caught fire in the fourth quarter and went on to win 25-15. Clara Smith with 11 points was Phi Mu high scorer and Mary Jo Edwards led the BSO's with 7.

In a valiant effort to boost morale, one of the pros (I refuse to mention his or her name under my rights as set forth in the Fifth Amendment) entertained all those students who have compiled a D minus average in the course.

The room was dimly lit by candles and guests were seated yogi style around an interesting centerpiece consisting of old textbooks, flunked tests, and confiscated jacks. Black Olives and Asafoetida (Aspidium) Tea stirred with finger of several new-born babes constituted the delicious fare. Planned entertainment was casting aspersions upon one another. A lovely time was had by both guests.

Tommy Naylor was seen eating in the grill. Was that just to tide you over, or was it to coat your digestive tract?

Mrs. Kelly's Luncheon Club which meets at the "Juke" every Tuesday that rolls around, had a delightful gathering present this week. Music was furnished by dropping dimes in the "nickle" odeon.

SEB had another meeting.

Freedom of Speech! Who told Homer Sledge he could play bridge?

Angel Ann ("I was a finalist in the Made of Cotton Contest!") Anderson had a devil of a time the other day when a grand entrance into the grill turned into a bellyflop.

Mac ("I work in the grill.") makes the best (Burp!) milk shakes.

Mary Louise had on a sweet "little" skirt Monday.

A Founders Co-Ed Views Secret Life In Library

By Betty Miller

There is one advantage to living in a Founders front room. When you're campused you can watch the people in the library.

W

we will not pause here to mention such trivial disadvantages such as coming in after a shower to find your roommate has left the shade up (whereupon the people in the library watch you) or the slight 90 mile-an-hour gale that wanders in your east window and out the south should you dare open them.

Back to the subject. The best time to watch the library is between seven and ten. Before that no one's there and after that the girls are gone home so nothing interesting happens.

T

The first to arrive are the pre-med boys. These are of no consequence since they have come to study. You can ignore them.

N

Next come the boys who intend to study if nothing (i.e. no one) better happens along. (easily recognized by convertible, slicked back hair, and wandering eyes).

M

Most heavily laden with books are the couples. They try hard to create the impression that they really mean to study but no one believes them anyway.

T

The stage is set, everyone's on but the heroines. Here they come all spruced up and raring to (well,

An Appeal To Reason

It is not necessarily true that if you aren't against an issue—you are for it. Not by a long shot.

There are prominent men in our state who declare—"If you aren't for us, you're against us;" this in relation to the Supreme Court decision declaring segregation illegal. But to define an issue as having only two clear cut and opposing views is too easy. There are other people who have important ideas who don't fit snugly into either the group agitating for immediate and forced integration or the group firmly entrenched in what they call the "Southern Way of Life" and who are blindly dedicated to defend segregation to the bitter end.

It is in these people who realize that integration must come as a result of slow and careful planning that the hope of the South lies. Integration cannot come overnight if the goal of peaceful integration is to be realized. White and Negro leaders of vision and wisdom must lead their respective people into peaceful solutions of our common problem.

Majors Edged By Southwestern, 58-57, In Last 25 Seconds

By Dannie Anderson and Jim Hays

Thirteen proved to be an unlucky number for Millsaps as they were defeated by one point in their 13th outing this season, the winning goal being scored with 25 seconds to play in the game by Southwestern guard Joe Boals.

Boals not only scored the winning goal to make the score 58-57, but he also scored the goal that brought Southwestern within one point of Millsaps with 45 seconds left in the game.

The ball game got off to a slow start with Southwestern boasting a 6-0 lead at the end of four min-

Letters To The Editor

Dear Mr. Editor:

In regard to the article written several weeks ago concerning food in the cafeteria, I think it was the most informative article that has been in the P & W this year. S.E.B. should receive much credit for conducting this inquiry.

One point that should be made is that if the food were acceptable there would be no reason to require students to eat in the cafeteria.

As stated last week we can often go off on a tangent, but I can see how anyone can call a campaign on this cafeteria going on a tangent.

It is very regrettable that Millsaps with the highest scholarship rating in Mississippi does not have a cafeteria that can compare with the other college cafeterias in the state.

Sincerely,
 Clyde Whitaker

Dear Sir:

Having read last week's "Letter to the Editor" to you concerning "the matter of the cafeteria," I feel it necessary to question the grounds for several statements made by the author of this revolutionary eye-opening document.

As it was, I trust, his intent to direct his comments to the benefit of the entire student body, it is mine, as far as possible, to contest his attack upon the integrity of this paper, its staff, and the participants in the poll as representatives of the students and not to reflect upon the character of one whom I admire and for whom I have great respect — in other matters.

Let it also be understood that although some may attempt to point to a coalition between the writer and the editor, the activities of our phase of publication are as far removed from those of the editorial staff as were the several statements of our fellow students seem to have been from real matters.

I concede that some few people will invariably "gripe about the food because it's the thing to do, and that "one may become tired of eating in the cafeteria after a period of six months," even if the food is not bad; and I commend the writer for bringing this to our attention.

I do find it difficult, however, to justify the use of such hackneyed expressions as "campus heroes" and "old spirit"—the use of which, on the Millsaps campus, is, in my opinion, almost without warranty. The phrase, "the mildew way," advocated in the article is, in itself, a phrase indicative of the person who fears that a positive and forceful stand on any issue will, if I may use another of the vivid descriptions, "heroize" the leaders of the movement; and thereby, leave him and his host of followers further buried in the obscurity of complacency — from which seldom comes a movement of "worthwhile purpose."

Sincerely,
 Stewart Gammill

news analysis

by

Alfred Statham

All too often problems of great public concern and human passion become so-called "political footballs." It is readily apparent that while the question of segregation vs. integration is of vital importance, it is also being used as a political means to an end.

This is a year of national elections; the normally heated controversies between and within the two major parties will become even hotter. All means will be used to place the opposition in an untenable position. These seemingly inevitable occurrences have already begun to take place.

To date, no prospective candidate for the Presidency is opposing integration, but considerable differences of opinion do exist among the candidates. Mr. Stevenson has stated that he would not use federal intervention forcefully; Senator Kefauver has not committed himself so strongly but feels that such force will not be required; Governor Harriman of New York advocates immediate, forced integration. Walter Lippman significantly pointed out that it is not these men who are heating up the issue; rather it is the politicians who, themselves, have no chance of occupying the White House.

This problem certainly cannot be solved by the continued stirring up of human emotions and aggravation of tensions; a conscientious, reasoned approach to the problem is necessary. As Mr. Lippman concluded, "Let us stop and think before we let irresponsible politicians push us into the whirlpool."

United States foreign policy has been severely criticized in recent months, from Secretary Dulles' statement of going to the "brink of war," to the more recent "no we aren't, yes we are" incident of the shipment of tanks to Saudi Arabia.

Much of this criticism can no doubt be attributed to Democratic challenging of the Republican administration. World conditions, however, seem to indicate that there is some need to provide a clearer picture of our intentions, if not to re-evaluate our foreign policy.

Basically, two changes have taken place since the death of Joseph Stalin. First, the Soviet Union now has retaliation power equal to that of the United States. That is to say, with the development of hydrogen weapons and intercontinental atomic missiles, neither has a decisive edge in military power. And secondly, Russia is apparently capable of competing with the United States in supplying economic aid to European and Asiatic countries. This fact was made known by Khrushchev and

Faculty Waiter Night Is March 7

The Y. W. C. A. is now completing plans for Faculty Waiter Night which will be held Wednesday, March 7. This is the night that the faculty members don their white aprons and chef hats to run errands and perform stunts for the students, all for a price, of course. Tips range from a dime up depending on what sort of errand or stunt you have in mind for your favorite prof. Last year Mrs. Hedderi won the prize which is given to the faculty member who collects the most tips. Proceeds from Faculty Waiter Night go to the World United Service Fund, which finances study in foreign countries for deserving students.

History Society To Meet At University

The Mississippi History Society will hold its fifteenth annual meeting at the University of Mississippi March 2 and 3. Hodding Carter, editor of the Delta Democrat Times, Greenville, is this year's president.

Dr. Ross Moore, Dr. Frank Laney, Dr. Gustavus Williamson, and several Millsaps students will attend the meet.

Two papers will be presented. One is by John K. Bettersworth, formerly of Millsaps. Professor William Hamilton of Jackson and Duke University will present "Mississippi Politics." Professor Arthur S. Link of Northwestern will present a speech on Woodrow Wilson. Thomas D. Clark is also on the program.

MC-Millsaps Variety Show Will Be March 6 At Bailey

The student bodies of Millsaps College and Mississippi College will present a joint variety show Tuesday night in Bailey Junior High auditorium.

Amidst a college grill setting, William Jeanes, master of ceremonies, will introduce talent from both schools.

Acts from Millsaps include a duet by Peggy Jo Sanford and Bobby Tullos, solos by Karen Gilfoyle and Joe Lee Porter, a piano duet by Carolyn Allen and Joe Lambert, piano solos by Billy Kerr and Carolyn Allen, numbers by the boys' quartet and the Lambda Chi Combo, a duet by Ann Foster and Clifton Ware, an Ella Fitzgerald and Louie Armstrong impersonation by Ann Dillard and Tex Sample, and a duet by Lois and Myna Bain.

Mississippi College talent includes solos by Charles Bacon, Vernon Netherland and Joe Kellum, a skit "Love is a Many Splendored Thing" by Fred Scott and Virginia Wing, numbers by the men's ensemble and Quinn Rowell and his band, a Charleston act by Barbara Pollard, a modern dance by Mary Jo Runnels, a duet by Ruthy Womack and Don Cassell, and a Negro preacher act by John Compere.

Tickets are $.40; proceeds will go to the March of Dimes. Curtain time is 8:00 p. m.

Board Of Trustees Has Approved; Holmes Ambrose To Be Chairman

President H. E. Finger, Jr. announced today that the Music Department at Millsaps College will be reactivated beginning in September, 1956, with Mr. Holmes Ambrose as Chairman. The reactivation of the Department was approved at the regular February meeting of the Board of Trustees of Millsaps College on Friday, February 24.

For the past five years the instruction in Applied Music and other music courses has been provided by the Music Faculty of Belhaven College, under the terms of an agreement between the two colleges made in 1951. The Memorandum of Agreement expires at the end of the current academic year.

In commenting on the program during the past five years, President Finger expressed the deep appreciation of the Board of Trustees for the splendid service rendered to Millsaps College students by the Belhaven College faculty.

Voice, Piano and Organ

The reactivation of the Department at Millsaps College will provide opportunities for a larger number of students to study voice, piano, and organ. The Department will also provide an increasing number of opportunities for a study of music by many students who would not be interested in applied music courses.

Millsaps is particularly interested in opportunities for study for those who wish to become choir directors or organists in churches. A program of courses is also being planned which will train ministerial students and students in the field of Christian education in the enrichment of music programs in Mississippi churches.

Instrumental To Be Added

The Department intends to include the public school offerings in music and will offer in the near future instrumental training to encourage prospective teachers to teach music in the public schools of the state. Mr. Ambrose feels there is tremendous potential in Millsaps' prospective music teachers and wants to create a strong liaison between practice teachers and their public school training.

Musical Production

The Music Department plans production of a musical show at least once a year in collaboration with the drama department. Mr. Ambrose and Lance Goss have already started plans for next year's production.

Two Choral Groups

In addition to the Millsaps Singers, there will be at least one group in which musical skill will not be required and which will offer an opportunity to anyone who wishes to become a part.

Listening Room

There will be a listening room in the library. A large record collection will be made available to the student body, and the library of books on music and the record library will be greatly expanded.

The Department of Music will be housed in Elsinore Hall. During the summer months, Elsinore Hall will be completely renovated and adapted to studios, practice rooms, and a recital hall. It is believed that the renovation program will make all of Elsinore Hall as attractive as Mr. Ambrose's present studio in the same building. The band room will also be reworked, and some practice rooms for applied music students will be made available in the basement area of Founders Hall.

The Million for Millsaps program has as one of its promotion items the enriching of the curriculum opportunities at Millsaps College. The reactivation of the Music Department is the first major step in the direction of enriching the opportunities.

Spring Football Is Now In Progress

By Jim Hays

Coach "Sammy" Bartling welcomed a score of prospective gridironers Tuesday, February 26, for an abbreviated three weeks spring football session. With the keynote placed on heavy scrimmage, Coach Bartling had his protégés don full gear for the initial drill.

The football aspirants, principally returnees from last fall's squad, plus several transfers, were told by Bartling that the eleven boys manifesting the most desire to play would be the starting team this coming season. A program was outlined for these several weeks of short, snappy drills with the emphasis on knocking, saving the finer points of the game for next fall. Several lettermen from last year's team going through the paces are: Jim Hood, Pat Bonner, Terry Moore, Alex Alston, Cliff Rushing, and Roy Wolfe, a converted halfback who is being groomed for the quarterback slot left vacant through injuries and graduation.

Coach Sammy is issuing an urgent plea for any hidden talent on the campus. There is a uniform waiting for any boy who wishes to try out for the team.

A fussy old lady was traveling across the country on a bus and was getting extremely angry with the frequent stops.

"Why," she asked the driver, "must you stop at every light pole?"

"Sorry, lady," muttered the driver, "but this is a Greyhound."

Due to circumstances beyond our control, this column will be "the short and simple annals" of a cripple this week — thanks to "Foot Prints" Gilfoyle and Clint Peteet. These two kind and gentle people literally threw me to the lions Monday afternoon when they incited a large uncouth Collie to pursue me across our fair campus in a most undignified manner. I was very calm until the animal bared his teeth at me upon which I decided to be a "live coward" rather than a "dead hero," so I took flight with the roaring animal at my heels. Not being accustomed to so much exertion my muscles rebelled causing me to have much difficulty getting about. I extend my heartfelt sympathy to the other cripples on the campus — John McEachin, Ethyl Shapley, and Bob Weems.

Also we of Murrah Hall, who spend our afternoons gaily frolicking about in pursuit of pleasure, extend our condolences to you of Sullivan-Harrell, who are imprisoned in the dim, dark recesses of labs. The bright side of this picture is that it is not yet too late to change your major. Revolt! Stand up for your rights! Congratulations to Walton Lipscomb, who has taken our sage advice.

Speaking of rights—the flowers in front of the Major's tomb are beautiful and add greatly to the festive Spring garb of the campus. Please do not decapitate them (as we have seen some scoundrels doing) but leave them there to bring a bit of cheer into everyone's life.

We insert here a plea to you "suitcase students" who cannot wait to get out of class to light out for home—Millsaps is really a very nice place over the weekend. Try staying here one weekend and at least give it a chance. Just think how much more wonderful it will be to go home after being away for two weeks. Just think how much happier the folks will be to see you. Staying at school definitely has its advantages. Experiment, and see if you don't think so, too.

The sounds of the Players at work once more invade the quiet of the Christian Center as they prepare the set for the forthcoming production of The Rainmaker. The voices of the stage managers may be heard giving orders as they crack their whips over the heads of their poor slaves. The set must be built before the last minute.

Please lend of your time and talents to help make High School Day a success. It is of great importance to the future of Millsaps, and your help would be appreciated.

"That's all, folks."

RELIGIOUS VIEWS AND REVIEWS . . .

Determine To Really "Live" — With Christ

By Brooks Hudson

"Faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen . . ." This is truly a crazy mixed-up world. On one side atomic energy seeks to become a new source of peace-time electric power, while on the other, a universally destructive bomb. One party says the Republicans are ruining the farmer, and the other says that the elderly Fair Deal revived will be all wet. One book says segregation is the only hope of maintaining our Southern culture, but another with equal fervor vows that it is the ruination of Democracy. Ministers and youth programs say we should turn to the spiritual, for the material is doomed, and optimists poo-poo this by saying that we never had it so good. We can't tell to whom or where to turn, we only know that we are turning—around and around.

In these times when no one seems to know the truth, when the "truth" has so many angles no one person can find the correct turn, there is one thing to which we can anchor our useless merrymo-round. Physically, it isn't much. You can't see, feel, or taste it. It doesn't come in cellophane wrapper, with chrome trim, nor is it painted in a color combination to match your new car. It's one of the easiest, and yet the most difficult things to find—a Christian faith.

A faith in something doesn't mean just believing in it. You can believe that the sun will rise tomorrow and just sit and sit, but to have faith in it means that the whole day can be planned, because you are sure it will arrive. Christian faith doesn't just involve believing Christ existed or even in reading the Bible for amusement or to write a law brief on the trials of Jesus; it means knowing that the principles of Christ's teachings will last through any situation.

It isn't "easy" to anchor your faith in Christ. It means giving up a lot. It means some "fun" will be lost, but in its place will be a new type of fun. It means a certain amount of submission of pride, but real pride, that of being a Christian, will come later.

"A faith to live by" is no idle term. Just a naive belief in God won't do. You have to discover the principles, practice them, use them, make them work for you, but this only happens when you work for them.

Life can be richer and have a freshness it has never had before when you determine to really "live"—with Christ.

Dirt this week is awfully slow, But we'll tell you what we know. The Sigs really pitched a lalapooza last weekend. Little Junior and his Bare (oops!) Bear Cats furnished the rousing music (and I use the term loosely). Lotsa people were there and everyone agreed, "It was great" I wasn't invited.

An outstanding feature of the proposed Union Building will be the wall-to-wall floors.

Clair ("I write the best articles!") voyant just won't mention Mary Guin's engagement so I shall place this task upon my own scrawny, stooped shoulders and inform you that she's "that way." I've forgotten his name but he's a lovely boy from a fine family.

For those who are interested in obtaining a job with short working hours I recommend a job in the library. They are closed an hour or so every night and several hours or so (36 out of 48 to be exact) over the weekend. Makes it kinda hard to get up those little tasks which must be done by Monday morn.

Petite Peteet is sporting a new haircut—courtesy of Yours Truly, Mary E., Jack, and Ray. We welcome any new customers. Our tonsorial treatment is guaranteed to make you a new man in only 30 minutes. If you're a woman, it'll take a little longer.

Who in the world owns those Canines who are homesteading on the side of the CC? I attempted to pet one the other day, but my friendly gesture was not appreciated so I withdrew my bloody stump and went on my blissful way.

Here's a wisdom packed little gem . . .

Second Semester Enrollment Is 782

According to statistics compiled by the Registrar's Office, the enrollment for the spring semester at Millsaps is 782 students. This figure is the nearest to the preferred enrollment of 800 that Millsaps has had during a second semester. These second semester enrollment figures compare with 590 in 1952, 629 in 1953, 643 in 1954, and 724 in 1955, indicating a gradual and healthy increase in enrollment.

There are 305 students from Jackson, and 428 from other parts of the state representing seventy of Mississippi's eighty-two counties. Forty-three students represent the states of Tennessee, Illinois, Louisiana, Florida, Alabama, Georgia, Arkansas, Texas, Virginia, Idaho, Michigan, Missouri, New York, South Carolina, and Utah; and six students are from the foreign countries of Greece, Korea, Canada and San Salvador.

Fifteen church groups are represented on the campus. The groups and number of members are: Methodist, 435; Baptist, 179; Presbyterian, 70; Episcopal, 31; Roman Catholic, 20; Christian, 13; Greek Orthodox, 4; Church of Christ, 2; Church of God, 2; Nazarene, 2; Lutheran, 1; Jewish, 1; Salvation Army, 1; Seventh Day Adventist, 1; and Free Thinker, 1.

Millsaps Band Will Give Spring Concert

The Millsaps College Symphonic Band will present its spring concert in the near future. The time and date will be announced later.

The program will be "Trumpet Tune" by Henry Purcell, "Prelude and Fugue in G Minor" by J. S. Bach, "Gavotte," from "The Classical Symphony" by Sergei Prokofieff, "Academic Festival Overture" by Johannes Brahms, Intermission, "The Thunderer" by J. P. Sousa, Selections from "The Student Prince" by Sigmund Romberg, "An Evening in the Village" by Bela Bartok, "Deep Purple" by Peter Rose, and the "Triumphal March" from "Quo Vadis" by Miklos Rozsa.

Few of anybody's problems are serious. Most of them could be relieved with a diamond necklace, a mink cape, a world cruise, or a baked ham.

"The Black Knight Of The South"

Patterson

Of all the true "characters" to grace the history of Mississippi, Alexander Keith McClung stands out as perhaps the strangest. McClung had over his share of the vices which plagued the Southern gentleman in the period 1800-1850. He drank too much, gambled too much and had the adolescent idea that fighting was the only way to assure his position. He had the usual exaggerated sense of chivalry, and he defended women's honor whom he never met. He was an accomplished scholar, a lover of music, an expert horseman, a brilliant orator, and he has been called the most finished and polished writer in Mississippi history.

Born in Virginia and reared in Kentucky, McClung was "requested" to leave the U. S. Navy where he served as a midshipman for a year. By the time he was 18, he had fought two duels while a midshipman. He returned to Kentucky where he killed his 1st cousin and a few other men. History does not tell us how many men he killed in his youth for the Code Duello ruled the duel a fairly private affair.

McClung moved to Mississippi in 1834 and slowly picked up the profession of law in between getting drunk and gambling. On "Dueling Island" in the Mississippi, McClung met a John Menifee on the field of honor. Menifee fired and missed. McClung walked closer to his opponent, made sure of his aim and shot Menifee dead. McClung picked up the name "the Black Knight of the South" after this event. Six male members of Menifee's family challenged McClung to a duel and he killed all six systematically.

On another occasion, McClung was challenged by a young Colonel Allen. They met on the banks of the Pearl and paced off 80 paces (240 ft.). Allen fired and missed. McClung, withholding his shot, asked "Are you content, sir, now that your honor is satisfied?" Allen only maddened and began walking toward McClung with another pistol, determined not to miss his second shot. McClung cried out, "With the next bullet, sir, I shall strike you in the teeth". Allen kept coming. At 100 feet, McClung fired. Allen died on the way back to Jackson. The bullet had lodged in his spine after entering through his mouth...

McClung's determination pushed him into politics and when the Mexican War broke out he was placed in command of the 1st Mississippi Rifles. A young man named Jefferson Davis was second-in-command. In storming the walls of Monterey he recklessly displayed himself to enemy fire and was seen standing in the direct line of fire crying out, "My God, can't one bullet hit me!" After being among the first to scale the walls he was hit by two bullets. Jefferson Davis assumed command.

McClung went into politics on a big scale after recovering from his wounds. Before the war he had supported Wm. Henry Harrison for the presidency and been

MAJOR MAJOR:

Miss Millsaps Is Selected Personality Of The Week

Try watching the campus for a 5 ft. 5 in. blond with wedding bells in her eyes, who is Miss Millsaps. When you see her, you'll be seeing Ann Anderson, this week's Major Major.

Ann has been treasurer and pledge trainer of Chi Omega and has been tapped into Alpha Psi Omega, I.R.C., and Sigma Lambda. She has been on Singers Tour for three years, has been makeup chairman for Players (incidentally, in this capacity she put Cyrano's nose on Walter Ely. Quite a job!), and was class editor of last year's Bobashela.

Our Major Major has been a beauty for two years and was named to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. She won the Bourgeois scholarship award in her freshman year and has been on the Dean's List every semester. She has been on the President's List several times, including this past semester.

Ann, who came to Millsaps because she's "just a home girl," thinks her freshman year was the most memorable; however, she likes being a senior because she's not "green" anymore. She says her greatest thrill was on a Grey-

Steering Committee Guides Plans For Mock Convention

By Anne Myers

With Convention time only a month and a half away, members of the steering committee have emerged from behind closed doors, having completed the laying of the groundwork. The time for full campus participation in staging the 1956 Mock National Nominating Convention has arrived.

Several weeks ago the entire student body was given an opportunity in chapel to reserve a seat on the Convention Merry-go-round by placing their names with the roster of delegates and submitting their preferences of state delegations. The Credentials Committee headed by Claire Manning has completed the filling out of state delegations. Lists of each delegation have been compiled and are posted on the bulletin board in Murrah Hall. Students are requested to check their delegation assignments.

Delegations To Elect

Tuesday morning at the chapel period all delegates are requested to come immediately to the auditorium which will be marked off into state areas. Organization of the state delegations is the purpose of this session. Each delegation will elect a chairman, and representatives to Rules and Resolutions committees. It is extremely important that every registered and potential delegate attend this initial meeting. Any student who has failed to register as a delegate

Statham Announces Temporary Officers

Alfred Statham, chairman of the steering committee for the Mock Democratic Convention made public today the roster of temporary Convention officers recently elected by the committee.

As is customary in National Convention procedure, the keynote speaker will serve as temporary chairman and will preside over the election of permanent officers. Other temporary officers are Joe Ed Williams, Vice Chairman; Anne Myers, Convention Secretary; Betty Jane Cleveland, Assistant Secretary; Jim Waits, Parliamentarian; Robert Mims, Assistant Parliamentarian; and Tom Boone, Sergeant-at-Arms.

Plans concerning the all-campus square dance which is to be held in Buie Gymnasium, Wednesday night, March 14, from 8:00-10:30, were also discussed. The dance will be under the auspices of the Steering Committee. Further details concerning this will be released next week.

"Spook" - Farewell

By Lacey Causey

At twelve o'clock midnight on Monday, February 20, with much ceremony and many tears, "Spook" Williams was laid to rest in the private burial ground of the Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity.

When news of the death reached the ears of the members it was almost too much to believe. It did not seem possible that such tragedy could come to such a congenial little fellow as "Spook". It seemed as though only a few hours ago he was flying around in the Pike house, building nests in our hair, perching smugly on our shoulders, and surveying "his kingdom" as if to say, "put your finger up here again, buddy, and you'll draw back a bloody nub."

As already stated interment was at the Pi Kappa Alpha "Plot" with "Jeanes' Funeral Parlour" in charge.

The Funeral Procession was begun by the soft, beautiful, strands of "Rock of Ages" sung by a choir of picked voices consisting of—Bill Hardin, Billy Kerr, Don Lisle, Lacy Causey, Jerry Trigg, Marlin Grimes, with Bobby Smith directing. During the singing the "body" was brought to the grave side, then the family, (Eddie Williams and Kermit Scott) and "friends" followed.

John C. Philley read the Lord's Prayer, and then Jerry Trigg rendered a beautiful selection, "Fly Away". Walter Ely then, in his unique style, gave the eulogy. It was one of the most beautiful and inspiring eulogies ever given, and we are sure that if "Spook" could have, he would have crepted a very warm thank you to Walter.

Billy Kerr then played taps and "Spook", amid floods of tears, was laid into the depths of the cold hard ground in a cedar casket.

Pall bearers were Johnny Turner, Hugh Johnston, Freddy Williams, and Jimmy Griffis.

Social Activities Committee Clarifies Policies And Rules

Since February 1, the date when the social activities committee of S. E. B. took over the functions of approving all campus functions and the keeping of the official social activities calendar, there has been expressed uncertainty about the procedure of scheduling of social functions and the policies regarding the function. The procedures and policies are as follows:

1. The organization should check the college calendar and the social activities calendars located outside of the Dean of Students' office.

2. A request for the date must be put in the box on the door of the Dean of Students' office. This request must give date on which request is made, organization which is making the request, date which is being requested, and the nature of the date, whether official S. E. B. or just a social function.

3. Any event must be scheduled at least five days prior to the event. Off-campus groups may schedule our facilities up to ten days prior to the event. Consequently, it is to the advantage of

A new flying program for college undergraduates has been announced by the Marine Corps. To be known as the Platoon Leaders Class (Aviation), its major features will be that members belong to it at the same time they attend college and are guaranteed flight training as officers immediately upon graduation from college. No Marine Corps training takes place during the college year, but all six-week indoctrination sessions will be held during two summer vacations from school. Upon completion of the training and coincident with graduation from college, members will be commissioned as second lieutenants in the Marine Corps Reserve. Candidates must be less than 26 on July 1 of the year in which they will graduate from college.

Open to 1956 graduates in physics, chemistry, engineering, or life sciences and providing an opportunity for young men and women to receive graduate training in specialized technology related to the field of atomic energy, Atomic Energy Commission fellowships are being administered by the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies. Additional information and application blanks may be obtained from department heads here or by writing Fellowship Office, University Relations Division, ORINS, P. O. Box 117, Oak Ridge, Tennessee.

With only a few months remaining in which special term workers may be accepted, the Methodist Board of Missions still needs 42 special workers in home missions. Persons interested are urged to write immediately to the Office of Missionary Personnel, 150 Fifth Avenue, New York 11, N. Y.

an organization to schedule functions as early as possible.

4. Any function at which women students are present must be planned to conform to the dormitory closing house and other rules specified by the Women's Council.

5. If both men and women students are present, the social function must be chaperoned by two couples, one of which is from the faculty.

6. In the event that the approved chaperones find it impossible to attend the social activity because of illness or other unavoidable circumstances, it will be the responsibility of the requesting organization to secure substitute chaperones and to clear these with the social activities committee.

7. Each organization may have one S. E. B. date a semester. The group that has the request in first gets the date.

There can be only one open S. E. B. date at one time. If a group has a closed S. E. B. date, there can be another smaller party at the same time. In case of conflicts on closed dates, the first group can give the other organization permission to have a closed function.

Dr. Smith Spoke To Psychology Club

Dr. Beverly Smith, Jackson psychiatrist, was the featured guest and speaker at the meeting of the Millsaps Psychology Club, which met Monday night in Dr. Knowles office in Sullivan-Harrell hall.

Other business included a discussion of plans for an exhibit or High School Day.

We're Not Preparing For Life - We're Living

Students who set the "A" as the sole criterion of educational development can easily let the world outside their textbooks slip by unnoticed. So many feel that high grades assure them of success in the life that follows the college years.

At Millsaps, there is a continuous effort to interest more students in more extra curricula activities. This is as it should be. What better prepares us for the "after college" years than the variety of situations and experiences that are offered in a complex college community? One of life's everyday challenges is to adapt, and we must adapt to survive!

The greater the number of situations into which we can successfully fit—the greater will be our enjoyment of a fuller life.

In today's society each man is dependent on many other men; the farmer, the groceryman, the textile worker, the automobile repairman, the doctor, the barber, the minister, the mortician, they're all important to us, and we must know how to "get along" with them. Here then, is the magnificent opportunity waiting for us in the College Community; through a diverse range of activities, we not only learn something other than our major, we are learning about people and human relations. Some startling facts can come to light in our college lives—about ourselves and others. We find (soon in experience) that all people don't agree, and that "the other side" is entitled to express his views. As new vistas are opened we have new insights into just how many horizons we'll never be able, in our temporal spans, to touch.

The person with a working knowledge of people and "human nature"—(through associations with his kind) stands far better prepared to cope with, and "hold his own" in the world beyond college halls than the uni-sided character who knows the mechanics of his business from A to Z. What good will the record of high grades do if he's a "social vacuum"?

Where do we get these wonderful experiences that will enhance our lives?—in close association with a variety of human personalities, and the variety can be found in the different facets of college life.

There is no need to be onesided; get out, investigate the possibilities of a wider world, meet people, learn people, know people. Intellectual maturity is not a quality which can be developed solely in the classroom or by any other confinement of activity.

Today's life is a complex thing, and tomorrow holds no promise of simplification. To get the most from college—and life—means association, participation, and study. The serious student remains a student, in the learning sense of the word, all his active life in an ardent desire to meet, cope with, and service his environment.

Don't put it off; start now.

Remember this, we're not preparing for life, we're living...

State Co-Champs Open Practice At Battlefield

The Millsaps tennis squad, preparing for its fifteen match schedule which opens with Ole Miss (there) March 20, held its first practice at Battlefield Park several weeks ago.

Dr. M. C. White, who coached the Majors to co-titles in the Dixie Conference in '54 and State Inter-Collegiate ratings in '55, has declined to rank his six man varsity squad; and has, as yet, made no comment on the prospects for his team, which continues to compile the best records on the Millsaps athletic scene.

Last year's squad recorded double victories over Southwestern, Mississippi College, Mississippi Southern, Ole Miss, and Delta State, while splitting with Mississippi State (7-2) and (2-7) and losing a single match to Sewanee (4-5). Five men from that team are returning this spring.

Max McDaniel, a Jackson junior and winner of the state junior title in '53, will probably fill the No. 1 spot. A transfer from Rice Institute, where he played No. 3, McDaniel there gained invaluable experience against such nationally known players as Sammy Giannalva, who this week teamed with Vic Sexias to win the U. S. indoor doubles championship and is now ranked among the top ten in U. S. amateur singles.

Powers Moore, top man on last year's squad, will be playing his fourth season for the Majors. In addition to filling the No. 2 spot, he will team with McDaniel in doubles.

Fred Abraham, winner of numerous Vicksburg titles, has moved up from last year's fourth position and will probably play behind Moore and pair for doubles with Willard Leggett.

Leggett, a senior with one year's experience at Meridian Junior College before coming here in '53 will be ending his career for awarded the job of U. S. Marshal for the Miss. Northern District. From 1846-47 he published The True Issue, a newspaper which served as a medium for his planned senatorial campaign against W. S. Featherston, a fellow Mexican War hero. A determined Whig, McClung lost the election as the Democrats swept the state.

McClung grew despondent over this loss but picked up a little when he was appointed charge d'affaires to Bolivia. His life in Bolivia was the same as his Mississippi life. History does not tell us how many Bolivians he dispatched to a better place, but we know there were several. His job lasted only a year and in 1851 he applied for a commission in the U. S. Army. It was denied. In the following years people even denied his brilliant military record. McClung could never resort to physical labor. He could sleep off a drunk with a pile of boxes for a bed on Capitol Street (flaunting a Bowie knife), but he the Majors. He was No. 2 man on last year's squad and could well fill that post again this season.

James Vaughn, a junior with only one year's experience, will team with Jimmy McCormick to fill the varsity roster. Gilbert Woods, a freshman from Greenville High, where he held the top spot for two years, will, according to Dr. White, head the list of reserves.

Dr. White emphasized that, any of the remaining first six are capable of defeating the others on occasion. His present plans call for preliminary ranking prior to the week of March 12-16, when challenge rounds will be staged.

The team (with due respect to the Ole Miss, State, and Southern squads, which are overrunning with leading scholarship players) should write an impressive record before the State Inter-Collegiate Tournament April 30 and May 1 at Starkville. There, however, the lightning fast cement courts of last year's state co-champs could prove the downfall of a team whose strokes, by then, will be well timed to the slow Rubio surface of the Battlefield Park courts.

Dr. White Announces Plans For Frosh-Soph Net Squad

In addition to his regular varsity tennis team, Dr. White is making plans for a B squad composed of freshmen and sophomores which will, if matches can be arranged, compete with several of the state's junior colleges.

This arrangement will give the entering freshmen some experience in competition and thus provide adequate material for filling positions vacated by graduating varsity players.

At present, Dr. White sees the possibility of matches with Hinds, Perkinston, Goodman and Meridian Junior College, for the team which will include freshmen Gilbert Woods of Greenville, Don Lisle of Greenwood, Bill Mosby of Meridian, Brack Lange of Jackson, and Jackson sophomores Dick Blount, John Wimberly, and Stewart Gammill.

news analysis

by

Alfred Statham

It will be remembered that two weeks ago, I suggested several important considerations now before the people of this state. As stated at that time, some of these measures have not been discussed by the Legislature while others have been rejected.

Repeal of the Black Market Tax is in the latter category, and because of this fact, it is likely to be forgotten by some people until the next legislative session. However, information was released last week indicating that further attempts will be made to repeal the tax during the current meeting of our Legislators. Let us hope that this attempt will be successful.

Governor Coleman made a significant analysis when he stated that the black market tax on illegal liquor sales reflects the greatest degree of hypocrisy possible on the State of Mississippi. As he asserted, there is a great amount of undue criticism being heaped upon our state in the first place, and there is no justification for inviting further unnecessary mockery.

State law, as you well know, prohibits the sale of liquor. At the same time, the Tax Commission maintains a list of all dealers in the state who purchase Federal liquor stamps, and then levies a tax on each case of liquor and wine sold. In other words, you can violate one law if you abide by another one. A startling analogy is for a Father to say, "Son, you shouldn't gamble, but if you do, bring me my share of the spoils."

The amount of revenue provided by the tax does not warrant its existence. It does not restrain the liquor traffic in the state, and actually opens new avenues of corruption. What justification then, can there possibly be for the Black Market Tax?

Last week, one of the most speculative political enigmas in the history of the United States was solved. On February 29, President Eisenhower indicated his availability for re-election. The term "availability" is used in its political interpretation.

In a well-prepared speech, the President addressed the citizens of this country in an unprecedented manner. In this writer's opinion, Mr. Eisenhower conscientiously submitted the facts, even though political overtones were present. Needless to say, numerous attacks have already been made on the position taken by the President.

At no time did Ike state that he will actively seek re-election. It was made quite clear that if the Republican Party sees fit to renominate him, and if the American people re-elect him, he will again accept the tremendous re-

Grill To Open At Night: TV Set Has Been Added

On Monday, March 5, the Administrative Committee approved putting a TV set in the grill. Beginning Monday March, 12, the grill will stay open from 6:30 p.m. to 10:00 p.m., Monday through Friday. This will give students a place to go on the campus besides the dormitories.

Both the SEB executive committee and the Administrative Committee had part in this action. The SEB executive committee drew up the proposals and submitted them to the Administrative Committee, and the Administrative Committee expanded on the ideas.

Forum To Be Held

The International Relations Club announces its second all-campus forum of the year to be held in the Forum Room of the Millsaps-Wilson Library, Tuesday night at 7:30.

Two outstanding members of the Mississippi Legislature, Representatives Joe Wroten and Joel Blass of Washington and Stone counties, respectively, have been invited to speak to the group on Interposition. A question and answer period will follow.

MOCK CONVENTION

Rules, Resolutions, Permanent Organization and Credentials Committees are scheduled to meet during Chapel Period — Tuesday 13, in CC Auditorium.

At the time of publication, results from thirty-nine of the fifty-two state and territorial delegations have been reported to the executive committee of the Mock Convention. The delegations met Tuesday morning at the chapel period to elect chairmen of their respective groups and representatives to the Rules, Resolutions, Permanent Organization, and Credentials committees.

It will be necessary for the members of the Rules and Resolutions committee to meet next week. The specific times will be posted on the Convention Announcement board in Murrah Hall. Chairmen of these committees are Charles Deaton, Rules Committee; Graham Hales, Resolutions Committee.

A meeting of the State Chairmen has been called for Monday night at 7:30 in the Forum Room of the Library. It is imperative that all chairmen be in attendance. Full instructions for procedure will be given at this time.

Ideas On The College Union

The heart of a Union idea is not locked in the steel and concrete of a building, but rather in the Union organization. The Union building is merely the instrumentality through which the Union idea is accomplished. The Union Board is at the center of the Union organization. The committee is at the center of the Board, and the individual is at the center of the committee; not a faceless student lost in a large lecture hall but an individual individual.

The Union committee is designed to foster fellowship and fun. It has as its root purposes to sharpen and buttress the student's attitudes, to incubate his principles and ideals, to weld his ideas into action habits and to prove their acceptability in student society. The Union committee is a proving ground for initiative, dependability, and loyalty.

The committee process used in accomplishing a program is more important than the program itself. However, the successful process generally means a successful program. The sensitive interaction of individuals using democratic methods with good leadership and common objectives adds up to a healthy committee. But an inept committee process can be valueless or even detrimental to the individuals: the shy person can become shyer, the domineering person more dominating.

Advisor Is Necessary

The advisor is a necessary blessing to the College Union committee system. With good advisors the committees build up strength; without, the purpose is frequently lost or the committee fails. Frequently, advisors will make suggestions to students concerning new programs. The suggestion is generally aimed at stimulating thought and is not necessarily to be accepted as given. One thing is certain, the advisor will want the student to have made the decision on choice of program, but, on the other hand, the student will want to search out all the facts regardless of who owns them. The advisor is the short cut to experience, as an improvement over a simple trial and error method.

Freedom Carries Responsibility

Students should control the boards, but membership on the board demands that these students reflect the basic democratic premises on which the Union idea depends. If the campus community is to benefit, and the program is to stay within the overall purpose of the college, freedom to establish policies carries with it a fine line of discipline, or freedom is lost to irresponsibility and a withdrawing of confidence by the college authorities. According to Lillian Smith, "Freedom and responsibility are like Siamese twins: they die if they are parted."

A College Union

Definitions are always important because they limit meanings. We should have a College Union rather than a Student Union. The term Student Union, at least, implies that others than students are not welcome; that the potential enriching social cultural contributions of the non-student member are not needed.

Program Planning

Programs should be planned for the whole campus and not be limited to certain groups. A program should be tested

Prob'ly So

By Hazel Truluck

This week has been officially proclaimed Campus Gripe Week! Everything seems to have gone wrong, and everyone seems to have been overwhelmed by tests, studies, etc. If a gay, smiling student was seen tripping across the campus, he would probably be reduced to nothingness by the cutting barbs thrown his way. Seems that this week should just have been left off the calendar. Why does everything happen at once?

It's Spring and love is in the air — our society editor should soon have plenty of business. All the couples can be seen strolling around on the campus — no names, we'll leave that to Clairvoyant King — enjoying the warm spring air. (Have seen Clairvoyant herself wandering about in the company of a certain male). Retribution, Claire.

We could have held a Millsaps chapel with hardly an absentee at the Saturday night performance of Oklahoma! at Murrah High School. It was an exceptionally good performance with fine acting, singing, and scenery.

Bo, the red on the head gung-ho politician, says for us to all participate in the Mock Political Convention. You don't have to know anything about politics, just come along for the fun.

Gals, don't let the fact that "men don't make passes at girls who wear glasses," keep you from sporting those spectacles if they are necessary. Eyestrain is painful. We know.

The following is not a paid advertisement — Don't miss The Rainmaker. You'll be sorry if you do. (Not a threat, just a statement of fact).

Hooray for the Grill!

We cast our vote for Joe McCluskey looking as the most like a typical Joe College.

And now "sleep that knits the ravelled sleeve of care" is luring us away from the hustle and bustle of this frantic world.

Fare thee well!

Library Helps For The Term Paper

The library has a number of books and pamphlets that will be of value to you in preparing your term paper. They cover such subjects as how books are arranged in a library, how to use the card catalog, how to take notes, important reference books, preparing a bibliography, first steps in research for a term paper, etc.

A few examples of such books, with the location of each, follow: DESK—Cook, M. G. "The New Library Key."

DESK—Dangle, L. F. "Preparing the Research Paper."

Some Changes in Biography

Classification

Now that the library book collection is divided into three separate divisions of the Humanities, the Social Sciences and History, and the Sciences, it was decided to transfer the biographies relating to the Humanities and the Sciences to their locations.

Biographies relating to the Social Sciences and History division will remain in the "92's", where they are located adjacent to these subject fields.

This transfer of biography to the Humanities and the Sciences is IN PROCESS. It will take some time to get it completed.

RELIGIOUS VIEWS AND REVIEWS . . .

The penetrating winter drizzle grew increasingly harder, and began to form little Niagars in the gully along the gravel road. The occasional flash of lightning was reflected on the shiny chrome hood ornament of the Cadillac, shown by its sickening tilt that the "Soft Shoulder" sign back along the road had been ignored.

The tuxedo-clad occupant swore softly. Why in the devil had he decided to take this short cut? How, in this God-forsaken piece of real estate was a man to get to a garage? The party would be under way, he thought. Above the patter of the rain on the roof, he could almost hear the orchestra swing into "Blue Moon." A great night for a dance, but not to get stuck.

A new sound added itself to the pelting rain. A droop-tailed mule and a ramshackle wagon hove in view, mounted by a oilcloth-clad Negro boy.

"Need any help, mister?"

"Think that mule can pull out this car?"

"Naw, suh, he ain't no good for pulling. He just sets an' sulks when he has to pull."

The driver closed up the window with a jerk. Dumb nigger.

How do you get 'em to do anything? His mind carried this topic on for a while until the pleasure of the thought left. He again became morose.

A shaft of light hit the rear view mirror, and an ancient Ford slid down the now soupy set of ruts. With a swish the automobile hauled to a stop, accidentally splattering the "Cat."

The driver of the Cadillac cursed again, then rolled the window down to unload his feelings on the obviously Negro driver. By the Bible lying on the seat, the driver identified himself as a colored preacher.

"Could I help you, suh?"

The other growled. "Why don't you get lost? You've already done enough damage. Just go back to the filling station at the forks," or better yet, he added, "just forget about it. A truck will be along soon."

The other driver eased away, and the driver of the Cadillac began to call the wrath of the gods softly upon all Negroes he could remember, then with a disgusted snort, settled back to await the coming of a Good Samaritan.

And he waited . . . and waited . . . and waited . . .

Millsaps AED Chapter, University Medical School Plan Conference

Alpha Epsilon Delta, national pre-medical honor society, Millsaps College, and the University of Mississippi Medical Center will sponsor a conference in conjunction with the eleventh national A. E. D. convention to be held at Millsaps College on March 29-31, according to an announcement by Professor Joseph B. Price, head of the Millsaps Department of chemistry and chairman of the convention.

Premedical advisers and students from colleges in Mississippi will join with representatives of AED chapters on Saturday, March 31, for an all-day conference on premedical and pre dental education. The symposium program on Saturday morning will include a discussion of problems on premedical and pre dental education by Dean David Pankratz, University of Mississippi School of Medicine; Dr. O. W. Hyman, vice-president University of Tennessee Medical Units, Memphis, and Dean William A. Bryant, provost, University of Mississippi, Oxford.

A discussion of admission requirements and procedures will be led by Harold Cummins, M. D. assistant dean of the School of Medicine, Tulane University; Joseph F. Volker, M.D., D.D.S., of the School of Dentistry, University of Alabama; and J. T. Ginn, D.D.S., dean of the School of Dentistry, University of Tennessee.

A panel consisting of the above speakers with Dr. Lloyd R. Gribble, president of Alpha Epsilon Delta, and Dean J. S. Ferguson, of Millsaps, will participate in a discussion period which will permit students and advisers to present questions concerning their premedical and pre dental programs' entrance requirements.

Following a luncheon in the Millsaps College cafeteria, the meeting will reconvene at the University of Mississippi School of Medicine for a conducted tour through the medical school and hospital facilities at the Medical Center.

The purpose of the conference, according to Dr. Price, is to bring together medical, dental, and pre professional education and students for a discussion of problems of mutual interest. "Delegates in attendance will be expected to present problems for discussion and to raise questions for an exchange of ideas, opinions and suggestions on the various problems presented," Dr. Price said. The importance of premedical and pre dental education as an integral part of the medical and dental educational program will be stressed throughout the conference.

Fall Semester Begins With Orientation

The fall semester of Millsaps College starts Monday, September 10 with orientation for the freshmen beginning at 11:00 a.m. The dormitories will be open Monday at 8:00 a.m. During orientation freshmen are welcomed and are told something about the school.

Registration will be on Tuesday and Wednesday, September 11 and 12, with freshmen registering from 10:30 to 12:00 on Wednesday. Classes begin on a regular schedule Thursday, September 13.

IDEAS ON THE UNION—more by the interest shown by the students in the program and by the projected benefits to the students in relation to the cost, much more than by numbers attending. Programs should be rich in selections and varied in kind. There should be a constant search for new needs since many needs on the campus are not recognized.

Scheduling Important

It is imperative that the board not only try to better utilize the students' free time but to schedule events during the times most advantageous to the students. The richest Union programs should usually be on weekends, if the board will keep the student on campus. The student who remains on campus over the weekend because of attractive Union programs has more time for studying and closer identification with the college.

The Purpose Of The College Union

The end and achievable purpose of the College Union is to provide a bonus venture into the art of living. Union activities, in truth, are a finishing course in citizenship. As is stated in the Revelations Chapter of the Union Bible, "Citizens are made by the experience of citizenship." But, in specifics, the philosophy of the College Union points toward the student living a fuller social and communal life, in developing a better adjusted man and parent, an individual better adjusted to his job, and an individual individual whose life is enriched by life-long skills and hobbies.

(Excerpts from a speech by Gerald O. T. Erdahl, Director of the North Carolina State College Union).

Methodist Laymen And Ministers To Meet On Campus Next Week

Over two hundred Methodist ministers and laymen from all over Mississippi will meet on Millsaps campus next week in scheduled luncheon meetings. These meetings, called by Bishop Marvin A. Franklin, Chairman of the Board of Trustees, are for two purposes. One of the purposes is to stimulate payment of the Million for Millsaps subscriptions so that the Student Union-Cafeteria building may proceed in construction without any interruption. As of this date, approximately two-thirds of the Million dollars has been paid. It will be essential that the remaining one-third of the subscriptions be paid for the new building to be complete.

The other purpose of the luncheon meetings is to acquaint the ministers and laymen with the budget needs of Millsaps College. The Methodists of Mississippi are this year contributing approximately $75,000 for the operating budget of the College. This means that the income from the Methodist churches is, comparatively speaking, one-half the income from student tuition. For the next fiscal year, beginning July 1, 1956, the College will budget $95,000 from the Methodists of Mississippi. The meetings next week will furnish the Churchmen with information pertaining to the need for additional income.

Older Youth Week Will Be At Biloxi

An Older Youth Weekend is being planned by the Mississippi Conference of the Methodist Church to be held at Camp Wilkes near Biloxi on April 6-8. All youth who are high school graduates and under twenty-three are invited. The weekend will begin with a get together Friday night and end with worship services at the First Methodist Church of Biloxi on Sunday morning. There will be discussions centered around the needs and interests of older youth, and everyone will be given an opportunity to participate. The program is being planned with the idea in mind of providing a weekend of relaxation as well as being informative.

Pat Hillman is the chairman of the planning committee for this first Older Youth Weekend. Keep those dates in mind—April 6-8 at Camp Wilkes near Biloxi.

Letters To The Editor

The most recent letter printed in this section concerning the poll conducted by SEB, the results of which you were kind enough to publish three weeks ago, has caused me to do some serious thinking. As a member of the SEB committee and author of the article, I feel that I have more than a passing interest in the matter.

The original purpose of the poll and article was threefold, namely: (1) to see if there was real, widespread dissatisfaction with the eating situation here at Millsaps; (2) if such was the case, make definite notes of the chief sources of discontent; (3) make such recommendations as the committee felt the situation demanded. Personally, I am well satisfied concerning the accomplishment of the former pair and feel that in time the third purpose will be manifest in better food for the patrons of the Millsaps Cafeteria.

The initial letter with reference to the poll seemed to be an honest attempt to present the side of the affair which was most neglected in the article. Student opinion showed only a 25% minority which was not at the time dissatisfied with the Cafeteria; I felt that a proportionate part of the article dealt with the opinions of that group. Some of the points in Mr. Naylor's letter were well-taken. Regardless of one's feelings about the subject, an ordinary sense of values would very likely lead a reader to conclude that "maybe I don't agree with him, but it's every individual's, and certainly every group's right to make known his own feelings on the matter."

At least in a college community, the author of such a letter should be able to expect comparative immunity from childish attacks on his phraseology and method of presentation. Quite frankly, I am amazed that the Editor would print such a letter as appeared the following week in "rebuttal" to Mr. Naylor's comments. It seems a letter stressing the answers to the questions concerning the actual validity of the poll posed by Naylor would have been more in order. But this is not intended to debate the editorial policy of the paper.

Indeed it does not take a big man to step from the ranks of an overwhelming majority and bravely deride the views of a minority perhaps like so many others who read that "second letter" you feel that such aimless and indiscriminate criticism must rest on some personal basis. The viewpoint of the majority was fairly presented in the original article and the committee wants no individual to use it as a guise to vent personal criticism on those who are pleased with the Cafeteria and are moved to say so.

In closing, I must remind the author of the "second letter" that the American government has for some 180 years rested upon several principles, one of which is the right of every man, even one of a minority, to speak his piece without fear—or of a misguided, abjective attempt to make him appear ludicrous. Often an attempt to ridicule boomerangs—how the "second letter" fared will be obvious if you bother to read it more than once.

It is my hope that this letter helped to clear this series of cafeteria correspondences. Let's keep the P. & W. as an instrument of campus advancement and not a thing less than that.

Sincerely yours,
Hiram Polk.

SPORTS SPOTS

By Dannie Anderson

Kappa Sigs walked off with first half basketball honors while the Pikes and Lambda Chi's tied for second.

Several outstanding athletes will be on the campus for high school day so let's all be looking forward to boosting the athletic program with new blood.

Lambda Chi Alpha routed Pi Kappa Alpha 25-10 in a hard fought game Monday night.

The Harlem globetrotters meet University of Notre Dame tomorrow at 2 p.m. on Channel 12. Bevo Francis, the big boy from Rio Grande will be playing for the Boston school.

A drive is being sponsored by the State Times to collect sports equipment for the training school at Columbia. There can be no deed greater than helping another to help himself, and by contributing sports equipment to boys who have been juvenile delinquents and who need new interests. We can perform such a deed by taking all usable sports equipment to the State Times.

Second half in intramural basketball starts this week. Competition should be fast and furious.

Mississippi Academy Of Science Sponsors Fair On Millsaps Campus

The District IV Junior Science Fair, under the joint auspices of the Mississippi Academy of Science and Millsaps College, will be held on Saturday, April 14, 1956, in Sullivan-Harrell Hall.

Students attending Kindergarten through 12th grade in public, private or parochial schools in the 12 counties in District IV will enter exhibits. Entries are classified on the basis of age group and interest will be judged on creative ability, scientific thought, thoroughness, applied principles and processes, clarity and dramatic value and technical skill.

A total of $138 in cash will be given to award winners. These winners will be eligible to enter the State Science Fair to be held in Jackson, April 27-28, as part of the Mississippi Academy of Science annual meeting.

Mr. S. M. Williams, professor of Biology at Millsaps, is in charge of the Fair on the campus.

Student Opportunities

Baseball Opens; Team To Monroe

By Palmer Manning

Baseball season at Millsaps officially opens next Tuesday as the Majors travel to Monroe, Louisiana, for a contest with Northeast Louisiana State College. Also on the recently announced schedule are six other road games and seven home encounters for an overall total of fourteen contests.

There are ten returning lettermen on hand for the 1956 season. They are: Tex Sample, pitcher-catcher; Crow Parnell, third base; Bennie Kirkland, outfield-pitcher; Billy Graham, outfield-pitcher; Cy Vance, pitcher; John Case, second base; Reid Jones, first base; James Hood, catcher; Cliff Rushing, outfield; and Bill Jones, regular catcher in 1954.

Newcomers and non-lettermen trying out for the squad include: Kenneth Wellons, catcher; Gene Gotdon, shortstop; Jimmy Durrett, second base; Perrin Smith, second base; Billy Livingston, Bobby Livingston, Eddie Whaley, first base; Robert Gentry, pitcher; Palmer Manning, pitcher; Jim Berry, and Stan Hathorne, catchers.

Coaches Sammy Bartling and Erm Smith issued an invitation to all Millsaps students who think they can play varsity baseball to try out for the team.

The complete schedule as announced by Coach Bartling and Coach Smith is:

March 13—Northeast Louisiana State College, Monroe.

March 27—Northeast Louisiana State College, here.

April 5—Howard, Birmingham.

April 6—Howard, Birmingham.

April 11—Delta State, Cleveland.

April 12—Howard, here.

April 18—Mississippi College, Clinton.

April 19—Mississippi College, here.

April 25—Mississippi College, Clinton.

April 26—Mississippi College, here.

April 27—Southwestern, here.

May 2—Delta State, here.

A two game series with William Carey will be arranged, but the exact date has not been decided.

Badminton

First Week Of Play Ends

At the end of the first week of play the Girls' Badminton Doubles Tournament was narrowed down to 13 couples. Here are the results of the four games played Monday: Alice Ferguson and Sarah Jones downed Helen Thorne and Betty Miller, Lois Bain and Betty Cleveland over Shirley Brown and Mary Elizabeth Burton, Jo Ann Wilson and Clara Smith defeated Frances Furr and Pat Smith, and Karen Gilfoy and Malie Pleasants over Mary Helen Corley and Patsy Caver.

Tuesday's results. Elizabeth Ann Clark and Frances Holland over Lois Bain and Betty Cleveland, Lynette Garst and Susan Wheeless lost to Danye Miller and Kay Bufkin, and Karen Gilfoy and Malie Pleasants were defeated by Clara Smith and Jo Ann Wilson.

Winners of the semi-finals played Wednesday afternoon were Jones and Ferguson. The other game was postponed.

Badminton

Girls Singles Turney Starts

Fourteen girls are competing in the Girls' Singles Badminton Tournament which began Wednesday, March 7. Because of the small number competing, the tournament will be conducted in one flight instead of two as previously planned. These are the girls who have signed up: Sarah Jones, Alice Ferguson, Kay Bufkin, Danye Miller, Betty Jane Cleveland, Clara Smith, Frances Furr, Helen Hayes, Joyce Nall, Emily Green, Shirley Brown, Frances Holland, and Ruth Ann Hall.

White Announced Tennis Rankings

Dr. M. C. White announced preliminary ranking for his varsity tennis squad Tuesday, March 5 at Battlefield Park. With one exception, these are as predicted in last week's P and W:

Doubles will be led by Max McDaniels and Powers Moore, ranked one and two respectively in singles. Willard Leggett is paired with fifth ranking Fred Abraham for the No. 2 doubles spot and will play third. James Vaughn, ranked fourth, will team with last man Jimmy McCormick to fill the final doubles slot.

Vaughn and McCormick, attempting to move into the No. 2 doubles position, challenged Abraham and Leggett as soon as rankings were posted, but were turned back in straight sets (6-3) and (6-3).

Singles challenge rounds, as announced, will be staged March 12-16 in final preparation for the teams opening match March 20 at Oxford.

Majorette Club Elects Officers

The Majorette Club recently elected officers for the coming year. Chosen were: Yvonne Moss, President; Biggie Wilkins, Vice-President; June Stellwagon, Secretary-Treasurer; and Danye Miller, Reporter.

A Message From President Finger

A Word of Welcome to our Guests:

In many respects the most exciting day in the entire year for Millsaps College is High School Day. This is the occasion when we have a welcomed opportunity to see again friends we have made at Senior Assemblies, at summer camps, at career days, and in high school life. This is also a fine occasion for making new acquaintances.

Our faculty and students have for weeks anticipated your coming. We hope you will be as pleased to be here as we are to have you. The entire Millsaps College community is at your command today. We want to make your visit here pleasant and profitable. We trust that this will be the first of many rewarding days many of you will spend on the Millsaps College campus.

H. E. Finger, Jr.
President

The annual freshman day activities include dressing in ridiculous costumes and scrubbing Major Millsaps' tomb with tooth brushes.

news analysis

by

Alfred Statham

The National convention of the party in power is often looked upon as a rubber stamp body for it is generally accepted that the incumbent President need only be available to be renominated. Likewise, his choice of a running mate is generally uncontested.

This election year has already been considered a somewhat special election year, due mainly to the health of President Eisenhower. However, it is unlikely that his renomination will occupy the center of discussion at the Republican convention in August. The big question apparently is, who will be the Vice-Presidential nominee? This is the major area of controversy among party leaders.

Most observers feel that the President again favors Nixon as a partner; Eisenhower has stated that his admiration for Nixon is unbounded, and has given three reasons for not making public his choice for the Vice-President: (1) the President himself has not yet been renominated; (2) it is customary for the Presidential nominee to announce his choice for a running mate after his own nomination; (3) Mr. Nixon has not yet indicated whether or not he wants a second term. The President has wisely considered his own position, political custom, and Mr. Nixon's position.

However, it is apparent that dissension is growing within the party, and pressure is being brought to bear on Mr. Eisenhower. The old split between the Taft and Eisenhower factions seems to be widening; the former trying to prevent Nixon's renomination and also to remove Senator Knowland from his position of leadership. Their position against Nixon is that he is much too controversial to remain on the party ticket. But as David Lawrence pointed out, this division of party unity is more harmful than Nixon's presence. In light of the type campaign to be conducted by the President, Nixon is needed to arouse apathetic party members, and also the independent voters.

It is apparent that the Democrats are on the strong end of the rope on this point. If Nixon is renominated, they can vigorously attack him; if some other candidate is chosen, they can point to the dissension within the Republican party itself. Already Mr. Nixon is reported to be considering withdrawing as a candidate for the office he now holds. Other possibilities for that office are Secretary of the Treasury Humphreys, Governor Herter of Massachusetts, and twice Presidential candidate, Thomas E. Dewey.

The President is the leader of his party. His strength is reflected in the degree of party unity which he commands and is vital to the success of the party. That strength of Mr. Eisenhower will be subjected to a strong test in the near future.

Departmental Exhibits Are Feature Of High School Day

High School Day visitors to the campus tomorrow will find a realm of opportunities open to them. They may test their reaction time, learn how to drill an oil well, see the Players' royal dodo bird, and observe a mock pasting up of the Purple and White.

All this will be shown in the exhibits prepared by the various departments.

In the South Lounge of the Christian Center, the Players will show the art of make-up, costuming, and set designing. Such unique articles as the royal dodo, bird from Hamlet and the stained glass window from Cyrano de Bergerac will be displayed.

In the P. & W. staff members will be on hand to demonstrate how they "put the paper to bed" and to answer any questions the students might have. The religion department will also have their exhibit in the Christian Center.

In Sullivan-Harrell Science Hall the physics department will be the scene of greatest activity. There the electronic devices will illustrate the basic principles of modern industry. Perhaps the most interesting exhibit will be the Geiger counter.

On the top floor botany and zoology students will show present work in these courses.

The chemistry department will attempt to demonstrate through the usual laboratory apparatus the more colorful of chemical reactions which are basic to chemistry and especially applicable to pre-med work.

Such things as a color wheel, a device for measuring reaction time, and an experiment on the judging of photographs will be presented in the new psychology lab, Sullivan-Harrell '08.

The geology rooms will be given over to demonstrations on how an oil well is drilled, what the sub surface beds in Mississippi are like, and a new device shown for the first time by which a section of rock, so thin that newsprint may be read through it, can be projected on a screen and the rock or mineral identified by the color of the spectrum. A diamond saw will be used to cut pieces of rock and petrified wood for souvenirs.

A display "Gifts from the Sea" will be in the library glass cases and new and unusual books laid out in the reading rooms.

Dr. Priddy, chairman of the exhibits committee, feels that the exhibits are important to High School Day in that they "show what we're doing and how we are doing it."

Psychology Department Improved By Dr. Knowles

By Stewart Gammill

Since Dr. Knowles' arrival on the campus last September, the entire psychology department, now located on the ground floor of the rear wing of the Sullivan-Harrell Hall, has been redecorated, soundproofed, and re-arranged for the flexibility required in experimentation.

The lab, with removable partitions, accommodates ten or twelve students comfortably, and includes storage space, a small shop, and facilities for experimental animals.

Several valuable instruments have recently been added to the department's technical equipment. An automatic statistics calculator, new projector with lens arrangement to serve as a tachistoscope, a reading pacer for reading experiments and diagnosis of common reading difficulties, a psychogalvanometer to measure emotional re-action and fatigue, and an oscilloscope for the measure of nerve impulses and brain waves have been purchased. A memory drum, a memory device used in learning study, has been ordered; and students themselves have constructed Hi-Fi equipment with two audio generators which will be used in conjunction with the music department in determining musical aptitude.

Special projects such as correlation of emotional reaction with rankings of pictures of fellow students and members of the faculty, the correlation between measure of depth perception and the measure of space perception, and an interview study, tracing the development of the concept of God from early childhood to the present, are now in progress.

Additional equipment will be added as the need arises and the department expands.

Alumni of Millsaps College in the Greenville Area have elected William J. Caraway, Leland mayor, as the first president of the tri-county Millsaps Club. The election was held during the business session of the organizational meeting of the club held Thursday night at the Hotel Greenville.

Other officers named to serve for one year were area vice-presidents Bill Kimbrell, Greenville; Bill Bizzell, Cleveland; the Reverend Blanton Doggett, Indianola; Stacy Kellum, Hollandale; and J. L. Nabors, Inverness. Secretary for the newly formed club will be Curtis Nabors, of Leland.

The meeting featured an address by Dr. H. E. Finger, Jr., president of Millsaps College. He was introduced by Bill Kimbrell, master of ceremonies for the evening.

Dr. Thomas G. Ross, Jackson, president of the Millsaps College Alumni Association, and Jim Livesay, executive secretary, spoke briefly on the progress made by the Association and outlined plans for the future. Two other national officers, vice-presidents Craig Castle, Jackson, and Bill Bizzell, Cleveland, attended the meeting.

Entertainment was provided by the freshman quartet from Millsaps College composed of Marlin Grimes and Billy Kerr, Greenwood; and John Potter and Clifton Ware, Jackson.

A color-sound movie, "Campus Close-Up," which depicted life at Millsaps, was shown to alumni and guests during the evening.

The Greenville Area for the newly organized Millsaps Club includes Sunflower, Washington, and a portion of Bolivar County.

Graduates and former students of Grenada and Whitworth Colleges joined Millsaps ex-students in forming the new club.

How Well Will You Build?

by Hiram Polk

Welcome to Millsaps College, seniors! Today you stand in the midst of an environment which to many of you will become a way of life. This institution, Millsaps College, can become the most important single influence in your life.

Admittedly, these are broad statements, but behind them stand thousands of experiences for each of the students now at Millsaps which support their veracity. Millsaps is a small, church-supported, liberal arts college, with all of the advantages of such a set-up and a minimum of the disadvantages. Its size serves as a tremendous stimulant to the excellent congenial atmosphere of the campus. This air about student relations here can have the same influence on your life that it has had on thousands of others—the art of moving among people easily and making friends quickly is one of Millsaps' most popular extra-curricular "courses."

Church support has meant two things above all else here at Millsaps: a steadily progressive college—witness the Millsaps-Wilson Library and the Student Union Building whose construction is scheduled to start shortly—and a reverent emphasis upon the real things in life. The liberal arts curriculum here is recognized as one of the finest in the entire nation, providing breadth as well as depth in our scholastic work.

From both a scholastic and extracurricular view, a Millsaps type of college education will let you face your adult life with the assurance that you can meet any of life's crises on a level ground. From here you can go on to any other school in the nation with a definite conviction that you are as well, or better, prepared to deal successfully with the problems of whatever your chosen profession may be as anyone else.

You are interested in Millsaps College as an institution for the continuance of your education, or else you wouldn't be here today. You can find here on Methodist Hill the ingredients with which to completely develop your full potentialities. The tangible assets which Millsaps offers you can be easily read in the college catalogue, but it is the intangibles which can surpass all else in your development toward the strong capable citizen this nation will so sorely need in the crucial years just ahead. In the quiet reverence of Vespers, the vibrant spirit of athletic contests, the thoughtful contemplation of hours spent in study, and the glowing feeling of true friendship you will find a few of the intangible assets of your college education at Millsaps.

In the last few years, there has been all to little emphasis on a vital part of the Millsaps College picture, intercollegiate athletics. This college pursues a strictly amateur athletic policy, and students are urged to compete in athletics for the genuine love of sports and a sincere desire to represent Millsaps well. But our swing away from "professionalism" has not and will not take on a pose of opposition to athletes. Deserving high school athletes can and will continue to be able to secure financial aid if they measure up fully as the type of student Millsaps College seeks. Visiting seniors who are interested in participating in any varsity sport should make it a point to see Coach Sammy Bartling today.

But Millsaps, with her brilliant, dedicated faculty and high ideals, cannot alone make each of you the person you inwardly want to be. Here you are furnished every building block and every bit of related material for the construction of a strong Christian American, but you yourself must use these parts as you see fit—use them well and you will indeed become a man, use them poorly and you grow further away from maturity than ever before. When you are accepted for entrance here, it will be in the firm conviction that you can make the most of the opportunities offered here at Millsaps. How well will you build?

Part-time summer work with the State Highway Department is available. They need students to work as coders, draftsmen or with field crews. For additional information call Mr. Holder at 5-9361, Extension 598.

The Navy Department is offering $61 a week as the beginning salary for civilian stenographers and typists to work in its headquarters offices in Washington, D. C., this summer. If you are interested, contact Miss Marcella Cyr, Civilian Navy Representative, U. S. Navy Recruiting Station, Post Office Building, Room 6, Memphis, Tenn.

The Retail Credit Company has two jobs open. One is for a part-time credit investigator, who must have his own car and be able to type. The other is a full-time job for a competent student wife to do supervisory work from 8-5 five days a week. She must be from 22-35 years old and be able to type; shorthand is not a requirement but would help. Pay is $200 a month. For additional data about both jobs, call Mr. Miller at 2-4018.

Open to any student enrolled in a college or university is a United Nations play-writing contest being sponsored by two agencies of the Methodist Board of Missions. The award for writing the best one-act play about the U. N. or some phase of its work is a trip to New York for the author and production of the drama by a little theater group. A deadline of June 5 has been set for receipt of manuscripts, which are to be sent to Room 637, 150 Fifth Avenue, New York 11, N. Y.

If you are interested in working with children and in professional education for the field of child welfare, the Mississippi Department of Public Welfare is providing an opportunity to work while learning and deciding that social work is what you really want to do. Also the department's educational leave program provides opportunities for training in preparation for child welfare work. If you are interested, write Box 1669, Department of Public Welfare, Jackson, Miss., for additional information.

Millsaps Produces Outstanding Men

Results is one of the best ways to judge a product. And these Millsaps graduates have indeed been outstanding results.

In the "Jackson Man of the Year" awards sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, six out of seven awards have been to Millsaps graduates. They are: W. Bryant Ridgway, 1949; J. J. Livesay, 1950; Dr. H. E. Finger, Jr., 1952; W. O. Carter, 1953; Phil Irby, Jr., 1954; and Nat Rogers, 1955. In 1951 the award was given to Dumas Milner, who is married to the former Myrtle Howard, a Millsaps graduate.

In the state-wide "Man of the Year" contest three out of the seven awards that have been given have gone to Millsaps graduates. They are: Dr. H. E. Finger, Jr., 1953; Van Richardson, 1953; and Jim McLain, 1954.

Mississippi Students Confer With Governor

L. to R.: Alfred Statham, Millsaps; Jimmy Dale, Miss. College; Alton Boyd, Millsaps; Governor Coleman; Evelyn Tackett, Belhaven; Breck King, Millsaps; Charles Deaton, Millsaps.

by Alfred Statham

In what may be the first of a series of meetings, a small group of students from Belhaven, Mississippi College, and Millsaps visited Governor J. P. Coleman in his office at the New Capitol last Friday afternoon. Governor Coleman was instrumental in arranging the conference, the purpose of which was to promote relations and understanding between the Governor and the colleges. While it would be impossible for all students at these colleges to meet and discuss important issues with our chief Executive, Governor Coleman feels that these small groups will provide a line of communications between his office and the respective student bodies.

Public Service Commission

After a brief introduction, the Governor opened the floor for questions from the students. Talmadge Littlejohn asked what defects existed in the Public Service Commission, and Governor Coleman pointed out that the public utilities bill, which has now been passed by both houses of the Legislature, was one of the most important planks in his platform during the gubernatorial campaign last summer. He stated that the bill is aimed at increasing the power and efficiency of the Public Service Commission, which has the authority at the present time to perform its job but does not have the necessary staff, experts, and means to accomplish anything. The Governor asserted that unless the pending legislation becomes law, the Commission may as well be abolished.

Schoolteachers

The Governor was asked by Carra Lee Lewis, Belhaven College, what is being done to increase the salaries of school teachers in the state. Governor Coleman acknowledged that Mississippi ranks below all the other states of the nation in teachers' incomes, but stated that we are making tremendous progress. The teachers' average income increased from $800.00 annually in 1940 to $2400.00 in 1950; Mississippi devotes a greater percentage of its annual budget to education than any other state, and the reason for our present position is due to our low economic index. The Governor stated that the future of educators in Mississippi is excellent.

After thirty minutes of rapid discussion, and some debate, this first meeting was concluded. Governor Coleman expressed his appreciation and enjoyment of the conference, and the apparent consensus of all participants was that the continuation of this type program will be highly beneficial to the student delegates, their respective student bodies, and our state.

SPORTS SPOTS

Correction: Kappa Alpha tied for second place in the first half of basketball intramurals with the Pikes and Lambda Chis.

Head coach Bartling says that this year's spring drills were the most successful in his five years at Millsaps. He said, "These boys had wonderful spirit; competition was great; they may not have a successful season in wins and losses, but whoever beats them will have their hands full; all eleven positions are still wide open."

The intra-squad game last Thursday was a high scoring affair with the Millsaps '56 team showing that they have the potentialities if they can and will be developed.

Millsaps Singers Prepare For Tour Of Mississippi

by Nancy Vines

Fast and furious is the pace of the Millsaps Singers now that the tour is only two weeks and two days away. There is work, work, and still more work to be packed into this short time before we'll be ready to leave.

Each Singer must divide his time two ways in order to tie up all loose ends before leaving. In the eyes of the faculty, there is no reason to miss a bit of the course just because you miss two weeks of lecture, labs, and whatever else they devise for you to do. (They are right, though we are unwilling to admit it.) This means that all spare time isn't spare anymore. The Singer studies sociology from a book instead of campusology in the Grill. Saturday mornings aren't spent in the fresh spring air, but in the ammonium-hydroxide scented labs at Sullivan-Harrell. The warm, mellow nights are spent doing outside reading instead of . . . uh . . . other things.

The Singer studies now so that he won't be behind when he leaves, he studies on tour the things he thinks will be discussed during his absence, and when he returns he finds that the teacher didn't discuss what he studied so he must get down and study what he discussed. In other words, the Singer studies.

The second, and equally important, division of the Singer's time is spent in learning the music. This consists of more than merely learning the words and notes. (Although sometimes we think "Pop" would be overjoyed to have us do that.) One would think that after the time we've spent on rehearsals, not to mention the time spent in practicing by ourselves, we would know the music perfectly. ("Pop" and every member of the choir can tell you this isn't true. In reality, each concert will be another practice. "Pop" laughingly advises everyone to attend the last concert at Capitol Street Church on April 15 because we might be getting pretty good along about then.

Seriously, each Singer is anxious to reach the point where the music is more than a series of notes but rather a part of him. This is the difference in singing from a sense of duty and singing from pure love of singing. This is the difference in noise and beautiful music.

The choir has been divided into two sections. One group will tour north Mississippi during the week of April 1 through April 8, and the second group will tour south Mississippi the following week. Most of the Singers are in both sections.

"But darling, I couldn't elope with you tomorrow—I have three cuts already."

Millsaps Enrollment Steadily Increasing

By Anne Coker

There were 842 students enrolled at Millsaps College for the fall semester, 1955, of which total 500 were men and 342 were women. This enrollment compares with 656 in 1951, 687 in 1952, 704 in 1953, and 735 in 1954, indicating a gradual and healthy increase. There were an additional 334 students enrolled in the night classes of the University of Mississippi-Millsaps Center, making a total of 1,176 students attending classes on the campus this fall.

In the regular Millsaps student body of 842, 312 are residents of Jackson, 469 are residents of Mississippi outside Jackson, and 61 are residents of other states or foreign countries.

The number of applications for entrance into Millsaps at this time is far ahead of the number received at the same time last year.

Good Music Is Goal Set For Millsaps Band

By Howard Jones

The Millsaps Band gave its spring concert Tuesday night, March 13, at Murrah High School. The program was "Trumpet Tune" by Henry Purcell, "Prelude and Fuge in G Minor" by J. S. Bach, "Gavotte," from the "Classical Symphony" by Sergei Prokofieff, "Academic Festival Overture" by Johannes Brahms, Intermission, "The Thunderer" by J. P. Sousa, Selections from "The Student Prince" by Sigmund Romberg, "An Evening in the Village" by Bela Bartok, "Deep Purple" by Peter Rose, and the "Triumphal March" from "Quo Vadis" by Miklos Rozsa.

Two years ago Sam Jones, conductor of the Millsaps College Band said, "Our goal is good music." Not only has the band, through Sam's leadership, accomplished this, but it has also contributed tremendously to Millsaps' school spirit. With his unique talent for interpretation, style, and tempo, Sam, who is a junior, has never failed to give a successful concert.

When Sam came the bandroom had a facelifting. The walls, floor, chairs, and stands were painted. The greatest physical improvement was the removal of the sac cloth ceiling and its replacement with a modern soundboard. The band office was also improved in the same manner. Sam spent the entire summer rearranging the music library. The music library is full of music from "pop" to "longhair" and can be found in the file without a moment's hesitation. These were the first improvements to be made in the band program.

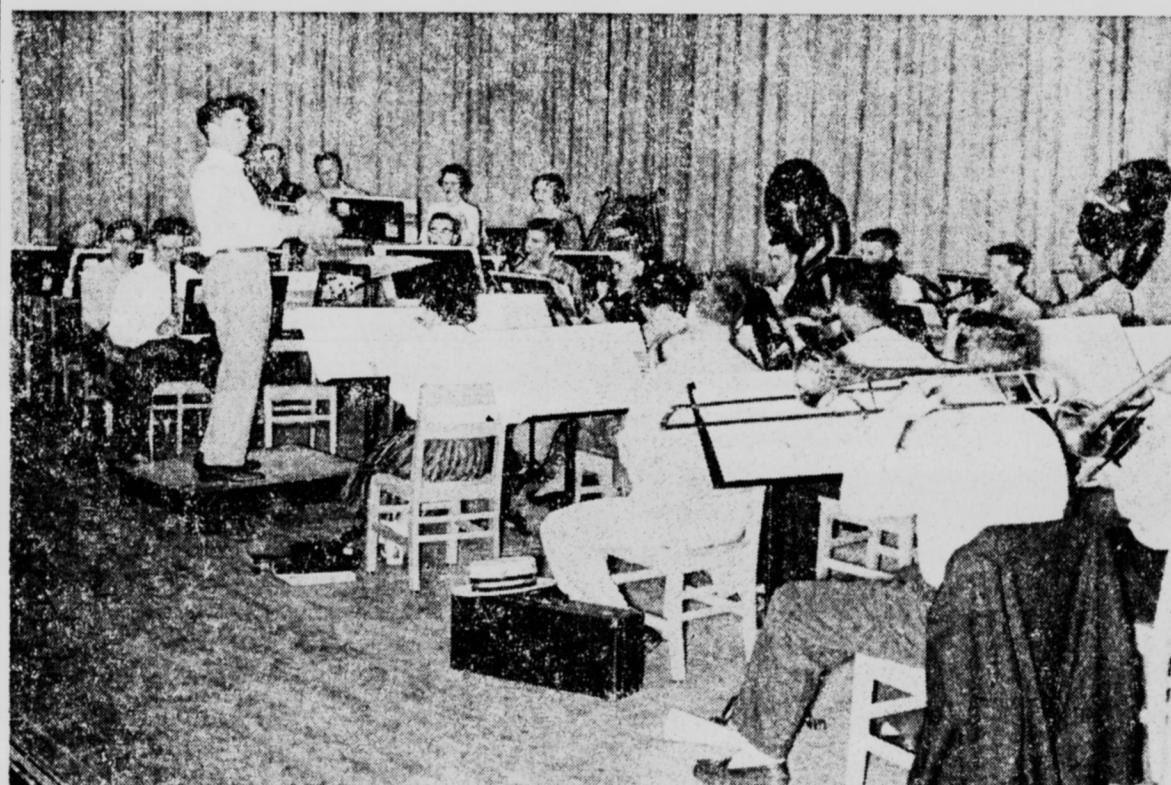

"What did he say?" finally demanded the mother, frowning.

"Who?" asked the father.

"The begga fella in black robes. What did he say?"

"He say school is out."

Millsaps Political Science Department Widely Accepted

by Alfred Statham

Millsaps College has attained distinction in many fields of education. Among the courses of instruction offered none is more widely accepted than that of political science.

Chairman of the political science department is Dr. Harry Manley, now in his first year on the Millsaps faculty. Dr. Manley obtained his A.B. in economics from Westminster College in Pennsylvania, an LL.B. from the University of Pittsburgh school of law, and his Ph.D. in political science at Duke University. He has also done graduate work in political science at the University of Wisconsin. Prior to coming to Millsaps, Dr. Manley taught at Westminster, Duke, and the American Institute of Banking.

Serving as associate professor in the department are Dr. Moor Dr. Williamson, and Professor Zumbro.

A basic study of political science is necessary to prepare students for active, useful citizenship in democracy. It is desired that a student at Millsaps acquire such a knowledge. In addition, a comprehensive course of study is available for political science and pre-law majors. A wide variety of courses is offered, ranging from a study of state and local government to international politics, and from ancient to contemporary political theory.

One of the most useful and informative studies is made in the area of state and local government. A general theory of municipal, county, and state government is integrated with a detailed investigation of the organization and operation of these governmental units in Mississippi. For example an examination is made of the Mississippi Economics Council's report on County government, and students attend sessions of the state legislature.

The political science department at Millsaps prepares students for basic participation in the conduct of government as well as providing thorough preparation for graduate study in the field of political science, law, government, and diplomatic service.

Campus Publications Welcome New Talent

Millsaps offers opportunities galore to those students who are interested in working on publication staffs.

THE PURPLE AND WHITE

For the literary-minded there is the campus weekly newspaper, The Purple and White. The staff welcomes any new talent and will be glad to help any aspiring, but struggling young writers. If a writer does well enough, he can earn two extra-curricular hours a year towards graduation.

BOBASHELA

Also there is the college annual, the Bobashela (the word means "good friend" in Choctaw). The annual is a photographic view of campus life. If you are willing to work hard, this is the job for you.

If you can't write but would like to work with either the paper or the annual, join one of their business staffs.

STYLUS

Another Millsaps publication is Stylus, a literary magazine published bi-annually. No, it doesn't contain the plays of Shakespeare nor the poems of Wordsworth. Within the bindings of this little booklet are prized works of the college's talented young writers.

Millsaps Players Have Long String Of Successes

By Shirley Brown

The first play produced at Millsaps College was the joint community Millsaps production of Shakespeare's As You Like It in 1913. In 1925 the Millsaps players were organized and in 1928 Alpha Psi Omega, the national honorary dramatic fraternity was chartered at Millsaps.

Under the capable direction of Dr. M. C. White (a man brilliant and versatile enough to direct dramatics, coach champion tennis teams, and head the English department) the Players presented such outstanding plays as Death Takes a Holiday, The Circle, The Importance of Being Earnest, and Arsenic and Old Lace.

In 1950 Mr. Lance Goss, a former Millsaps student returned to Millsaps as professor of speech and director of the Millsaps Players. Under his direction the Players have presented a variety of plays from Hamlet to A Streetcar Named Desire, from The Rivals to Death of a Salesman. The Players have also presented such outstanding plays as The Infernal Machine, The Madwoman of Chaillot, Lilliom, Our Town, Cyrano de Bergerac, Arms and the Man, and The Philadelphia Story.

About the purpose of the college theatre group Mr. Goss says: "The Millsaps Players is, of course, educational theatre, and as such has certain responsibilities not only to the students and faculty of the college, but also to the community in general. We must produce all types of plays—modern and classical—by the best playwrights of all nations and all periods. The educational theatre can and must produce plays that a regular community theatre could not afford to produce. We must produce our plays in as near a professional manner as possible. By staging only the best plays in the best possible production, educational theatre teaches the entire community to recognize what is worthwhile in theatre, as well as presenting excellent entertainment that could not be seen elsewhere. And the students who take part in the various phases of theatrical production gain selfconfidence and poise, learn to express themselves, and learn the value of cooperation."

The current Players production is The Rainmaker by N. Richard Nash. It is a romantic comedy set in a western state during a draught. It is the first western that the Millsaps Players have ever done.

The characters are Bill Starbuck, the Rainmaker, played by David Franks of Jackson; Lizzie Curry played by Aden Coleman of Greenwood; H. C. Curry, played by James Rush of Lake; Nash Curry, played by Henry Clements of Jackson; Jimmy Curry played by Ronald Willoughby of Columbia; the sheriff played by Harold Edwards of Jackson; and File, the deputy, played by Bill Lampton of Columbia.

Season Nearing End

Millsaps Debaters Have An Outstanding Record

by Jim Waits

One of the most active groups on Millsaps campus is the debate team. Commonly known as "Tillman's Talkers," (named after the debate coach, Rev. Harmon Tillman) they make many trips during the year to various debate tournaments. This year they have gained an enviable record, making trips to such schools as L.S.U., Alabama, Tulane, Central State of Oklahoma, Mississippi College, University of Florida, West Georgia College, Tulane, and Notre Dame.

Rose Cunningham and Jerry Trigg represented Millsaps at the Notre Dame Tournament, winning fifth place. Jerry placed fourth in the individual debaters awards for the entire tournament. At the Tulane tournament, Millsaps won first place, knocking off formidable opposition from schools all over the South. At the West Georgia tournament, Millsaps again surged ahead, winning the negative championship and second place for the entire tournament.

In addition to their many travels, Millsaps debaters sponsor an annual tournament themselves. It is the largest and one of the oldest tournaments in the South. This year, competing teams traveled from as far north as Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania and as far west as Oklahoma and Texas to this tournament.

Millsaps debaters also participate in the annual Youth Congress held at the state capitol. This year, five Millsaps debators won ten superior awards at Youth Congress, while others served as clerks and parliamentarians.

In connection with debate activities, Pi Kappa Delta, a national honorary forensics fraternity, has an active chapter on Millsaps campus. Membership is offered "... to those who have given distinguished service in debating, oratory, or extemporaneous public speaking."

Engineering At Millsaps

By Tommy Naylor

Millsaps College defines engineering as "the art of organizing and directing men and of controlling the forces and materials of nature for the benefit of the human race." Millsaps further believes that preparation for engineering requires two phases, first a complete liberal arts education and second, a thorough knowledge of the technical aspects of engineering.

A very unique plan is offered by Millsaps for combining liberal arts work with technical training. An engineering student spends three years at Millsaps becoming well acquainted with the humanities, as well as the fundamentals of mathematics, chemistry, physics, and geology. The next two years are spent at either Vanderbilt University, Ole Miss, or Columbia University. When the five-year course is completed, the future engineer has a B.S. from Millsaps and a B.S. in engineering at his chosen college.

Columbia University has used this plan for over fifty years with great success. A special feature of the Columbia School of Engineering is its summer engineering camp. There a student can actually put into practice his engineering skills.

It has been said that a man who spends four years in an engineering school with only a knowledge of scientific subjects, comes out as a "technician," but a man who combines liberal arts with his technical studies is an "engineer."

March 22 Tap Day To Honor Campus Leaders

The Student Executive Board has set March 22 as Tap Day for second semester. This occasion twice each year allows the campus honorary organizations to recognize those students who have excelled in scholastic and extracurricular activities. The following organizations will "tap" new members in the March 22 program:

Race For The Bucket Begins

Better be sure that you don't enter any door or window unannounced from now on. You may be shot at dawn for this offense if you happen to stumble upon a group working on their skit for Stunt Night.

No other event can arouse as much interest in a rusty old bucket as can this one which is sponsored by the Majorette Club.

Per usual, programs will be scribbled on a paper bag, losers will weep and wail and gnash their tooth when the winners are announced.

The Chi Omegas, who have won the cherished bucket for a record of three straight years, will be working to repeat this feat a fourth time while other groups will "do or die" in an all out attempt to whisk away the prize.

The same rules will be in effect this year as last, and it is hoped by all concerned that the same friendly atmosphere will prevail between participants as has been exhibited in the past. By this I mean that no murders will be committed and no body-less heads will be seen blowing about the campus.

Congressmen Blass And Wroten Featured At IRC Interposition Forum

The International Relations Club sponsored one of the most interesting and informative meetings of the year last Tuesday night in the Forum Room of the Library. Two distinguished members of the Mississippi Legislature, Representatives Joel Blass and Joe Wroten, conducted a discussion of interposition and nullification. Each of these gentlemen delivered a short introduction of the topic, and then opened the floor for questions from the audience.

Mr. Blass began the discussion by stating that the recent resolution of interposition adopted by the legislature is part of a concerted effort by southern states to contest a "very serious encroachment" of state sovereignty by the United States Supreme Court. Nullification was strongly denounced by both Mr. Blass and Mr. Wroten, and they stressed on numerous occasions that this question must be resolved through constitutional means. Interposition lies entirely within this framework as it is an appeal by the several states, questioning the constitutional validity of a federal act.

With this background, the discussion developed into a consideration of the theoretical concepts of constitutional democracy, rather than centering on segregation vs. integration, as might have been expected. Both legislators agreed that segregation is actually incidental to the current use of the doctrine of interposition, and it is with great reluctance that we face this problem, due to the two extreme opinions regarding the racial situation. The basic purpose of this contest between the federal and state governments is to restore state sovereignty and the federal principle to the conduct of our government.

A Message From N. R. Walley

Welcome High School Seniors:

On behalf of the Millsaps College Student Body may I take this opportunity to welcome you to our college community. We hope that you will "make yourselves at home" and that you enjoy the program we have planned for you.

Millsaps is a wonderful school. In fact Millsaps College rates among the top in colleges throughout the nation. Yet, aside from the superior academic standing, Millsaps is noted for her outstanding contribution in leadership and Christian principles and ideals. We feel that these qualities are the basis upon which a good education is founded.

In addition there are a variety of activities which offer the student opportunities for participation and expression of creative ability. Thus, you see, college life is not all devoted to one of study, but is one in which there are numerous occasions for fellowship and planning together.

Again may I say how happy we are that you are here and we hope that you will choose Millsaps as your college community.

N. R. Walley
Pres. Student Body

♦ Omicron Delta Kappa — The honorary which is considered "top-notch" for Millsaps men is ODK, a national fraternity whose members are the outstanding leaders from main campus activities. When you become a member of this organization, you are in line to receive not only a tap, but also a well-deserved pat on the shoulder. Indeed, to be tapped into ODK is the highest honor a man can attain at Millsaps. The local chapter originates and initiates many constructive campus projects.

Sigma Lambda — The co-eds are not to be outdone; therefore, Millsaps offers Sigma Lambda membership to those young ladies who have gained prominence in campus activities. Invitations to become affiliated with this group, however, must have the unanimous approval of its regular members.

Kit Kat — The oldest and most exclusive honorary on the campus, Kit Kat is the goal of all male writers. Papers are read at monthly dinner meetings and criticized by both student and faculty members.

Chi Delta — Sister organization to Kit Kat, Chi Delta recognizes women who have demonstrated a genuine interest in literary fields and who have creative writing ability.

Alpha Psi Omega — Alpha Psi Omega, national honorary dramatic fraternity, recognizes outstanding interest, ability, and participation in all phases of dramatics. Each year the name of the outstanding senior member of this organization is engraved on a trophy which is placed in the college trophy case.

Kappa Delta Epsilon — Kappa Delta Epsilon, a professional education sorority, promotes the cause of better education by fostering high scholastic standing and professional ideals among those preparing for the teaching profession.

Pi Kappa Delta — The Millsaps chapter of Pi Kappa Delta offers membership to those who have done distinguished public speaking. The debaters make several trips each year. They have competed successfully against many high-ranking teams.

Eta Sigma Phi — Recognizing ability in classical studies, Eta Sigma Phi is a national honorary fraternity. Alpha Phi, the Millsaps chapter, was founded in 1935. Traditional is its annual Roman banquet.

Alpha Epsilon Delta — Alpha Epsilon Delta, national pre-medical honorary society, promotes the interests of its members and bridges the gap between premedical and medical schools. Leadership, scholarship, expertness, character, and personality are considered in those students judged for membership. This year the National Convention of Alpha Epsilon Delta will be held on the Millsaps campus. Part of its program will be of special interest to high school premedical students. See the article elsewhere in the P. & W. if you are interested.

Theta Nu Sigma — This organization has a selected membership of students showing excellent grades and general interests in professional and industrial science. At graduation it presents a award to the outstanding science graduate.

Prob'lly So

By Hazel Truluck

High schoolers, we welcome you—gladly and proudly. We are glad that you are here, and we are proud that we have a fine college to show to you. Here's hoping that you'll be a proud Millsapian come next high School day.

Life at Millsaps has its disadvantages, but what place doesn't? We believe that the advantages far outweigh any and all disadvantages that can be found.

Millsaps does not have the reputation for being a "party school" and we would not want that name, but we guarantee that we have our share of parties and a little more than our share of fun. We can glow when people think we must be brains because we go to Millsaps, but we don't (as is sometimes thought) study all the time. Life certainly is not "all work and no play" for us.

There is a wonderful feeling connected with the realization that you are a part of this campus (at first you may feel like it's a very small part, but gradually you'll come to feel terribly important.) The feeling is a combination of things—such as knowing everyone, having everyone know you, the friendly atmosphere, the fact that the teachers know and take an interest in you, and many other things. It's a "small college feeling," a feeling of belonging.

RELIGIOUS VIEWS AND REVIEWS . . .

A New Purpose In Life

By Brooks Hudson

The last rays of the sunset began to fade from the hills, and the birds of the night echoed their haunting cries from the trees in the valley. An owl sent out its clarion, and far away another answered. All seemed to be still.

The scarlet-cloaked soldier stood alone, gazing on the panorama below. Behind him a small fire cast flickering shadows on the small bushes around and illuminated the base of the wooden shaft.

Junius, the soldier, kept shifting his eyes back and forth at the pillar of wood. It was an instrument of death, the Roman machine of crucifixion, a punishment meted only to traitors and common criminals. And the man on the cross was a "traitor."

As a good soldier, Junius did not question the word of his superiors, but this word "traitor" hardly seemed to fit this man. He had heard him once or twice, along the shore of the Sea of Galilee where his legion, the tenth, often bivouacked for the night. He seemed to be harmless, in fact interesting, even if he did picture the Divinity in a different way from the priests of Apollo. The way he did it was deeper, it seemed to carry a depth that no one could quite fathom, yet it was so simple. Certainly what he said was not treason, a little disturbing, perhaps, but not a crime me!"

against the state.

A rumble of thunder crept across the sky, forewarning the rain that began then to fall. The man on the cross streamed water from his clothes, and his long brown hair dropped sadly into his face. As Junius watched the rain fall, it seemed almost as if the man were weeping, weeping over the actions of his friends.

A strange feeling began to flow over Junius. He felt as if some of the responsibility for their actions were resting on him. He felt as if he had a new purpose in life. He felt that a new light was coming down from the streaming heavens into his life.

He turned and looked down the hill again. The rain was slowing, and the mist was settling in between the trees in the vale. It would be a good morning, a bright morning, a brighter morning than he had ever seen.

An old man from the hill country took his first trip to a large city. Walking into one of the skyscrapers, he observed a doorman standing by a special kind of door. An old lady stepped in; a light flashed red, and she was gone. A moment later the elevator descended, the door opened and out stepped a beautiful young girl.

"Begorra," exclaimed the old man, blinking his eyes, "I should have brought the old woman with me!"

Varied Athletic Program Offered

By Dannie Anderson

Millsaps offers one of the most varied athletic programs of any college or university in the country. In addition to six varsity sports, five sports are played by the intramural league composed of eight teams: the four Greek letter fraternities, one independent group, ministerial league, boys living in the gym, and one group at large.

Six teams participate in the girls intramurals: four sororities, one independent group, and one at large, playing four sports: badminton, volleyball, softball, and basketball.

The boys intramural league plays Speed ball, a modified touch football, Basketball, Softball, Tennis, and Golf.

C. M. (Sammy) Bartling is head of the athletic program at Millsaps, being ably assisted by Erm Smith, who coaches varsity basketball and assists in football and baseball. Tennis is coached by Dr. M. C. White, head of the English department. Golf and Track are played on alternate years.

The intramural league is governed entirely by a council made up of one representative from each group.

Millsaps consistently turns out top-notch teams. The highlight of the year is the annual Mississippi College-Millsaps football game with the Millsaps' sword and MC tomahawk going to the victor.

Scholarships are available to athletes on grades and mental ability.

Foot's Prints

By Gilfoyle

To all of you who feel that Foot's Prints is slanderous, cruel, back biting, vicious, not humorous, and a waste of my time and yours, let me say, dearly beloved, that I write only what I think is true tinged with as little prejudice as possible. Let me also remind you that "he who is offended, is often guilty."

To appease those who feel that I have a slight advantage 'cause I write the column, allow me to aver that:

Karen ("I sing better than most anybody and I know because my Mother told me so.") Gilfoyle is the monster seen looming 2 feet above the heads of everyone else and drawing pathetic laughter from all who know her while believing them to think her humorous. Satisfied?

Why is it that with a grand total of 642 hymns to choose from, we find it necessary to sing number 279 ("God of grace, etc. . . .") every Thursday? Also, why is it that we have only 12 chairs to seat 16 people at the tables in the grill?

The Variety show was pretty good but a startling absence of variety was noticeable. Seems to me it should have been dubbed The All Night Musical Endurance Stand. Oh, well. It did make some moola.

The "Mawk" convention plans are really snowballing. Anne ("Don't call me that name!") Myers has been in a conventional dither the last few days. By the way, who told Charles ("I might be married but I ain't dead!") Deaton he could be Adlai?

Hazel (Prob'lly So) Truluck has a new "suicide" hairdo. I call it that 'cause it's dyed by her own hand.

Now hear this—

"Be not discouraged,
Be not dismayed,
I'll get 'ya next week
If you don't behave."

Beth O'Neil is the new Pike "Boll Weevil."

Faithfully heeding my plea for someone to do something "rowdy," Nancy Neyman pledged Kappa Delta. You, Nancy, are most accommodating and I extend a hearty congratulations to you.

Aden bought a bathing suit, The latest style, no doubt. And when she got inside it She was more than halfway out.

A warm and cheery "welcome" to all you high school visitors. Hope to see you around the campus as a full fledged student next year.

And so—until next Friday . . . "Here's to you as good as you are. Here's to me as bad as I am. But as good as you are, and as bad as I am,

I'm as good as you are . . . bad as I am!"

"Whistling Dick"

Many wars have produced famous weapons. World War I gave us "Big Bertha." World War II made the German 88's the most talked about cannon of the war. The seige of Vicksburg in the American Civil War put "Whistling Dick" in the history books. This weapon graced the bluffs of Vicksburg throughout the whole campaign.

"Whistling Dick" won the respect of the Union Army and Navy, who fought beneath the bluffs there. In late June, 1863, the iron-clad "Cincinnati" attempted to silence the batteries on famous Fort Hill. The "Cincinnati" carried 14 heavy guns. "Dick" had been firing from a position where Tumminello's Restaurant is located today but had been moved to Fort Hill. The iron-clad approached the battery, and shots were exchanged. The "Cincinnati" fired a broadside, turned around and fired another. The shrill scream of "Whistling Dick" echoed from the bluffs. One of her 18 pound projectiles tore into the iron-clad below her water-line, missing the 2 1/2 inch armor plate. It was a crippling blow. More shots from "Dick" and her associates on the bluff carried away the bridge and the captain of the "Cincinnati." The ship drifted to the Mississippi side of the river and grounded. She was a sitting duck. In a scant forty-five minutes, an iron-clad of the first class had been turned into a pile of junk. Her surviving crew members (14 had drowned when she sank) either escaped or were captured.

There are various opinions as to why "Whistling Dick" whistled. Some authorities say the copper rotating studs on the projectile caused it as the shell spun through the air. But another theory seems more accurate. While firing one day, the gun's barrel cracked at the muzzle. Why? Perhaps the charge was too heavy, or the powder was inferior and burned too slow. At any rate, the barrel was shortened, the cracked part of the muzzle being cut off. The experts say this shortened barrel caused the projectile not to get a sufficient amount of twist and as the shell turned and wavered in the air, it gave off a shrill whistle.

When the seige was over, the gun fell into the hands of the Union Army. Our story should be finished, but it isn't . . .

"Whistling Dick" is in the news again. Officials at the Vicksburg National Park have been trying to get the gun from West Point Military Academy which claims to have it in their famous collection of cannon. But now there is a dispute over the authenticity of West Point's cannon. Let's look at the dispute.

West Point's gun is a Blakeley, made by the Low Moor Iron Works in England. It has twelve rifles in the barrel. (Rifles are grooves cut in the inside of the barrel causing the projectile to spin, thus giving it longer range and more accuracy.) A contemporary Confederate observer noted the "Whistling Dick" was an 8 inch Brooks cannon. But that's not all. Another authority, Clayton C. Lasater of Vicksburg, says that "Dick" was originally a smooth (See WHISTLING DICK, p. 10)

Since Thad Leggett has gone out for football, "I Wanna Be a Football Hero" is currently number one on his hit parade. So, girls, you can put this down in your little black books (you boys didn't know we had them too, did you?) and file for future reference until next year when football season opens. This is not a paid advertisement; in fact, I'll probably be scalped.

And speaking of scalps, a certain person is certainly after mine; so vengefully after it, that I hate to adorn my column with his name again. But surely you know who it is, and he did get a date. So finis is penned to the problem of a college man in getting a date chapter in the life of D. P. (and I don't think it stands for displaced person!)

David Franks and Teenie Underhill are stirring up stiff competition for the Arthur Murray and Fred Astaire dancing establishments; they were drafted last week to give instructions in the art of ballroom dancing to a group of junior high school students; rather ironical, ain't it? . . . the daughter of a Methodist minister and the son of an Episcopalian rector teaching dancing to . . . ah, but it might cause a scandal!

Love's Labour's Not Lost: William "I Was Master of Ceremonies at the Variety Show" Jeanes and Peggy Perry got ringed, in absentia, you might say, for William's ring went back to Eaves' of New York in the pocket of the costume he wore in Cyrano. Better check that story, Peggy . . . I heard there's a cute Yankee girl working behind the counter up there!

After many months of courting, Ed Sallis finally wooed Mitzi Shelton into wearing his pin. And with the ringing of Brack Lange and Jane McInvale, it would seem that the Pikes had a heyday this past weekend. What did they have in the refreshments at the intermission party?

I know that the males in The Rainmaker have to let their hair grow for the play, but David, when you get yours sheared, you can sell it to the Revlon company. (Lanolin comes from sheep's wool!)

Wear your brightest (if you smoke it's impossible, so don't even try) toothpaste smile and memorize the propaganda to indoctrinate the visitors tomorrow. Come into the parlor, said the spider, etc.

Beth O'Neil Selected Pike Cotton Queen

Beth O'Neil was crowned queen of the Pi Kappa Alpha Cotton Ball which was held at the Coronet Room of the Edwards Hotel, Saturday night, March 10. The decorative theme was the "Pi Kappa Alpha Garden of Dreams."

The theme was carried out with bamboo trellises intertwined with ivy and camellias. From the ceiling hung baskets of flowers. For the coronation the members of the fraternity formed a diamond into which entered the maids: Clara Parks Booth, escorted by Murray Pinkston; June Stellwagon, escorted by Charles Catledge; Mitzi Shelton, escorted by Ed Sallis; Claudette Westerfield, escorted by Fred Williams. Each of the maids carried bouquets of yellow roses and were presented trophies.

Miss O'Neil carried a bouquet of red roses and was escorted by Albert Williamson. The queen was crowned by the 1955 Cotton Ball Queen, Rosemary Williams, whose escort was Bill Lampton. Music for dancing was provided by the Statesmen of Mississippi State College.

Following the dance a midnight supper was served at the fraternity house. The house was decorated with flowers of garnet and gold.

The members and their dates were:

Bobby Smith and Myna Bain; Walter Ely and Mary Frances Pleasants; Ed Upton and Nancy Crawford; Nick Greener and Ann Dillard; William Jeanes and Peggy Perry; Johnny Turner and Barbara Ann Thomas; Barry Stewart and Jerre Gee; John Hancock and Sallie Ann Dement; John Calvin Philley and Lillian Starnes; Russell Stovall and Mary Charles Price; Fred Abraham and Beth Brandon; Jack Pool and Margaret Breithaupt; Jerry Mizell and Clara Smith; Stewart Gammill and Ruth Wallace; Clifford Rigby and Patti Bradley; Walley Conerly and Frances Bryan; Read Jones and Yvonne Moss; Bob Adams and Betty Miller; Don Lisle and Elizabeth Ann Clark; John McEachin and Sylvia Stevens; Billy Kerr and Susan Young; Hal Miller and Wendy Olmstead; Brack Lange and Jane McInvale; Jess Brasher and Barbara Puckett; Eddie Williams and Susan Wheeless; Joe Hinds and Sally Williams; Virgil Moore and Sarah Jones; Oscar Dowdle and Jane Fatheree; Kermit Scott and Aadron Moss; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Loflin; Jonah Ford and Martina Riley; Marlin Grimes and Judy Forbes; Lee Hyman and Sarah Janis Black; Clifton Ware and Lynette Garst; Will Noblin and Ann Pitts; Robert Mims and Sandra Bryan; Clyde Whitaker and Sallie Ann Boyles; Jimmie Griffis and Barbara Smith; Dick Blount and Mary Ruth Brasher; Ed Stewart and Libby Smith; Bill Hardin and Ginger Byrd; James McQueen and Jo Ann Brenke; Darby Gilmer and Pat Hillman; Hugh Johnston and Nena Doiron; John Evans and Elwyn Addkison; Bob Lampert and Sue McDavid; Byrd Hillman and Linda Noble; Lacey Causey and Carolyn Allen; Terry Fincher and Harriet Clark; Buddy Dodson and Elizabeth Majors; James Gordon and Jo Jeff Ford; Lloyd Fortenberry and Libby Boyd.

Social Organizations Enrich Life For Students At Millsaps

SORORITIES

Millsaps' social organizations strive for high ideals and make a valuable contribution to the college and the individual in teaching students to live together. Here is a brief survey of the coed Greek-Letter organizations and independent group.

Beta Sigma Omicron

The Beta Sigma Omicron Sorority (better known as the Beta Sigs or the BSO's) was founded nationally at the University of Missouri in 1888 and locally in 1926. Claudette Westerfield of Mendenhall is presently serving as president. The BSO chief for next year is yet to be elected.

The BSO colors are ruby and pink and their flower is the red rose. They are known for their Ruby and Pink Ball each year where the outstanding senior member of their chapter is chosen as "Pink Lady." A tea for high school seniors is another annual spring event.

Phi Mu

Phi Mu Sorority, nationally founded at Wesleyan College in 1852, is the second oldest national sorority and was the first national sorority on the Millsaps campus.

The Phi Mu flower is the Enchantress Carnation, and their colors are rose and white. Annual events are the tea for high school seniors and the buffet suppers for each of the fraternities. Also, they give an annual Enchantress Ball in the spring to which the entire campus is invited.

At their white bungalow on North President extension Teenie Underhill of Memphis raps the gavel.

Chi Omega

The Chi Omega Sorority, founded at the University of Arkansas in 1895, has been on the campus since 1934. The Chi O house is set back from the North President Street extension. Here actives and pledges meet twice each month for house suppers. Alice Starnes of Utica serves as president of the group.

The Chi O colors are cardinal and straw, and their flower is the white carnation. Annual events are the Chi Omega Song Fest and the garden party for high school seniors.

Kappa Delta

Established at Millsaps in 1914, Kappa Delta Sorority originated at Virginia State Normal College in 1897. The KD's apartment is located on the campus. Leading this group is Marilyn Wood of Tupelo.

The KD's colors are green and white, and their flower is the white rose. Monthly house suppers are held, and an annual tea is given to honor high school seniors. A White Rose Ball highlights the KD calendar.

Vikings

The Vikings is the women's independent social organization on our campus. Their "Viking Den" is located on the ground floor of Founders Hall.

Beta Sigma Omicron

The girls meet for singing, fellowship, and den suppers. During the year they give numerous parties for themselves and their dates.

Blue and white are the Vikings colors, and their flower is the white carnations. Eugenia Kelly of Forest serves as president.

FRATERNITIES

A variety of social organizations is offered to the men students of Millsaps College. Four Greek-letter fraternities and one independent group make vital contributions to campus life and to individuals.

Following is an "ink-sketch" of each of these organizations.

Kappa Alpha

The organization of Kappa Alpha Fraternity on this campus dates back to the founding of the college. Nationally the KA's were founded at Washington and Lee in 1865. Graham Hales of Jackson is president of the local chapter.

The KA's celebrate all things pertaining to the South. They give their annual Black and White Ball right before the Christmas holidays. Also they sponsor an annual party for orphans.

Kappa Sigma

Newt Harrison rules the roost of the Kappa Sig House, located on North West Street.

Kappa Sigma Fraternity was founded nationally at the University of Virginia in 1869 and on our campus in 1895.

The Kappa Sig Barn Dance is an annual event for the whole campus on graduation night.

Lambda Chi Alpha

Established at Millsaps in 1924, Lambda Chi Alpha originated at Boston College in 1909. Its members are more often referred to as the Lambda Chi's. Fraternity Row on Marshall Street is the location of their home, where Bobby Tullos of Louisville leads the group.

Their main social event is the Crescent Ball. At this time they announce the Lambda Chi Crescent Girl.

Pi Kappa Alpha

Hugh Johnston of Vicksburg leads the Pikes, who also live on Marshall Street. Pi Kappa Alpha was founded nationally at the

Kappa Alpha Had Redneck Party

Kappa Alpha Order set the woods on fire Friday night with a Redneck Party at Terry Hayward's lodge. Music, furnished by Stuart Robinson, Bill Tull, Breck King, David Franks, and Spud Hollowell, was of a rural nature. Sonny Ferguson emceed the shindig.

The party was highlighted by the traditional passing down of the No. 1's ring from Burton Jackson to Graham Hales. This ring was presented to the chapter 51 years ago by Dr. Carter O'Ferrall. Other K. A. officers were also announced at the party.

Attending the party were: Joe Toler, Betty Furness; Breck King, Sissy Graham; Reynolds Cheney, Margaret Lilly; Leslie Shelton, Sarah Jones; Graham Hales, Barbara Ann Thomas; Bill McKell, Jane Fatheree; David Franks, Tennie Underhill.

Burton Jackson, Hazel Truluck; George Armstrong, Nina Doiron; Bob Abney, Jimmie Methvin; Dick Brown, Blythe Jeffrey; Tommie Fanning, Ruth Land; Leo Farmer, Linda Carruth; Chick Flournoy, Beth Brandon.

Terry Hayward, Sally Ann Dement; Doug Lay, Margaret Miller; Thad Leggett, Patricia Smith; Mac McCarty, Claudette Hall; Max McDaniels, Sandra Miller; Hamp Miller, Mary Edith Yarbrough; Harry Mills, Jo-Ann Brennen.

Norsemen Initiated 3; Observed Founders Day

Norsemen I. S. A. have recently held initiation and founders day. There were three initiates; Joe Cowart, Lucedale, Miss., Ray Screws, Holly Bluff, Miss., and Bill MacDonald, Chicago Heights, Ill. Joe Cowart was the Honor Pledge.

Also, two pledges were added, Inge Halbert, Caledonia, Miss., and Douglas Campbell, Bolton, Miss.

Founders day began with a program, with Dr. Harry Manley addressing the group, and was followed with a dinner at Primos, in honor of the initiates.

Graham Hales Is New Kappa Alpha President

Graham Hales was announced as Kappa Alpha's No. I at the party Friday night. Hales, a junior transfer from the University of Virginia, succeeds Burton Jackson as Alpha Mu's No. I. Reynolds Cheney was named No. II and Leslie Shelton No. III.

Other officers are Bobby Smith, No. IV; Thad Leggett, No. V; Summer Walters, No. VI; George Armstrong, No. VII; Max McDaniels, No. VIII; and James Walton, No. IX.

Lewis Lord was appointed as an assistant to Smith to handle K.A. publications. Jon Ed Williams was named to assist Walters with the chapter's finances. Hales appointed Harry Blair as rush chairman.

Students Must Take Mock Convention Responsibilities

by ANNE MYERS

Above the din of rabble rousing, the shouts of "Positive Foreign Policy! Flexible Price Supports! Statehood for Alaska!" the low incessant murmur indicative of some fast vote-swapping in some shady backroom deals,—the plaintive voice of Joe College, typical Millsaps pre-med student, permanent resident of Sullivan-Harrell Science Hall, oblivious of world affairs beyond the confines of his narrow test tube,—cries out in distress. "WHAT IS IT?" says he. It is assumed that the indefinite pronoun "IT" refers to the Mock National Democratic Nominating Convention. Cognizant of his perplexing situation, we dedicate this article to Joe College and all his kind.

To begin with—you, Joe College, are a delegate to a Convention of the Democratic Party whose purpose is to designate its nominees for President and Vice President in the 1956 Presidential election. In addition, this gathering will formulate a party platform to serve as the basis for the coming campaign. You are also a member of a smaller body—a state delegation. And that's where your work begins. Between now and Convention time most of the action will generate from and be directed by the individual delegations. As a member of one of these wellsprings of activity, you will do two things: 1. Decide within your group which national candidate you intend to nominate or will be supporting in the initial balloting. 2. Decide on which planks you are interested in seeing incorporated into the Convention platform and instruct your representative to the Resolutions (Platform) Committee accordingly.

In the remaining weeks before the fall of the gavel signifies the opening of Convention, four or five public meetings will be held, at which time, authorities will speak to the delegates on specific planks under consideration for incorporation in the platform.

The final platform that is drafted by the Resolutions Committee will be submitted for approval to the Convention in its second session along with a majority and minority report. Debate by the delegates will ensue, and ratification of the platform as submitted or amended is scheduled to come in the third session.

In these two ways, then, you will participate in pre-Convention activity within your delegation—by determining the candidate your group intends to support and by maneuvering to see that the planks which you sanction are incorporated in the platform. It might be suggested that with regard to the former, the delegation's personal opinions should be reflected, while in the latter, the interests of the state which you represent should be taken into consideration.

The other major realm of pre-Convention activity will take the form of the actual campaigns of the five major candidates. In this activity state delegation division lines will be crossed, with delegations as a whole or individual delegates supporting the "man of their choice." "Spontaneity" is the password into "Campaign Land." Soon the managers of these respective candidates will be going "full steam ahead."

It's up to you, Joe College, to see that the campaign for your candidate begins to snowball!

KD's And LXA's Announce Pledges

Marilyn Wood, president of Kappa Delta Sorority, has announced the pledging of Nancy Neyman, freshman from Greenville.

The Lambda Chis pledged eleven men this week; Bill Satterfield, John Drysdale, Palmer Manning, James Ingram, Jim Hays, Keith Tonkel, Joe Potero, John Ed Thomas, Nick Nicholson, Tex Sample, and Freddy Jabour.

Chi O Song Fest Scheduled For May

"O soul of me-o!" It's that time again. Soon the undiscovered Tibaldis and imitators of Billy Kerr will begin tuning up the vocal cords to vie for the cups which will be presented in May at the Song Fest.

Last year's winners who live at the BSO and Lambda Chi houses respectively, will be strong contenders for the trophies which now adorn their mantels.

Grab some music and start gargling, and save a half dollar to get all the monotones in your group in the movie and pray for everyone else to catch laryngitis. You may be the lucky ones this time and, after all, another trophy in your house never hurt anyone.

"What stops most people from buying a color TV set is seeing the black and white price tag."

"Sure, I wanna sell the horse," the farmer replied.

"Can he run?"

"Why, shore. Watch."

The farmer reached over and slapped the horse, and the animal

Seniors, Consider This

High school seniors, you are welcome at Millsaps. Our college is on display, with many of its facets laid open to your inspection and judgment. You will see many of the tangible aspects of campus life, the mechanics of the different educational departments, the pride of the college in its faculty and staff, its equipment and physical properties, its plans for expansion and its comprehensive appeal. But the real treasure of Millsaps College, the genuine value which we cannot label and put on a table or in a glass case, is the aspect we as students respect and guard most jealously. It is the aim of the college to teach us to think for ourselves.

Challenge is a much over-used word in speaking of college educations. If we stop to consider, life itself is an ever present challenge; but what good is a challenge if it cannot be answered and exploited fully? The challenge of life is not being answered and exploited fully by a man who is content to be a salesman, when he could be a supervisor, or in more general terms, the man who is mediocre, when he possesses qualities of greatness.

Millsaps college is an institution whose express goal is to awaken the ambitious best in its students. It achieves its goal through its superior instructors and integrated program of sports and other extra-curricular activities.

Concerning small colleges, a friend of ours said recently, "Mr. Average Guy goes off to big State U. where there's no endowment problem, where the administration is a pretty smooth functioning thorough operation, he hops on the educational conveyor belt, passes through the halls of learning and the prescribed course of study, and comes out 4 years later an educated man. In the small college the student might have to climb down off that conveyor belt, every now and then, and actually get an opportunity to tinker with the machinery that keeps it going in its sometimes uncertain way. He is an integral part of the college community."

Millsaps is a small college, and perhaps its size will always be restricted to keep the individual in the right perspective. Here, the student is more than just a name on the roll, more than just a body to fill a certain chair in class. The Millsaps student is a personality, a complex of attributes in whom the professors are vitally interested.

In class at Millsaps, the influence of the individual student is felt as he expands his knowledge in an atmosphere of personal intellectual relationships.

Indeed, Millsaps is a proving ground for the development of the individuality necessary for leadership in an increasingly competitive society.

WHISTLING DICK—

(Continued from page 6) bore and was rifled during the war. He says the gun did not have 12 rifles, but only one full groove and one half groove. Wait, there's more. One source says the 1st Louisiana Artillery had the gun. Another says the 1st Tennessee Artillery had the gun. The 1st Louisiana never was placed on Fort Hill.

At any rate we seem to have the makings of a full scale hot debate on the subject. West Point is now trying to finish a history of the gun which will hold up their side of the argument.

Whether they find the right gun or not doesn't matter to the men who faced and fired her. "Whistling Dick" was there when she was needed. Union troops who faced "Dick" and his associates at Fort Hill changed the bluff's name to "Fort Hell." The people of Vicksburg were only grateful to have a friend like Whistling Dick. Perhaps they wished they had more like her . . .

Clerk: "Where to?"

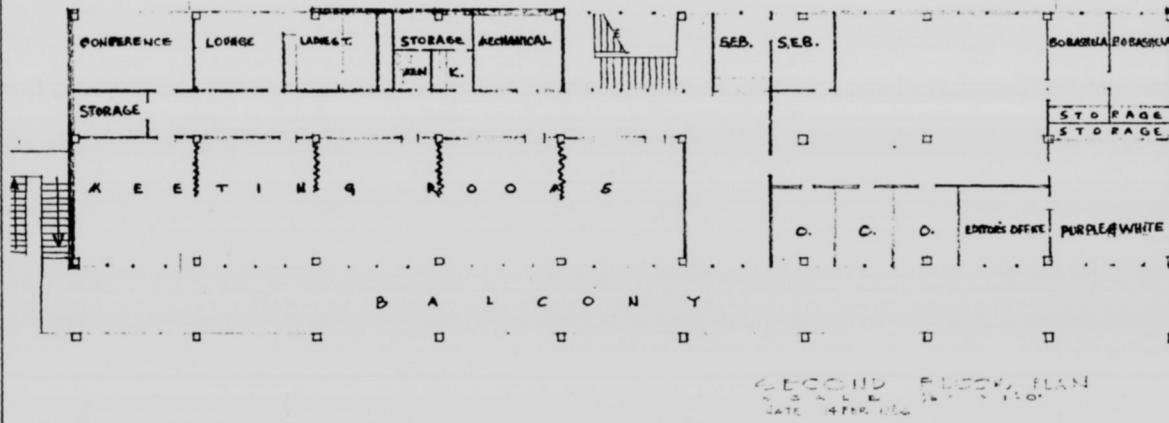

Student: "Back here, you fool!"

SOCIAL GROUPS—

University of Virginia in 1868 and locally in 1903.

The local chapter often sponsors charity projects. One year they adopted a war orphan. The Pike annual Cotton Ball is highlighted by the presentation of their queen, selected by a national personality, and her four maids.

Norsemen

Founded at Millsaps nine years ago, the Norsemen is a well established organization for independent men students. Its members enjoy many informal parties for themselves and their dates, as well as their annual Blue and Gold Ball.

Brooks Hudson of Shubuta serves as president.

The first thing that you should understand about social organizations here at Millsaps is that your success or failure as a student depends upon you, yourself, and not the social organization to which you do or don't belong.

Millsaps' social organizations play an important part in campus life and make a valuable contribution to the college and individual in teaching students to live together.

There are four fraternities, four sororities, and two independent groups at Millsaps. The fraternities and sororities are all members of well established national Greek Letter organizations. The independent groups are members of the National Independent Student Association.

Public Relations Directors Attend College Day Programs

J. J. Livesay, director of Public Relations at Millsaps college, and Mrs. Tom Boone, assistant director, attended College Day programs in Cleveland, Canton and Tupelo last week. These programs are student recruiting activities. Other trips scheduled this spring are to Moss Point, Pascagoula, Brandon and Natchez.

Chapel will be Tuesday, March 27, rather than Thursday, March 29, because of the AED convention's use of the auditorium on Thursday.

Statham

Contrary to the belief of many people, the President and Vice-president of the United States are elected by the electoral college and not by popular vote.

Article II of the Constitution, as modified by the Twelfth Amendment, established this election procedure. While the principle is basically sound, a brief examination of the status quo illustrates the necessity of revision.

The outstanding defect is the fact that the candidate who receives a plurality of a state's popular vote receives ALL of that state's electoral vote. Thus it is possible to elect a candidate who has not received a majority of the national popular vote. Lincoln in 1860 and Wilson in 1912 were elected under such conditions. Statistically speaking, in 1952 President Eisenhower polled thirty-four million popular votes to Mr. Stevenson's twenty-seven million, yet Eisenhower received 442 electoral votes to only eighty-nine for Stevenson. These figures are proof that the individual vote is not truly reflected in the electoral college.

Three proposals are now before Congress which would modify or change this system. Of these amendments, the Coudert-Mundt plan appears to be the best, for it would provide for one elector from each Congressional district within a state plus two electors from the state at large. If passed this amendment would preserve the electoral college, strengthen our federal system by incorporating the basic representatives' constituencies, and prevent heavily populated areas from controlling the national election.

It would be well within the interest of each voter to urge the passage of this amendment.

Individuals who live within democratic rule often fail to realize and appreciate the freedom of democratic government. However, when conditions and methods of operation within a totalitarian or dictatorial government are revealed, the values of democracy are clearly illustrated. Such is the case of Soviet Communist Party leader Nikita S. Khrushchev's recent attacks on former Premier Joseph Stalin.

In a speech to the Twentieth All Party Congress, Khrushchev made known the ruthless and tyrannical purges of Stalin; undoubtedly many of these accusations are true. What is ironical, however, is the fact that Khrushchev is actually employing the same methods which Stalin used to firmly establish himself. He is, in effect, condemning his own actions. Stalin, in his early years of power, removed Trotsky from the list of national heroes, just as Khrushchev is now removing Winners of the P. T. A. District hundred dollar scholarships are: Curtis Carson Holloman, Jr., Batesville; John Allen Lampkin, Baldwyn; Sara Margaret Yarbrough, Indianola; Danice Brewer, Greenwood, who tied in this district with Wanda Faye Wenger, Grenada; Rebecca Ann Turner, Houlka; Rebecca Jewel Taylor, Starkville; George Druden Gibbs, Jr., Yazoo City; Patricia Ann Lightsey, DeKalb; Charles Allen Bugg, Madison; Paula Blount Montgomery, Laurel; David Humphreys Moreau, Natchez; Charles Michael Rueff, Jr., McComb; Clyde Augustus Hatchell, Jr., Columbia; Rebecca La Marr McMichael, Gulfport.

Kansas Wesleyan Choir To Sing At Galloway

The Philharmonic Choir of Kansas Wesleyan University, Salina, Kansas, will present a concert at Galloway Memorial Methodist Church on April 4 at 7:30 p. m. Directed by Professor George C. Brown, the Philharmonic Choir sings beautiful Bach renditions, American folk songs, and its own arrangements of favorite hymns. Audiences in every section of the United States have acclaimed these choral presentations.

Rev. Crouch Spoke At BSU Banquet

The BSU held its annual banquet at the First Baptist Church, March 12 with the Rev. W. H. Crouch of Northside Baptist Church as feature speaker. Rev. Crouch's theme was "M.S." or "Master of Situation Degree." Graham Hales, President of BSU, gave the invocation, and Howard Jones presided as Master of Ceremonies.

Dr. Youmans Will Speak At National AED Convention

On March 29, 30, and 31, Millsaps will be host to the Eleventh National Convention of Alpha Epsilon Delta, national premedical honor society. As the site of this event, Millsaps joins such noted institutions as the University of Alabama, Indiana University, and other nationally prominent universities. Chairman of arrangements for the meeting is Dr. J. B. Price, Head of the Chemistry Department and National Vice-President of AED. This year marks the thirtieth year of service to premedical and pre dental students by Alpha Epsilon Delta.

Many outstanding figures in medicine and medical and premedical education will be in Jackson for the meeting. Dr. Jack Montgomery, founder of AED at the University of Alabama in 1926, along with Dr. Emmett Carmichael, past National President of the society, will be among the distinctive personages associated with the growth of AED into a national organization of 66 chapters. Dr. John B. Youmans, Dean of the Vanderbilt University School of Medicine and President-elect of the American Association of Medical Colleges, is the featured speaker for the convention. National officers to be in attendance are Dr. Lloyd R. Gribble, National President from the University of West Virginia; Dr. J. B. Price; Dr. M. L. Moore, National Secretary from Bronxville, N. Y.; Dr. Norman Witt, National Treasurer from the University of Colorado; Dr. John A. Fincher, National Counselor from Harvard College and a former member of the Millsaps faculty.

Dr. H. E. Finger, Jr. will be official college host for the meeting, and Dr. James S. Ferguson and Dr. F. W. James, along with Dr. Price, will appear on the Saturday program, which will be a Conference on Premedical and Pre dental Education. All Millsaps premeds

NOTICE TO ALL STUDENTS STUDYING APPLIED MUSIC

President Finger and Dean Ferguson wish to meet with all Millsaps College students currently studying applied music on Tuesday, March 27, at 4:00 p.m. in the Forum Room of the Millsaps-Wilson Library. The purpose of the meeting is to provide an opportunity for full consideration of any problem concerned with music courses, instructors, program, etc.

Dr. Sells Spoke Wednesday Night

Dr. James W. Sells, Executive Secretary of the Southeastern Jurisdiction of the Methodist church, spoke Wednesday night in Fitzhugh Chapel on "Church-related Vocations."

Sponsored by the Jackson MSM, the meeting was attended by students from Belhaven, Mississippi College, Hinds, Holmes, East Central Junior College, and Millsaps. The Millsaps Wesley Fellowship served as host group.

Dr. Sells' talk was an effort to recruit full time workers into the service of the Methodist church. He presented the need for choir directors, missionaries, college administrators, public relations personnel, ministers, directors of religious education, Wesley Foundation Directors, and many others.

Dr. Sells has done outstanding work with the National Council of Churches. At present he works with the Radio and Film Commission of the Methodist church.

Trivia: a school eclogue: I'm so tired; but it gratifies me to even suspect that misery has company. My ravelled sleeve of care is completely unknit, and I could use some balm for my sore mind. Somebody said you can get it at Gilead's.

Helen Dall Barnes and Brooks Hudson are making it more serious. They got pinned last week, but not in time to hit the ole column. ATTENTION: Anyone planning to get pinned, or otherwise romantically entangled, please send a courier at once with news of the coming event so it can make the Tuesday deadline and not be stale by the time it is burned on the altar of love in my column. Maybe I can even scoop the recipient.

Lillian Presley and Jane Travis were pledged by BSO Tuesday: congratulations, girls.

News, in the form of Martina Riley, just strolled in with the revelation that Betty Barfield and Summer Walters were pinned Friday night. Also, (the following hasn't been verified) I heard that Sara Janice Black and Lea Hyman are engaged. If this is a falsehood, please do something about it. It's a good idea anyway, even if it does turn out to be a myth!

You know, if I sit here long enough, I hear more things! Somebody just asked if I had disclosed a certain ringing. I said no, and was then asked to withhold the information because her mother doesn't know yet. Hurry up and tell her, please, or she might find out the hard way.

Lady Betty Anthony was the lovely hostess for the cast party after the play Saturday night. The herd gathered at the Phi Mu house, or as Shirley Brown calls it, the Alpha Psi house, for eats and goodies. Lovely pink camelias (pronounced "camellias" by A Star is Born Coleman) were presented by lovely Lady Anthony to the ladies, clad casually in Bermudas, who followed Hazel's lead in placing the stems daintily through pierced ears, achieving the Mozambique look. Mr. Lance Goss received the door prize.

Major Major:

Shirley Stanton Is Chosen Personality Of The Week

Selected as Major Major this week is one of Millsaps' most vivacious personalities, Shirley Stanton. Shirley is from Greenville, and is graduating in May with a major in Spanish. From the very beginning of her college career, she was an outstanding asset to the campus. Her freshman year, Shirley was chosen as model pledge of Chi Omega and followed up that honor by being Most Outstanding Sophomore of Chi O. Continuing to be active in her sorority, she finally achieved the position of pledge trainer last semester.

Shirley made her debut in 1953 in the Delta Debutante Club at Greenville. President of Chi Delta, literary honorary, is one of Shirley's many responsibilities. She is a member of the Majorette Club and Sigma Lambda. She has served on the Purple and White as News Editor and Managing Editor, served as Feature Editor of the Bobashela, and worked on players. Her name is a regular on the Dean's List.

Proof of her love for swimming is shown by the state diving championship she walked (or swam) away with. The thing she will remember most about Millsaps is her past pledge class. Shirley will go on to graduate school and then will add a gold band to the sparkling diamond on her left hand.

MILLSAPS COLLEGE, JACKSON, MISS., APRIL 13, 1956

news analysis

by

Alfred Statham

The first legislative session of Governor J. P. Coleman's administration has adjourned after one of the shortest periods our law-makers have ever spent in the Capitol. A total of five hundred and three laws were enacted, and forty-one more bills were passed by the legislature but vetoed by Governor Coleman.

The session was unusual in several aspects: Speaker Walter Sillers had rather formidable opposition in retaining his powerful position; Coleman, as far as known, used the veto power more than any past governor; it is generally agreed that this session was one of the most harmonious meetings between and among the Legislature and the Governor in many years. Thus, many observers have advanced the opinion that this first regular session of the new term was one of the most successful meetings in Mississippi's history.

The success of a law-making body, however, must be determined by the merit of the legislation enacted; it therefore becomes necessary to evaluate the new laws.

Governor Coleman's most avowed platform plank was his pledge to maintain segregation of the races within the state. In order to accomplish this, a number of laws have been enacted. The State Sovereignty Commission was established and given strong powers; regrettably, the compulsory school attendance law was repealed, and a host of other measures enacted to prevent integration. A bill to remove Ad valorem tax exemption from integrated churches was killed. The introduction of such a measure was disgraceful, but we may be proud of its defeat.

The most important single pieces of legislation enacted were the bills strengthening the State Public Service Commission, the recall law for derelict local law enforcement officers, and a modified closed-range stock law. A myriad of less important laws were passed ranging from local and private bills to a well-deserved pay increase for state legislators.

Also a measure of legislative success are those laws which should have been enacted. In this category are measures which would: reapportion the state legislature, repeal the black market tax on liquor, revise the state tax structure, employ the use of voting machines, and eliminate the payment of salaries on a fee-basis to public officials.

Here are the apparent accomplishments and failures of the administration. The 1956 session was for the most part harmonious, but considerable discord appeared on occasions; its true, lasting success, however, remains to be seen.

Convention Opens Tuesday

Kefauver, The Democrat Who Can Win In 1956

Few men in public life today have so consistently and courageously fought for solutions of the great social, political and economic problems of our times as has Senator Estes Kefauver.

The tall Senator from Tennessee is a fighter who can't be intimidated—as evidenced by his forthright voting record as a member of the United States Congress over the past 17 years.

Although he had attained stature with thoughtful students of government through his ten years of solid accomplishment in the House, Estes Kefauver first came to national prominence in 1948 when he took on the formidable Crump political organization in Tennessee and ran for the United States Senate. He won the election—using a coonskin cap as a pioneering symbol of freedom from domination—and broke the hold of the Crump machine in the state.

After establishing a reputation as a liberal, hard-working member of the Senate, Estes Kefauver captured the imagination of the nation in 1950-51 when he conducted hearings of the Senate Committee to Investigate Organized Crime in Interstate Commerce throughout the country, exposing with tenacity and legal skill the influence which organized crime had come to exert in national and local affairs.

In terms of service to his party, Senator Kefauver more than any other legislator has drawn the vital lines between Democrats and Republicans over the past three years.

He spearheaded the investigation of the notorious Dixon-Yates deal this past year and was instrumental in the present Administration's reluctant voiding of that contract.

Throughout his career, he has persistently fought for measures designed to provide increased prosperity for the small business man and the small farmer and has long been an advocate of increased Federal aid to improve the nation's health and educational standards, as well as measures de-

ESTES KEFAUVER

William Winter To Give The Keynote Address

William F. Winter, newly appointed state tax collector, will be the keynote speaker for the Mock Democratic National Convention to be held April 17-19 at Millsaps College, it is announced by Dr. Harry S. Manley, professor of political science.

WILLIAM WINTER

Mr. Winter, who served in the House of Representatives until he resigned recently to become state tax collector, will deliver the keynote address Tuesday night, April 17.

The convention, the first of its kind to be held in the state, will duplicate the program and activities of the national Democratic convention. Six hundred Millsaps students will follow convention procedure to name a Democratic slate for the November presidential election.

A native of Grenada, Mr. Winter has been active in state politics since 1947, when he was elected to the House of Representatives. He is a graduate of the University of Mississippi and received a law degree from the University in 1949. A veteran of World War II and the Korean War, Mr. Winter served as legislative assistant to Senator John Stennis in 1950.

He is past president of the Mississippi Historical Society and a member of the Mississippi Historical Commission. During his student days at Ole Miss he was a campus leader. He was editor of the student newspaper and a member of the Hall of Fame; Omicron Delta Kappa, leadership fraternity; and Phi Delta Theta social fraternity. Mr. Winter is a member of the Rotary Club, the American Legion, and the Veterans of Foreign Wars and is an elder in the Presbyterian Church.

Buie Gymnasium on the Millsaps campus has been converted to convention hall and will be decorated in the style of the big national meetings. Student delegates will represent the wishes of each of the forty-eight states and five territories in adopting a platform and naming candidates.

The public is invited to attend the four sessions of the convention.

Stevenson Is The Greatest Riddle In American Politics

ADLAI STEVENSON

We are marked men, we Americans at the mid-century point. We have been tapped by fate—for which we should forever give thanks, not laments. What a day to live in! Who in heaven's name would want America less strong, less responsible for the future?

—Adlai E. Stevenson

Of all the riddles that make up American politics, the greatest today is Adlai Stevenson. He is a cautious man with great appeal in the expansive West; a spokesman for civil rights whom the South accepts as a friend; a conservative among Democrats who is the first choice of the trade unionists; the favorite of professional politicians who dislike the game of politics. Stevenson is complicated, aloof and physically unimposing; in no sense the traditional image of the successful politician. And yet he commands more loyalty and devotion than any man in our political life save one.

To these riddles there are, of course, answers. Westerners see Stevenson as a self-willed man, a respected figure in states notoriously free from party discipline. Southerners cast him in the Wilsonian tradition of the scholar in politics—one again which is their own. Trade unionists prefer to work with an established candidate rather than undergoing the expense, the labor and the risks of introducing a new man to the voters. As for the professional Democrats: "The time has passed."

Should Stevenson founder, he would probably throw his support to Harriman. This support, combined with Mr. Truman's backing, would make Harriman almost unstoppable but might alienate the South.

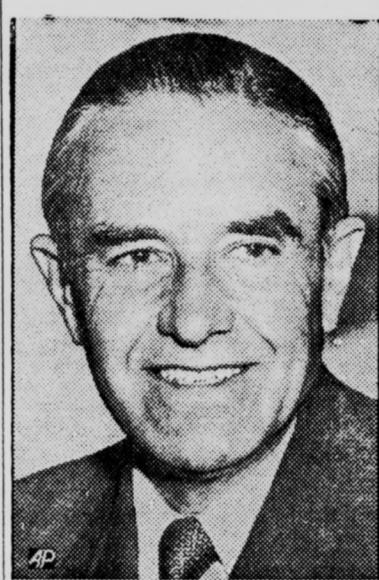

Submitted and Approved by Jon Ed Williams Campaign Mgr.

ed," says James Finnegan, Secretary of State of Pennsylvania, "when a precinct captain could swing his precinct by favors, or the force of his own personality. The people look at television now; they vote for the face they trust."

And, with some reservations, they trust Adlai Stevenson. The lifelong Democrat, the independent whose numbers grow each year, the indifferent who voted for Ike because it was time for a change, lean to Stevenson today, believing that as he went down in defeat in 1952, he raised new standards of excellence and honesty in American politics.

Now once again Stevenson is a candidate for the Presidency. His nomination by the Democratic Party is probable. That party retains its appeal to the majority of voters, and Stevenson has risen in stature since he polled 27 million (See STEVENSON—Pg. 5)

Harriman Is One of the Top Contenders For Nomination

W. AVERELL HARRIMAN

Out in front, along with Stevenson and Kefauver, is Averell Harriman, perhaps the richest man in politics. Harriman was born a Republican and remained one until 1928, when he supported Alfred E. Smith.

In the ensuing years, Harriman served as chief administrative officer of the depression-born National Recovery Administration, a close adviser to President Roosevelt, Ambassador to Russia, Ambassador to England, Secretary of Commerce, and Economic Cooperation chief. He attended virtually every important international conference in which the U. S. participated during the 1940's. In 1954 he confounded the experts by getting elected governor of New York.

Tentative Convention Rules Announced By Deaton

Charles Deaton, chairman of the Rules Committee for the Mock Political Convention, today made available for publication the rules which will be submitted for approval by the delegates at the first session of Convention. The following are the proposed rules and order of business of the convention:

Rule 1: Only students of Millsaps College are eligible to be delegates to the convention.

Rule 2: Only delegates may take part and hold offices in the convention.

Rule 3: During roll call balloting for President and Vice President, states shall be permitted to split their votes; but will be allowed only the total number of votes per state as set by the party. The right to vote shall be forfeited if the delegate is absent during roll call.

Rule 4: A candidate for President and Vice President must have a simple majority of the convention votes present to become the party's nominee in the November general election.

Rule 5: Upon all subjects before the convention the states shall be called in alphabetical order, and next, Alaska, the District of Columbia, Hawaii and Puerto Rico.

Rule 6: When a majority of the delegates of any five states shall demand that a vote be recorded the same shall be taken in the order herein before set forth.

Rule 7: In making nominations for President and Vice President in no case shall the Call of the Roll be dispensed with.

Rule 8: No state shall make a nomination for President or Vice President unless it has files with the Credentials Committee.

Rule 9: If it appears that no candidate has received the requisite number of votes, (as stated in Rule 4), the chairman shall direct that the vote shall be retaken and shall repeat the taking of the vote until a candidate shall have received the requisite number of votes.

Rule 10: In balloting, the vote of each delegation shall be announced by the chairman of the respective delegations, (someone appointed by him); and in case the vote of any delegation be divided, the chairman shall announce the number of votes for each candidate or for or against any proposition; but if exception is taken by any delegate to the correctness of such announcement by the chairman of his delegation, the chairman of the convention shall direct the roll of members of such delegation to be called and the results shall be recorded in accordance with the vote of the several delegates in such delegation.

Rule 11: The Rules of Parliamentary Procedure as amended July 1941, shall be the rules of this convention so far as they are applicable and not inconsistent with the rules herein set forth.

Rule 12: A proposed amendment to a pending measure shall be in order only when proposed by a minority group, consisting of 20% or more of the committee submitting the original report. If adopted, the amendment will be considered by committee submitting original report.

Rule 13: A motion to suspend the rules shall be in order only when made by authority of a majority of the delegates from any delegation and seconded by a majority of the delegates from not less than two other delegations. Two-thirds of convention votes present is needed to suspend the rules in question. Rule 14: No delegate shall speak more than twice upon the same question for longer than five minutes, except in presentation of the name of a candidate for nomination as President or Vice President. Debate shall be limited to fifteen minutes for each side. The nomination speech for Vice President shall be limited to ten minutes. There shall be only one seconding speech for each candidate and it shall be limited to five minutes.

Rule 15: Only the chairman of the convention may convene and adjourn the convention as agreed with by the executive committee and college authorities.

Rule 16: The convention shall continue in the following order of business:

First—Report of the committee on permanent organization.

Second—Report of rules committee.

KEFAUVER—

As part of his general economic philosophy he has been an outspoken champion of the Robinson-Patman Act, frequently referred to as the Magna Charter of Small Business.

In the field of international relations, Senator Kefauver favors an intelligently conceived and flexible foreign policy, aimed at promoting the best interests of this nation and achieving lasting peace backed up by an armed force strong enough to deter the ambitions of potential aggressors.

He advocates a generous policy of economic and technical aid for under-developed nations to assist them in withstanding Communist overtures and in achieving political democracy and economic prosperity. The author of several measures which have as their purpose the strengthening of Free World unity, he has traveled widely throughout the world—and behind the Iron Curtain—in order to obtain first-hand knowledge of conditions in areas where this nation has a life-or-death stake.

Senator Kefauver recently summed up his political philosophy in these words:

"I will strive in the future, as I have in the past, to advance the forward-looking progressive traditions of the Democratic party which characterized the administrations of Presidents Roosevelt and Truman.

"I will hope to aid in restoring an equitable relationship between industry, labor and agriculture. We must fight to restore farm income; we must re-examine our labor laws in the light of present conditions; and at the same time, we must maintain an atmosphere in which business—and particularly independent and small business—can prosper.

"Most important of all, we must

The Dark Horses

By Ann Myers

Speculation is running rampant within the ranks of the Democratic Party. It is now evident that the party of the donkey is in another of those periods of inner conflict which it passes through about once in each political generation. Although there is an urgent need for a strong defense against "Ike" and his mighty band it is doubtful that this is the year for a united front.

There are two schools of thought concerning the Democrats' best strategy in the forthcoming nominating convention. One is that they should aim to win the presidency by preserving the united front with the Southern Democrats who are in control of Congress. This faction's man is Stevenson. The other is that they should let the erring Southern brothers go Republican or Democrat while they fight the election as a militant Northern party. This group would accept one of several Kefauver and Harriman among them. However, chances are that the Northern liberals and the Southern conservatives may battle to a convention deadlock.

That will be the cue for the entrance of the dark horses. Then the Democratic convention will be wide open. Consequently, a great deal of speculation is going on to find a compromise candidate who would be acceptable to all factions.

Campus politicians are very much aware of the possibility of a dark horse candidate's running away with the race. At last report local campaign managers had announced for Stuart Symington of Missouri, Lyndon Johnson of Texas, and Frank Lausche of Ohio.

W. Stuart Symington

Symington, a 54 year-old "moderate" could easily emerge as a compromise candidate. He is conciliatory too, and perhaps acceptable by the South. Since election to the Senate in 1952, Symington has consistently trod on ground that other men fear to tread—challenging President Eisenhower on his national-defense policies. In the realm of defense he speaks with some authority, having served as the first Secretary of the Air Force. His campaign is being managed by R. W. McCarley.

again employ our best intelligence and imagination in dealing with other nations, in an effort to attain a just and secure peace. We must restore respect for, and confidence in, the administration of our foreign policy. The conduct of our foreign policy must be returned to the sort of creative leadership which produced NATO and the Marshall Plan.

"Meanwhile, we have no choice but to support our great defense efforts and to maintain our position of strength throughout the world."

Submitted and approved by Neal Biggers, campaign manager.

LYNDON B. JOHNSON

Lyndon Johnson could come closer to winning the nomination than any other Southerner, but his heart attack would rob the party of one of its top issues—President Eisenhower's health. The segregation controversy hurts any Southerner's chances. Johnson, who served six terms in the House before squeaking into the Senate, is regarded as the most skilled parliamentarian in either chamber. Stewart Gammill is managing Johnson's campaign.

FRANK J. LAUSCHE

As a presidential candidate, Lausche may be handicapped by the fact that he is a Roman Catholic. In addition, he is opposed by aggressive labor leaders who are the Democratic Party's money men. However, Lausche is one of the great vote getters in Ohio history, stronger even than the late Senator Robert A. Taft. He has been five times governor of strongly Republican Ohio. Clyde Whitaker and the Ohio delegation are taking the stump for Lausche.

Stevenson Host To Deaton

Adlai Stevenson ate Southern fried chicken while discussing politics with Charles Deaton, senior political science major, over the weekend.

The meeting took place on the presidential candidate's Libertyville, Illinois, farm.

Charles was one of 100 college supporters of Stevenson attending the weekend strategy conference, which also included sessions at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago.

With him to the meeting went State Rep. Clarence Pierce of Carroll County, and Talmadge Littlejohn of Tupelo, student at Mississippi College.

Stevenson made an "off-the-cuff" talk to the students Saturday morning at the Conrad Hilton, in which he analyzed some of the shortcomings of the Minnesota presidential primary, where he was bested by Estes Kefauver.

"I pitched my campaign on national issues, while Kefauver plugged for 100 per cent parity for farmers and claimed I was being run by the state bosses."

The Presidential Primary Election

By Alfred Statham

Presidential candidates are nominated at the national conventions held by the respective parties. Each state and territory sends a specified number of delegates to the conventions, who then select party nominees for the Presidency and Vice-Presidency.

Convention delegates are chosen by one of three methods with each state: by the state executive committee of the party, by the state convention of the party, or by party primary. The last of these three methods is used in some twelve or fourteen states and the District of Columbia, including the five states with the largest convention delegation—New York, Illinois, Ohio, and Pennsylvania. This method in party primary generally commands the most attention because it affords some indication of personal popularity of the prospective candidates.

Voters in these primaries may cast a preferential vote for a candidate, or delegates may actually be pledged to support a particular candidate. In no state, however, is this pledge absolute binding. For example, in 1952 Senator Kefauver led in Democratic primaries by a wide margin but was not nominated.

In the three primaries conducted so far this year, President Eisenhower has had very little opposition from within his party and has beaten the Democrats each election. Senator Kefauver has likewise been the Democratic victor in each of the three states, upsetting Adlai Stevenson in surprising defeat in Minnesota. Stevenson did not enter the New Hampshire and Wisconsin primaries.

From this minority indication it is quite clear that Eisenhower is the practically unopposed Republican candidate, as is usually the case when an incumbent seeks re-election. However, the picture is not so clear for the Democrats, many observers feel that because of Kefauver's upset victory in Minnesota, Mr. Stevenson has only a slim chance of nomination. The big California and Florida primaries are being anxiously awaited as further indications of the relative strength of Stevenson and Kefauver.

It should be repeated that delegates are not absolutely bound by pledge or preference, and considerable doubt is often placed on the influence of the various party primaries. The nomination of Stevenson in 1952 is at least partial proof of this opinion. Adlai Stevenson has been down on the campaign trail but he is far from being out.

Stevenson told the group.

After the speech, they sat in a press conference during which Stevenson announced that he would enter a write-in campaign in Oregon.

"There were 15 or 20 reporters there," Deaton said. "The Chicago Tribune man gave him a hard time."

"At dinner, we all sat on the floor and talked with him while eating fried chicken. He was particularly pleased to have a delegation from the deep South, especially Mississippi," Deaton said.

Deaton left Illinois Sunday afternoon and arrived back in Jason at 6:00 a.m. Monday—just in time to take a political science test.

A Bunch of Bull On A White Elephant

Beware the smoke filled room; as in days of yore, during the Harding (we think) campaign, the sovereign campus of Millsaps is now seething with corruption. The odor of putrefaction of the democratic mule pervades. Hither, thither and yon political rallies rage. The professional politicians, Dr. Manley's pets who are trying to pull an A, or in some cases a pass) harass and harangue the uninterested, the unintelligent, the unsympathetic common herd. As in all political campaigns, we only know what we read in the papers, and that's propaganda and sensationalism, so what's a body to believe?

Even Charles "Kit Kat" Deaton (Who's Who in American etc.), virtuous and supposedly upstanding young citizen and fair-haired boy, accepted, completely free from strain and duress, a bribe from Chi bosses to come (on the train at their expense) to visit them in their smoke filled room. (It was really a suite; don't let him fool you.) While there he took a six weeks' course, crammed into six hours, on brainwashing and infiltration.

To uninformed, unpolitical observer, me thought that Stevenson must be ahead on the local scene. His picture adorning the wall of The Grill is much larger than the small but personal photograph of Estes adorning the purple door of The Grill. Estes' picture is inscribed "Good Luck Mock Convention—Love and a Coonskin Cap, Estes." This may be omen that Estes may come from behind and win the blooming thing, despite the great disadvantages of having smallest mugshot in The Grill. How is a body to know? We only read what's in the papers, etc.

In intramural sports Kappa Sigma was squeezed out by Lambda Chi Alpha 29-23 in a thrilling defensive duel Monday, April 9, in a play-off for the second half intramural title. Kappa Sigma won the first half. These two teams played last night at 8:00 P. M. at Buie Gym for the season championship, the results being too late for this edition.

Coach Bartling has asked that there be seasonal announcements relevant to the coming intramural softball season. No spikes shall be worn in competition. To begin play, each team must have a minimum of seven men. If ten minutes after the scheduled time for beginning of play a team does not have enough men on hand to play, it must forfeit. No inning shall start later than one hour and fifteen minutes after commencement of play. If at the end of any inning there is a difference of 15 or more runs, the game shall be declared completed. Game time will be 4:15 P. M. Each team must furnish a base umpire. Postponed games will be scheduled. The Intramural Director is in need of volunteers for ball and strike umpires.

Intramural tennis and golf information. Deadline for entering a team in tennis or golf will be Monday, April 16. A golf team entry must have 4 players with Medal Play of 27 holes completed by May 15. A tennis team entry must have a double team and a number one and number two player in singles. First round of tennis must be completed by Saturday, April 28, semi-final round by Saturday, May 5, and final round by Tuesday, May 15.

What had looked like a good baseball season for the Millsaps Majors has got off to a faltering start, our diamond crew dropping its first three games. The first game of the season against Northeastern Louisiana went for 11 innings with the Louisianians rallying for three runs in the top of the eleventh, and the Majors being unable to counter in their behalf. The team then travelled to Birmingham, Alabama, Friday, April 6, for a doubleheader with Howard University. Howard took both halves of the twin-bill, easing over us 7-4 in the first game and running away in the second 7-0.

Coach Sammy Bartling stated that the pitching has not quite developed, the batting was mediocre, and will be improved, and the fielding has been excellent for this early in the season.

To coin a particularly ancient, trite, but very descriptive and apropos phrase: when it rains, it pours; but it isn't raining rain you know, it's raining pins and rings.

Stock in Pike pins has considerably sky-rocketed down, for these baubles are becoming quite popular with the feminine set and are being sported by several of the ladies. New members of the realm, now becoming wider and wider, are Beth O'Neil, who is pinned to that up-and-coming young bridge and Indian wrestling star (he wrestles at the Pike House, not with Beth), Joe Hinds. He is now nestling his left arm in a new seersucker sling; Nancy Crawford is hitched with a pin to Ed Upton; they've been contemplating it for quite awhile; or if not, what have they been thinking about for all these months they've been courting? Betty Miller graduated from the ranks of the ring to the pinnacle of the pin; and it's Bob Adams's pin she's wearing; a "W" girl sneaked in and corrupted the schemes of the local femmes and snatched Billy Kerr's pin right out of the clutches of women on the hill. That's why I left that place; they're so sneaky up there. Anyway, she's Susan Young, and a very nice girl, even though she does go to that school.

Several other fraternities are represented in the romantic element. After a trial period of wearing Ted Richardson's ring, Snookie Smith took the big leap and took his pin. He's an SAE from Ole Miss.

Brister Ware is ringed to Betty Jo, and I can't find out her last name; but she goes to Belhaven, I think. Furriners are infiltrating the ranks, for another out-of-schooler gave Mary Louise Moore

Major Major:

Society Editor Of P&W Is Big Wheel Of The Week

Claire (voyant) King, one of the aspiring writers of the Purple and White, has been chosen for this week's Major Major. To further prove that she has literary talent, Claire was recently tapped into Chi Delta. This is not her only talent, however. She has quite a reputation as a Bridge player, and can usually be found in the Grill keeping in practice.

Claire joined the students at Millsaps the second semester of her sophomore year. She had previously attended MSCW, where her honors had already begun to pile up. As a freshman she was chosen model pledge of Lockhearts, a social club. Later, she served as vice-president of the same. The sophomore honor society, Lantern, tapped this brilliant student, who has been on the Dean's List here at Millsaps. There too her literary genius showed, for she was invited to join the Creative Writing Club, and served on the Spectator, the school paper.

On Millsaps campus this senior from Jackson has been active in many campus organizations. She went on Singers' tour for two years, is Associate Editor of the Bobashela, and serves as prop chairman in Players. Evidently, she does this job quite well, because Alpha Psi recently tapped her. She is a member of Chi Omega sorority.

Comprehensives are only three weeks away for this English major. After graduation she will work at Godwin Advertising Agency here in Jackson. To get the latest word from Claire, look on page 3 of this edition of the PW.

Players Will Hold Tryouts For Bullfight Monday

Tryouts for the Millsaps Players production Bullfight, by Leslie Stevens, will be held Monday night. The Players, after waiting two years for release, will be perhaps the first amateur group in the country to produce it.

Leslie Stevens is the author of the play The Lovers, which is now playing in New York, and of The Champagne Complex, a hit of two seasons ago.

Bullfight opened in New York at the Theater De Lys off Broadway where it received unanimous critical acclaim and played for seven weeks. The run of a show at this theater is usually restricted to one week. The play has everything — music, dancing, singing, cockfights, fistfights, funerals, and colorful costumes. Life magazine called the play "exciting theater." Incidentally, Bullfight was directed in New York by Joseph Anthony, who also directed The Rainmaker.

There are roles for nine women and sixteen men, including extras. There are two female leads, the sisters who are about twenty years old. There are parts for six other women who double as villagers, nuns, dancers, and sometimes even as men.

There are two male leads, the brothers who are also in their twenties. The men range in age from ten to sixty. The ten year old boy could be played by a very small boy or possibly by a girl. There is a part for a guitar player and a part for a very young Spanish dancer. There are ten other men. The extras double as villagers, bullfighters, and dancers. At least four of the men who double as bullfighters must be graceful and athletic though not necessarily big. All of the extras are very important to the play. They act almost as a dancing chorus.

The play is set in Mexico in the present. The story revolves around two brothers. The older brother has been a bullfighter but he was injured in the ring, and has lost his courage. The villagers call him a coward. He persuades his younger brother to become a bullfighter. In the last scene of the play the younger brother, now a matador, is killed in the bullring.

Everyone interested in reading for the play is urged to attend the tryouts Monday night. Probably no other tryouts will be held. The play will be presented May 9, 10, 11, and 12.

Religious Views... And Reviews

By Brooks Hudson

In these current times, with the rise of so many ideological groups, the Parable of the Sower seems to have special significance. There is one Universal Truth, and it is now like the wheat in the midst of the thorns of the "isms," in danger of being choked or stunted by their overpowering influence.

Democracy, as a Universal Truth, is caught up in such a crisis, with pressure groups tugging us back and forth in the briers of modern interpretations until our feet are either tangled in them or our path is obscured by their thorns.

Democracy as a Universal Truth rests on the doctrine that all men are created equal in the sight of God and the law. However, no five people will agree on how far this equality goes. To some, government policy is formed by a group meeting in session. To others, it is best formed by a convocation of elected representatives.

Popular vote is next most essential to a true democracy, but to some suffrage should be universal; and to others, there should be specific restrictions so as to eliminate crack-pots from destroying the very freedom of the vote.

But in spite of the basic democratic freedom to differ in interpretation of the exact principles of democracy, there is a strong danger today that pressure groups will interpret them "right off the map." Unless political equality is preserved and guaranteed, we do not have democracy, but a state in which the people are "protected" from their own "ignorance" by an autocratic political machine. The democracy then ceases to be a democracy.

Who shall protect us against such an encroachment? The Christian people have always been their own fortress against political bigotry. The churches will be the cause of Communism's downfall, even as it was the American branches of the English churches that contributed largely to the American Revolution; and it is to the churches that we look in these times of crisis.

When the forces of evil attack our basic freedoms, may God give us strength to overcome them.

STEVENSON—

votes in 1952.

Stevenson said, "I don't believe that anyone can spell out solutions during the course of a campaign to all our stubborn problems. Because there are few simple problems, I won't be able to offer easy answers. But I shall try to adhere to my resolve to talk sense—to talk honestly—and never mislead. If, as I express my views, you see fit to give me your confidence and support, I shall be a grateful and proud native son of California.

"If not, I shall be disappointed, of course, but I shall have nothing to regret, because this is the only way I can campaign—and the only way I could live with myself, and with you, thereafter—win or lose. Thank you—and God bless you all."

Literary Festival Is April 14; Four Speakers Announced

The Southern Literary Festival will be held April 14 at Mississippi College, it was announced by Dr. Louis E. Dollarhide, Festival President. There will be four speakers; two novelists, a poet, and a theater representative. They are:

Evans Harrington, instructor in English at the University of Mississippi, author of stories in the Saturday Evening Post, Collier's, and Today's Woman, and The Prisoners, a first novel, released by Harper's, March 28th. Mr. Harrington will be of special interest to the young writers because as short a time ago as 1948, he was attending the Festival as a student, learning from professional writers.

Thomas Hal Phillips, Kossuth, Mississippi, formerly teacher of creative writing at Southern Methodist University, author of four novels, The Bitterweed Path, The Golden Lie, Search for a Hero and The Loved and the Unloved. Mr. Phillips is no stranger to the Festival, having spoken at the Blue Mountain meeting three years ago.

John Ciardi, presently poet of the Saturday Review and Associate Professor of English at Rutgers University, author of five volumes of verse and winner of numerous poetry prizes, widely known as a speaker and a lecturer, director of the Bread Loaf Writers Conference, formerly Briggs Copeland assistant Professor at Harvard. Mr. Ciardi is widely known both as a poet and as a speaker and lecturer. You may have seen him recently when he appeared on an NBC television program honoring the late Dylan Thomas.

Susan Reed, actress and ballad collector and singer, has appeared in motion pictures, on radio and television programs. Miss Reed makes her home in New York and is interrupting preparations for a new television show to be with us. She is a Columbia recording artist, with several successful Town Hall concerts to her credit. The daughter of actor-director-playwright Dan Reed, Miss Reed, having grown up in the theater, will have a wealth of experience to draw from as she appears as speaker and performer for us.

Dr. Dollarhide said: "We have made arrangements with Jackson bookstores and record shops to have displays of the speakers for your benefit. We sincerely feel and hope that we have a very enjoyable and informative program planned for you and hope that large groups of you are attending."

Constitutional Revision-Election Of New Officers-SEB Gets Another Chance

During the first two weeks in May, S E B officers for the coming year are to be elected. This will be one of the times that we of the P & W ask you to stop for a little while and actually give serious thought to student activities. If you care for Millsaps, respect what it stands for, and are proud of its tradition of quality, then you will act accordingly and seriously consider the qualifications of the candidates for office.

As we have stated in past weeks, S E B is not the organization it should be. We have recognized that it is not altogether the fault of the students who serve now as S E B members, but that the main fault lies in the constitution, (and N. R. Wally has assured us that the revisions suggested by the revision committee will be considered at the next meeting.)

This probably means that representation will be reworked, and the whole document will provide more authority for S E B. From the tenor of the meetings we've attended, we are led to believe that the present members will accept most of the revisions as necessary and proper for the appropriate functioning of the group which is supposed to represent the student governing body.

Before any revisions become legal, however, they must be voted on by the faculty and the student body.

If the proposed revisions go through, it could mean the beginning of a whole new era for S E B.

The other necessary and proper factor is getting an able person as the next president of S E B.

N. R. Wally will appoint a committee whose purpose it is to nominate two people for each of the elective offices. These nominees will then campaign for election through speech making, hand shaking, and bargaining.

The P & W will attempt to evaluate the candidates and their platforms and will offer its support to the one who seems to closer fit the needs of the situation.

In thinking over the qualifications, remember that the president of S E B not only presides at S E B meetings, but from time to time represents our college to visitors and on other college campuses. We want a man of whom we can be proud as the president of the student body.

Local-National Mock Conventions...

Jackson, San Francisco, and Chicago are holding nominating conventions this year. Of the three, the one held at Millsaps College in Jackson, Mississippi, will probably be conducted with the most sincerity and seriousness even though it will not affect the welfare of the nation as much as the other two.

In Millsaps' convention, the nomination of the candidate for president and vice president will be done on the merits of the man for the office. The drawing up of the party platform will be with the welfare of the country in mind.

In the other conventions, those conducted by the major political parties, the candidate who is felt to carry the majority vote and who will carry the "party" to victory, will be nominated regardless of his ability or character. The platforms will be drawn up to attract the vote and support of the masses, and with the idea in mind that the party platform is something with which to win an election and not necessarily an obligation to be carried out after the election is won.

In other words, the Republican convention will be held for the benefit of the Republican party, and the Democratic convention will be held for the benefit of the Democratic party.

Who will hold a convention for the benefit "of the people and for the people" of the United States?

Some say that a true patriot forgets "party affiliations." When such time comes that both our political "machines" center their efforts on service to their country instead of to their party with motives other than monetary return and political patronage, then and then only will the party conventions cease to be "mock" conventions.

When more colleges in the country conduct "mock" conventions, thereby interesting their entire student bodies in the political life of our country, the future policies of our country will be the beneficiary and the retaining of our democratic form of government will not be a question in the minds of the populace.

Margaret Whitfield has asked that you use the new bulletin board beside Dean McCracken's office in Murrah Hall for all future notices concerning meeting times. Please continue to use the old bulletin board for all other notices and announcements.

Comparative Voting Strength Of State Delegations

The 1,372 votes which will be cast at the Mock Convention have been apportioned among the forty-eight states and six territories. The following list is being made available so that each delegation may know its relative voting strength. The apportionment is the same as that which will be used in the National Democratic Convention in Chicago this summer.

news analysis

by

Alfred Statham

Local issues have not received consideration in this column to date; however, one very important matter faces residents of the city of Jackson. That is the $11,450,000 bond issue which will be submitted to the people on May 8.

The continued growth of Jackson demands continued expansion and improvement of public facilities. But, of course, these effects cannot be accomplished without money. Mayor Allen C. Thompson has been the driving force behind the huge bond issue and feels that the program can be carried out without undue strain on city finances, and without increasing taxes. It is well to point out that if this package issue is approved, bonded indebtedness of this municipality will approximate forty million dollars.

Allocation of the bonds is as follows: schools, $4,250,000; street construction and improvement, $2,500,000; water works expansion, $4,000,000; and fire protection improvements, $700,000.

No complaint has, or can be made, against further school construction. Mainly sectional interests are reflected in discussion of the street program. Concerning water, little objection has been made concerning the construction of a dam rather than expansion of the present system. Sufficient water supply is a prerequisite for industrial growth and many people feel that a dam on the Pearl River will be necessary in the near future. The big controversy so far has concerned the advisability of proposed fire improvements. The problem centers on a $350,000 purchase of fire alarm boxes. The State Times has conducted a vigorous campaign against this feature of the bond issue, contending that this type of alarm box is completely outmoded. There are 179 boxes of this type in the city at the present time, and the expansion program calls for the installation of 450 new boxes. Research indicates that 95% of all fire alarms in Jackson last year were made by telephone, therefore why expand a facility which is seldom used.

A number of cities throughout the nation have installed new telephone alarm systems. These new alarm boxes may be used to report emergencies of various types and also enable the reporter to give a complete description of the emergency. The objection to expansion of the present system seems well taken.

There can be no doubt of the need which exists in each of these areas — schools, streets, water-works expansion, and fire protection improvement—the question remains, however, whether the people of this city will accept an additional indebtedness of $4,450,000.

Debaters In Tennessee For Pi Kappa Delta Meet

Climaxing a highly successful year, Millsaps College debaters have traveled to Cookeville, Tennessee, this week and are competing in the Southeastern Province Tournament of Pi Kappa Delta, national forensic society.

Debate coach Harmon Tillman has selected sophomores Bob Mims and Keith Tonkel to represent the Purple and White in the final debate tournament of the season.

Twenty-five colleges and universities are taking part in the meet to be held on the campus of Tennessee Tech April 19-21. Events scheduled for the three-day meet include men's debate, oratory, extemporaneous speaking, after-dinner speaking, and discussion.

The Millsaps debaters have enjoyed one of the finest seasons in their history under the guidance of Coach Tillman. First honors in several Southern tournaments have been gained by Major debaters and the team was invited to the Notre Dame Invitational meet, one of the two largest in the nation. Mr. Tillman began his work with the debate team last year.

Additional women: Barbara Ann Thomas, Rose Marie Merchant, Janice Bower, Linda Carruth, Nancy Neyman, Patti Bradley.

Additional men: Cliff Rigby, Ted Alexander, Don Lisle, Ed McKaskel, Brack Lange, Jack Pool, Lacy Causey, Ronald Willoughby.

Chemistry Students

Inspect Aluminum Plants

Ten Millsaps College students and one professor were guests of the Kaiser Aluminum Plants in Baton Rouge and Chalmette, Louisiana, last week as a part of a field trip sponsored by the department of chemistry of the college.

Students making the trip were Bill Balgord, Jess Brasher, Mike Conner, Ted Cottrell, Billy Ray Davis, Fred Dowling, Harry Dowling, John Evans, Lee Hyman, and James Robertson. They were accompanied by Dr. Frank James, professor of chemistry.

The Millsaps group saw, among other operations, the process by which aluminum ore is converted into metallic aluminum.

The trip is one of a series of field trips to industries in the South made annually by chemistry students at Millsaps.

"Pop" King Closes Tour—And His Career At Millsaps In Concert Sunday Night

Dr. Hamilton Attended Classical Assn. Meet

Dr. A. P. Hamilton, head of the department of ancient languages at Millsaps College, was one of three hundred members of the Classical Association of the Midwest and South to attend the recent annual meeting of the group in Lexington, Kentucky.

Colleges and universities from 30 states were represented in the convention.

Dr. Hamilton, who is Association vice-president for the state of Mississippi, presided over the opening session of the meeting. He formerly served as vice-president of the national organization.

Highlight of the meeting was the address of Dr. Saul S. Weinberg, of the University of Missouri, who stated that a new and important field of classical studies had been opened by recent archeological discoveries.

Dr. Weinberg said research in the classics is now "of increasing interest and importance because of the decipherment of the Mycenaean language, bringing written Greek back to about 1450 B.C."

Geology Majors Go On Field Trip

Advanced Millsaps geology majors guided by Dr. Priddy and Professor Johnson joined about sixty professional geologists in a two day field trip conducted by the Mississippi Geological Society on April 4 and 6. On the trip important exposures were visited near Yazoo City and Vicksburg. One of the highlights was the visit to Tinsley Oil Field where Mr. C. E. Leshe explained the production of the wells under his charge.

The second trip made April 13 and 15 was a 700 mile excursion to Alabama. Exposures were studied at Opelika; then study of some of the oldest beds in the eastern United States was conducted. Their last visit was to the famous "big seams" of iron ore near Birmingham.

Students on the trip were John Green, Terry Hayward, Richard Foxworth, Bobby Ellis, Terry Moore, James Callahan, Joe Franklin, John Philley, John Lowery, Annette Leshe, June Martin, Froyal Jones, Norman Johannesen, Curtis Halladay, and John Hetrick.

Maintenance Shops Moved To Clear Way For Union Building

The maintenance shops of Millsaps have been moved to a new location. This is the first step toward groundbreaking for the new Union Building.

The shops are now located on North West Street. A fence and a hedge will surround the area so that the shop will not interfere with the athletic program.

Alvin Jon "Pop" King's Millsaps Singers climaxed their spring tour at Capitol Street Methodist Church in Jackson, Sunday night, April 15. This finale, the twenty-second appearance of the seventy student mixed chorus on the two week tour, was also the last public appearance of their beloved director, who first came to Millsaps in 1935.

"Almighty God of Our Fathers" by Will James opened Part I. "Pop" then directed the group in the singing of "Calvary's Mountain", a Folk Song arranged by Marie Poler. Karen Gilfoyle, of Jackson, sang the solo part. "Salvation is Created" by Tschesnokoff was followed by "How They So Softly Rest" by Healey Willan. Then John Awad, president of the group, took the solo part in "Restoration" by Benjamin Edwards. "Glorious Everlasting" by N. Thomas Cousins and "Lord, Bring 'Dat' Sinner Home" a Negro spiritual closed Part I.

The choir opened Part II singing "Born Today" by Sweelinck and "Say O Shepherds, Whom Saw Ye?" by Richard Dering, and followed them with "Fum, Fum, Fum" a Spanish Dance Carol arranged by Shaw-Parker and "Carol of the Drum" by Katherine K. Davis. Peggy Sanford of Jackson sang the solo in "Lullaby on Christmas Eve" by F. Melius Christiansen. "Thy Word is a Lamp unto My Feet" Ps. 119 composed by Sam Jones of Jackson, the Assistant Director of the group, was followed by "My God and I" a Latvian Folk Song which closed Part II.

Paul Kern, a Pre-Ministerial student, from Hillsboro, Miss. spoke to the congregation about the choir and its college while the group rested, before beginning the final part of the program.

The singing of "When Curtained Darkness Falls" by F. Melius Christiansen opened Part III. Then followed "Wake, Awake" by Christiansen, "Wondrous Love" a Southern Folk Hymn arranged by Paul Christiansen, and "Our Father" by Gretchaninoff. The solo part in "Wondrous Love" was sung by Bobby Tullus of Louisville. Ann Foster of Jackson sang the solo part in "Beautiful Savior" by Melius Christiansen.

All former members of The Singers were then invited to come forward and join the group in the singing of the "Benediction and Amen" by Peter Lutkin, which closed the program—the tour—and the career of the "Grand Old Man of Millsaps" — Alvin Jon "Pop" King.

Radcliff Dean Visits Millsaps

A representative of Radcliff College, Mrs. Bernice Cronkhite, Dean of the Graduate School, visited Millsaps this week. She is interested in receiving applications for Radcliff graduate school.

Radcliff, located in Cambridge, Massachusetts, is an affiliate of Harvard. There will be literature in the library available to any girls interested.

Plans Underway For Bridge Tournament

The details of the '56 bridge tournament were worked out at a recent I. F. C. meeting. The tournament will be held either April 23, 24, and 25 or April 30, May 1 and 2. This year they will be held in the Kappa Alpha, Lambda Chi Alpha, and Pi Kappa Alpha houses. Each fraternity during the bridge play in their house that night is expected to furnish cokes and cookies for the players. The Jackson Bridge Club is furnishing all of the scoreboards, cards (you may not bring your own), and pencils needed.

Each person wanting to enter the tournament is asked to sign his or her name to a list which will be posted later. One may choose his partner from this list.

The Battle of Ackia

In the early 18th century France held the great Mississippi Valley. England held the Atlantic seaboard. France could only retain control of this vast area by maintaining strategic posts along the Mississippi River and among friendly Indian tribes. Gross mismanagement of the post at Natchez led to the famous Fort Rosalie massacre, where 260 men, women and children were killed. (Apparently the uprising was but part of a movement on the part of the English to break French control of the area.)

The French quickly avenged themselves. The Natchez tribe was driven from its ancestral home around Natchez and a portion of it took refuge among the friendly Chickasaw Indians. The Chickasaws were living in a close group in the Chickasaw Old Fields, just west of what is now Tupelo. The Chickasaws had always been pro-English and permitted English traders into the area.

The French officer in command of Louisiana was Bienville. He demanded that the Chickasaws give up the Natchez tribe that they were harboring. The Chickasaw nation refused.

Bienville moved against the Chickasaws with a force of 600 French troops, 500 Choctaw auxiliaries and a company of Negroes. Around the same time, Bienville had ordered one of his French commanders in Illinois to dispatch troops to aid him in his effort against the Choctaw nation. French troops and Illinois Indian auxiliaries left the area and proceeded into Mississippi. They were commanded by Pierre D'Artagnac.

D'Artagnac reached the area around what is now Tupelo on May 10, 1736. He was not reinforced by Bienville as he had expected and on May 20, his impatient Illinois auxiliaries forced him to take action. A fortified Chickasaw village was attacked and was captured. Again his Indian allies forced him to pursue the fleeing Chickasaws. Two more villages fell, but D'Artagnac was wounded and captured with 49 soldiers and a chaplain, Father Senat, a Jesuit priest.

Bienville reached the Natchez and Chickasaw villages on May 26, 1736. The Choctaws, impatient to attack, began the battle by hitting the Chickasaws in the fortified village of Ackia. Bienville had wanted to attack the Natchez village, but the Choctaws swerved the attack to Ackia. The Choctaws attacked Ackia in the morning and were repulsed. French troops under Bienville attacked at noon.

English traders among the Chickasaws had taught them to fortify themselves by erecting a palisaded fort in the center of the village. The defenders of Ackia fired through loop holes with English firearms. Outlying houses, similarly fortified, subjected the French and Indian troops to a terrific cross-fire.

French casualties were heavy, and Bienville saw that he would not be able to take Ackia, despite the heroic attempts by his troops. The next day the French withdrew.

The calm after the storm. . . nothing? nothing? A tale told by an idiot. . . How 'bout how people are going to while away the sultry, sizzling hours during the fast approaching summertide for a start? It couldn't be anymore dull than a quick rundown on the romance that's nil around here.

Exodus of the Natives: Rumor has it that fellow students are starting a new colony in Greenwich Village come June. (After the 20th, for that's when veterans' checks come in, and they can't get there without it.) Tom McNair and Mickey Kelly are journeying via of thumb to the melting pot to set up housekeeping in a tenth-floor walk-up flat. There they will cavort with the artie set and scrape around with the starving intelligentia. If anyone has any leads for jobs, or if you "know somebody," which is the key to a job these dog days, please inform these ambitious lads who dare to break through into the pure air of the "outside world." Clint Peteet is also threatening a Village sojourn. He hasn't enlightened his family yet, so perhaps as little said as possible right now wouldn't hurt anything.

The Continent Calls: Aden Coleman (who threatens me every week at grenade pin to keep her name out of my filthy column) and Carolyn Reynolds are going to stumble the heavy fantastic to Europe soon as school folds. Maybe Mickey and Tom could catch a ride with them to New York and bid them Bon Voyage. Their hearts are young and gay, so the story goes.

South American Senors: This may not be true, but it'll do for lack of something truer, but I hear that David Franks, Dick Brown and Fred Yerger are embarking for Peru. What's down there, I don't know, but whatever it is, they'll find it. But what I want to know is, what's gonna happen to the girls they left behind?

And then for the uninspired, uninspiring and uncreative, there's summer school. In that unfortunate predicament, there will be seen many of the everyday faces and perhaps a few new ones of those people who were tricked into coming here for their summer seige of schooling. I imagine Murrah gets mighty hot in the summertime, but the pre-dawn classes apparently alleviate that situation. Forethought, forethought. Then they don't have to air condition. On the other hand, these early classes are not conducive to late daters, limiting traditional summer school fun.

A late newsflash has it that Jackie Peterman and Paul Comola are planning a wedding sometime in May. All this and comprehensives too!

Claudette Hall and Johnny Turner are engaged. This is unofficial and probably untrue, but Claudette won't retract her once uttered statement. Maybe I can oust the truth by printing it.

Congratulations to all participants of the Convention. I'm sure you will all agree it was a huge success and worth every minute of the time spent in frenzied preparation.

Due to circumstances beyond my control (comprehensives), for the next two weeks I will engage a guest editor to assume my trivial duties. It will probably come as a pleasant surprise to most of you. Naturally it will be a Chi Omega, for even the best of us has to play her politics!

Marilyn Wood Is State's KA Rose

Marilyn Wood, Alpha Mu's K. A. Rose, was named Mississippi's favorite Kappa Alpha Rose Saturday night.

She was crowned Irwin Province Rose by Province Commander Douglas Stone and presented with red roses at a dance during the Irwin Province Council held here last weekend.

Marilyn is a sophomore from Tupelo and is president of Kappa Delta Sorority. She wears Harry Blair's pin.

She was chosen from the Roses of the K. A. Chapters in Mississippi which includes Millsaps, Mississippi Southern, Mississippi State, and the University of Mississippi.

Marilyn will be Irwin Province's entry for Central Regional Kappa Alpha Rose.

Chi Omega Holds Open House Sunday

Chi Delta of Chi Omega Sorority will hold its annual Garden Party for High School seniors Sunday, April 22, from 3 until 5. Afterwards, from 5 until 6, open house will be held for the campus and faculty. Everyone is cordially invited.

Major Major:

Managing Editor of P. & W. Is Personality of Week

A recent ODK tappee has been selected as Major Major for this week. He is Walton Lipscomb, a senior from Jackson. "Lip," as he is known around the campus, wasn't satisfied with cracking the top honorary; he also crept into others. He serves as treasurer of Theta Nu Sigma and was reporter of AED. In the recent National AED convention, held at Millsaps, Walton edited the Convention Pulse, the daily news report. It is hard to understand how this fellow manages to keep his name on the Dean's List. He is in pre-med, has a major in chemistry, and will soon take his comprehensive in history.

Don't think for a second that Walton is a book worm—"not hardly." He is a member of the International Relations Club, went on Singers Tour, served as treasurer of his fraternity, Lambda Chi Alpha, for three semesters, has worked on Players, and graduated from the rank of copy editor to managing editor of the Purple and White. Walton definitely does not neglect his work in the church, either. When he was a freshman, he was publicity chairman of the Mississippi Conference Methodist Youth Fellowship. This position included editing a paper, Quest... Galloway Memorial Church had him serve as President of the Older Youth Department, and he has been an usher there for five years.

After graduation from Millsaps, Walton will enter the University of Tennessee's med school in Memphis. Walton says he will remember his many friends and the understanding and cooperation of the professors here.

Religious Views

By Brooks Hudson

"What is man that Thou art mindful of him; and the son of man, that Thou visitest him; for Thou hast made him a little lower than the angels, and crowned him with glory and honor."

What is man? We are all thinking, living, existing beings, differing from the baser animals only in our ability to reason reflectively. On the open market we aren't worth much, only some thirty dollars, or maybe less boiled down to soap. We have bodies unfit for walking erect, the biologists say, and have the odd habit of killing ourselves in enormous numbers.

But this is not really what makes us men, for the being "man" is the choice product of the Creator's art, to borrow a phrase. He is the pinnacle of intellectual evolution, and his supreme accomplishment lies in the recognition that there is an Infinite Spirit behind the creations of his environment. This spirit, he recognizes, not only is a Creator, but also a Helper and Guide, who regulates and controls the Universe He has created.

That man is a chosen creature in this world there can be no doubt. He is endowed with superior intelligence to help God operate the world. "World" is an often mistaken term, for the "world" contains not only the planets and their movements, but also their environments, peoples, and how patterns of nature are molded into patterns of harmonious living for these people. Man on earth has done that through experimental plant and animal selection, inventions, and new technology—all discovered with his superior intelligence.

The psalmist was thinking of man's superior state when he said that God has created him only a little lower than the angels themselves, because man's destiny is to create a Heaven on earth. The basis of this Heaven will be men together using the tools of God to advance and procreate this Heavenly state.

This seems to lead to the point that since we are endowed so richly, how can we fail to live up to His expectations? The man who wastes his talents cheats only his, and God's investment. To waste something is to cheat the donor, and can we cheat God?

"Pop" King, A Man Whose Example Can Be Followed

Last Sunday night "Pop" King mounted the conductor's podium to direct the Millsaps Singers for his last concert.

The full effectiveness of this grand old man of music will never be fully realized for his influence has reached deep into the lives of thousands whose privilege it has been to work with him. And they, in turn, will relay this influence to innumerable others for he has taught much more than the fundamental elements of music. He has taught a beautiful song of life characterized by harmony and beauty which he exemplified in all he's done.

He measures his riches by what he has given away, his happiness by those he has made happy, and his greatness is reflected in his humbleness.

The extent of his influence is far from over, for as long as men like "Pop" live, there will be a desire in the hearts of all who know him to live each day to the fullest.

In 1935, when Alvin Jon King began his epic work with the Singers, his calm knowledge of people and music soon became a prominent facet of campus life.

The loyalty of those who have sung has not been dedicated solely to the college or to the fellow members of the singing group, but when any call upon loyalty was made—"Pop" King entered the picture as the one whose personality evoked the finest and best in those with whom he came in contact.

"Pop," we are glad you chose Millsaps as the fertile ground to receive your seeds of kindness and your wealth of personal happiness which has rubbed off on us to no little extent.

There have been more brilliant men than "Pop"; there have been greater men than "Pop", but there has never been a more well-loved one, for to know him is to love him.

He speaks not for himself, but through the voice of his choir insuring proper expression by the use of his calm hands.

And so to the man who has taught so many to speak the universal language, we say, "Thank you, Pop," for letting us sing the theme of your life, "My God and I"...

Ruth Andrews Recovering After Illness

We are glad to report that Ruth Andrews, manager of the grill, is now "doing nicely" after a twenty four day stint in the Baptist Hospital. Ruth is recovering from an ailment which doctors report was affecting her heart.

In a telephone conversation Tuesday, Ruth said she'd been cheered many times over by cards and visits from a large number of her friends on the campus, and that she'd like to express her thanks through the P & W and to let everyone know how much she missed "those dear children" who haunt the grill.

If her present rate of recovery continues, we'll be seeing Ruth in the grill again inside a month. Hurry and get well, Ruth!

ACKIA—

Perhaps you are wondering about D'Artagnette and his captured men. The Chickasaws treated their captives well until Bienville pulled a classic blunder. A Chickasaw truce party, offering a treaty to Bienville, was fired upon, and several members of it were killed. The angered Indians answered Bienville with the execution of their French prisoners.

Father Senat, D'Artagnette's Jesuit chaplain, had once cried out in a sickness, "Am I, O God, to die here? Wilt Thou not grant me the favor of reaching my mission and enriching it with my blood!" Father Senat got his wish. As the prisoners were being tied to the stakes the Jesuit exhorted his comrades "to offer their lives as a sacrifice for the conversion of sinners." The doomed men chanted the "Miserere" (the 51st Penitential Psalm) as the flames consumed them.

Thus ended the first war of the French against the Indians. The battle, although insignificant in itself, was the beginning of the end for French power in the southern Mississippi Valley. An Indian nation had defied a French decree and beaten the troops sent to enforce that order. From this time on, British influence among the Indians was to increase. French influence was slowly to pass out of the American scene.

news analysis

President Eisenhower, amid requests, promises and warnings, vetoed the omnibus agriculture bill passed by Congress. Then in a manner which will become quite frequently used, appeared before the people of this country on a nation-wide telecast to explain his action.

The main consideration resulting in Eisenhower's veto was the provision regarding rigid 90% parity price supports included in the bill. The President maintained in his talk to the nation that this feature would help some farmers in the immediate future, but would be harmful to all farmers and the nation in its long range effects. In answer to cries that the farmer needs immediate aid the administration contends that the soil bank program would furnish that necessary aid by giving at the present time half the total amount due to farmers participating in the program. This factor combined with flexible price supports will help alleviate the great agricultural problem facing the nation.

At this time it seems probable that Congress will pass a separate soil bank bill. If so it is the opinion of this writer that the political advantage will then be on the Republican's side, and not in favor of the Democrats as generally expected. Thus Eisenhower may ease the agriculture situation by providing immediate aid to farmers but also restricting further production, and emerge victorious in critical and politically powerful problem.

The situation in the Middle East continues to grow more serious and capable of exploding into another "police action" if not a third world war. Quite conscious of this fact the United Nations O God dispatched Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold to the Middle East in an effort to ease the tension. Both Israeli Premier David Ben-Gurion and Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser after talks with Hammarskjold, agreed to cease attacks and reduce border patrols. Hammarskjold has given non-committalistic reports of more peaceful relations in the area.

Actions speak louder than words, however, and incidents have continued to occur between the two nations. Almost daily significant frontier battles break out with numerous casualties inflicted on the south side. In a recent speech to the Israeli parliament, Ben-Gurion denied any validity of Egyptian promises, while on the same day, Egyptian forces flying Russian-built jets forced down an American plane.

Meaningless words placed on paper have no value and are of no use. Peaceful intent must be demonstrated by peaceful actions (Tex.) if we are to continue living in a complex and inter-related world.

SEB Nominates Eight For Office

Mississippi's First Mock Convention Achieves Wide Notice, Acclaim . . .

Millsaps first Mock Democratic Nominating Convention has ended on a note of success. The epic proceeded from beginning to end with no more than a few small difficulties which were soon ironed out by the adept management of Dr. Manley, Tom Boone, Al Statham and the administration. The co-operation that the planning committee obtained from these and other sources went far in producing the successful convention which has added so much to school-student cohesiveness.

To you, Dr. Manley, a special salute for introducing the idea, organizing the details and then stepping back and letting us, the students, take over and manipulate the order of business in such a way as to enjoy the occasion thoroughly, and at the same time learn through first hand experience some invaluable politics.

Tom, we still can't figure out how you found so many American flags, but the fact is that "Convention Hall" was decorated and arranged magnificently. Its overall appearance was one of the greatest contributions to the "political atmosphere" of the whole convention.

Yes, a few worked longer and harder than the rest, but without "the rest" the whole thing would have fallen through. And this time, the constantly raging battle against apathy was won overwhelmingly! On the first and third days of the Convention the student attendance was good, even wonderful, considering the fact that so many faced tests during the convention days.

Biggers, Mrs. Goodman Take Honors At Literary Festival

Neal Biggers was awarded first place in the formal essay division and Mrs. Marguerite Goodman was elected treasurer during the 19th Southern Literary Festival held last weekend at Mississippi College.

Neal's essay was entitled "The Undefined Liberty."

During the festival, students and teachers attended workshops and heard talks by such writers as Evans Harrington, author of The Prisoners, Robert Canzoneri, short story writer and instructor at Georgetown College in Kentucky; John Ciardi, poetry editor of the Saturday Review instructor at Rutgers, and Thomas Hal Phillips, author of The Loved and the Unloved. Highlight of the convention was a performance at the general assembly Friday night by Miss

Applications Due For Bobashela Positions

Applications for business manager and editor of the Bobashela are to be turned in to Mr. Goss by Monday, May 7. These applications may be given to Mr. Goss or left in his box in the registrar's office.

Students should have at least a 1.00 average. Applications should be in the form of a letter telling of previous experience whether on the Bobashela or some other annual although this experience is not necessary.

The new editor and business manager will be selected by the present editor, business manager and one other member of the staff and three faculty members.

Jones, Johnston Chosen For Presidential Race

SAM JONES

HUGH JOHNSTON

In a special meeting Tuesday, the Student Executive Board chose eight candidates for four student body offices in the forthcoming elections. Thursday, May 10, is election day on the Millsaps Campus.

Sam Jones and Hugh Johnston were nominated for president, Graham Hales and Ed Mize for vice-president, Nancy Peacock and Pat Chunn for Secretary, and Robert Mims and John Stone for treasurer. "All of these candidates must have at least a 1.00 average and the presidential candidates must have at least 64 hours."

This year the Millsaps student body will elect, for the first time, a person to the office of treasurer. The office has been created as part of a revised SEB constitution, passed by the Board Wednesday night and submitted to the Student Body Thursday. This office removes the financial duties from those of the vice president. Responsibility for the student body budget will be in the treasurer's hands.

Other candidates may enter the running by circulation of petitions. The petitions must have signatures from at least 8 percent of the student body before being presented to the SEB. They must be turned in at least one week prior to elections. After qualifications are checked candidates' names will be placed on the nomination list. These petitions should be submitted to the chairman of the elections committee, Jack Loflin, to the president, or to the secretary.

The process of nominating candidates for student body offices isn't a simple one. The president selects a committee of about eight people and delegates to it the task of bringing up all possibilities for student body offices. The original list is cut down to three or four names. Then the entire SEB meets in closed session and narrows the committee's choices to two candidates for each office. The student body then votes.

The committee was made up of eight students representing most of the social groups on the campus. They were: Hiram Polk, chairman, Laverne Smith, Larry Tynes, Claudette Westerfield, Ed Upton, Burton Jackson, Emily Greener, and Foster Lowe.

Johnston

Hugh Johnston, a chemistry major from Vicksburg, is now serving as President of Pi Kappa Alpha. He is president of the sophomore class and is a campus favorite for 1955-56. Hugh is a member of Alpha Epsilon Delta, national pre-med fraternity, and Alpha Phi Omega, scouting fraternity. He was named outstanding pledge in his freshman year and has appeared on the Dean's list, and has served on S.E.B.

Jones

Sam Jones, a music major from Jackson, and a member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity, is the present band director. He was named a campus favorite for the past two years. Sam was president of his pledge class and is a past pledge trainer of his fraternity. He served as president last year. He is vice-president of Omicron Delta Kappa, men's leadership fraternity, Kit Kat, creative writing honorary, and Eta Sigma Phi, classical language honorary. His writing has appeared in Stylus, the campus literary magazine; he was assistant director of the Singers Tour Choir this year; and is a member of the Interfraternity Council. He plays in the Lambda Chi Alpha combo, has appeared on the Dean's and the President's lists, and has served on S.E.B.

Hales

Graham Hales, is now serving as president, or number one, of Kappa Alpha fraternity. He attended the University of Virginia last year. He is vice-president of the Christian Council, President of B.S.U. and is the assistant business manager of this year's Bobashela. He is a psychology major and was chairman of the Resolutions Committee at the Mock Democ-

The Millsaps tennis team is really running up a record the other varsity teams could be envious of. At this writing the tennis squad has an 11-2 record, losing only to Miss. State.

The baseball team has won two games since last publication, both by 10-8 counts. The first against Delta State and the other against our friends from across the creek, the Choctaws; but the Choctaws scalped the Majors on their second outing by a slight margin of 18-2, with Mudeat Bryant pitching a one-hitter for M. C. The Majors have a 2-5 record at this writing.

Prospects for the football team are looking up. Coach Bartling has word that several more boys with top-notch talent will be out when drills start next fall.

Intramurals are progressing in high gear after a long cold basketball season. Softball, golf, and tennis are now in full bloom.

The first round of intramural tennis is almost over. John Wimberly, LXA, defeated Fred Belk, KS, 6-1, 6-3; Cliff Rushing, KS, defeated Curtis Holliday, Min., 6-3, 6-1; Bill Mosby, LXA; Adrian Sturdivant, KA; Dick Blount, PiKA; all had "bye's" in the first round.

Millsaps has only three remaining games in baseball. The Majors play Southwestern here, today; William Carey, Hattiesburg, Monday; and Delta State, here, Wednesday. Let's all get out and root for the Majors in their two remaining home games.

Millsaps tennis team is winning consistently; the last four matches have been won by identical 7-2 counts. Miss. Southern (twice), Spring Hill, and Southwestern have all fallen by the wayside.

The State intercollegiate tennis tournament starts next Monday at Starkville, with Miss. State serving as hosts. Teams will draw for pairings Monday morning and play all day Monday and Tuesday with the finals being played late Tuesday afternoon or Tuesday evening. Millsaps and State are defending state co-champs. Let's hope the Majors can top the Maroons their next outing and come out on top alone.

Girls' intramural soft ball got off to a roaring start with the Phi Mu's topping the BSO's, 12-7; Chi Omega's topped the Vikings, 13-12; and KD's nipped the BSO's, 17-10. Girls' softball games are limited to one hour or five innings, whichever comes first. The BSO's won their first outing after only two and a half innings.

Letter To The Editor
 22 Lynwood Place
 New Haven, Conn.
 12 April 1956

The Editor, Purple and White
 Millsaps College
 Jackson 10, Miss.

Dear Sir:

Unless I am mistaken, April 19th Professor A. G. Sanders will give an address to the student body on the occasion of his retirement at the end of this academic year. It occurs to me a word of reminiscence from one of his former pupils might not be out of place.

I don't know whether, as a freshman in his class of French 22 in the spring term of 1950, I was more forcefully struck by the thoroughness and imagination of his scholarship or by the warmth of his personality. As it must have been for many others, that experience was like a luminous point, casting light on experiences past and illuminating subsequent endeavor.

Since I left Millsaps College in 1952, I have been a student of sorts in universities in four countries, which has caused my estimation of many things in American education to go down but for Mr. Sanders as a teacher of language and literature it has continually increased my respect.

Perhaps it is because he understands the farce and tragedy of the present time that he could make literary comedy and tragedy so vital. As Librarian over a number of years he has not only kept the Library, but also read it. Consequently he knows a very great deal about the past. But he knows more about the present, and it is this that gave life to his lectures.

Or it may be simply, to paraphrase Bergson's famous sentence, He could put reality into his lectures because he has idealism in his heart.

It is very difficult to know what it was like to be alive, say in the seventeenth century, unless you know what it is like to be alive today, not as a physicist, a quarterback or a linguist, but as a complete human being, member of the human race. Surely Mr. Sanders could bring to life such a great variety of authors and characters from so many centuries, each in his unique and individual way, only because within himself he carries, at least imaginatively, what Montaigne called "the universal form of the human condition." Hence also his success as an actor.

Perhaps this is what a liberal education is all about. In any case it makes a convenient stopping point. There only remains to thank him publicly for the many things of value he has led us to cherish. I am thinking of the "wealth of the mind", which he once pointed out to me in Dante, the loss of which is Hell. Or it might be for having communicated something of "the light of the soul," la luz del alma, which he quoted so exquisitely from Cervantes in dedicating the new Library last autumn.

But in thanking him for leading us to cherish many things, may I not also thank him for what he has led us not to cherish? So many things of false or inflated value, advertised as rich in reward but in reality spiritually bankrupt, he has turned us from not by a sermon, but by turning on them "the inextinguishable laughter of the Olympians"—or of Moliere.

Yours,

Alumni Return On May Tenth

By Roy Grisham

May 10 will bring Alumni to Millsaps College. "Everybody's coming," says Jim Livesay, Public Relations Director, who went on to say that a new alumni day agenda has been worked out for this year with several new features.

The day's program begins with registration at 10 A. M. Then, at chapel period, Ed Sturdivant, an alum from the class of '55, will look back on his college career when he speaks on the graduate student's view of Millsaps training. Ed is now in the Music Department at L.S.U. Throughout the rest of the day the program includes the Annual Songfest, Leslie Steven's Bullfight by the Players, the Alumni Day Banquet, and seminars for alumni.

One of the most interesting features of the day will be the seminars conducted by three Millsaps professors. Dr. White will carry Shakespeare to the layman in his talk on "How To Understand Shakespeare." Dr. Fleming will bring the philosopher down to earth with "Does The Philosopher Live In An Ivory Tower?" And Dr. Priddy will show the visitors how to find "Geology In Your Own Backyard."

Jim Livesay pointed out that the seminars are in line with the national trend, which is to continue education for alumni. "We are trying to change the too-familiar pattern of people once they graduate — namely, to let their mental life drag. Modern times need college graduates; graduates who keep up with life about them once they get out of school. The college plans to enlarge the alumni program more and more from year to year. We are planning more seminars next year along with an expanded alumni day."

news analysis

by

Alfred Statham

The usually hidden similarity of our two major political parties was partially revealed last week in Washington. During the American Society of Newspaper Editors' convention, several outstanding members of each party delivered major addresses which indicate the basic similarity between Democrats and Republicans. One of the major areas of discussion was United States foreign policy.

Both President Eisenhower and Mr. Stevenson stressed the change in Soviet foreign policy and the need for a revision of our policy to meet this changing need. Eisenhower, of course, emphasized the accomplishments of the administration in this effort, Stevenson the failures. Stevenson suggested what is quite possibly the most urgent need—that of channeling economic aid to foreign nations through the United Nations.

In the annual meeting of the foreign correspondents of the United Press held last January, several very well informed reporters suggested that one of the most serious criticisms or resentments of the United States by foreign nations is our demand for military concessions in return for economic aid. With Russia's current offers of apparently free aid, the need to alleviate this criticism is highly magnified.

It is undeniable that the United States must continue its program of economic and technical aid, and it is likewise apparent that in several respects, we are losing the cold war. By giving this aid through the United Nations and the Organization for European Economic Co-operation, we will no longer be open for accusations of colonialism and imperialism. Unless this change is accomplished, we may find our international prestige greatly reduced.

The two new developments seem apparent in the great controversy concerning the Supreme Court decision of May 17, 1954. The court's decision against separate but equal facilities for Negroes has renewed the feelings of 1860 and has brought about a great split in our nation.

It appears, however, that southern states are slowly moving from a defiant attitude to one of rational thought employing legal methods to fight for their desires. This is evidenced by the use of the doctrine of interposition and statements of our great leaders. The second development is that of some degree of acceptance of this doctrine by northern states and also a revived belief in states rights in the North. Two organizations, For America, and the Federation for Constitutional Government, representing the North and South, respectively, appear to be aligning in an effort to secure their beliefs.

Millsaps Wins State Tennis Championship

By Dannie Anderson

Starkville, May 1.—Millsaps college won the Mississippi intercollegiate tennis title for the first time in history by defeating Mississippi State 20-16. Millsaps and State tied for the title last year; State has won the title four times out of the other six times since the tournament was initiated in 1949.

George Trava of State set a tournament precedent in winning the number 1 singles title for the third consecutive year. Trava defeated Max McDaniel, Millsaps, 6-3, 6-1, and teamed with Wilfred Walker to win the no. 1 doubles also.

Millsaps won the no. 2 and no. 3 singles and the no. 2 doubles title. James Vaughan defeated teammate Willard Leggett, 6-4, 7-5, in the no. 2 singles and Fred Abraham won over Jimmy McCormick, 6-2, 6-4, for the no. 3 singles crown; therefore, Millsaps was set up so that as a team they couldn't lose from the semi-finals on.

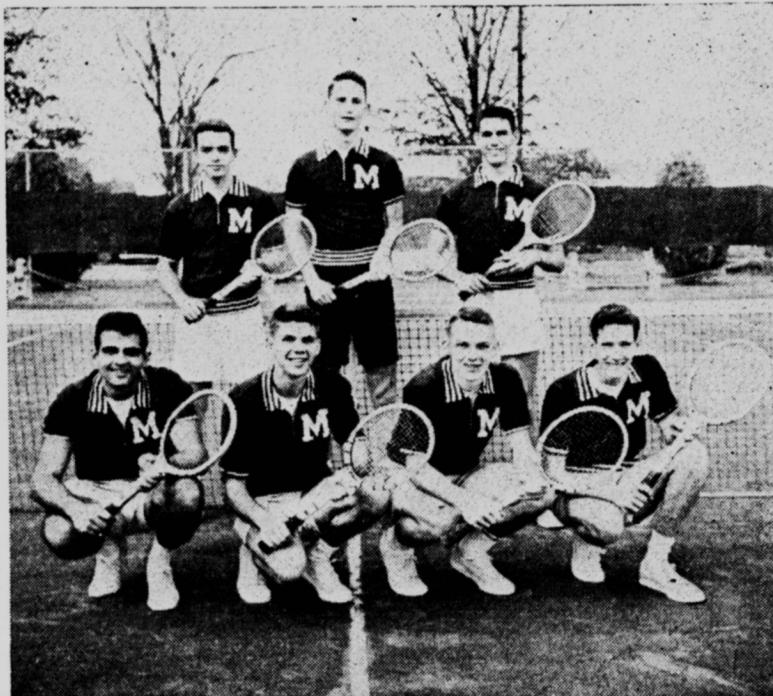

Millsaps ended up with a total of 20 matches for their 20 points, State with 16, and Mississippi Southern with 3. Delta State and Mississippi College failed to score.

Final Round Results

Singles — (1) George Trava, State, over Max McDaniel, Millsaps, 6-3, 6-1; (2) James Vaughan, Millsaps, over Willard Leggett, Millsaps, 6-4, 7-5; (3) Fred Abraham, Millsaps, over Jimmy McCormick, Millsaps, 6-2, 6-4.

Doubles — (1) Trava - Walker, State, over McDaniel-Moore, Millsaps, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3; (2) Leggett-

Candidates Issue Statements; Polls Will Open Wednesday

The thirteen candidates for SEB offices this week released the following statements in behalf of their candidacy.

JOHNSTON

With humble pride I accept this nomination and look forward to the opportunity of serving you.

The physical expansion which Millsaps is now undergoing can be our opportunity to throw off a "creed outworn," and effect policy changes that are long overdue. It is SEB's duty to see that the wishes of the students are channelled into the right hands and appropriate action is taken on these issues.

I am not for changing the entire SEB set up, for SEB has literally been "changed" to death. Other than the system of representation we have a basically sound government which we need to utilize. Once this system is functioning, we can make the necessary revisions to meet the needs of the student body.

The following are a few suggested improvements for SEB and the campus as a whole:

1. Improvement over the "cut system" now in effect.
2. A student employment bureau.

3. A housing board to investigate and list off-campus housing facilities for veterans and others.

4. Investigate the possibilities of a Phi Beta Kappa chapter on the campus.

5. Lecturers from the various professions sponsored by the honoraries representing those respective fields.

6. Sponsoring of a big name band by either Pan Hellenic, IFC or SEB.

7. Homecoming parade competition with Mississippi College.

8. Admittance to more campus functions on student activity cards.

Again, may I humbly and sincerely express my appreciation. I earnestly ask your support.

Respectfully yours,
Hugh H. Johnston, Jr.

JONES

It is a signal honor for any person to be nominated by his fellows for the office of President of the student body. It is a sobering thought to me to realize this, and my nomination immediately imprints foremost in my mind a spirit of deep humility and appreciation.

This nomination challenges me to live a better man, See CANDIDATES, pg. 3

New Schedule To Include Afternoon Classes — Space Tests Better

The Millsaps college student body should have a revised class schedule by next fall. Tentative plans for a revision of the present schedule were made Tuesday by a faculty committee.

In commenting, Registrar Paul Hardin and Dean Ferguson said that the details have not been worked out yet, "but should be soon. The new schedule will require a period of adjustment, but will probably spread tests over a greater period of time, thus reducing the strain caused by having several tests on the same day as under the present schedule."

The committee has been working on the problem for a considerable length of time and, in a meeting last Tuesday, voted on a workable system.

Tuesday and Thursday classes will be affected most. The present hour-and-fifteen-minute classes will be changed to hour-long classes. There will be some afternoon classes in addition to regular labs. This does not mean, though, that there will be Saturday classes.

Details on the proposed system will be available within a short time.

Five Petitions Received By Election Committee

Five petitions for student body offices have been received by Jack Loflin, chairman of the Elections Committee.

The names Ernestine "Teenie" Underhill and Jeanette "Biggie" Wilkins for Secretary, Paul Kern and Reynolds Cheney for Treasurer, and Jim Waits for Vice-President have been added to the eight students already in the races.

The newly-arrived candidates meet the qualifications by having secured 8% of the student body in their petitions and by having a 1.00 average.

Underhill

"Teenie" Underhill, president of Phi Mu, has served as Vice-president and reporter. She also received the Phi Mu Model Pledge Award. Teenie is now Treasurer of the YWCA and has been Vice-president in charge of membership. She is Associate Editor of the 1955-56 Campus Handbook.

She is Treasurer of the Pan-Hellenic Council, a member of the Majorette Club, Singers, and the Players. "Teenie" is an education major.

Wilkins

"Biggie" Wilkins is a member of Chi Omega sorority. She holds several campus offices: Vice-president of the Majorette Club, Secretary of Alpha Epsilon Delta, national pre-med fraternity, and

Cheney

Reynolds Cheney is a past Treasurer of Kappa Alpha and a past Secretary. He is now serving as Vice-president. He worked in a bank for a summer and in the credit department at Sears for the past year. He is a member of Omicron Delta Kappa, men's leadership fraternity, Vice-president of the Christian Council, and editor of Stylus, campus literary magazine.

Kern

Paul Kern is a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity and is its present ritualist. He has done part-time work in bookkeeping. Paul is a member of the Ministerial League, Singers, the debate team, and Pi Kappa Delta, national forensic fraternity. He is now serving as Vice-president of Wesley Foundation and is an English major.

Waits

Jim Waits is now secretary of the sophomore class. He has been active in debate, and served as parliamentarian of the Mock Demo

Even Rose Cunningham who has been pinned for years was thrown in. Several people who aren't even among the lucky ones who are pinned almost got doused.

Debators Climax Successful Year

The Millsaps debators climaxed a very successful year by participating in the Pi Kappa Delta Southern Provincial Tournament at Cookeville, Tennessee, April 18-21. Thirteen colleges and universities were represented at the tournament.

Keith Tonkle and Robert Mims ably upheld the reputation of Millsaps by receiving one of the two superior debate awards. Among the teams defeated by Mims and Tonkle was Lenoir-Rhyne College, which won the Grand National Championship Tournament at Fredericksburg, Virginia, last month. Keith and Robert also won individual awards in oratory, after-dinner speaking, and discussion.

Professor Harmon Tillman expressed a deep feeling of satisfaction and pride in the many trophies and awards which the entire debate team received during this past season.

There is an old adage which adamantly declares that — "No news is good news," so let me be the first to admit that this column contains nothing but good news this week.

Even with the triumphant return of the Singers, the smashing success of the recent Mock convention, and the ever present threat of comprehensives yet to be failed, one still finds that little has transpired worth mentioning.

Carolyn Harpole did give me a ride to the "Juke" and for this friendly gesture, I would like to personally and publicly thank her, even if her auto (Cadillac, by name) is so littered with unopened texts and incomplete papers that one can barely find a seat to sit in.

There has been a siege of "Infectious Mononucleosis" raging about which has sent several of the more popular co-eds toddling off to their own little trundle beds at home. Do you know what causes "Infectious Mononucleosis?"

I know a bit of dope on Judith Forbes but I cannot reveal it since I do want to receive an honorable discharge from my favorite college.

The Chi O's threw a Garden Party Sunday. Course they don't have a garden and there isn't a peony blooming within fifty yards, but that didn't daunt them. They also invaded the Edwards Hotel and engaged in a soiree (whatever that is) which was "sweet." I really couldn't speak from experience though 'cause I wanted to keep my favor all for myself so I didn't attend.

Brave souls are venturing out on the sun porch of Whitworth to acquire a healthy tan in an attempt to disguise their week-end pallor. If you are interested in renting a limb (tree, that is) which offers an excellent bird's eye view of the aforementioned, see Bennie Kirkland, who is renting them by the hour or day.

Why is it that we always have a test per day whenever there is a school function requiring full campus co-operation going on?

Highest commendation is in order for Mrs. Coullet who has expressed a desire to attend my senior recital. Anyone who thinks

The winning girls retold the story of the landing of the Pilgrim fathers—and mothers—and their first meeting with the Indians. Only these crazy pilgrims bopped their way to a peace powwow with live-talking Indians.

A second place tie went to Pike Kappa Alpha and Lambda Chi Alpha. The Pikes gave an inside view of the underworld with their sinister "Nostril Dance". Alton Boyd's "tripping the light fantastic", Howard Jones' contortions, and Waltons Lipscomb's refusal to die made it "A Good Day At Black Rock" for the Lambda Chi's.

The Vikings took third place with a weird and hilarious witches' brew entitled simply "?".

Rose Merchant Wins Art Scholarship

Miss Rose Marie Merchant, a freshman at Millsaps, spent April 27-29 studying art at Allison's Wells. Miss Merchant, who was recommended by Karl Wolfe, won this weekend art scholarship on the basis of her outstanding ability.

While at Allison's Wells, she studied under the direction of Mr. Pat Travinia from New Orleans. Mr. Travinia, a successful artist, has exhibited his art in New York City and New Orleans. Mr. Travinia criticised her work and advised her in the technicalities of her style.

An exhibit of Miss Merchant's art work is presently displayed in the Millsaps-Wilson library.

CANDIDATES—

regardless of whether my opponent or I am elected.

Next year is a crucial year in Millsaps student government. It must be characterized by imaginative planning and dynamic action. The main thing we must do is to work together to accomplish greater student government, not necessarily to increase the personal comfort of our own situation. If elected, I promise to do all in my power to encourage that student government affairs be conducted with greater student government as the goal, and with planning and action the means to the goal.

Toward this end I favor these specific proposals:

—creation of a dynamic and practical Student Union program —improved committee structure, with less waste motion and more people involved —expanded social activities, including at least two big, all-campus dances and at least one big name band

—organization of a Sophomore Advisory Team to help Freshmen adjust to college life —expanded recreational activities

—permanent organization of the classes, each having specific functions

—organizational representation on SEB, such as Singers and M Club

—proportionate personal representation on SEB (ten representatives for social groups and ten representatives for independents)

—creation of a cabinet of committee chairmen to advise the student body officers

—weekly meetings of the Executive Committee

—joint student-faculty committees in the place of all-faculty committees which deal with student activities

—more SEB publicity so all students will know what's going on in their government

—setting up of an SEB office to centralize and smooth handling of records and business and to give SEB a feeling of permanence and meaning —continuation of constitutional revision.

These proposals are a condensation from my original platform. I invite all interested persons to read it, which contains comments and explanations about these and other proposals. I will be glad to get a copy to whoever requests one.

It has been my intention to promise to you only those things which lie entirely within the realm of student government — things which I know can be achieved. Those things I favor which are not entirely within the realm of student government I will pledge to work with the faculty and administration toward achieving, if I am elected.

I sincerely hope next year's student government is truly representative of all students and is truly participated in by all students. If you see fit to elect me to the office of President, I will be the best officer I can.

Sincerely,
Sam Jones

HALES

I would like to take this opportunity to express my appreciation to those who nominated me for the office of Vice-president of this college. It is my hope that this election will be known as one of sincerity and honesty, and one based on sound principles of student government. To this I pledge myself.

The office of Vice-president carries with it one primary duty, as I see it. That duty is to work with the elected President in the formulation of a wise, realistic, and workable SEB. This year's council should be highly praised for their start toward this ideal. We all realize that much remains to be done. I have talked with the two candidates for the office of President and sincerely feel that I can work with either in the establishment of a workable system of representation—a system under which each student would know who represents him and a system under which every student could freely express his ideas in such a way that they would be heard.

I earnestly solicit your support in this campaign. To promise many things would be neither honest nor realistic. However, I do promise that if chosen as your Vice-president, I will work with the President, Secretary, Treasurer and other officers of SEB to the best of my training and ability and will seek to work with all students in maintaining the high standards of Millsaps College. Whatever the outcome of this election shall be, may we all continue to work together in this cause.

Sincerely,
Graham L. Hales, Jr.

MIZE

Having been nominated for the position of Vice-president of SEB it is with honor and humility that I accept.

My endeavor is to serve the college community and my fellow students with a heart-felt eagerness and to the best of my abilities. As a candidate for Vice-president I propose to serve hand in hand with the President-elect. My platform is not centered around promises, but rather, it is based on the desire on my part to serve, to better and to benefit this Millsaps College community with a sincere sense of duty.

Again may I express my thanks for the nomination. If elected may my gratitude be shown in my sincere hard work.

Humbly,
Ed "Bubba" Mize

WAITS

I am deeply grateful to those of you who nominated me for the office of Vice-President. Even to be nominated is an honor. If I am elected, I pledge my full cooperation to the President and the other members of SEB. I shall strive to represent the interests of all, and to seek the best for the entire student body. I shall work for the type of Student Government in which you will be informed, interested citizens. My desire is that each student understand fully the means by which he may express himself in matters of student concern, and that he be encouraged to do so. By cooperation and expression of our ideas we will be better able to establish the good for all.

Sincerely,
Jim Waits

CHUNN

Seldom does an individual have the opportunity to serve in a high position. Only a small minority receive the recognition of being officers in any organization, regardless of its size. This honor must be accompanied by a sense of humility, appreciation, and responsibility. It is in this manner that I accept the nomination of Secretary of the SEB.

I realize that this job requires time and genuine interest in all campus activities. However, as the Secretary has no policy making or executive duties, I shall not outline measures which I feel should be instituted. My platform, therefore, is simply one of accepting the responsibility of the office, and pledging sincere cooperation to the officers you elect, and to you, the students.

Sincerely,
Patricia Chunn

PEACOCK

To have been nominated for the office of SEB Secretary gives me a feeling of appreciation and humility. In expressing my gratitude, I promise that if I am elected to this high office I shall do my best to be a true representative of the student body at large.

If I am elected I promise to carry out the Secretary's duties as outlined in the first article of the Constitution. I shall keep an accurate record of all meetings of SEB, take charge of all clerical duties to be performed by SEB, and serve as the official keeper of the Student Calendar and Constitution.

Also, if elected, I promise to notify all members of each SEB meeting, post the agenda of each meeting, report SEB activities to the P&W, and favor a more thorough system of representation. If elected, I promise to cooperate fully with the other SEB officers and to follow the instructions of the SEB President.

We all know that the present SEB officers have devoted themselves untiringly to trying to develop an increasingly effective system of government. The new student officers, with this inheritance, must make next year mean something in terms of making SEB a really effective force on this campus, and I promise, if elected, to dedicate myself to this purpose.

I wish to thank those who petitioned me. As a candidate for Secretary of SEB, I do not feel it necessary to have a formal platform. I do, however, wish to say that, in addition to the regular duties of the office, I would endeavor to promote a better relationship between students and faculty and a smoother functioning SEB. I also would try to encourage more active student participation in campus government.

Sincerely,
Ernestine "Teenie" Underhill

WILKINS

First, I would like to thank all those to whom I am indebted for petitioning me as a candidate for Secretary of SEB. If elected, I will perform my duties in carrying out the operations of the Student Executive Board to the best of my ability, and will work with you to have a great Student Government built around the higher ideals of the students of Millsaps College.

It is indeed a privilege and honor to submit myself to you as a candidate for this important office.

LOOK AT THIS!
SEB ELECTIONS WILL BE WEDNESDAY, MAY 10, IN MURRAH HALLSTONE

One of the greatest honors that can be accorded to any man occurs when he is nominated by his fellow students for a student body office. It is, therefore, with a sense of personal gratitude and deep humility that I enter the race for Treasurer of the Student Executive Board.

Since all accounting and bookkeeping is done by college business office personnel, no more than a layman's knowledge of accounting procedures is necessary.

Rather, the important qualification absolutely necessary for the Treasurer to possess is an intimate knowledge of the functions and needs of the various extracurricular organizations. This is necessary in order to ascertain the amounts of money that constitute fair allotments to those groups.

It follows, then, that the Treasurer must have had varied association with all phases of extracurricular activity here at Millsaps. In determining the size of an allotment to an organization, consideration must be given to the number of students being served by, or benefitting from, an allotment to that organization.

With this knowledge of the necessary qualifications and duties of Treasurer of SEB, I submit myself as a candidate, and pledge to the position my industry and interest, if I am elected.

Again let me express my gratitude for having been nominated for the office. The nomination in itself is a fine honor.

Sincerely,
John Stone

KERN

Sensing the need for a change in the present system because of the responsibility involved, SEB has asked that a Treasurer be elected. It is with humility that I accept the honor of being nominated for this position and I am looking with great anticipation toward the possibility of serving the college community in this capacity. The administration of the budget certainly requires a fair, objective look so that proper apportionments will be made to those organizations on the campus receiving this support. This is a task that requires foresight and the complete cooperation of all members of SEB in administering community government which I believe is the desire of the students at Millsaps.

Certainly the Vice-president has done a good job, but we all realize how much better the duties of this office could be administered if handled by a Treasurer. In the past the Vice-president has been burdened with this responsibility along with the numerous other duties that are assigned him. I think that SEB realized that to perform the duties of apportioning the SEB funds would require a constant study of the problem. With this idea in mind the additional office of Student Body Treasurer was added.

I think I fully realize the responsibilities of the office of Treasurer; because I stand on these principles, I earnestly solicit your support in this election for the office of Treasurer of SEB.

Sincerely,
Paul Kern

MIMS

May I express my sincere thanks in a spirit of humble gratitude for being selected as a candidate for the office of S. E. B. Treasurer.

As you all know, this office is a new one. One of the chief functions of the treasurer will be to serve as head of the Budget Committee whose purpose will be to make allotments to the various campus activities. If elected to this office, I will strive earnestly to see that allotments to the aforementioned activities are made on a "per student participation" basis; also I will work hand in hand with the other elected officers and the college business staff.

By way of qualifications, I am an economics major; I have served as treasurer of other organizations; I have gained practical experience while working in the bookkeeping department of the Deposit Guaranty Bank and Trust Company; and, above all, I am keenly interested in the betterment of student government at Millsaps College.

Very Respectfully Submitted,
Robert Mims

CHENEY

It is with deep appreciation that I thank those people who petitioned me for Treasurer for the SEB. It is a great honor and one that only comes once in a college career. I thank you with the deepest feeling of gratitude.

In my candidacy for Treasurer of SEB, I will do my best to campaign on the highest level. I hope that this entire election will be settled on the basis of abilities and qualifications, not personalities.

The main duty of the Treasurer of SEB is the budget for the next year. I base my platform on my former experience in this field. With this background I feel duly qualified to fulfill the requirements of the position and to perform the duties set for the Treasurer.

I know personally and I have talked with the other candidates for office. I know that, if elected, I can work harmoniously with any and all of them to give Millsaps the best SEB yet.

I thank you again for the high honor bestowed on me by this nomination. I wish the best of luck to my opponents.

Student Opportunities

by Anne Coker

Job opportunities this week include openings for a service station attendant, a door-to-door canvasser, an instrument man, and a party chief.

There is an opening for a student experienced as a service station attendant to work from 3 to 9 p.m. daily at the City Service Station. Minimum wage will be $150 per month; further information may be obtained from Dean McCracken's office.

An instrument man and a party chief are needed to do surveying work in Canada this summer for the firm of Shupe, Hall and Associates. Experienced men are preferred. Get in touch with Claudette Hall in Whitworth Dormitory for more information.

Competitions for Fulbright Scholarships for graduate study abroad for 1957-58 are now open. Eligibility requirements for these foreign study fellowships are: United States citizenship; a college degree at the time the award is to be taken up; knowledge of the language of the country of application sufficient to carry on the proposed study; and good health. Preference is given to applicants not more than 35 years of age. Awards under the Fulbright Act cover transportation, expenses of a language refresher or orientation course abroad, tuition, books and maintenance for one academic year. Although the scholarships will be for next year, the deadline for applications is November 1, 1956. It's advisable to secure all details now if you are interested. See Dr. A. G. Sanders, the Fulbright Program Adviser on this campus, for all further details.

Many Federal establishments are offering summer employment to college students majoring in engineering and physical and biological sciences. Some agencies also offer summer employment in typing and stenographic jobs. Salaries range from $224 a month to $284. Rates for scientific jobs depend on the number of school years completed. Further information may be obtained from the college placement officer, a Civil Service Commission regional office, or the U.S. Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D.C.

SPORTS SPOTS

by DANNIE ANDERSON

Things have slowed down on the intramural courts because of the heavy rain Monday. Softball (boys and girls), tennis, and golf have been delayed.

In the few rounds of golf that have been played, Lambda Chi Alpha is leading with Bobby Livingston's one over par 38, and Roy Givens' three over par 40. Robert Gentry, Ministers, shot a 52, and Fred Williams of Pi Kappa Alpha slumped a 43. Three rounds are required by each man on each team or a total of 27 holes for each of the four men on a team. With five teams shooting and 27 holes to be shot by 20 men, the golf course should be pretty full between now and next Saturday.

Millsaps has been out of luck in the baseball category the last week; the Majors have dropped two contests to Mississippi College, and one to William Carey, 15-5.

The Millsaps tennis squad ended its regular season of play by topping the Delta State Statesmen, 6-3, last Thursday at Cleveland. Stewart Gammil played his second match of the season and Fred Abraham played his first match as number one man in singles. Max McDaniel switched places with Fred as number four man on the regular squad.

Chi Omega defeated the Vikings, 14-11, and K D's topped the BSO's last week, 17-10; the winning pitcher for the Chi O's was Karen Gilfoyle; Sarah Jones strode off with the laurels for the KD's.

Kappa Sigma seems to be headed for another intramural championship, this time in softball. The Sig's are the only team that is unbeaten. They trounced Lambda Chi Alpha in the play off game, 57-16, to cop the intramural basketball championship. It doesn't look like there will be any need for a playoff in softball.

Late Score: The Vikings blasted the KD's, 11-0, the winning pitcher was Gail Moorehead.

College Queen Contest Searches For Beauty

Asbury Park N. J.—The search for the nation's most beautiful and brainy college girl is now underway with the launching of the fourth annual National College Queen Contest which will stage its national grand finals at Convention Hall in Asbury Park over Sept. 7-9, 1956. Undergraduate college girls between the ages of 17 and 24 years are eligible to enter the contest. Entry blank forms and contest information may be obtained by writing to: College Queen Contest Director, Convention Hall, Asbury Park, N. J.

The purpose of the contest is to select and honor the most typical and all-around versatile college girl in the nation. Judgings at the local, state, sectional and national levels, will be based on 50% for beauty and 50% for brains. Each entrant will submit an original essay of 250 words or less on the subject, "What College Education Means To Me"; she will also submit recent snapshots or photographs along with entry forms. Entrants will also be judged on a basis of their personal charm; beauty; attractiveness and stage presence.

Students attending colleges and universities either in their home states or out of state are eligible to enter the contest.

Deadline for receiving requests for entry blank forms is midnight, July 1.

RELIGIOUS VIEWS AND REVIEWS

A View From The Hill

By Brooks Hudson

I stood atop a cliff last night and caught a glimpse of the world and of the people who lived on it. It was a busy scene, and the people, like busy ants, scurried among the tall buildings and the trees in the river valleys. There were all sorts of people—red, white, yellow, and brown, but they all seemed to be doing the same job—remolding, remaking, tearing down antiquated institutions and building in their stead a new world, the world of tomorrow.

Then I sat down beneath a storm-blasted tree and thought about the people I had seen. They were not fighting people actually, they were workers. They had no quarrel brother against brother. They were men of the soil, of the mine, of the mill. Why did they often rob, kill, and cheat?

In the dim background, mingled with the lonely call of a nightingale, I could hear the blare of a loudspeaker and the cries of the populace as it hailed the newest leader. Was this the cause of the world's unrest, this rise of false demigods, who preached the sermon of violence, who bred the children of falsehood, who slashed the bonds of brotherly love?

The stars then appeared, and the gentle breeze whispered to the trees in the valleys and caressed the tall buildings. In the light of the stars my mind grew illumined and I could see the people once again in my mind's eye. They are not like other animals, they are not blind sheep who follow the Judas goat to the knife; they are thinking beings, supplied with a free will. They could choose their own leader. But who would they choose?

The river valleys echoed the question and the tall buildings replied with no answer. The tree was mute, and the animals of the night only awaited, as I did, the reply to my question. But the stars above spoke then with their celestial tones: "God is their leader. God is their President, their king, their general. Through their great leaders God will speak, and men shall dwell forever in the Eternal Day of His blessing."

I sat again under the tree and awaited the dawning day, when we shall live forever the life of the happy.

Major Major:

Margaret Woods Is Chosen Personality Of The Week

Chosen as Major Major this week is Margaret Woods, a senior from Mount Olive. Margaret is the past president of Kappa Delta sorority of which she had served as social chairman. She was also model pledge of KD. She served as Pan-hellenic treasurer, assistant art editor of the Bobashela, and worked on the business staff of the Purple and White. Among the many campus honors she has collected are being tapped into Sigma Lambda, and KDE, education honorary. She is a member of the Singers, the Majorette Club, and the International Relations Club. Besides these many activities, Margaret manages to keep her name on the Dean's List.

Margaret will be busy taking comprehensives next week. She is looking forward to graduating in May with a major in elementary education. She plans to teach the second grade in Memphis, and will be married Christmas. Margaret says she will be glad to graduate, but she will miss her many friends at Millsaps.

Clairvoyant . . .

By Sallie Anne Dement

Returning for our second and last bout with Claire's typewriter, the guest editors greet you.

The strangest sight yet is the BOYS' SUNBATHING CLUB, which meets daily on the roof between Burton and Galloway halls. This club was founded in self-defense after seeing the healthy tans the girls were sporting.

Don Lisle seems to be following the fad of his other fraternity brothers. He's joined the ranks of the condemned—we mean pinned! The lucky girl is Amanda Farmer, a senior from Taylorsville.

We've observed our bird legs beauty tearing around the campus again. That black and white Ford has returned to its reserve spot behind Sanders. We really missed you, Pickering.

Stunt Night was a growling success. We offer the KD's a white rose for winning first place. (Dyane, is it really a tin bucket?)

The KD's and BSO's looked their loveliest Friday and Saturday night at their annual spring formals. From all reports they strictly seemed to have enjoyed themselves.

The KA's and their dates are looking forward to a great time this weekend. They plan on living it up at Gulf Shores.

Charles Purifoy kept the lines busy between Greenwood and Sanders last weekend. Who is it that you are spending your bankroll on?

The campus has been unusually quiet this weekend. This can probably be attributed to the fact that our dignified seniors have been studying for comprehensives.

We wish you the best of luck, but we can give no help! This time next week it'll all be over except the shouting.

Who's the new twosome we've seen riding around in a black Ford convertible? Could it be that Dillard and Caraway are getting up a case?

Tea Parties were the thing—Sunday. The Chi O's had one for their parents, and the Phi Mu's, BSO's, and KD's for the high school seniors.

Campaigning for SEB officers is becoming heated. Seen all over the campus are blobs of red paint. We know that the best men will be elected.

Since stunt night Annice Loflin and Mary Jo Edwards have put stars upon their doors. This, we suppose, is to be significant of their "starring roles" in their stunts. They're expecting offers from Hollywood any day now.

If there seems to be something wrong with Betty Landfair's left arm, just note the new diamond. She and Jack McDonald got engaged last weekend.

The new announcement on the bulletin board in Founders has us puzzled. When we sign out for our "exact destination," must we trace our footsteps for an entire evening. If that's so, a new sign-out book will be needed with a page for each girl.

We have thoroughly enjoyed our guest editorship. We thank you for bearing with us. Next week Claire will return, and the column will be back to its usual standard.

BSO Ruby And Pink Ball Held In Coronet Room

Alpha Zeta Chapter of Beta Sigma Omicron Sorority held its annual Ruby and Pink Ball in the Crown and Coronet Rooms of the Edwards Hotel on April 28, from eight until twelve. Music was furnished by Jerry Lane's Orchestra.

Chaperones were Dr. and Mrs. J. E. McCracken, Dr. and Mrs. Harry S. Manley, and Dr. and Mrs. T. L. Reynolds.

The high point of the evening came when Claudette Westerfield was crowned Pink Lady—an honor bestowed each year upon the most outstanding senior member of the sorority. She was crowned by the 1955 Pink Lady, Mrs. Martha Ann Hunter. Members of the court were Marjorie Boleware, Charlotte Elliott, Virginia Slater, and Margaret Whitfield.

Beta Sigs and their dates were as follows:

Becky Larche, Doug Campbell; Carolyn Allen, Donald Richmond; Marilyn Smith, Lacy Causey; Hoyte Curtis, Hugh Johnston; Bettie Clair Diggs, Ben Younger; Mary Jo Edwards, Marvin Jeter; Jean Roten, Billy Graham, Patricia Wynn, Sam Tomlinson; Jo Ann Brenke, Freddie Abraham; Cara Lloyd Hemphill, Jim Body; Carolyn Goff, Roy Grisham; Mar-

BSO High School Tea Was Sunday

On Sunday, April 29, Alpha Zeta Chapter of Beta Sigma Omicron Sorority honored the senior girls of Jackson's high schools with a tea at the Chapter House from two until four.

Open House was held from four until five for the campus.

Pikes Elect New Officers

Last Thursday the Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity elected officers for the coming semester. They are: Robert Mims, President, S. M. C.; John McEachin, Vice-President, I.M.C.; Lacy Fraiser, Treasurer, ThC; William Jeanes, Historian.

ChiOmegaSorority Honors Parents

Chi Omega Sorority members honored their parents with an informal party last Sunday.

Entertainment was furnished by a skit "Ocean to Ocean," which is a part of the fall rush program.

Rush chairman June Stellwagon and Susan Wheless were in charge of the planning for the party, and Patsy Caver and Pansy Barksdale in charge of the refreshments.

The party was closed with an informal fellowship period.

Kappa Delta Has Garden Party

Kappa Delta Sorority entertained the senior girls who are planning to enter Millsaps next fall at a garden party on April 28. The party was at the home of Mrs. Texas Mitchell Campbell, national president of Kappa Delta.

Refreshments consisted of green punch and green and white petit fours. Mrs. Campbell served the punch at the party.

Red Tops Played For Biennial Kappa Delta White Rose Ball

Kappa Delta Sorority held its traditional biennial White Rose Ball at the Colonial Country Club last Friday night. Music was by the Red Tops of Vicksburg.

The ballroom was beautifully decorated in green and white, Kappa Delta colors. Small white roses on green streamers draped from the ceiling. Here and there were clusters of large white roses. Spotlighted at one end of the room was a large KD pin of green and white.

Favors were small leather shoe-shine kits with a KD crest on top. Especially made for traveling, the kits contained polish, cloths, and brushes.

Chaperones were Dr. and Mrs. H. S. Manley and Dr. and Mrs. T. L. Reynolds. Several other members of the faculty and administration were present.

KD's and their dates were Margaret Woods, Hal Brown; Robin Smith, Nick Greener; Nancy Peacock, Sam Jones; Carol Culley, Noel Mills, Jr.; Clara Parks Booth, Murray Pinkston; Annette Johnson, N. R. Walley; Emily Greener, Parker Sojourner; Sarah Jones, Leslie Shelton; Hazel Truluck, Burton Jackson; Jerre Gee, Barry Stewart; Sara Janice Black, Lea Hyman; Pattie Bradley, Cliff Rigby; Elizabeth Ann Clark, Fred Jabour; Jane McInvale, Brack Lange; Wendy Olmsted, Ed Wilburn Hooker; Nita Perry, Joe Mccluskey; Barbara Thomas, Bobby Tullos; Laurene Walker, Frank Eakin, Jr.; Charlene Welch, Rob-

The fellow and girl charged around a corner and bumped smack into each other. They stepped back, apologized, and started up again. But they both dodged in the same direction, and bumped once more. Again they started up, bumped, and apologized. This time the fellow stepped back, raised a hat, and gallantly remarked: "Just once more, then I really have to go."

Make Up Your Own Mind-Then Vote!

The candidates have submitted their platforms and seem zealous about fulfilling them should they get the chance. Well, it's up to you to see that they do—to see that the best candidates are elected, and to see that they stay zealous in the fulfillment of their duties.

Both Sam and Hugh seem determined to make SEB a more respectable organization—so we can't go wrong on that plank. It's up to you though, in the final analysis, to decide who you vote for. After all, elections are held by secret ballot, and the welfare of the student body as a whole comes first—before the social organization with which you may be affiliated. Don't succumb to pressure groups—vote the way you want to.

Two years ago, the number of ballots cast for SEB officers was a disgrace—last year it was a sizeable 76%—but this year should mark an all time high—if even a little of the political feeling of the Mock Convention is left stirring in your bones.

The voting booth will be set up in Murrah Hall—across from the Registrar's office, and for a full day will be available for your use—so use it.

Speaking of voting in general, (which is considered just about as democratic a method as can be used in elections), it is one privilege which, if not used, will be taken away from us.

Christian Center—Christian or Center?

Practically overnight the campus has become dotted with signs (some very cryptic) and political posters. The Convention posters are merely turned around, and now local candidates are facing the student voters with every conceivable kind of slogan.

A faint twinge was felt when it was pointed out that we should not have bedecked Christian Center with campaign stickers and signs. It is, after all, more than just a class building; as the name implies, Christian Center has many of the attributes of a church. It seems reasonable to believe that this one building should be spared from glaring political posters.

On the other hand, political posters and posters of many other sorts are not new to the Christian Center. Last year, during SEB elections much of its space was utilized to the fullest to proclaim the superiority of the several candidates. Further, it is also reasonable to believe that since it now serves as the "acting Student Union" or gathering place for students and faculty for other than strictly religious ceremonies or school functions, it would be inconsistent to refrain from using its walls and corridors to advertise school affairs.

It's a strange situation which has two strong opposing arguments.

Maybe the completion of the Millsaps Union Building will resolve this question.

Plans For Song Fest Completed

The Chi Omega Annual Song Fest will be presented on Thursday, May 10, at 3:30 p.m. The social groups and their selections are:

Beta Sigma Omicron: "Coming Through the Rye," "Big Wide Wonderful World."

Kappa Delta: "Thank the Good Lord It's Friday," "Softly as in a Morning Sunrise," and "Kappa Delta Garden of Dreams."

Phi Mu: "It's a Grand Night for Singing," "June is Busting Out all Over," and "Night Serenade."

Vikings: "Dry Bones," "Look for the Silver Lining," and "On the Sunny Side of the Street."

Kappa Alpha: "The Whiffenpoof Song," "You'll Never Walk Alone," and "KA Sweetheart."

Kappa Sigma: "Rocking in Jerusalem," "Kappa Sigma Sweetheart Song".

Lambda Chi Alpha: "All The Things You Are," "When Johnny Comes Marching Home," and "My Crescent Girl."

Pi Kappa Alpha: "Honeymoon," "Your Land and My Land," and "Swanee."

The sponsoring Chi O's: "Music Maestro" please," "It Might As Well Be Spring," "Old King Cole", and "A Pretty Girl."

The judges for Song Fest are prominent people in music circles of Jackson and their identities will remain unknown until results are announced.

A reception will be held in the Christian Center lounge after the musical presentation.

The public is cordially invited to attend the Millsaps Song Fest.

Carter Contest Will Be May 10

The Carter Medal Oratorical Contest will be held next Thursday, May 10, 1956, at 2:30 in room 4 of the Christian Center. All contestants must deliver an original oration of eight to ten minutes duration. Anyone interested in participating in the contest should contact Professor Harmon Tillman as soon as possible.

Wood Attends Buyers Meeting

Mr. J. W. Wood, Business Manager, attended the annual meeting of the National Association of Educational Buyers of which Millsaps is a member. The meeting was held in New Orleans last week.

Mr. Wood attended only the Wednesday session of the meeting. He heard talks on the Administration of Student Union Buildings and saw exhibits of kitchen and grill equipment.

24 Students Attend Older Youth Retreat

Recently twenty-four college students from Millsaps, M.S.C.W., and Mississippi State College journeyed to the Gulf Coast for the Older Youth Retreat in Biloxi. The weekend included a program of both study and recreation. Rather than being planned, the program of study was conducted more as a panel discussion. Prof. Bergmark and his family accompanied the Millsaps group which included Helen Hayes, Eddie King, Nancy Crawford, Ed Upton, Darby Gilmore, Jimmy Griffis, Pat Hillman, and Jim Waits.

"Let Me Get That Vote Again"

"Bubba" Mize patiently waits for his New York delegation to decide which delegate to vote for.

Remembering The Mock Convention:

You should have seen the look on:

Jerry Trigg's face when Neal Biggers announced that Tennessee cast its vote for Adlai Stevenson.

Snake Deaton's face when Frank J. Lausche went 102 votes out in front during the second ballot.

Biggie Wilkins' face when she thought she'd been duped into voting for the wrong man in the second ballot.

President Finger's face when he received a two-minute standing ovation from the convention delegates.

Thurston Sturdley's face when nobody nominated him for President.

Alton Boyd's face when, 30 seconds before his seconding speech, he discovered Helen Dall Barnes transforming his speech into confetti.

Helen Dall's face a few seconds later.

Dr. Manley's face when the convention was over and an acclaimed success.

Jack Poole's face the 7th time Alfred Statham ruled him "out of order."

Tom Boone's face when Homer Sledge kept bashing the floor with a board during Claudette Westerfield's seconding speech.

Homer Sledge's face shortly after.

The boys' faces when Claire King, Aden Coleman, "Windy" Olmstead and Betty Jane Cleveland escorted William Winter to the Speaker's stand.

Sallie Ann Dement's face (one of the convention secretaries) when, during the third ballot, some of the states began changing their votes,

And there were plenty more; looks that made the blood run cold and looks to warm your heart, but mostly the kind that made some guy remark, "Brother, I just wish we could have one of these Mock Conventions every year!"

ANALYSIS—

This is not to say that this serious problem is practically solved. There will be many more legal battles, economic pressure tactics, and incidents of violence before this question is resolved. It looks as though we may find the right path, however, which will reunite this country and bestow the blessings of a great nation on all its citizens.

Mississippi College Holds Student Body Elections: Six Installed

After much successful campaigning, six candidates for offices in student government have been chosen at Miss. College.

The new President of the student body is Talmadge Littlejohn (the man who knows his parliamentary procedure). Glenn Sullivan is Chief Justice (a new office), Bailey Powell is Vice-President, Gerald Buckley is Attorney, Dot McKinnie is Secretary, and Bernard Spooner is Treasurer.

Officers elect, and especially to our good friend T. Littlejohn, we wish you success in your new jobs!

Possibly the most perennial and bitter controversy for the past thirty years has been the fight for and against labor unions. The next two or three years may well be the most critical period.

It can not be denied that unorganized labor was unjustly exploited for many years. Then came the Wagner Act of 1935 and other similar legislation which guaranteed labor the right to organize and bargain collectively. This era continued until 1947 and was generally characterized by a governmental attitude of labor favoritism. In 1947, however, Congress passed the highly controversial Taft-Hartley Law in an effort to restore, or create, a balance of power between labor and management.

The recent merger of the AFL and CIO places new emphasis on the importance of adequate, impartial governmental control, as well as an attitude on the part of both labor and management to cooperate in the best interest of the general welfare of our nation. The AFL-CIO, under the leadership of George Meany, now has a membership of approximately 18 million; the tremendous power of this organization could well be abused if not adequately controlled. There can be no doubt that labor unions have greatly improved working conditions and provide many beneficial services. Adversely, however, unions have been the cause of great injustice and too frequently, violence.

Three responsibilities should be realized and assumed by labor leaders: (1) their organizations should refrain from applying pressure in political considerations; (2) unions must work for the betterment of the nation's entire working force, and not for improvement of their members only, at the expense of non-union workers; and (3) no violence or coercive force should be condoned. These three cardinal points, if followed, could well introduce a new era of industrial peace and prosperity in the United States.

Adlai Stevenson's recent proposal to discontinue atomic tests has been severely attacked. Several facts, once realized, shed new light on the question, however.

The current hydrogen bomb tests at Eniwetok and Bikini reveal that America has a single bomb with the equivalent power of 10 million tons of TNT. It is difficult to comprehend such a weapon and the question arises if it is sensible to produce a force still more destructive than this? We certainly could not justify the use of such a bomb, morally, and probably not strategically. If an all-out war occurs, both Russia and the United States could use weapons of this force; and if both

Drs. Wicke And Cuninggim To Deliver Commencement, Baccalaureate Addresses

DR. WICKE

The end of 185 college careers will be almost here for the seniors when graduation weekend arrives. Dr. Myron F. Wicke of Nashville, Tennessee, and Dr. Merrimon Cuninggim, from Southern Methodist University, will deliver the commencement and baccalaureate addresses, respectively, to the 1956 graduating class.

Dr. Wicke is associate director of the Section of Secondary and Higher Education, Division of Educational Institutions, Board of Education of the Methodist Church. He has studied at Oberlin College, Columbia University, and the University of Chicago; and has written extensively on educational, religious, and literary subjects.

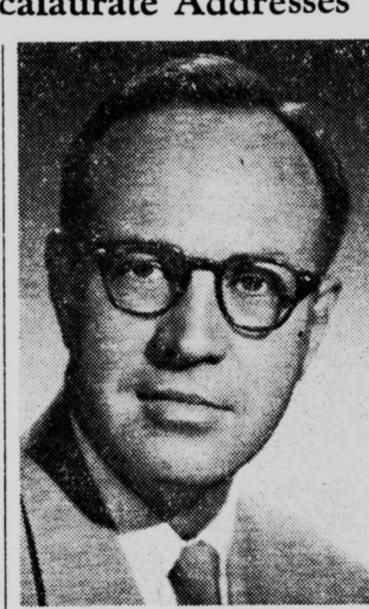

nations do, civilization will be reduced to a primitive level, if not totally destroyed. If the weapons are not used, their development has accomplished nothing.

This dilemma faces the world in the current effort of disarmament. The problem is great and the solution is difficult. Why doesn't this great nation take the initiative and indicate its true intention by devoting scientific efforts to the peaceful development of atomic power?

Reynolds Cheney Is ODK Prexy

In its last meeting of the year, Pi Circle of Omicron Delta Kappa elected officers for the coming year. Reynolds Cheney was elected president, and Sam Jones and Dr. Ross Moore were re-elected to their positions of vice-president and secretary-treasurer, respectively. Hardy Nall is the retiring president of the group.

Preceding the business meeting, Walter Lipscomb and Mr. Jim McLeod were initiated into the local circle. Mr. Craig Castle, Dr. Manning Hudson, and Mr. McLeod, newly elected alumni members of Pi Circle, were present for the business meeting which was held at the Lambda Chi house.

DR. CUNINGGIM

Dr. Cuninggim is a graduate of Vanderbilt University. He received his Ph.D degree in religion and education from Yale University. He has served on the faculties of Duke University, Emory, Henry College, and Denison University, and is a member of Omicron Delta Kappa, the American Academy of Political Science, Phi Beta Kappa, and other honoraries. He has written two books, in addition to numerous religious and educational articles.

Eta Sigma Phi Holds 'Feste Romane'

Jeanette Pullen of Brookhaven was elected president of Eta Sigma Phi at its annual Roman banquet. Other officers are vice-president, Summer Walters, Jackson; secretary, Gwen McRaney, Lumberton; treasurer, Don Taft, Jackson; and reporter, Brooks Hudson, Shubuta.

The Roman banquet was held in the Rock Garden of the New Primos Restaurant. In the Roman style everyone wore Roman togas. The menus were written in Latin.

Band To Present Spring Concert

The Millsaps Symphonic Band will present its spring concert on May 17. The band will go to Allison's Wells Friday and Saturday to put the final touches on next Thursday's program. They will combine work with play during the weekend's workout. Director Sam Jones says that the band will put in three one-and-a-half-hour rehearsals.

This is the second year that the band has made the trek up the highway. Sam says that the annual event has proved successful and, like last year, is designed to give the band members a chance to practice undisturbed, in order to smooth off some of the rough edges in the various numbers.

The concert program is:

The Corcoran Cadets March	J. P. Sousa
Fugue in D Minor (The Giant)	J. S. Bach
Pavane Pour Une Infante Defunte	Maurice Ravel
Chorale and Alleluia	Howard Hanson
Peer Gynt Suite No. 1	Edvard Grieg

Intermission

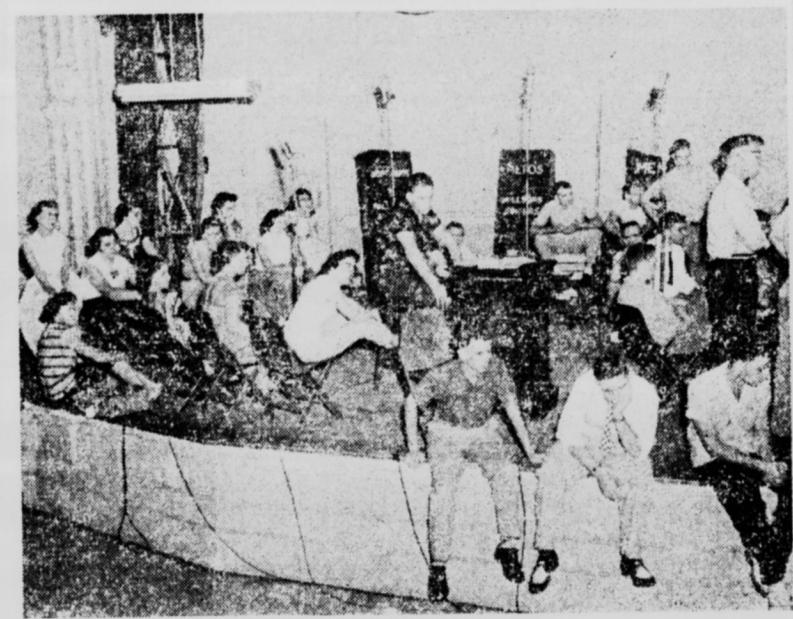

March to the Scaffold (from Symphonie Fantastique)	Hector Berlioz
A Selection of Grofe Tunes	Ferde Grofe
Greensleaves	Old English Tune
The Melody Shop March	Karl L. King
Cowboy Rhapsody	Morton Gould
Restoration	Sam Jones

Debate Club Officers Elected At Annual Banquet

The Debate Club, to receive a charter from the school next year, elected officers last Friday night, following a banquet at Johnny's Restaurant. Heading the club for 1956-57 are Bob Mims, president, Paul Kern, vice-president, and Keith Tonkel, secretary-treasurer. The program also included handing out awards by Coach Tillman for outstanding debate work during the past year. Paul Kern, Susie Lipsey, Keith Tonkel, Alfred Statham, Rose Cunningham, Jim Waits, Alton Boyd, Jerry Trigg, and Bob Mims received awards.

Jerry Trigg received the trophy for most outstanding debater at Millsaps in 1955-56.

Alton Boyd concluded the program with the presentation of cuff links and a "speech" to Rev. Tillman in recognition of his fine success with "Tillman's Talkers." Coach Tillman will not be back at Millsaps next year.

Singers Listen to RCA Record Playback

The Millsaps Singers recorded eight songs last Friday for RCA Victor. Perfection was assured when, after constant readjustment of the recording equipment, the Singers completed their recording date in Murrah Auditorium. Record sales will be handled by Jim Livesay.

Net Squad Ends Big Season; White Announces Lettermen

By Dannie Anderson

The Millsaps tennis team hung up its rackets for another year this week after winning the Mississippi intercollegiate tennis championship.

The Majors copped the title in a 20-16 win over Mississippi State in the finals at Starkville last Tuesday. Three of the six individual championships are possessed by Millsaps players. Fred Abraham and James Vaughn own the number two and three singles' championships; Abraham and Willard Leggett combined to cop the number two doubles' crown.

Millsaps piled up an enviable record in regular season play, also, compiling a 16-2 record and whipping such teams as Alabama, Birmingham Southern, Mississippi Southern, Spring Hill, Southwestern, I.S.N.U., Delta State, Henderson State, and Mississippi College.

Millsaps' first six wins were by 9-0 scores. Mississippi State topped Millsaps two days straight by 5-4, 6-3, scores, but Millsaps rolled on to eight other matches, topping their opponents handily, and wound up the season with a 7-2 trouncing of Spring Hill last Saturday.

Dr. M. C. White ended his 36th year since he started coaching at Millsaps in 1920. Dr. White won the state doubles championship as recently as two years ago and has worked out with team several afternoons a week this season.

Dr. White announces the following lettermen: Max McDaniel, Jackson; Powers Moore, Jackson; Willard Leggett, Hattiesburg; Fred Abraham, Vicksburg; James Vaughn, Amory; Jimmy McCormick, Jackson, and Gilbert Woods, Greenville.

In RetrospectBy
Bob Patterson*The Fugitive Slave*

Among the many problems involved in slavery, the one of runaway slaves was indeed serious. Shortly before the Civil War, a top field hand cost between $1200 and $1800. For those days, that was a lot of money. Furthermore, the escape of a slave could ruin the morale of the remaining slaves on the plantation.

In Mississippi, a slave was considered a runaway if he was more than eight miles from his home without a written pass from his master, or if he had been away from home over two days.

The reasons a slave would run away are obvious. He (or she) would want to get away from the unpleasant conditions on the plantation. Or the slave would want to re-unite with his family which may have broken up when he was sold. The largest number of slaves escaped when the biggest amount of work was to be done on the plantation. Many had no intention of actually escaping, but just wanted to get away from the plantation for a while.

The records that have been left for us show that a few slaves were enticed to run away by Northern whites or other fugitive negroes. In Vicksburg, a Northern abolitionist was caught trying to smuggle three Negroes on a steam-boat headed to Cincinnati. The man was put in jail for breaking the law and for his own safety. His bond was set at $10,000. (Negro stealing in Mississippi was punishable with a fine of $300 and three to twenty years in jail.)

The best route out of the state for an escapee was the river system. If he could get to the Mississippi, he might be able to hide on a boat. Getting to the river without being seen was a problem, of course. Steam boat captains were severely warned not to take Negroes on board that were suspected runaways or even looked suspicious.

Most of the runaways that tried to leave the state attempted to get to Ohio, or to New Orleans where there were a lot of free Negroes. Some would try to remain in the South, however, and some even tried to remain in the state. Their success at doing this depended on their ability to avoid anyone who might recognize them and their "aquisition" of a pass.

The slave, if he could write, would forge a pass, or steal one or steal one from another Negro. Some even stole certificates of freedom from free Negroes. There is one case where a Negro stole such a certificate, was questioned by the authorities, and was not able to give them the correct name. Being unable to read, he had no way of knowing the name on it.

The runaway was fair game to anyone. Suspicious looking Negroes were liable to be questioned by any white at any time. Several runaways killed the white man that stopped them, but this was an exception to the rule. In many areas agents were hired to be on the lookout for escapees and they were paid $30 for each fugitive they caught or held for the owner.

The newspapers carried notices of runaways and are reminiscent of our "lost and found" columns of (See SLAVE, page 4)

CAPITOL AT PRESIDENT

today. The slave's height, age, color of clothes, and name of his master appeared if the slave had not been captured. Facial or body characteristics were given. Some of these columns state that the fugitive had "remarkable large blue eyes", or was "remarkably ugly." A stammering negro was described as one who "stomps on the ground when the word is hard to get out."

In Mississippi, the fugitive was kept in jail for six months if the owner could not be located in that time. If the owner was located, he paid the jailer a fee for keeping and feeding the Negro, plus a reward to the captor of the escapee. As you can see, it was an expensive proposition to have a slave run away. If the owner was not located within six months, the slave was sold.

The Battle Lines Are Forming

You have chosen the man to lead SEB over a very rocky road next year. If the new president is as good as his word, you may expect fireworks when he starts some of the proposed changes, and the P&W will afford you a ringside seat. As a matter of fact, fireworks is what it will take to get SEB out of the doldrums. For each of the called meetings, the P&W will reserve space to bring you a report of what the meeting included. Concerning SEB matters, if you read the P&W, you will be informed. (This has been one of SEB's biggest stumbling blocks in the past—the average student didn't even know what SEB was supposed to do—much less what it was doing.)

Frankly, we of the P&W wait for the beginning of next school year with baited breath to help our new president weather the storm. The dark clouds may be gathering already; let us make sure the results of the run-off elections produce some more strong personalities to help SEB through its most perilous days.

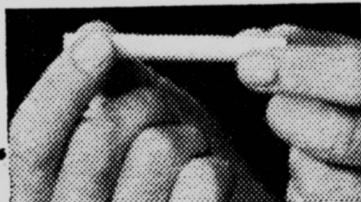

There is still a chance—and it's a good one at that, that within a year our Student Executive Board will be the organization of valid representation and strong action for which we have fervently pleaded.

At this point the P&W is all optimism.

Six Honoraries Elect Officers

As the year draws to a close many honoraries are electing officers. Following are the new officers of some of the honoraries and new initiates.

SIGMA LAMBDA After having a supper at Primos, Sigma Lambda, the woman's leadership honorary, went to Barbara Jones Cook's for initiation and the election of officers. Nancy Peacock was elected president. Betty Gail Trapp will serve as vice-president and Biggie Wilkins as secretary-treasurer.

THETA NU SIGMA Riverside park was the site of Theta Nu Sigma's, the science honorary, picnic. Preceding the picnic Lucy Price and John Baxter were initiated in Sullivan Harrell. Harry Dowling was elected president while Billy Ray Davis, Kaisa Brattan, John Baxter and Helen Reilly were elected as vice-president, secretary, treasurer, and reporter respectively.

KAPPA DELTA EPSILON Kappa Delta Epsilon, the education honorary, had an election of officers and initiation of new members Monday afternoon. The officers are as follows: president, June Stellwagon; vice-president, Martha Ann Smith; secretary, Walter Jean Lamb, and treasurer, June Martin. New members are Carolyn Goff, Mary Jo Edwards, June Martin, Ann Ragland, Eugenia Kelly, June Stellwagon, Sylvia Stevens, Margaret Whitfield, Margaret Woods, Yvonne Moss. Both new and old members were served a strawberry shortcake supper at Mrs. R. R. Haynes.

ETA SIGMA PHI Nine students have been initiated into Eta Sigma Phi, national classical languages honorary. New initiates are Carol Brown, Al Doyle, Amaylis Griffin, Minnie Mitchell, Gwendolyn McRaney, Jim Waits, Dayton White, Eddie Williams, and Ronald Willoughby. To be eligible for membership in this honorary a student must have an "A" average in either Latin or Greek. Officers were elected earlier in the year.

IRC At their final meeting of the year held on Tuesday, May 7, the International Relations Club chose the following officers to serve until April of next year: president, Ann Myers, Greenwood; vice-president, Alfred Statham, Jackson; and secretary-treasurer, Rose Cunningham, Tupelo.

At this meeting, held at Dr. Frank Laney's home, Dr. J. S. Ferguson, the guest speaker, delivered an address on the "Middle East Situation."

ALPHA PSI OMEGA

Alpha Psi Omega, national dramatics honorary, recently elected officers for next year. They are: President, Shirley Brown; Vice-President, Byrd Hillman; Secretary-Treasurer, Johnnie Marie Swindell.

Alpha Psi initiated Byrd Hillman, Gail Morehead, Kaisa Brattan, Claire King, Eddie King, Clauette Hall, and Bill Lampton.

Sturdivant And Ferguson Are Alumni Day Speakers

Ed Sturdivant, Millsaps alumnus from Jackson and presently a graduate student at Louisiana State University, and Dr. James S. Ferguson, Millsaps dean, were the featured speakers at the annual Alumni Day programs last Thursday.

The speakers emphasized the importance of the liberal arts in the development of a truly educated citizen, and each devoted portions of his talk to the interpretation of the real meaning and purpose of education.

Sturdivant, speaking before alumni and students during the morning chapel exercises, praised the soundness of the educational preparation offered at Millsaps, pointing out that graduates of the College who sought advanced degrees were leaders in their fields.

Dr. Ferguson, who was the featured speaker during the annual Alumni Day banquet, addressed his remarks to the members of the Class of 1956, who were guests of the Alumni Association. He asked the alumni to help interpret the college to the community through the lives they live and reminded them that Millsaps provides the sort of education that will enable its graduates to meet their responsibilities in a changing world.

Graduates and former students attending the banquet endorsed a nation-wide annual alumni fund program following an explanation by vice-president Craig Castle, who stated that officials hoped that it would grow into a major source of support for the college.

A new feature of the Millsaps Alumni Day were seminars conducted by members of the faculty. Those presented were "Does the Philosopher Live in an Ivory Tower," Dr. Bond Fleming; "Geology in Your Own Backyard," Dr. R. R. Priddy; "How to Understand Shakespeare," Dr. M. C. White.

Other events of the day-long program included an all-campus Song Fest, sponsored by Chi Omega sorority, a tour of the new library, and the Millsaps Players' performance of Leslie Stevens' Bullfight.

Results of a ballot-by-mail election to choose Alumni Association officers for the coming year, were president, Craig Castle, Jackson; vice-president, W. J. Caraway, Leland; Fred Ezelle and Martha Gerald, Jackson; and recording secretary, Mrs. Tom Larche, Jackson.

Hales, Mims, Peacock Win In SEB Second Primary

Graham Hales, a junior from Jackson, was chosen Vice-President of SEB in the second primary held Tuesday. Robert Mims, a junior from Jackson, is Treasurer, and Nancy Peacock, a junior from Jackson, is Secretary.

Only 559 students voted in the run-off whereas, 630 voted in the first primary.

Dr. Ross Is AED Outstanding Alumni

Dr. Tommy Ross, retiring president of the Millsaps alumni, won the first annual award for the outstanding alumni member of the local chapter of Alpha Epsilon Delta. Dr. Ross is a charter member of the local chapter. The award was presented by Hiram Polk, president.

At Commencement Alpha Epsilon Delta sponsors two awards. One award is for the most outstanding member and the other is for the member with the highest grades.

Alpha Psi Omega Awards Close Year For Players

The Annual Alpha Psi Omega Awards Banquet was held Tuesday night at Primos' No. 3. Walter Ely received the Alpha Psi Omega Award presented to the most outstanding graduating senior. Ely also received the trophy presented to the best director of a one act play for In the Narrow Place, his own play.

The Rainmaker, by N. Richard Nash, was named the best major production of the year. In the Narrow Place, by Walter Ely, was the best Workshop Production of the year.

Karen Gilfoy received the Best Actress Award for her portrayal of Josefina in Bullfight. David Franks received the Best Actor award for his performance as Bill Starbuck, the Rainmaker, in The Rainmaker.

Ruth Ann Hall and Ronald Willoughby received Junior Acting Awards for their performances in Bullfight and The Rainmaker, respectively. Keith Tonkel also received a Junior Acting Award for his performance of Richard in the one act play, In the Narrow Place.

Shirley Brown won the Little Theater Award for work in scenery. Byrd Hillman won the Millsaps Players Backstage Award for work in production other than scenery. This award is being presented for the first time this year.

Miller And Hales Will Head 1957 Bobashela

Hal Miller and Graham Hales have been selected as editor and business manager respectively of the 1957 Bobashela. The two, who will succeed Bill Lampton and Burton Jackson, were selected Tuesday by a committee of members of the publications committee and the editor and business manager of this year's Bobashela.

Miller, a junior from Jackson, is a transfer from Notre Dame. He has served as social chairman of Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity and has been active in intramurals. He was snapshot editor on this year's Bobashela.

Hales, also a junior from Jackson, is now serving as president, or No. 1, of Kappa Alpha Fraternity. He is vice-president of S.E.B., vice-president of the Christian Council, president of B. S. U., and was chairman of the Resolutions Committee at the Mock Democratic Convention. He has also appeared on the Dean's List. Graham is a transfer from the University of Virginia. He served as assistant business manager of this year's Bobashela.

Further staff appointments will be made by the editor and business manager next year.

Prob'ly So

By Hazel Truluck

Congratulations to me!

I have noticed that we have several Gooch Model Homes on the campus. We are happy to learn that Murrah, Founders, and Burton Halls are regarded as model homes by Mr. Gooch; however even to one as vague as I, it appears that some unknown hand (or hands) have been playing jokes.

Be sure to read Stylus. (Preferably after buying your own copy rather than borrowing one). It contains excellent and interesting material.

The Millsaps Players production of Bullfight received exceedingly complimentary reviews in the Jackson papers. It deserved every good word said about it. A most beautiful and effective production. It was a perfect "swan song" for Gilfoy.

With hot weather comes the knowledge that the desks in Murrah are not the world's most comfortable. You have probably been vaguely aware of this fact all winter, but the heat somehow seems to bring this from the sub-conscious mind into the conscious.

You become very aware of the fact that the backrest hits you somewhere around the shoulder blades and that, for some reason or other, you can't get comfortable. Grin and bear it. With the coming of winter everything will be better.

I would like to be real sentimental over the fact that this is the last time I'll be working on the P & W with Footh's Prints and Clairvoyant, but I'll just say I've enjoyed it, and Shirley and I will miss you when you're gone.

The Lambda Chi Combo created quite a stir when they played at the girls' dorms Monday night. Their music was enjoyed by all—even those who had tests the next day and didn't study because they couldn't sit still while that music that would have been so good for dancing was being played.

Well, all things must come to an end and so it is with this school year. It seems to have flown by, but I guess it's actually had the same number of days as other school years. I'm sorry to see it go, but that's life. Until next year—

Co-Eds Invade P&W For The Final Edition Of Year

By Ethyl Shapley

This is the week when the co-eds sharpen their pencils and fingernails, brace a chair against the P & W door to keep all inquisitive males out, and tack up our Quarantine sign. Yes, it's the co-ed edition and also the swan song of the year for ye ole P & W. We keep telling ourselves that the fact that this is the co-ed edition has nothing to do with the P & W office being closed 'til next year. As the saying goes, last but not least.

Most of the males haven't been too persistent in carrying out their threats to enter the P & W even if it's over our dead bodies, but Burton (Pinless) Jackson slipped in on the alibi that he had a "scoop" for us. He had heard a nasty rumor that the Bobashela was out. We promptly "scooped" Burt right back out into the hall.

The co-eds have been faced with a few problems this week. For instance, the administration frowns upon co-eds journeying down to the boys' locker room to get all of the latest gossip of the sport's world (dirt and otherwise). Such is life in this cruel

A Farewell To Arms

By Brooks Hudson

Once again the wheel takes its full turn, and we leave dear old Millsaps to loaf, study again, or compelled by the profit motive, work. For three whole months we can take life or leave it.

Wherever you go, there will be much to do, camp to lie off to, balls to lob and dribble under nets, and directed moving through water, i. e., swimming. And a very important part of your summer activities will be conducted by the church.

Your church, whatever its denomination, has some type of well-planned program for the summer. It may include camp, retreats, special programs—all with you in mind.

But the church's activities are only part of the picture. You will do much toward improving yourself. These months of relative freedom should be a time for formulating new ideas, building new ideals, and preparing a new person for the next fall. And this can happen anywhere whether while mowing the lawn or watching the rays of the setting sun mirror the wooden cross in the lake at camp.

Your church needs you, but more important, you need the church, for through its windows you can make summer more meaningful. And through your own seeking you can help to make yourself a better person for tomorrow.

world. The "hood" disguise (trenchcoat and dark glasses) did not work.

Shirl (The Boss) Brown has taken over Alton's chair, whip, and switch-blade knife (the one that failed to switch during one performance of Bullfight). Hark! Truluck hears the screaming of sirens in the distance. Alton probably gave them an anonymous tip on "Jack-the-Ripper" Brown and the switch-blade.

We did make one concession and decided to let Brooks enter our humble domain to write his column. For Brooks' sake it's the co-ed edition plus one.

And so now we'll close this thing.

Congratulations are in order for the intramural champions. Kappa Sigma won with a total of 110 points to a total of 100 for Lambda Chi Alpha. . . A box with itemized points is at the bottom of this column.

This column is not for editorializing but we would like to suggest to the athletic department that there be fool-proof rules in all intramural sports next year, so that there can be no controversy in interpretation such as was the case in intramural golf.

Lambda Chi Alpha made a terrific bid for the intramural trophy by copping their double header with Pi Kappa Alpha and Kappa Sigma on Monday; they won by 8-7, 16-8, scores, respectively. Bill Mosby was the big gun at bat for the winners and Joe Portero was the mound-ace; he pitched both games (and is still living). Mosby got five hits for five times at bat, among them, three triples, a single and a home-run.

Tennis ended up with Lambda Chi Alpha on top winning all titles, both singles and doubles.

Lambda Chi also came through in golf with a team score of 495 to second place Kappa Sigma's 520.

Congratulations to the Ministers for winning the softball championship. Another victory for the clergy; the Lord's boys are hard to top.

That all good things must come to an end is one of the greatest, unavoidable tragedies of life. Sorryfully I recognize that I shall no longer be a part of things, collegiate and gleefully you sigh that your fair name is no longer in danger of being blasphemed.

As a farewell gesture which wells up from the depth of my worn soul, allow me to leave with you a few gems which will enlighten and enrich your years or days (depending on your behavior) in college.

Don't get pinned until your junior year or he'll get drafted and leave you high and dry, and don't even dream of marriage if he plans to be a doctor. If your I.Q. is less than 196, do not take up residence at the college grill. Do not cut unless you're close kin to Dean Ferguson. Do not wear shorts if your legs look anything at all like Jane Pickering's. Do not pledge KD unless you can squat and rise in time to music and recite poems in chorus all at the same time. Do not smuggle newspapers and funny books to chapel. Do not get in Players if you plan to graduate in the regular four years.

Along with the "don'ts" there are some "do's" such as—Do pay your tuition on time (Paid Advertisement: J. W. Wood) and do read the chapter beyond the assignment and embarrass the prof with a premature question (this is guaranteed to get you out of class early). Do take a course or three or four from Dr. N. B. Fleming. Do tell Mrs. Goodman the tomb looks nicely. Do try to spend at least one night in the infirmary—it's a real unforgettable experience. Do meet someone as grand as Claire King with whom you can buddy around. Do introduce yourself to Mrs. Daniel so that you might learn to love her as has everyone else. Do, PLEASE, miss the heck out of this column when I'm gone. And above all, do be tickled and flattered and thankful that you got to come to Millsaps 'cause there's no greater place in the world.

And so (sniff), the moving foot prints and having printed—trot on. . . Thus endeth this final writing from the pen of "Footh."

New Bobashela Is Distributed

The 1955-56 Bobashela arrived Thursday of last week. Students who have not yet secured their annuals may pick them up in the Business Office. Bill Lampton, Editor of the 55-56 Bobashela, and Burton Jackson, Business Manager, made the following statement: "We are very happy that the Bobashela has arrived and is being distributed. We hope that the student body will enjoy it as much as we have enjoyed putting it out."

Facts of Life: Have you all noticed Burton Jackson's shirt with the jagged hole where his pin used to be? Well Hazel Truluck snatched his big KA pin right off his bosom Sunday night in a final and desperate attempt before school closed as she knew her chances were growing slimmer and dimmer with the waning days of the semester...she's writing a book, How to Win Pins and Influence People...and then there's the story of Illah Nicholas and Jack King who were ringed this week...Pat Hudspeth was passed the peace pipe, or ring, if you please, from a man at M. C. Gene Hubbard...Ellen Dixon is ringed to Robert Wesley, who hasn't given her a ring yet...Helen Maddox has her engagement ring from Bill Wall...

Predictions: that a Pike will continue to be Editor of the Bobashela, and that a KA will always be Business Manager...that Helen Reilley will be Pike Dream Girl...that Shirley Brown will major in either math or Latin...that Nancy Peacock will finally get an orchid after giving so many away...that Homer Sledge will be bridge champion...that Dr. Fleming will give a test that everybody passes to get more customers...

that Bethany Watkins will get a fourth white Cadillac...that Aden Coleman will get pinned for the fourth time...that Hardy Nall will run this school...that Walter Ely might make over a C in graduate school...that Mr. Goss won't be able to give many more plays if the girls' curfew gets any earlier...

You can't imagine how it feels to realize that this is the last time I'll be writing this column; in a way it's a very pleasant realization, but there's also that feeling of finality so typical of anyone who's leaping off the cliff of college. When you're finally leaving you begin remembering little things about your school years that you've never given any real significance before. Of course, as in anything, there are things you'd rather forget, but in the long run, these are overshadowed by the achievements which are linked together by the good and the bad. People who don't appreciate what they have here at Millsaps have no sense of value, so don't be corrupted by small talk from small people.

One final word: time creeps up quickly, so do the best you can while you can, and enjoy doing it.

Adieu...

Kappa Sig House Party Was At The White House Hotel

The members of Kappa Sigma and their dates enjoyed a wonderful stay at the White House Hotel in Biloxi last weekend. The weekend's activities included a beach party Friday night, swimming and sunbathing Saturday, dancing Saturday night and church service on the lawn of the Hotel Sunday morning.

Chaperones were Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Wroten, and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Knox. Sigs and their dates were: Newt Harrison, Ann Pritchard; Ed Mize, Barbara Swan; Bob Parnell, Jeanette Ratcliff; Carl Causey, Pat Warren; Frank Tucker, Mary E. Watkins; Charles Brewer, Harriet Clark; Charles Purifoy, Lola White; Billy Brown, Greta Childress; Jerry Bryant, Sadie Bayliss; W. H. Merrill, Ann Burke; Foster Lowe, Betty Patton; Jimmie Hudson, Fay McClanahan; Woods Cavett, Sara Ward; Gene Berbette, Carolyn Bevard; John Carter, Sara Black; Powers Moore, Bethany Byrd; Sonny Bailey, Shirley Stanton; Charles Deaton, Mary Deaton; Charles Townshend, Marjorie Townshend; Ben Younger, Betty Claire Diggs; Bennie Kirkland, Joan Berry; Jim Berry, Peggy Ross; Jerry Boykin, Ann Parish; Pat Bonner, Wendy Olmstead; Don Williams, Betty Jane Cleveland; Bob Caraway, Ann Dillard; Cliff Rushing, Jane Embry; Alex Alston, Barbara Furness; Terry Moore, Ellwin Atkison; John Awad, Alice Ferguson; Don Ates, Betty Chaney; Sam Roberts, Susan Wheeler.

Orchids to Jack Loflin, who has just snatched my one and only juicy tid-bit from under my news-hound nose. ("What?" you say, "Do you mean that this dull, straight-news columnist(?) has dropped her dull, straight-news style and is actually writing a lively(?) interesting(?) feature?" Alton will flip! (Or perhaps it would be better to say that Mr. Carney will flip, for it was he who started me on my dull, straight-news trek to oblivion.) But these two no longer control my blighted life. For once I am free to write as I please, (even though this masterpiece will probably not be printed.) That's what always happens to my best columns. Every time I get a hot tip on a great thing that just must be printed, the setter-uppers run out of room, so..... Ah, well, all artists must suffer for their art. Just ask any aspiring writer who didn't make Stylus.

But I digress. So to return to the object of this column, namely STUDENT OPPORTUNITIES. Hold your nose and here I go. The Federal Civil Service Commission will be giving exams every month except June and September for anyone interested in working for the government. The Commission is especially interested in anyone interested in being a Food and Drug Inspector. There are several openings for Inspectors in New Orleans. The only requirement I can dig up is at least thirty semester hours in chemistry, physics, biology, zoology, botany or several other unpronounceable sciences (they told me I could jazz up the column). Application blanks, information, etc. may be procured from Dean McCracken's office.

In case you're interested: The Federal Republic of Germany is offering sixty scholarships for American graduate students for study in Germany during the 1956-57 academic year. A knowledge of German is a pre-requisite; there are no restrictions as to marital status or color. June 1, 1956 is the closing date for the competition. Candidates may procure applications from the Institute of International Education, 1 East 67th Street, New York 21, New York.

Well, Keeds, it's been fun but space prohibits, etc, etc. (What I really mean is that I'm o-u-t of n-e-w-s. I guess I'm just not using my potential). So to close. Adios 'til next year (maybe).

Tom Boone Is Selected The Major Major Of The Week

Tom Boone, a senior from Memphis, Tennessee, has been chosen as this week's Major Major.

During football season, Tom can usually be found on the athletic field. He has played guard for the Millsaps Majors all four years. This year he received the Harvey Newell Award, which is given annually to the most outstanding football player on and off the playing field. Tom is, naturally, a member of the "M" Club. He belongs to Kappa Sigma Fraternity.

Tom, as most Millsaps students know, is married. His wife, former Millsaps student Edna Khayat, is assistant to the public relations director here.

Probably many people have wondered who had the task of stringing up all those flags and supervising all the other decorating for the Mock Convention. It was Tom. He also was in charge of keeping order as a Sergeant-at-Arms.

With a major in Political Science, Tom graduates the end of this semester. Next year he will teach social studies and coach in Gulfport. This sounds like a very fitting position for a Political Science major who excels in football. He will definitely be missed next year, both on the football field and by his many friends.

On Knowing Prof. Sanders...

The letter written by Gaston Hall which was published in this paper three weeks ago expressed far more adequately the feelings of serious students concerning Prof. A. G. Sanders than most of us could. But we feel it is proper to use this medium to extend our sincere, heart felt thanks to one of the retiring patriarchs of Millsaps.

Prof. Sanders, those of us who have studied under your direction or merely shared your love for classical culture of the world have been deeply gratified by your magnificent wealth of knowledge. Your awesome ability to recall details of history or give us a single word in many different languages has enhanced our admiration for you. And we have come to share the love you constantly manifest toward all humanity.

In short, Prof. Sanders, your assistance and influence have been invaluable to Millsaps and her students, and your personality will always be an integral part of the Millsaps tradition.

Letters To The Editor

To the Millsaps student body:

I feel sincerely grateful and deeply humble at your having selected me as next year's President of the Student Executive Board. But an election is least of all an honor, it is a charge to the person elected to serve to the best of his ability. To this charge I answer that I will be the best officer I can.

We will make mistakes, too many mistakes, but we earnestly solicit your criticisms and advice so that these mistakes may be corrected.

Our campus is beginning to know what it feels like when everyone is aware of student government. We must not fail to meet next year's challenge. We must all work together toward a more vital and a more universal student government, and to this end we dedicate ourselves.

Sincerely,
Sam Jones

To the student body of Millsaps College:

I would first like to express my deep appreciation to all of you who voted for and worked so hard for me in this election. What we have talked about, worked for, and prayed for lies ahead for next year. I would like to sincerely thank everyone who voted for the other candidates, winners or losers, for in a very real sense there were no "winners" or "losers" in this election. All candidates were, and I feel still are, dedicated to a sound and working student government. For this Millsaps can be justly proud.

Now that the formal campaign is over, the voting done, the signs coming down, may we all pledge ourselves to the fight ahead—a fight against apathy, a fight for a student climate in which each of us will have a voice and an opportunity to train in democracy at work.

Sincerely,
Graham Hales

To the Millsaps Student body:

I should like to express my deep appreciation and humility to you for selecting me as Secretary of the Student Executive Board. Realizing the trust and responsibility you have placed with me, I promise to work diligently to achieve those things I advocated during the campaign and any other things that will contribute to the betterment of our student body.

Next year we as a student body working together can make a truly greater Millsaps, and it is to this task I pledge myself.

Sincerely,
Nancy Peacock

May 15, 1956

Mr. Alton Boyd, Editor

PURPLE & WHITE

Millsaps College

Jackson, Mississippi

Dear Alton:

On behalf of the officers, board of directors, and members of the Alumni Association, I would like to thank all of the students who worked with us to make Alumni Day a success.

As usual, our future alumni cooperated fully, although some of our functions caused them personal inconveniences.

To N. R. Walley for his presiding during the chapel program, to the social organizations for a grand Song Fest, to the Millsaps Players for a superb performance, and to the entire student body for taking their evening meal early to make way for the alumni ban-

Never Underestimate ..

We students often say that if only we were editor of The Purple and White we would tell "them" a thing or two. For one week at least I am editor of the P&W and I would like to tell "them" a thing or two.

First of all, I do not envy Alton. His job is a difficult and a constant one requiring much tact, determination and originality. Alton does his job well.

Second (and here comes my crusade) I would like to state, for all the world to read, that I want Stunt Night moved up to the first semester. (In almost the immortal words of Mark Twain, "Everyone talks about it but no one does anything about it.")

At least 240 people participated in Stunt Night. By President Finger's count approximately 285 students participated in Song Fest. These are certainly the two campus events in which most of the students participate. Since Song Fest is a traditionally spring event, I personally ask the Majorette Club to try to re-schedule Stunt Night. (One effective way to bring action would be for the students involved not to participate unless it is re-scheduled.)

Third, there is the problem of cheating. We cannot sit in our ivory towers and ignore this fact. But here is a new slant on the subject. There are two kinds of cheating. The first and the most prevalent kind is that by which the students cheat the professors and, therefore, themselves. The second, and less prevalent and less recognized kind, is that by which the professors cheat the students and, therefore, themselves.

Now I have said my say and it is probably just as well that this is the final edition of The Purple and White. Please notice that I have not used the "Editorial We." This column reflects my own personal opinion and I think the opinion of some of the students, but it does not reflect the policies of Alton Boyd or of The Purple and White.

SEB Officers Were Installed Tuesday

The new S. E. B. officers were installed Tuesday night during the last meeting of the Student Executive Board for the 1955-57 session.

Present at the ceremonies which were held in the Millsaps Room of the library were members and officers of S. E. B. and the members of the administrative committee. During the service each retiring officer made a short speech to which his successor responded.

During a short business meeting preceding the installation ceremonies, such matters as S. E. B. representation for 1956-57, further revision of the constitution, and the obtaining of an official S. E. B. key for members were discussed.

Following the installations the present S. E. B. members, new and old officers held a supper meeting at the Colonial House Cafeteria with the present Student Executive Group of Millsaps College. At this time plans for the coming school were discussed and a cooperative program set up.
